The Grand Jury feels that there are some matters that should be investigated that we did not take up at this session, but it is our desire that at a later date this Grand Jury be called into session for the purpose of investigating certain matters that we did not feel we could thoroughly go into at this session. We therefore request your Honor to call us in session at some time that is convenient and before our time as Grand Jurors expires.

The Grand Jury wishes especially to thank your Honor for the very able charge given us when we were first empanneled, as it has been most helpful to us through our investigations.

Sheriff Hardy and his deputies, and Mr. J. W. Hayes, the bailiff for the Grand Jury, were most courteous to us during our investigations, and rendered us valuable assistance in the dispatch of the business before us, all of which we greatly appreciate.

We having complied to the best of our ability with your Honor's charge, we respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us to again convene.

This September 2nd, 1938.

W. H. RASCO, Foreman.

J. D. Wyatt Brought In Very Old Book

Mr. John D. Wyatt, of Walnut Creek community, left with The Union-Banner recently a very old volume, a copy of "The Columbian Orator", published in the year 1814. From markings in the book, it seems to have belonged to Daniel Reynolds or Sam Mims in the year 1852, as these names and this date appear in the back of the covers. Also there are the names of Parrish and Goodgame written in the book.

It contains parts of some of the outstanding orations of the 18th and 19th centuries, both in the English Parliament and in the early congresses of this country, such as The Stamp Act, Etc.

Gore Bridge Will Be Built By City

Mayor C. Fenn Jones issues the announcement that the bridge across Goose Pond Creek, generally known as Gore's Bridge, will be built by the city in cooperation with the state and federal agencies, regardless of whether or not the Lay Dam road is paved inside the city or outside. The State Highway Department has been asked to draw up plans for the bridge and figure out all the necessary details. It is now known how long it will require for the work to be planned and put into operation, but it will be pushed just as rapidly as possible.

Miss Agnes Boswell announces that she is back at work at Mildred's Beauty Shop, and invites her friends to visit her.

Milt Tolbert Show Coming To Clanton

Mr. Jack Hutchison, advance booking man for Milt Tolbert Shows, was in Clanton making arrangements for appearance of that famous road show here for two performances Saturday, October 1st. Milt Tolbert had a fine show last year, and Mr. Hutchison left the assurance that it was still better this year. It will show on the same lot as heretofore — next to Thomason Hotel. Further announcements will follow.

HAS PIANO SAID TO BE OVER HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Mr. J. R. Rucker, of Maplesville Route 2, has an old piano which is said to be a prized possession and very old. He brought in to The Union-Banner office last Saturday a piece of the old instrument, to show how well preserved it was, and to show the make of it, Etc. The name plate bears these words: "A. H. Gale & Co., New York, for B. Newhouse, Mobile". The piece bears the number "1738". Mr. Rucker says the old piano, a flat-top affair, can be traced back for one hundred years, and it is thought to be much older than that. Mr. Rucker has had it for thirty yeras.

Mr. Rucker would be glad to have anyone examine the old instrument who might be interested, and will be glad to furnish all the information about its history that is available.

AND HOW LIBERAL?

"The Democratic party will live and continue to receive the support of a majority of Americans just so long as it remains a liberal party." — President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Labor Day address in Maryland.

The question arises: And just how liberal? We say, so long as it is liberal enough to appropriate billions of dollars of borrowed tax money with which to buy votes; and as long as enough of the voters are bulldozed into letting them put a few dollars in one pocket and take more than that out of the other, while they are getting the vote as boot in the deal.

This monkey business in politics is going to last until November, 1938, when a big portion of it will be stopped by many Republicans being elected to both houses of congress. Then in 1940 the job will be completed by electing a Republican president and a sensible congress to support and aid him.

CHILTON BIRTHS AND DEATHS

Montgomery, Sept. 5. — Births totaled 43 in Chilton County during July, while deaths during that month totaled 23, according to provisional figures just prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health.

The month's total of deaths for the state as a whole was 2,379, while the births totaled 5,320. The state's provisional birth rate for July was 21.5 per 1,000 population, as compared with a provisional death rate of 9.6 per 1,000 population.

HAVEN'T WE GOT ENOUGH?

The voters and taxpayers of Chilton County are not so unlike those of other counties and even other states. They are a rather considerate, and we might say, long-suffering people; they are patient, and as a body not over-hasty and do not jump to conclusions. It is amusing and interesting to note the difference between a group of people and a great mass of people — say the population of an entire county. The attitude of a large mass of people, when given ample time to consider all phases of a matter, can pretty well be depended upon as being the best thing under all the circumstances. A small group often acts too hastily, and is very likely to make grave mistakes; this does not happen often when the masses deliberately pass judgment.

Again we say the people of Chilton County are a patient and long-suffering bunch. This is true as to different phases of life and of government and politics. They give their officials a fair chance to make good, and if they make good, these officials are rewarded one way or the other. They are sometimes perpetuated in office for more than one term; and above all, if they prove worthy servants and come out of office deserving of the trust that has been placed in them, they are clothed with the continuous good-will of their fellow citizens and constituents.

But there is a limit to the forbearance of any people. Public servants are supposed to render public service, practice efficiency, and run the offices with the least possible friction and disturbance. When the accomplishment of these ends fails at the hands of the elected officials, then generally the constituents rebel and cast around for different servants or office holders.

For the past few years, it is the humble opinion of The Union-Banner that the good people of Chilton County have been led into looking for the ends of rainbows and chasing butterflies, so far as their governmental and political affairs are concerned. They have expected much and have been promised much, but as for actual accomplishment, the results have been slim indeed. Statistics and figures do not have to be produced for folks to realize the truthfulness of this statement. Our people know that the management of Chilton County's business under Democratic rule has been an empty gesture, and has miserably failed to measure up to the standard which taxpayers have every right to expect. Our people know that the public elections, wherein free and privileged voters are supposed to have a free and untrammeled say about what they want in those all-important matters have reeked with the vilest corruption and mal-management. The voters of Chilton County know these things first hand, and do not need to be reminded of it.

We firmly believe the people of Chilton County have chased these proverbial New Deal butterflies and looked for these Democatic pots of gold long enough. Preparations are now well under way to put Chilton County's government on a businesslike basis by electing men to office who are capable of handling their affairs and have the elements of cooperation and general understanding. We believe the Republican candidates are just such men, and we believe they enjoy the confidence and respect of the electorate of the county. This being the case, we believe that just ahead of us awaits a turning point in the political annals of Chilton County's history; we are going to get back on the smooth and firm road by electing every nominee on the Republican ticket. The people are ready for it, and are going to present a united front toward accomplishing these much desired ends.

COUNTY FAIR TO HAVE BIG WEEK

Day Will Be Dedicated To The Schools, Wedding, Aviation And To The Farmers

There will be a feature of interest every day and night at Chilton County Fair, to be held in Clanton September 20 through 24, according to Dr. V. J. Gragg, chairman, and J. Mell Martin, secretary, and the board of directors. The program appearing in the catalog now being distributed is as follows: Tuesday, ladies free day; Wednesday, school children's day; Thursday, wedding night; Friday, aviation day; Saturday, farmers' day.

In the Agricultural Department, prizes range from $10 to $50, competition being open to schools, communities, rehabilitation groups, or individuals. The score of exhibits will be based on the following percentages: Quality, 40; variety, 20; arrangement, 25; educational, 15. General instructions will be found in detail in the catalog.

School prizes range from $5 to $12.50, and exhibits must include a representative collection of 1937-38 year's work. Negro schools will be permitted to make a display.

Prizes on livestock and poultry range from $2.50 to $10, and are offered for the best horses, mules, dairy cattle, beef cattle, hens and roosters. Prizes on women's work are $1, $1.50, and $2, and are offered on canned products, dried fruits, handicraft of all kinds.

General gate admissoin is 25c; children, 6 to 12, 10 cents. Season tickets may be procured from the secretary, J. Mell Martin, for the price of $1.00.

Negotiations are under way for arranging a large tent to cover the livestock in the Fair. The county officials seem to be interested to the extent that they will assist in arranging for this tent. The Commissioners Court has manifested a most cooperative spirit regarding the Fair, both last year and this year, for which they are to be commended. The Fair is for the benefit of our farmers, and the movement is deserving of the support of us all.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, president of the Fair Association, announces that definite arrangements have been made with the Alabama Power Company to extend a line and furnish electricity to the fair grounds at the Airport, which removes any doubt about there being light and power for the fair.

JACK HAYES HURT DURING PRACTICE

Second Baseman For White Sox Ordered Out For Rest Of This Season

Jack Hayes, second baseman for the Chicago White Sox, and considered by baseball experts in both major circuits as one of the very best keystone performers in the business, is lost to the Sox for the rest of the season with a twisted knee.

"Jackie" Hayes, as he is known all over the North, (better known to us as just plain Jack), suffered a twisted knee several weeks ago, and has been on the bench and in bed ever since, except for a few appearances as pinch hitter. Before hard luck hit him, Jack was having perhaps the best season since he went to the majors. He was hitting well over the charmed .300 mark, which will keep any player in the big show, and was turning in his usual sparkling play afield. And then came the injury. He has nursed the weak knee carefully, and expert attention has been put to it by club officials and doctors. It was thought that it was about ready to keep him at his place at second base, and he was sent out Saturday afternoon to take a workout with the team. While taking this limbering-up practice, he wrenched the weak knee again and had to be carried from the field. Club doctors have marked him off the active list for the remainder of the season.

The Chicago Daily News, under date of September 3, carried a large picture of Hayes being carried off the field by Luke Sewell, Sox catcher, and "Boze" Berger, the man who has been filling in part of the time since Jack has been injured. The News called this new injury a "blow" to the White Sox, since Sox fans had been counting the days when they might see the popular and most efficient second sacker back at his usual post.

It is not known here yet whether Jack will come home now, since he has been marked out for the rest of the season, but he is expected home any day.

Local fans and friends of Jack will regret his misfortune, but will be glad to see him again.

Dr. E. E. Upchurch was brought home Sunday from a Birmingham hospital, where he underwent an operation several days ago. He is said to be getting along nicely.

FREE TICKETS TO THE FAIR GIVEN WITH SUBSCRIPTIONS

The Union-Banner has a limited number of free tickets to Chilton County Fair which it is giving away with each yearly subscription to the paper. Please note that the number is limited, and those who subscribe first will be given their ticket to one general admission to the County Fair.

This paper is doing this both to boost the payment of subscriptions and to stimulate interest in and advertise the county fair. So, we hope our friends will help us make a success of the venture.

Street Paving Began Tuesday

Contractors Began On Construction Of City And PWA Improvement

Work began Tuesday morning of this week on the huge paving program of many streets of the City of Clanton, the first work being the grading of Tenth Street at the Grammar School for the black-top to be laid later. The work on the other streets will be started at an early date and pushed to completion, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones and the Southeastern Construction Company officials.

A government check in the amount of $9,200 has been received by the city, according to Mayor Jones.

BARKING DOGS AND MAD DOGS IN CLANTON

Some time ago Mayor C. Fenn Jones had published a letter regarding too many stray dogs in Clanton. Before and since that time, there have been registered complaint upno complaint about stray and noisy dogs and their disturbance every night.

Our schools have now opened, and children are thick on the streets about opening and closing time. Where there are the most dogs is where there are the most mad dogs; and dogs are dangerous when they gather up in great hordes, and especially so when they are infected with rabies.

And, too, the persistent yelping of two or three hounds about 2:00 r. x. in the morning, when folks are trying to sleep, is not a pleasing sound to listen to in the least.

We do not blame folks for registering complaints about too many useless dogs on the streets of our city.

High School Has Large Enrollment

The Chilton County High School opened Monday morning with the largest enrollment in its history. Last year 399 students were enrolled for the whole year. At the close of the second day of school 373 had enrolled for this session, and with others that are expected, the enrollment will probably pass the 400 mark by the end of the first month. The number in school is fairly divided between the boys and girls, there being 184 boys and 189 girls.

Our purchasing agent says that he has some good prices on vetch and other winter cover crops, also some good prices on fertilizer for fall use.

Let every local have delegates at this meeting. Be there at 1 o'clock sharp. — Gresham Smith, County Seretary-Tresaurer.

ERROR IN MARRIAGE REPORT LAST WEEK

In last week's report of the marriage licenses issued during the month of August, there occurred an error which we wish to make correction on.

Under the sub-heading "Colored" occurred the names of three white couples, namely: Dewey Mims and Miss Elmorene Jones, Wm. A. White and Miss Lucy McLeod, Cecil Coggins and Miss Florene Glenn. These names were supposed to appear above the "Colored" heading.

Also, in the license of Aubrey R. Robinson and Miss Charles F. Glasscock, it was erroneously printed "Mrs." Glasscock. We extend our regrets and gladly make the correction.

The Union-Banner is indeed sorry of these errors, and we are more than glad to make correction of same.

County Farm Agent's Notes

FARM LOAN OFFICERS MET

The meeting of national farm loan presidents and secretary-treasurers which was held at Montgomery August 24 and 25, was attended by Mr. C. C. Cofer, of Thorsby, president of the Chilton County National Farm Loan Association, nad D. W. Waite, secretry-treasurer of the association.

This meeting is one of a series of 10 which are being held throughout the states of Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi, for the purpose of discussing the progress of the Federal Land Bank and the national farm loan associations, of which there are 277 in these three states, and for the discussion of future plans for the operation of these cooperative credit institutions. R. L. Thompson, president, and Leo S. Shamblin, secretary, of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, were the principal speakers on the program. Miss Florence E. Bell, file expert of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C. was also in attendance for the purpose of giving suggestions to the national farm loan association office assistants in proper filing and record keeping.

"Remarkable progress has been made by the Federal Land Bank and national farm loan associations in emerging from the conditions brought about by the depression, according to the reports presented by the officials of the Federal Land Bank", Mr. Cofer said.

ADVICE ON OAT TREATMENT

Auburn, Sept. 5. — The thousands of dollars that Alabama farmers lose each year from the smut disease of oats can be prevented easily and economically, states W. H. Gregory, associate extension agronomist, in urging all farmers to treat theih seed with formaldehyde before planting.

"Smut is a fungus disease that is carried by most all oat seed", said Gregory. "It appears on the oat head in many black dust-like masses, composed of millions of minute spores or 'see'. These spores get on the oat seeds during threshing processes or are carried from a diseased plant to a healthy plant by wind, insects, water, animals, or some other carrier. This fungus grows into the seedling after germination has begun, and does not appear to affect the plant in any way until heading time again.

The only sure way known of killing practically all the smut organisms is to treat the seed with formaldehyde. The directions for this treatment are listed as follows:

1. Secure a 1-quart atomizer type sprayer from drug or hardware store (cost, around 50 cents).
2. Also secure from drug store one pint of formaldehyde (40% solution) for each 50 bushels of seed to be treated (cost, about 50 cents).
3. Pile oats to be treated on a clean floor, canvas, or in a tight wagon bed.
4. Pour formaldehyde from the bottle into the sprayer; fill the bottle with water and pour the water into the sprayer.

While the oats are being shoveled from one pile to another, give one good squirt of the solution to each shovel of oats moved.

6. Round up the treated pile of oats and cover with bags which have been sprayed inside and out with the solution, in order that the formaldehyde gas may be retained and penetrate the entire pile.
7. Leave the oats covered five hours, or over night.

VALUE OF THE FARM IS RAISED BY LEGUMES

Cullman, Ala., Sept. 5. — By the use of winter legumes, cover crops, and improved cultural practices, T. W. Mitchell, Cullman County farmer, has been able to convert a run down 125-acre farm for which he paid $4,000 in 1928 into one that he values at more than $7,000 today.

When Mr. Mitchell took over this farm it was averaging 15 bushels of corn per acre. Realizing that something had to be done to improve the farm and increase yields, he began, upon the advice of his county agent, planting winter legumes and cover crops. Today, those same acres are producing 50 bushels, or an increase of 35 bushels of corn per acre.

Crimson clover, now Mr. Mitchell's favorite legume, was not tried by him until 1935. Prior to that time, vetch and Austrian peas were the main crops. That year, however, he planted 100 pounds of crimson clover seed and was able to save from the crop enough seed to plant 15 acres in 1936. Of this 15 acres, six acres were saved for seed. These six acres produced 3,000 pounds, which enabled him to plant 55 acres in 1937. That year he bought a harvesting machine and saved 200 pounds o fclean seed for himself and some 3,500 pounds for his neighbors. Naturally, therefore, he highly favors crimson clover as a winter legume.

Mr. Mitchell has relied chiefly on cotton, corn, hay, and truck crops to supply his income,but last year he began raising livestock, and in the future plans to increase his livestock production. His income from livestock last year was $450.

ANNUAL 4-H CLUB CAMP

The County Agent assisted the Home Demonstration Agent and the Assistant County Agent with the annual 4-H Club camp held at Camp Timpoochee, Fla.

On August 17 naother group of 52 farmers was carried to Prattville to visit the experiment station there.

These visits are of great benefit to farmers, for they can see for themselves the actual results of the experiments which are explained to them.

FEW FARMERS ACCEPT FREE CLASSING OFFER

Auburn, Sept. 5. — Cotton growers in more than 100 communities in Alabama can qualify for the free classing service of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics offered this year to growers in one-variety cotton communities, states J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in urging these growers to take advantage of this service. Thus far, few growers have sent in applications.

The classing office at Atlanta is open for applications, copies of which Mr. Lowery has already sent out to county agents. By filling out these applications, nad then upon approval send samples of the cotton to this office, farmers will be able to get free sampling on grade and price quotations within a few days. Growers are advised to see their county agents as soon as possible.

TRAVELING MEN TO SUPPORT THE SQUARE DEAL ROADS AMENDMENT

Montgomery, Sept. 5. — Amendment No. 1 to give the highway users of the state a square deal by stopping the diversion of highway funds will be strongly supported by commercial travelers in Alabama, according to M. V. Turner, Grand Councillor, United Commercial Travelers of America.

The average traveling salesman in this state spends more than $150 a year in federal, state and local automotive taxes, he said, and therefore is entitled to good roads to carry on his business.

"The diversion of road funds to purposes other than highway financing is unfair to motorists, truck owners and other users of the highways. Suih misuse of road taxes is especially unfair to commercial travelers, for their automotive taxes are equivalent to four weeks or more wages each year. Paying such heavy taxes, they get a raw deal when a substantial part of such taxes are used for non-highway purposes, thus making the roads less safe and slower to travel on."

CONSERVATION PRACTICES

With many land owners making arrangements during the summer for renting their land for the next year, now is a good time to plan for conservation farming practices to be carried out, according to Mr. James H. Wood, of the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton.

Many of the problems of the tenant system can be avoided by a definite understanding in advance as to any changes in land use, fields to be set up in strip rotations, and the location of strips of perennial forage crops for erosion control and hay production, he said.

Where renters are interested only in the production of cash crops, if no understanding is reached in advance as to measures which are to be taken to conserve the soil, the farm is likely to suffer from serious erosion.

On the other hand, where perennial strips of close growing hay crops are set up as part of the erosion control program on the farm, the land owner will be in a position in the future to point out to prospective tenants an established source of hay from which he may harvest feed for cows to produce milk for the needs of the family.

Land owners who are interest in incorporating erosion control plans in their agreements with renters are invited by Mr. Wood to visit the demonstration area and observe a complete erosion control program in operation on farms in the area.

Soil Conservation Service workers or County Agent J. W. Fant will be glad to discuss with them measures which can be established on their farms to maintain the fertility of the soil and provide a well balanced farm program for the tenant family at the same time, Mr. Wood said.

ALABAMA MINERAL RESOURCES

Alabama has a variety of mineral resources, the leading products being coal, iron ore, cement, marble, and clays.

There are 28 different minerals listed by geologists, but only about half of them have been developed. The list includes arsenic ore, asbestos, asphalt rock, barytes, bauxite, cement, clays, coal, copper, corundum, fuller's earth, gold, graphite, granite, iron ore, lead ore, lignite, lime, manganese ore, marble, mica, ocher, onyx, sand, pyrite, salt, sandstone, slate, and tin.

In 1935 there were produced in Alabama 2,483,616 barrels of cement, $1,543,050 worth of clay products, 1,994,220 tons of coke, 8,504,510 tons of coal, 10,061 pounds of copper, 2,227 ounces of gold, 3,559,934 tons of iron ore, 1,728 tons of hydrated lime, 127,157 tons of raw lime, 832 tons of manganese ore, 24,920 tons of marble, 87,821 tons of paving sand, 1,324,942 tons of pig iron, 572,953 tnos of sand and gravel, 107,870 tons of sandstone. These products were valued at $31,772,042.

While most of these mineral resources are located in the Birmingham district, some of them are to be found in every county in the state. The presence of some of these minerals has been found in such small quantities that development does not appear to be profitable.

Coal and iron, however, seem to exist in almost inexhaustible quantities. Geologists have figured that coal underlies about 8,000 square miles, and the iron ore deposits are sufficient to supply the blast furnaces for 165 years.

TON LITTER SHOW AND SALE

In the spring several farmers entered the ton litter contest, which will be held in Montgomery September 15 and 16. Three of these farmers are still feeding their hogs for show and sale. Austin McCarty, west of Jemison, has the largest and best litter, which consists of 10 pigs, which were born on March 3, which will make them six months and 12 days old when they reach the show in Montgomery. At the present time these 10 hogs will weigh something around 2,500 pounds.

Mr. Zack Lowery and Mr. J. D. Collins are the two other farmers who are continuing with this project, however, their pigs were farrowed later than Mr. McCarty's, so they are going to enter them in the state fair in Birmingham, which will give them a little longer feeding period.

Anyone interested in pigs or other livestock will see from these pigs how home grown feeds can be marketed through such animals. Any of these farmers will be glad to show you their feeding project at any time you visit their homes, and I think it will be a benefit to you.

MOST "TROUBLES" Never HAPPEN

YOUR VOICE, when it takes a trip by telephone, travels over a delicately balanced and highly complex electrical system. Hundreds of things could happen to break up your voice's path. Most of them never do.

These potential "troubles" rarely materialize because the men who direct and operate your telephone system have not been satisfied merely to repair damage after it has taken place. They have demanded that weak spots be sought out and corrected beforehand. All the nineteen thousand Southern Bell employes, in one way or another, join in this effort.

Subscribers' lines are checked periodically from the local testboards. The intricate equipment in the central office is tested constantly, particularly the relays and contacts. Emergency power supplies are provided.

Underground cables are filled with gas to detect leaks in the cable sheath. Aerial cables are checked, open wire lines are patrolled, to stop the "breaks" before they occur.

Men and money are required to do this never-ending job of "preventive maintenance," but the work is in keeping with the Bell System's aim to give you a telephone service that "is more and more free from errors, imperfections and delays."

He Slipped From "Excellent" To Only "Average" In His Grades

HERE you have a youngster who, during last school term, for reasons his parents or teacher weren't able to determine, got only "average" grades against nearly all "A's" the term before. The boy is healthy and attentive in his classes. He likes his teacher, so there is no "teacher personality" problem.

Let us look at his home. Ah! Here may be the trouble. We find that he does his home work in a light of less than 2 footcandles*, when a minimum of 15 footcandles* is recommended.

Let's go to his schoolroom. Here we find the lighting satisfactory for desk work if his desk happens to be near a window, but some distance away from the window he wouldn't be able to see well, even if he had glasses. Writing on the blackboard is legible only on bright days.

It may be, of course, that this boy needs glasses, but even glasses can't help him as much as they might if he must get his lessons in insufficient or glaring light.

"Light Condition" Your Home

Alabama Power Company has in its employ 23 lighting advisors, who with the aid of a little instrument called a "sight meter," gladly will help you determine if the lighting in your home, school, office or factory, can be improved. Frequently they suggest how you can improve it with little or no additional cost. There is no charge for their services.

* A "footcandle" is a measurement of light, just as an inch is a measurement of distance.

100 Watt bulbs cost only 15c—no more than smaller sizes.

Our prayer service Saturday night, Sunday school Sunday morning, and preaching Sunday night were well attended, although all three services had to be held out in the open, because of the building being torn away to make room for the new one.

Work is going forward rapidly on the new building, and it is thought that it will be ready for use by next Sunday. Bro. O. L. Devaughn is in charge of building.

The splendid cooperation of building and finance committees, as well as the rest of the community, is a great help to the rapidity of the work. We especially thank the men of the community who are not members of our church for their help in the actual work on the building. We appreciate their help, and feel that they will be blessed thereby.

Everyone is invited to come to service next Sunday, and we feel that there will be plenty of room.

This community is very sorry to lose Bro. W. A. Ray, who has gone to take up a job at a cotton gin in another community. We expect him back when the ginning season is over.

Another much missed resident of our community is Miss Martha Johnson, who is visiting her sister.

There will be prayer service next Saturday night and preaching next Sunday, as well as Sunday night. We invite everybody to come.

Lesson for September 11

SAUL: MORAL FAILURE

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 10:21-25; 15: 20-23; 31:3-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—To obey is better than sacrifice. I Samuel 15:22.

Moral failure is the direct result of disobedience to God. This follows from the fact that the moral order established in the universe was established by God. He, then, is the One who knows the right way. "God is always right, and when we are against God, we are always wrong. To walk a road leading away from God is to travel straight to ruin, and this is what Saul did" (Wilbur M. Smith).

The story of Saul's choice as king, his personal qualifications for leadership and his ultimate disgrace and death, is one that should give pause to every young man or woman who has been afflicted with present-day ideas that brilliance of mind, quickness of wit, and apparent worldly success, apart from obedient submission to God, are satisfactory ends in themselves. "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death" (Prov. 16:25).

I. "There Is None Like Him" (10: 21-25).

Saul was chosen of God to be Israel's first king. God Himself had been their king, but they in their willful unbelief wanted to be like neighboring nations. And the choice of both God and the people fell on Saul, for there was "none like him among all the people."

Never has a man been privileged to enter more auspiciously upon high office. Physically he was well-equipped, head and shoulders above the people (10:23). Mentally he was fitted for leadership. He was humble (9:21). He was spiritually right (10:6-9). He had a tolerant and kindly spirit (11:13). He was a successful military leader (ch. 11).

For two years all went well, but then came the crisis which proved that all was not as it should be, when Saul presumptuously took the place of Samuel as priest and made an offering (13:9-13). This was later followed by his disobedience in sparing Agag.

II. "To Obey Is Better Than Sacrifice" (15:20-23).

God had commanded that there must be utter destruction of the Amalekites and their possessions—something like the burning of a disease-infested house—a wiping out of a king and people who were condemned of God. We may not fully understand this act of God, but if we know Him we will not doubt that it was in accordance with His infinite wisdom and love.

Saul chose to disobey, later contending that it was done because of the people, that sheep and oxen had been spared for a sacrifice to the Lord. Samuel cuts through his hypocrisy and declares that God wants obedience rather than sacrifice. This is a lesson that many who profess to follow the Lord have not learned.

"All the sacrifices and ceremonies of religion are to aid and promote obedience, not to be a substitute for it. Disobedience can never be made a virtue, even though attended by thousands of sacrifices" (Stanley). The church or the individual who denies or disregards the teaching of God's Word and attempts to make up for it by sacrifices and ceremonies declares to the world that there has been a departure from true faith in God. Obedience is a virtue all too rare.

III. "The Battle Went Sore Against Saul" (31:3-6).

This quotation from verse 3 relates to a particular battle, but it may well be applied to the entire battle of Saul's life. Having once begun the downward path of presumption and disobedience, the descent became rapid.

The man to whom God had given a new heart and upon whom He had poured out His Spirit fell to such a low state that we find him in I Samuel 28 consulting a witch, a spiritistic medium, seeking opportunity to speak with Samuel, who had already gone to his reward.

Spiritism is an evil current in our day, and therefore it may be well to point out that while mediums do seem to have the power to simulate the dead, they bring this about through familiar spirits (I Sam. 28: 7), that is through communication with evil spirits. The dead do not actually return, but they are represented by demonic agents. When the witch of Endor called on her familiar spirit, God intervened and actually brought Samuel from the dead to the great surprise of the witch. No Christian should ever have anything to do with Spiritism. If he does he indicates that his spiritual life is at very low ebb, and that he is in real soul-danger.

The death of Saul writes a tragic end to a promising life, destroyed not so much by outside influences as by the moral decay within. The wise man said that as a man "thinketh in his heart so is he" (Prov. 23:7). It may not show today or tomorrow, but eventually the heart that is wrong leads to a life that is wrong. "Keep thy heart with all diligence: for out of it are the issues of life" (Prov. 4:23).

Cuba produces 10 per cent of the world's supply of sugar. The United States produces five per cent.

G.O.P. LEADER TO SPEAK IN B'HAM

Rep. Dewey Short, of Missouri, Will Address Republican State Rally Sept. 17

Rep. Dewey Short, youthful Missouri congressman, and bitter New Deal critic, has accepted an invitation to be speaker at a Republican Constitutional Day rally at Birmingham September 17, according to W. L. Longshore, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor.

The only Republican member of the House from Missouri, Rep. Short is one of the most highly educated men in congress. He studied at Harvard, Oxford, Heidelberg, University of Berlin, Marion College, and for a time was professor of philosophy and psychology at Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan.

Termed "the hardest and probably most effective hitter against the New Deal", Congressman Short once served as minister of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, of Springfield, Ill. He has been making Republican speeches since the age of 16, and is only 36 now.

Probably the shortest sketch in the directory of the 74th Congress, and, of course, written by himself, is that of Congressman Short. It is, "Dewey Short, Republican, of Galena, Mo."

A fiery orator, Rep. Short delivered the most caustic attack against the Roosevelt administration during the 74th Congress. In part, Short told members "there is no longer any reason to have a Congress, as the House is nothing except a hollow chamber full of hollow heads."

Later Short asserted: "I charge that this administration has deliberately prolonged this depression, increasing the misery of the masses, while it seeks to fasten upon the American people a type of government foreign to the fundamental principles of Americanism."

More than 10,000 Republicans from over the state are expected to converge on Birmingham during Congressman Short's visit, Judge Longshore said.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking our friends and relatives for the kind help and words of sympathy spoken to us during the operation and illness of our wife and mother. May the Lord bless you all, is our prayer. — Earl Bray and children.

IN MEMORY

Mrs. Lovell Turner Lowery, age 26, wife of Zackie Lowery, died at the Woodlawn Hospital, Birmingham, at 6:30 a.m., Monday, August 29. She was brought to the home of her mother, Mrs. Edward Cottrell.

All that loving hearts and willing hands could do was done. But God saw fit to call her from earth to heaven. Her vacant place in our home cannot be filled; we miss her, but we feel our loss is heaven's gain. She bore all her pains and suffering with a smile. She has gone to yonder shore where there will be no more suffering.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Liberty Hill church, conducted by Rev. Maurice Hodgens and Rev. W. P. Lowery.

Surviving are the husband, three children, mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cottrell, three brothers, two sisters, two half brothers, and a host of relatives and friends.

Pallbearers were Bennie Johnson, Sam Chambers, Earl Wilson, E. J. Foshee, Earl Melton. — Zackie Lowery and children, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cottrell and family.

GROWTH OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

I wish to say a few words this week concerning the liquor habit and its growth. But before we this, as we stated in the last article, we are going to mention about the family that we have just recently baptized into the fellowship of our home church, Refuge.

The husband in this home was addicted to strong drink. His good wife read our articles in The Union-Banner to him. He testified publicly that our articles started him to thinknig on the way.

It has been God's plan down through the ages to save the entire family. But quitting habits will not save man. First accept Christ and then you will know what habits to give up.

"And they said, believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." — Acts 16:31.

The husband of the above family said: "You can tell the people in your articles that I have paid the price for my indulgence in the liquor business, and I am giving it up once and for all, and I don't care if you call my name." The above family is Mr. Allen Moates and wife and two sons. The younger son has not become a member with us yet. He is small, but no doubt he will be won to Christ by this family, who, we believe, is out and out for the Lord.

With unprecedented rapidity the alcohol habit is being fastened onto the lives of American people. For the first time in history public revenues from alcoholic beverages exceeded a billion dollars last year. Outside of income taxes, the government receives more from liquor than from any other source. Do our American people stop to think of the tremendous waste of life, morals, and economic purchasing power there is in this national debauch? It is one of the causes of the present business decline. It is responsible for thousands of deaths and injuries on the highways. It means the degradation of youth, the despair of poverty, shadows of ill health, and millions devoted to irreligious living. Bhewers and politicians are holding high carnival, piling up profits and campaign funds while children starve, domestic happiness is blasted, terror and folly ride through the land. Where is the force that can restore the American conscience?

HOME FROM OHIO UNIVERSITY

Mr. Virgil Robinson, who is attending and teaching at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, is at home for a while, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Robinson, of Refuge and Cane Creek communities. Virgil graduated at Auburn last year, and went directly to Ohio to continue his work in veterinary medicine. He will be at home for only a few days.

TO BE NO LET-UP IN COUNTY ANTI-SYPHILIS CAMPAIGN

The health department's war against syphilis continues unabated according to a report of the activities of the Chilton County Medical Society Syphilis Clinic. Since March, when the last news article appeared describing the progress of the clinic, a total of 45 new patients have been admitted for treatment. Among these there are two white and 43 colored. The number of treatments rendered monthly has increased from 160 given in March to 289 for August.

Many of the new patients have been discovered, according to Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer, by the health department at Wassermann clinics held in conjunction with the typhoid clinics over the county during the summer. No opportunity has been overlooked, he stated, to do blood tests on persons who receive routine examinations by the health department. This case finding campaign has been concentrated on the negro population of the county because of the greater prevalence of syphilis in that race.

Drugs used in the treatments given by the clinic are furnished by the State Health Department, Dr. Sturkie pointed out. A fund for paying a fee to private physicians who serve in the clinic is made possible through contributions from the local Department of Public Welfare, and the county commissioners.

We visited the homes of Norman Harris, Junior Edwards, Roy Wilson, Howard Martin, Ned Dennis, Herbert Dennis, Charles Popwell, Leon Mims, Junior Scott, Austin McCarty, Mr. R. M. Foshee, Earl Vinson Butler, Clarence Oakes, Mr. Johnson, W. B. Crowe, Luie Crowe, Charles Collins, Billy Moore, Ed Miner, and Christina Christiansen. We ate dinner at Mr. R. M. Foshee's home, and were given milk there. In the early part of the afternoon we got home. The calves were in fine condition, and the owners are trying to win a prize. — Christina Christiansen.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Our revival closed last week; some 8 or 10 professed faith in Christ Jesus; there were two additions to the church. This good revival, in which the church was so blessed, was conducted by Rev. J. J. Dubose, pastor, and Rev. J. D. Stevens, evangelist.

Next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching appointments for Rev. J. J. Dubose. Come, let's go to church.

Sunday school was well attended last Sunday, but let's make it better next Sunday. We have a class for all. You will be warmly welcomed and encouraged here. Our Sunday school is growing rapidly. We want to make it the best in town.

Seek Cause For Cops' Despondency

NEW YORK.—Policemen seem to have more social security than almost anybody else, if they behave themselves, and yet about 70 of them have committed suicide in New York in the last few years. Just why "a policeman's life is not a happy one" was not made clear by Gilbert and Sullivan, but members of the New York force are out to find out and do something about it.

Their new and unique "trouble clinic" has been investigating and prescribing. It lists eight reasons why policemen get in distress, and the list includes just eight brands of money trouble. The news today is that the department clinic has official sanction and is opening headquarters in the old World building.

Patrolman Joseph J. Burkard of the traffic squad, an energetic, resourceful self-starter, in the department 20 years, pioneers the new clinic, with the aid of a young patrolman who is a student of psychology at Columbia university.

They brought in Dr. Menas S. Gregory, famous psychiatrist, and Dr. Carmyn J. Lombardo, also widely known as a specialist in mental disturbance. The clinic already has handled 150 cases, some of them of extremely serious nature.

Idea First Tried Out By Legion

The clinic was established under the Patrolmen's Benevolent association, of which Mr. Burkard was elected president last year. It is said to have been his original idea, suggested by similar work by the American Legion, of which Mr. Burkard is a former New York county commander.

He has been a genial mixer in the department for many years, vice president of the glee club and long active in the affairs of the P. B. A.

A friend of this writer, gathering material for a book on New York, quoted to a young police lieutenant Inspector Williams' remark that "There is more law on the end of a policeman's night-stick than there is in a decision of the Supreme court."

"That's bunk, and it always was," said the lieutenant. "College men are joining both the police and fire departments. J. Edgar Hoover, and others, are helping to bring about a new conception of a policeman. The 'flat-foot' era is ending."

And then, said my friend, the lieutenant disclosed that he was a college graduate and engaged in an informal discussion of psychiatric training and methods in connection with police work. Would the cops have made their own psychological clinic in Inspector Williams' day?

Tex Guinan Gave George Gold Garters

THE late Texas Guinan gave George Raft a pair of gold-plated garters. They brought him luck and he still wears them. The sleek, slow-eyed young Italian, alumnus of New York's Hell's Kitchen, has taken success in his easy dancing stride—he's an ex-hoofer—but, like other moving picture stars, he's beginning to look a gift-horse in the mouth.

He doesn't like his role in Paramount's "St. Louis Blues," and the company suspends him. It is one more instance of increasing esthetic sensitivity in movieland.

In and around Hell's Kitchen, he was a professional lightweight boxer, winning 25 fights, kayoed seven times. He was an outfielder for the Springfield (Mass.) minor league team for two seasons. He did well enough, but it was a sideline of impromptu hoofing and spoofing which paced him into the night clubs and the big Broadway shows.

He achieved a sinister, reptilian suggestion in his dancing which made him known fraternally up and down Broadway as "The Old Blacksnake."

He was just looking on at the Brown Derby in Hollywood when a prowling director seized him as a "type" and ruthlessly sloughed him into fame and fortune. His 1937 earnings report was $202,666, topped only by Cooper and Baxter, among the male stars. He owns 45 suits of clothes and a piece of Henry Armstrong.

Light-Colored Paints

Good light-colored outside paints contain white lead, often mixed with smaller quantities of other pigments. Colored pigments are added to the white to produce tinted paints, or used without the white to produce dark paints. It is generally recognized that the dark paints give better service under the same weather and exposure conditions.

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Jemison High School is off on another year, and from every angle it appears we are going to have a very successful one.

At 8 o'clock everyone reported to the auditorium, where Mr. Peterson, the principal, welcomed all new students, and read a short article on the importance of getting an education. Louise Cooper sang "A Tisket, A Tasket". She was accompanied on the piano by Doris Guy.

A new teacher has been added to the faculty, Miss Martha Foshee, of Montgomery, who will teach a commercial course, consisting of typewriting and shorthand, and an art course. The students gave Miss Foshee a hearty welcome.

Afterwards, the pupils returned to their rooms, where a short time was taken up in enrolling. Then the schedule was gone through, allowing about 15 minutes for each period, so the pupils might get adjusted to the schedule and teachers. Classes were dismissed at 12:20.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Did you ever have a job to do, but every time you started to do that job something else came up and you put off that job until the very last or just as long as you could; then the time came when you couldn't procratinate any longer, and you had to let everything else go and do that particular job? Well, how about that job you have been thinking of performing for the good of the church and Sunday school? Our Sunday school and church attendance has been good this summer, considering everything, sickness of many of our members, vacations, etc., but now let's bring our attendance and work up about 100 per cent. Can we? Let's try.

We are happy to have a number of the former teachers return to our Sunday school, and to have the new ones become new members of the respective classes. We hope all the members of our Sunday school and church who have had to be absent because of sickness will soon be able to again attend regularly and lend their needed help.

Looking for your attendance at Sunday school next Sunday morning, and at both preaching services, and all ohter services of the church which need you. The church needs you in all its activities. We need the church. Let's get together.

PRISONER ESCAPES!

GUARD KILLED BY BRITISH OFFICER IN DARING ESCAPE FROM GERMAN PRISON CAMP

HUNTED by all the police in Germany, he found refuge in the heart and home of this lovely little girl of the Berlin streets . . . Calmly, bravely, she faced the police and lied for him — lied for an enemy of her country whom she had known but one short night . . . Not even the threats of certain death could break her devoted loyalty to him.

YOU'LL be held breathless by this exciting story of escape from a German prison camp. You'll be thrilled and fascinated by this romantic girl who took such desperate chances to hold the only tender, sincere love she ever knew . . . No wonder the late O. O. McIntyre called it "The most absorbing book I've read in five years."

THE BLACK ISSUE

Rep. David L. Lewis, who is seeking the senatorial toga of Millard E. Tydings, declared in an address that had he been a member of the United States Senate last year he would have voted to confirm Hugo L. Black as a Supreme Court justice. Sen. Tydings voted against Black's confirmation because the latter belonged to an organization that "fomented religious, racial and national prejudice and hatreds."

Commenting on this, Mr. Lewis said, "the fault doesn't lie on Black's boyhood mistakes — as they were. The fault lies in having a liberal on the Supreme Court of the United States."

It would be interesting to know Rep. Lewis' line of demarcation, where one ceases to be an irresponsible boy and becomes a man of judgment and one accountable for his actions.

Justice Black joined the Ku Klux Klan while he was compaigning for United States Senator in 1925. At that time he was 39 years old.

It certainly should be reasonable to assume that a person 39 years of age, aspiring to the high office of United States Senator, is thoroughly responsible for his acts and is well aware of the intent and purposes of such an organization as the Ku Klux Klan.

To admit that Black was wrong in joining the Ku Klux Klan, but that it should not be held against him in qualifying for the nation's highest court, whose members are naturally supposed to be of a tolerant and unprejudiced mind, is to make Justice Black out a fool and an incompetent, which he is not. Hugo Black is very smart and very shrewd, but by temperament and training, is unsuited for the Supreme Court, or any other court, for that matter.

Sen. Tydings' vote against the confirmation of his colleague is a vote of which he should be ever proud, and a vote that should recommend him to all who believe in the essence of true liberalism — tolerance, fairness, freedom of thought, and freedom of religion. — Winchester (Va.) Evening Star.

PRESSURE FOR NEW TAXES

Expenditures of $9,000,000,000, revenue of $5,500,000,000.

This record of annual finances of the federal government is evidence enough that there will be continual pressure for new taxes in Washington.

It furnishes the background to the report that Undersecretary Roswell Magill and other treasury department officials are busily engaged in studying a new tax program.

And taxes absorb purchasing power. Today, taxes are taking 25 per cent of the nation's income. If they take more, purchasing power will be decreased, with a serious effect upon the unemployment situation. — Syracuse Post-Standard.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

A mild political sensation was caused by the statement of the president recently castigating Republican voters for entering Democratic primaries in certain states for the purpose of aiding anti-New Deal candidates in securing Democratic nominations. Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the practice violated simple political morality. There is, of course, something to be said for the president's statement. Other conditions being equal, the spirit of the primary is better observed when Republicans remain ni their own primary and the Democrats stay in theirs. It is a fact that in the past Democratic voters have been as guilty in crossing primary party lines as have the Republicans. Yet, this naturally wuold not excuse the Republicans for following a similar course. Two wrongs never make a right. In a state like Georgia the excuse of such an action by Republican voters is of course plain and reasonable. They know they have no chance to elect a candidate of their own in the final election, and feel that they have the right to get one as near suited to their own views as is possible. The president also cited the case in Idaho where Sen. Pope is said to have been defeated for renomination by 15,000 or 20,000 Republicans who crossed party lines. It is not true that here the Republicans have no chance to elect their own candidate. Sen. Pope, however, is a confirmed internationalist who is in favor of plunging the United States into the European mess, in what he thinks would be the interest of peace. The voters of Idaho have been well educated along different linses by Sen. Borah, and this fact undoubtedly had something to do with Sen. Pope's defeat. It was not all anti-New Dealish. In Maryland there will not be so much crossing of party lines for the reason that the Maryland election laws make such an 11th-hour migration very difficult if not impossible.

Speaking of political morality, wiht reference to Republicans voting in Democratic primaries, however, there is something to be said on tne other side. There is nothing particularly moral in the use of federal relief pressure, and the influence of New Deal politicians, and the effects of relief money, to put over a New Deal cantidate. When the Republicans of Idaho vote in a Democratic primary, they are at least citizens of the state. The same iannot be said of Messrs. Corcoran, Cohen, and other New Dealers who are attempting to influence the election results in commonwealths like Idaho. It is only a coincidence that on the same day during which the president criticized Republican participation in Democratic primaries, Sen. Berry, of Tennessee, a former ardent New Dealer, now fallen from grace, declared in a letter filed with the Senate Committee on Campaign Expenditures that Tennessee WPA employees had been assessed $125,000, and that this money had been used by the New Dealers to defeat him for renomination! He declared also that there had been a gigantic expansion of relief rolls in Tennessee during the month before the primary. All these statements are not inspired by partisan bias. In The New York Times, on the day after the president's charges were made public, Arthur Krock, the noted correspondent who is personally friendly to the president, in commenting on the purge in the South, wrote that the president's personal influence is prodigious, that the political methods used to make the influence prevail are ruhtless, and that the "vote purchasing power of relief is great". The crossing of party lines by Republicans may be politically immoral, but there are other things going on which, politically, are not as pure as the proverbial lily.

THE TEXAS OPINION

The New Deal must go, lock, stock, and barrel, if there is ever to be a restoration of stable prosperity and a resumption of orderly economic progress in this country. But before anything of that kind can be accomplished, there must be a return to common sense among the people. And, to be perfectly frank about it, we see little hope of leadership in this direction from the office holding or office seeking politicians of either of the two major political parties. There are too many organized minorities, controlling blocks of votes which both groups of politicians covet, to warrant much hope of this kind. Moreover, widespread and persistent propaganda has had the effect of completely reversing the accepted meaning of words which have a wide popular appeal, including such words as "democracy", "liberalism", and the like. We find, for example, Mr. Earl Browder and his nearly 100,000 members of the Communist party and its auxiliaries, lining up behind the program of the New Deal as part of what he calls "the democratic front", and giving his followers the slogan, "Communism is Twentieth Century Americanism". And "liberalism" has come to mean a maximum of power and of increased governmental coercion of the individual citizen with the object of "extending social frontiers". We believe in both democracy and liberalism, but not in the sense that the groups of the so-called "democratic front" and these new "liberals" use those terms. The only word that seems left to us is the word "conservative", and in that sense we think that it is going to be necessary to get ordinary citizens of the country into a "conservative front" if we are not going to wind up with a complete collectivist economic system on our hands. — The Texas Weekly.

SALT TEARS ON SALT RIVER

Maury Maverick wails that "anti-Roosevelt money" helped prevent his renomination to represent the Texas district which has been sending him to congress.

He says weepingly that the "San Antonio political machine" had more money to spend against him than had ever before been spent in a Southern campaign.

A person doesn't like to remain heartless in the face of such sorrow as this. But we must admit an inability to mingle tears with the heartbroken representative.

Somehow a recollection of the way in which his own friends, the New Dealers, are distributing billions for "relief", where they think the funds will do the most good, (and Harry Hopkins says he expects them to be 90 per cent effective), dries the fount of sympathy.

This is particularly so after contemplating the way in which some hundreds of thousands of dollars were recently poured into Kentucky where the president's right bower in the senate, Mr. Barkley, was up for reelection.

Whatever the anti-New Dealers may have spent in Texas and may be spending elsewhere, their outlay is a drop in the bucket compared with the amount the administration has placed in its tub to ladie out. — Deroit Free Press.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

In the Book of Revelation we have a marvelous picture of an angel coming down frm heaven, binding satan, and shutting him up in the bottomless pit so he can deceive the nations no more for a thousand years. That is glorious. He is a mean old devil. He has deceived not only individuals, but nations. He has led kings and rulers to believe that might makes right. He has offered empires to rulers who would do his bidding. He wishes to control this world. He is a usurper. It is not his world. He did not make it. This world belongs to God. Some day it is to have rest from satanic influences for a thousand year. We read in Revelation that after the devil has been in the bottomless pit for a thousand years he is "let loose for a little season". He goes out to stir up the nations again. The very fact that the devil got out of the pit after a thousand years proves that God and not man is the author of the Bible. Any man writing this story would have let the devil stay in hell after he once was chained there. Man's story, which generally winds up right, is usually left this way. Prophecy is pre-written history. God sees the end from the beginning.

There is to be a new heaven and a new earth, according to the Bible. The old heaven and the old earth will pass away. I do not see how men go through this world with no hope of heaven. I have had a good time. I have been busy. I, of course, have had my share of sorrow. Man cannot be happy unless he absorbs himself in work or plans which make him forget himself. Some people try to drown the yearning of their heart for immortality and God in pleasure, money-making, and sensuality. Surely, beyond this earth there must be a "Heavenly City". God says there is. The human heart longs for it. Jesus has gone to prepare it. Some who read these lines will be there soon. Through the blue there are hands that are now beckoning. One of these hands is nail-torn. It is the hand of the Savior Who was "wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities". It will be wonderful to get to heaven. Some of us have loved ones there. I am one of a large family. All are gone exiept two. Best of all, Jesus is there. He has His way there. There is no night there, because He shines unhindered. We love Him. We are going to see Him some day face to face with our eyes undimmed. He may come soon and all of us who know Him will go together to meet Him in the air. He may delay His coming, and one by one we may go home through the valley of death. Whether we die, or whether He comes, it will not be lond until all the saints of this generation will be gathered home. If one should chance to read these lines who does not know Him, it is the prayer of the writer that such a one may trust Him as a Savior. It will be wonderful to share in the glory of that fellowship under the cloudless sky of the Eternal City.

SOIL PRACTICES AND PAYMENTS LISTED

Auburn, Sept. 5. — The manner in which Alabama farmers may qualify for soil building benefit payments under the 1938 farm program was described here today by A. W. Jones, AAA administrative officer in Alabama.

The rate or payment for carrying out soil building practices is $1.50 per practice "unit" up to the maximum amount of aid which a farm may receive for conducting such practices, Mr. Jones explained.

Some of the practices, with their unit values, which Jones said may be effectively used in Alabama to qualify for payments include:

Establishment of permanent pasture, 1 acre counts as 2 units, or $3.00.

Seeding biennial, perennial, or winter legumes, 1 acre equals 1 unit, or $1.50.

Manure crops, or cover crops, 1 acre equals 1 unit, or $1.50; when such crops are turned under on commercial vegetable farms, each acre counts as two units, or $3.00.

Interplanting summer legumes, not harvested, two acres equal one unit, or $1.50.

Planting trees, one acre equals five units, or $7.50.

Cultivating, protecting, and maintaining trees planted between January 1, 1934, and January 1, 1938, one acre equals two units, or $3.00.

Reseeding pasture, use of 10 pounds of seed equals one unit, or $1.50.

Application of 16 per cent superphosphate, or equivalent, to permanent pastures and specified legumes and grasses, 300 pounds equal one unit, or $1.50.

Application of ground limestone, 1,500 puonds equal one unit, or $1.50.

Application of basic slag or rock phosphate to permanent pastures and specified legumes and grasses, 500 pounds equal one unit, or $1.50.

Terracing, 200 linear feet equal one unit, or $1.50.

S. R. Doughty, extension soil conservationist, tells how farmers in soil conservation demonstration areas are solving the problem of how best to keep Bermuda grass from spreading to cultivated fields. They are planting strips of close growing crops along each side of the outlet channel for a width of 10 to 15 feet. Such a crop provides a dense shade along the edge of the outlet channel which keeps the Bermuda from spreading. The practice also removes any danger of the plow dragging sprigs of Bermuda into the field.

Thor!

The great blacksmith was Thor, in Teutonic mythology, just as Tubal Cain was a blacksmith in Biblical lore. The task of the great blacksmith was amalgamating metals by pounding, welding by fire and force. Franklin Roosevelt is the Thor of American politics. He is trying to weld into one party the six unrelated minorities that made his majority in 1936. He is trying to unite the farmers, the negroes, the conservative silk stocking Democrats, the great city tammanies, the progressives, the radicals as far left as C. I. O., the old aristocratic Southern Democrats, all into one political organ; to make by party ukase one mind out of many. That mind will be his mind. Figuratively, he stands in the clouds, above the crowd, wielding the sledge of his presidential prestige — the greatest political power on earth — trying by his hammer to weld these minorities into a workable, usable, united Democratic party.

This is a task for one of the major gods. He is trying to make the new party his party, the Roosevelt party. He is trying to impress the private sentiments of Franklin Delano Roosevelt about economics and the social order upon the 27,000,000 people who, for various unrelated reasons, voted for him as the presidential candidate in 1936. If he succeeds, his success will be a god-like achievement.

It does not seem possible. Moreover, with all his serene assurance of his own dead rightness, with all his complacent arrogance for those who differ with him, it seems to the writer of these lines that Mr. Roosevelt's present enterprise, because of the vast melaglomania of its implications, will be a menace to American peace and prosperity and to the spiritual development of free mne in our country. No possible economic good or social advance will be worth the cost of human freedom this god-like hammering of the human spirit will require.

So, whether you agree with him or not, take a look at this gargantuan Thor in his great spiritual blacksmith shop, trying to remake the Democratic party. To do so, Thor, the thunder god, is threatening to destroy courts, threatening to take over the functions of congress, threatening to enlarge the presidency far beyond safe lines of enlargement. He is welding with the fire and force of his unbridled spirit the instruments of his desire — "vessels of wrath fitted unto destruction." — Editorial in The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

SINGING AT ENTERPRISE LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The regular monthly afternoon singing was held at Enterprise schoolhouse last Sunday afternoon. The singing was called to order by the chairman, I. D. Huett, and the society was called into business session for the election of a chairman for the coming year. The election resulted in the choosing of Mr. J. E. Varner to succeed Mr. Huett, who asked to be relieved of the duties as chairman. The new chairman appointed as assistant chairman, Mr. John Devaughn.

A number of good directors were present for the singing, among them being Profs. L. T. Grant, O. L. Devaughn, and Archie Devaughn. Both the Cooper quartet and the Burkhalter quartet sang several selections. One song was directed by a young lady from Collins Chapel, Miss Smith.

Enterprise is one of the most active local singing societies in the county, and they are to be commended for their persistence and splendid work.

SWEET POTATOES MAY BE FED TO LIVESTOCK

Auburn, Sept. 5. — Farmers who will this fall have surplus supplies of sweet potatoes may find satisfactory use for them in feeding livestock, states F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman.

Sweet potatoes supply about one-third of the total digestive nutrients found in corn, says Mr. Burns. It requires from four to five bushels of sweet potatoes to equal one bushel of corn in feeding value. Sweet potatoes are rich in starch and dry matter, but low in protein, calcium, and phosphorous. In the feeding of sweet potatoes, the protein element needs to be supplied in the ration, as well as adequate minerals, particularly in the feeding of hogs. Sweet potatoes are best suited to the feeding of hogs. They may be either grazed off or fed as chopped tubers after harvesting.

4-H CLUB WORK

The Assistant County Agent attended the annual State Farmers and Homemakers Camp held in Auburn, August 1-5. Approximately 1,500 farmers and homemakers attended this camp, which was declared to be one of the most successful of all the meets of this kind ever held in the state.

W. B. Crowe, a noutstanding member of the Chilton County Calf Club attended this camp to participate in the discussion, "Livestock On Alabama Farms", led by Mr. F. W. Burns, Extension Animal Husbandman, on Wednesday morning, August 3. He made a worth while contribution to the program through his responses to the various questions asked him concerning his family's farm and his experiences with livestock.

The County Agent and the Assistant Agent, through the cooperation of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, arranged for approximately 200 farmers and farm women from Chilton County to attend the camp on Wednesday, August 3.

These representatives of the county arrived in Auburn at 10 a.m., and at that time heard a splendid address by Rep. William B. Bankhead on "Congress and the Farmer". During the afternoon a tour was conducted over the experiment station. The delegation saw controlled experiments on the various garden vegetables; demonstrations on the new improved method of cutting kudzu, the value of legumes in the production of corn and cotton, the difference in the amount of nitrogen when legumes are turned at different dates, cotton and corn fertilized with different kinds and amounts of commercial fertilizers contrasted with cotton and corn following vetch, and the effect of fires on forestry plots. They also visited the hog and dairy barns, and the poultry farms.

Presentation by direct observation is one of the most desirable methods which can be used in connection with matters of interest and value pertaining to farming activities. It is felt that the benefits received by these representatives of this county will be seen in many improved methods on the farm in the future.

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

A study recently completed by the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce reveals that increase in farm income in Alabama, as well as in other Southern states, depends to a large extent on increased production of livestock and livestock products.

Alabama received $21,908,000 in 1937 from the sale of livestock and livestock products, while there were being shipped into Alabama during the same year livestock and livestock products bringing in excess of $23,000,000.

It is evident from these figures that there already exists in Alabama sufficient market for livestock and livestock products to double the state's present production.

The State Chamber's study of receipts from prncipal farm products by 15 states (two Northern and a Southern group) covering the period from 1932 to 1937 inclusive, revealed that while Alabama received $21,908,000 in 1937 from the sale of livestock and livestock products, Missouri received $193,594,000, Ohio $225,458,000, and Iowa $421,729,000. Michigan's livestock receipts, which totaled $142,880,000, was the lowest of any Northern state included in the study, yet 6½ times as much as Alabama's.

By use of a cotton drier it is possible to obtain a fine sample of cotton, according to Will Howard Smith, Autauga County farmer. Cotton put throug hthe drier will bring a considerable premium over cotton ginned green or damp. The drier is built by a government plan developed at the federal gin laboratory at Stoneville, Miss.

ANNUAL SMITH REUNION HELD SEPTEMBER 4th

The reunion was missdated in last week's paper from some cause. We held the reunion last Sunday, September 4, at Mineral Springs. It was not only a Smith reunion, but a Smith, Blow, Vardon, and Littlefield affair, with about 250 people present.

Talks were made by Judge Reynolds, Solicitor Walker, William and Lawrence Smith of Birmingham, Buddie Davis of Siluria, and others. They were enjoyed by all.

A bountiful dinner was spread, and was one of the most important parts of the whole day.

We had plenty of music, and got to see Aunt Sarah Vardon, age 80, and Uncle Alvie Smith, 75, buck dance. It was lots of fun.

Everyone enjoyed the day, and departed with the hope of seeing each other at the same time next year. — J. T. Smith.

OFFERS THANKS

We are very thankful for the success of the field work of the Women's Missionary Union in Chilton County Association during the weeks of August 13-26.

We appreciate the help of Miss Ruth Gardner and Miss Laura Herring, Mrs. C. L. Wilkins, and Mrs. Maurice Hodgens, who assisted as group leaders. In the two weeks, we were able to meet with 29 of the 36 churches in our association. Some of hte churches had mission study classes, while in others conferences or organizations were held.

We appreciate the ccoperation of the people everywhere we went. Everyone helped to make it a success. My prayer is that people will become more and more interested in serving and following our Lord and Savior in the Women's Missionary Union work.

Seven churches organized W. M. U.'s, and several organized young people's organizations. The following churches organized unions: Corinth, New Cedron, Mineral Springs, Providence, Center Hill, Maynard's Chapel, Rocky Springs, Shiloh, and Clanton Second Baptist. — Mrs. Lee J. Grant, Chilton Superintendent.

MISS LUCILLE EDWARD FETED AT SHOWER

Mrs. Ernest Wilson entertained at her home Wednesday afternoon, August 31, with a miscellaneous shower, honoring Miss Lucille Edwards, whose marriage to Mr. Ernest Coppock, of Jacksonville, Ala., will be an event of September 15.

Pastel shades of summer flowers were used effectively throughout the rooms. The dining table was spread with a crochet cover, and was centered with dolls dressed as bride and groom.

The guests registered in the bride's book, as they entered the living room. Prizes won during the afternoon went to Miss Audry Johnson, Miss Leola Devaughn, and Mrs. Bill Cox. Little Nadine Rawlinson, dressed in full bridal attire, entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Briday Chorus, played by the hostess. The little bride drew the gifts from a miniature well, which was before the fireplace, and presented them to the bride-elect.

At the conclusion of the display of gifts, refreshments were served by the hostess, with Mrs. O. L. Rawlinson assisting.

HOUSEWIFE ANSWERS COLLUM ON "GRITS, GREENS & GRAVY"

I spent the first 18 years of my life on a farm. I have visited farms in seven counties in Alabama and one in Florida. Some were very poor share croppers with large families, others were property owners; but I have never eaten just "grits, greens and gravy" at a farmer's home yet, although I really like all three.

The poorest farmer can have chicken at least once a week most of the time if he will try. Even if I don't like chicken, most people do. Farmers, as a rule, are the best "eating" class of people. They don't have so many other things, but they can grow lots of eats. For breakfast the average farmer has syrup or sorghum, biscuit, and coffee or milk, with the addition of one or more of these — grits, rice, ham, eggs, bacon, or sausage; usually any of the above with any kind of vegetables for dinner (farmers don't have lunch); for supper they have from one to six different vegetables, potatoes, a pie, syrup pudding, milk or tea, and chicken on Sunday and when company comes.

Now the poor public worker eats grits and gravy for breakfast, beans and bread for dinner and supper, for $1.00 to $1.50 from two to five days per week. Why not stop paying $5 to $10 per month house rent, and buy more groceries?

I'm not a politician — just a wife and mother. — Mrs. C. F. Gandy.

As To Changing City Limits Back

It is regrettable that the agitation about Lay Dam road paving has reached such proportions here that a movement has precipitated to decrease the limits of the city and place them back where they were five years ago. There has always been some latent opposition to the city limits being extended to take in all the new territory, but the question had apparently cooled off until the road paving business got so thoroughly worked up.

The City of Clanton made a broad step forward when it increased its corporate limits. It was an accomplishment beneficial to both the old and new territory, and it would be nothing short of shameful for us now to take back track and cut the area of the city down to make the four creeks the boundary lines again.

Of course, our city officials cannot expect to get by without any additional expense, since the area has been more than doubled. They might as well "cough up" and take care of the additional burdens and added expenses. We have adopted more children into our family, and now it is our incumbent duty to take care of them. If we have to build bridges, we might as well go ahead and build them. Then, of course, if we set about doing more for the newly adopted children than we do for the ones who have been with us all the time, we will start a racket among the old heirs and assigns.

But to say the least of it, let's try and settle the matter some other way than decreasing our corporate limits and thus losing the forward step that we gained by much effort four years ago.

A CRITICISM OF THE NEW DEAL

To the Editor The Birmingham News:

We who are real Americans and believe in the principles of democracy do not believe in a one-man party. This is the way the so-called New Deal Democrats have made our great party. Awake, Southern Democrats, and defend your birthright, which was given you by your ancestors! The South has always believed in democracy and she must show the world that she does not believe in dictatorships.

Julius Caesar maintained himself in power by giving an enormous dole to the millions of Rome, and the New Dealers are trying to do the same. Down with this so-called New Deal Caesar! In Rome, Julius Caesar obtained his votes by giving a dole to the millions of the city mob. Does not the same situation exist in America today? Of course, it is the same situation. Is this the American ideal? Is this the way that Americans want their democratic government to be managed? Do we have a democratic governmtnt under such a system? Is the government which now sits in Washington a government of the people and by the people?

The time has come to knock out this parasitic form of government which now exists in Washington. Who is responsible for the great industrial and commercial growth of this country? The politicians or the business men of this country? Everyone knows that the business men are the men who are responsible for the progress of the nation. The time has come for this country to have a business man's president who can really accomplish something. The politicians have not saved this country, and now it is the business men's chance.

We do not need a political boss to tell us whom we should vote for in the South. We have been able to get along all right so far without any dictation from Washington. Southerners should elect those candidates for the United States Senate and House of Representatives who honestly have their own state's interests at heart, and not those of the politicians in Washington. We need a clean sweep in Washington to get rid of these politicians who are raising taxes every session and making the burden greater and greater.

New inventions and new ideas for industries are the only things that will make conditions better in America. You cannot legislate good times. REFUGE CHURCH BEING REBUILT

For the past week or over, work has been in progress toward renovating the building of Refuge church. The old building was turned one-fourth around, and 10-fcot wings have been built on each side, all of which about doubles the floor space of the building.

The original building was 24 by 36 feet. Ten feet has been added to the length of the main building; and wings 10 feet by 24 feet have been built on each side. This will greatly increase the total floor space.

The people of Refuge community request The Union-Banner to convey to the people the fact that every bit of the help extended them is duly appreciated. The people of all communities have been most generous in helping them by cash donations and by giving work, and the Refuge people are very grateful for everything that has been done.

HIGHWAY TAXES FOR HIGHWAY PURPOSES

The people of Alabama will be asked to vote on an amendment on November 8th, the purpose of which is to direct all gasoline and motor vehicle taxes to the construction and maintenance of roads, streets and bridges. As it now stands, this gasoline and motor vehicle tax money can be spent for whater purpose the officials want to spend it, which to anyone giving it a thought, is not just nor right.

The money thus collected ought to go toward making better roads for the cars to operate upon and utilize the gasoline on which the taxes are paid. We hope the voters of Chilton County will consider this matter, and see if they do not think it right that this amendment be adopted on November 8th.

TO PARTICIPATE IN ROAD PAVING

Special Meeting Of City Council Resulted In Acceptance Of Proposition

Mayor C. Fenn Jones called the city council together in special session Monday night, the purpose being to discuss some definite conclusion about the bridge across Goose Pond Creek and participation in the paving of that part of Lay Dam road within the city limits.

The result of the meeting was that the city decided to go the federal authorities fifty-fifty in constructing the bridge, at a cost of about $12,000 all told. The bridge is to be strictly according ot specifications of the State Highway Department and federal authorities.

The city will proceed with the county and state in building the black-top road from Luther Teel's corner to the city limits north, and will assess the city's part of the cost of same to the owners of abutting property. The latter amount will be about $2,000, and will cost the property owners about 30 cents per lineal foot of frontage.

This proposition will be placed by the city officials before the county officials and state highway authorities, and when same is accepted by them, everything will be in readiness to let the contract for the paving and the building of the bridge.

The paving of this road has been pending for several months, and when the bridge went out in April, the scheme became more complex and considerably more costly to the city. So, it is quite a consolation to know that something really definite has been reached about the project.

Besides the cash prizes and merchandise awards, the above named gentlemen offer for the best unbred mare a free stud fee; and for the best filly, 18 months to three years old, one free stud fee. Young Man Was Arrested Sunday

Place Of Buford Lawrence & Son Was Entered Saturday Night By Burglars

The store of Buford Lawrence & Son on Maplesville Road was entered by thieves last Saturday night, and about $30 worth of cigarettes and tobacco taken. One young man, about 20, was arrested Sunday in connection with the crime. Two other boys about the same age are suspected, and will likely be arrested soon.

Evidence is strong that these are the same boys who broke into Street Car Service Station a week prior and took about the same amount of cigarettes and tobacco.

HOG TROUGH MADE IN 1901 STILL IN USE

Mr. W. W. Headley, of Maplesville Route 2, reports that in 1901 he dug a hog trough out of solid pine about 8x8 inches and five feet long, using a club axe. Mr. Headley still uses the trough, and it is in good condition, except the hogs have gnawed it thin in some places.

FAMOUS AVIATRIX HERE

The Clanton Aero Club served as hosts for lunch last Saturday to a very famous and noted lady flyer, Mrs. Blanche Wilcox Noyes, of Washington, D. C., together with Mr. Asa Rountree, of Birmingham. Taking lunch with the noted flyer at Exchange Hotel were Dr. V. J. Gragg, J. Mell Martin, T. L. Williams, and Leo Thompson. Following luncheon the group went to Gragg Field, where an official inspection was made.

Mrs. Noyes is air marking pilot for Civil Aero Authority. She has made quite a record as a pilot, having captured the Bendix trophy upon one occasion. Mrs. Noyes and Mr. Rountree called upon a few business and professional men while in our city.

Mrs. Noyes is said to have made a favorable report on Clanton Airport, saying it was above the average for cities of this size; she frowned some, however, upon the trees bordering part of the field. Flyers of those high speed planes do not like any obstructions anywhere near a landing field in all directions.

TWO ARE INDICTED IN TUSCALOOSA VOTE PROBE

Grand Jury Sees Forgery In Balloting; Ten Indictments Returned

Tuscaloosa, Sept. 9. — A Tuscaloosa County grand jury today indicted two persons on charges of illegal voting and forgery of absentee ballots in the June 14 Democratic primary.

The grand jury filed seven indictments against Steve Z. Darden, 24, a Northport justice of the peace, and three against James Alexander, 29, a Northport cotton buyer.

Darden posted bonds totaling $3,500 and Alexander gave bonds for $1,500 when warrants were served upon them at the sheriff's office today.

The investigating body also recommended impeachment proceedings be filed against Darden, alleging he had been guilty of "impeachable conduct" in certifying and voting of absentees in his capacity as justice of the peace.

The grand jury's report alleged Darden had voted absentee ballots in the names of dead persons and had forged or counterfeited applications for absentee ballots.

BIRTHDAY OF THE CONSTITUTION

(Editorial In Atlanta Georgian)

PEOPLE of the United States will observe on Saturday, September 17, the 151st anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. No man knew, prior to September 17, 1787, what kind of a nation this was going to be, much less what kind of government it was going to have.

The colonies had united to WIN freedom. They had drifted perilously far along the fatal road of DISUNION before patriotic leadership came sufficiently into ascendancy to preserve and perpetuate the victory. Throughout the summer of 1787, the delegates of 12 states had been assembled in Philadelphia for the purpose of writing a Constitution, and had wrangled and disputed among themselves.

But on September 17, a majority of the 55 delegates approved and adopted the imperishable document, the greatest formula for the assurance of happiness unto mankind ever written, the CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

From that day on, the fate and future of the United States of America as a free and independent nation, and of the people of the United States as the beneficiaries of self-asserted and self-maintained liberty, have never been in doubt.

In the light of these tremendously momentous historical facts, we are enabled to and DO RECOGNIZE the anniversary as an occasion for patriotic rejoicing and also for earnest rededication of ourselves to the sacred principles then asserted.

It is an occasion that calls for VIGILANCE, which we must never relax and which we must constantly urge upon each young generation approaching the status of mature and responsible citizenship.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, in an address some months ago to a group of college graduates in the state of Maine, declared:

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, and that vigilance must be THE VIGILANCE OF THE PEOPLE LOOKING TO THE PROCESSES OF THE REPUBLIC."

All Americans should approach the observance of Constitution Day with that knowledge and IN THAT SPIRIT. Prepare yourself for a proper and PATRIOTIC observance of Constitution Day. Read again how liberty was first established and made possible in this country. Let us understand and APPRECIATE the significance and importance of this great day and in spirit and in fact BE PATRIOTIC AMERICANS.

TONS OF INK AGLOW!

Ten tons of ink and 4,000 tons of paper are utilized in the annual production of approximately 33,329,668 copies of Southern Baptist periodicals and 618,177 books. And think how many men, women, and machines labor to produce them. For example: Over 100 people are required to write, edit, illustrate, and manufacture the Alult Quarterly. Over 150 separate mechanical operations are then necessary to print it and get it in the mail. This is rather big religious business.

Modern Beauty Shoppe Enlarged Its Quarters

Increased Business Has Necessitated Additional Floor Space

Work has been in progress for the past week, increasing the space and remodeling Modern Beauty Shoppe, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, proprietor. Partitions have been removed, more space has been rented, and many important changes generally have been made in the layout of the shop. All the work has been completed and everything is in working order.

Mrs. Robinson reports that all this change was made necessary on account of the additional work which the shop is called upon to do. "The ladies of Chilton County require a better and larger shop, and we are going to furnish them what they require", says Mrs. Robinson. "We have our place as attractive as it is possible for us to make it, and it will be kept up-to-date at all times."

Mayor C. Fenn Jones has a message which he wants conveyed to all the property owners on Kicker Street in Clanton, which is near the intersection of Kincheon road: "If the property owners on Kicker Street want that street paved, it is necessary for them to make the proper arrangements at once, by providing the necessary footage for the proper width of the street, and to provide the money for the property owners' part of the paving cost. This must be done at once if WPA assistance is to be procured." So, these property owners should get busy and get the preliminaries all attended to.

The editor of The Union-Banner received a letter from Prof. W. M. Devaughn last week end. After that school he is to teach at Calvary Ga., then Cleveland, Tenn., and then back to Dalton. He says he is homesick for Alabama, especially Chilton County.

G.O.P. LEADER TO SPEAK IN B'HAM

Rep. Dewey Short, of Missouri, Will Address Republican State Rally Sept. 17

Rep. Dewey Short, youthful Missouri congressman, and bitter New Deal critic, has accepted an invitation to be speaker at a Republican Constitutional Day rally at Birmingham September 17, according to W. L. Longshore, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor.

The only Republican member of the House from Missouri, Rep. Short is one of the most highly educated men in congress. He studied at Harvard, Oxford, Heidelberg, University of Berlin, Marion College, and for a time was professor of philosophy and psychology at Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan.

Termed "the hardest and probably most effective hitter against the New Deal", Congressman Short once served as minister of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, of Springfield, Ill. He has been making Republican speeches since the age of 16, and is only 36 now.

Probably the shortest sketch in the directory of the 74th Congress, and, of course, written by himself, is that of Congressman Short. It is, "Dewey Short, Republican, of Galena, Mo."

A fiery orator, Rep. Short delivered the most caustic attack against the Roosevelt administration during the 74th Congress. In part, Short told members "there is no longer any reason to have a Congress, as the House is nothing except a hollow chamber full of hollow heads."

Later Short asserted: "I charge that this administration has deliberately prolonged this depression, increasing the misery of the masses, while it seeks to fasten upon the American people a type of government foreign to the fundamental principles of Americanism."

More than 10,000 Republicans from over the state are expected to converge on Birmingham during Congressman Short's visit, Judge Longshore said.

FAIR TO OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

Gragg Field Being Made Ready For Big Event For People Of Chilton County

The time will arrive next Tuesday, September 20th, for the opening of the second annual Bigger and Better Chilton County Fair, and according to the Fair Committee officials, it will be one of the best and biggest events ever held in the county. Workmen have been busy during the past week setting everything in readiness at Gragg Field or Clanton Airport for the fair to open its gates to the public Tuesday, September 20th, and run through the remainder of the week.

The county is building a large shed and inclosure to house the livestock that will be placed on exhibition. Officials promise that stock left there will be under the best of care by experienced stock men.

Ladies will be admitted free on opening night. Wednesday will be especially for children; while Thursday night comes off about the biggest attraction of the week, when a wedding of a young woman and a young man of the county will take place before the visitors of the fair. Friday si Aviation Day, when Mr. Glenn Messer, flying ace of Birmingham, will do stunts and have stunts done for the entertainment of the visitors, including a parachute jump.

Then, Saturday has been set aside as Farmers' Day, when the farmers of the county will be shown every special consideration and courtesy that the management is able to offer. Farmers' day will be THE DAY of days, and all farmers are urged to come and bring the entire family to spend a day of pleasure.

Send In Exhibits Now

Mr. Thomas P. Littlejohn, of Troy, manager of the Fair, is in Clanton now, making all arrangements for the opening next Tuesday. Those wishing to place exhibits of any kind in the Fair should get in touch with J. Mell Martin right away. The time is less than a week off now.

MAINE WENT REPUBLICAN IN GENERAL ELECTION MONDAY

New Deal Suffering Defeat At Hands Of Democrats And Republicans

The first general election of the year, held in Maine Monday, dealt a crushing defeat to the Democratic ticket and the New Deal candidates which had been chosen in the primaries earlier in the year. Clear cut majorities were given all Republicans, including Gov. Lewis O. Barrows, and Representatives James C. Oliver, Clyde H. Smith, and Ralph C. Brewster.

This reminds us of the old adage that nearly always held good back in B. R. (before Roosevelt) days, viz: "As Maine goes, so goes the nation."

Maryland Democrats also handed Mr. Roosevelt and his blessings a lemon, so to speak, in their primary Monday. Senator Millard E. Tydings seemed to have won over Rep. Lewis a little over 3 to 2.

The New Deal Score Card

Up to the present time this year, the primaries may be summarized, as to New Deal victories and defeats, as follows: Pro-New Deal — Alabama, Florida, and Kentucky; Anti-New Deal — Oregon, North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri, Nevada, California, Texas, South Carolina, Maryland — and the prospects are that the Georgia election held yesterday will turn out anti-New Deal, despite the fact that President Roosevelt made a personal appeal to Georgians to defeat Senator George.

In other words, the blessings of the president have been recognized in only three states — two of them in the solid South. His wishes have been ignored in ten Democratic primaries. And the Republican candidates have won in the only general election that has been held this year. That is a right good beginning toward re-Americanizing America and of dehorning dictatorial power in the United States.

DAVIS - COBB

A marriage of much interest was that of Miss C. Delle Davis and Mr. William Roy Cobb, which took place Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Davis, parents of the bride. The ceremony was solemnized at 9 o'clock, in the presence of a host of friends and relatives, the Rev. Nail, of Plantersville, officiating.

The music was rendered by Mrs. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville, and little Miss Dorothy McCrary sang "I Love You Truly." Gleaming white roses and pink dahlias were effectively combined with a background of green ferns throughout the living room of the home.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. A stunning blonde, clad in a two-piece traveling suit of navy blue with navy accessories, her bouquet was ferns and pink roses.

After the ceremony, light refreshments were served to the guests in the dining room, where the table was exquisite in its appointments of Venice ponit lace, flowers, and candle light. Shortly after the ceremony the bride and groom left for Atlanta.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

This is being dictated September 8. The 1938-39 year of the Bob Jones College opened yesterday. It is very interesting to interview students. Some sincerely wish advice. Some ask for advice hoping to receive endorsement of some plan he or she has in mind, which plan is often unreasonable. "I feel that God wishes me to do a certain thing", a young man said last night. "He isn't leading you to do any such thing", I replied. "There is no sense in it." If there is no sense in a thing, God is not in it. Don't be foolish and slander God by saying God has impressed you to do it. Most of the students who come to our college come from good families with fine Christian backgrounds. A young fellow brought up in a Christian home may go to the devil, but he doesn't have an easy time going. It is hard for a young man or young woman to climb over the wall of prayer built about his life by a Godly mother and father and go to ruin. He can do it, but it is hard to do. What America needs is Christian fathers and mothers who put the spiritual welfare of their children above everything else.

The Bible says, "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." He may depart from it when he is young, but if the proper Christian influence is brought to bear in the life of a child that influence will produce results in old age. Harry Monroe said to the writer, "I have seen dozens of bums in the Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago. I rarely have seen a bum who was reared in a Christian home. The few bums I have seen who were reared in Christian homes, in spite of their dissipation and sin, always carried some of the good marks put upon their lives when they were children. "The most serious business in the world is rearing children. Yet there are fathers and mothers who think they have enough intelligence to bring up their children without asking for divine leadership and wisdom from above.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—In Indianola, Iowa, the only member of the Mullican family who stayed that way was Doc Mullican, the town dentist. One of his daughters married, and the four others became the Lane sisters of Hollywood.

Only Doc Mullican Stayed Put

Had he lived a few months longer, the father would have witnessed the grand slam success of three of the girls, Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola, in the new film "Four Daughters."

The home background of the Lane girls is such that it suggests Meg, Beth, Jo and Amy, these antecedents somehow easing into the picture, to the delight of the audience and the quite unrestrained enthusiasm of the critics. It is too bad that Leota couldn't have been the fourth daughter—this without disparagement of Gale Page, who gets a full share of honors. Leota is aiming at the Metropolitan and is now studying at the Juilliard School of Music.

The only sources of excitement in Indianola, 21 miles south of Des Moines on the Rock Island, were the 3:15 train and the Methodist college. The Mullican girls, all musically gifted and all good looking, became locally famous for their home musicales and their party stunts.

Lola, eldest of the four, met Gus Edwards, away out on the kerosene circuit, 18 miles from Indianola. She persuaded him to give her a tryout. That led to a vaudeville engagement, and later to Hollywood. It was Edwards who tagged her Lola Lane. Leota moved out next, also in vaudeville, while Priscilla and Rosemary were still in school. But, at the ages of 14 and 16, respectively, the two latter rounded out the quartette in Hollywood, in "Varsity Show."

Lola Leads Trek to Hollywood

They have a grand house, showy cars, silks and sables and what-not—in the Hollywood routine—but their public doesn't begrudge them their slice of the American dream, as long as they so faithfully portray its "Little Women" of poignant memory.

"Four Daughters," of modest production cost, was quietly unveiled without any fuss whatsoever. Critics headline it as a "sensational success." The lesson seems to be that the picture moguls, downhearted about the business and ready to spend until it hurts, are overlooking the pulling power of not necessarily expensive taste, simplicity, and sound dramatic craftsmanship, in lieu of a million dollars.

IF IT hasn't already happened, it is pretty nearly a certainty that someone will give Commodore Robert B. Irving, master of the Queen Mary, a pipe for breaking the Atlantic speed record. He collects pipes and smokes them almost constantly, and important occasions in his life are usually signalized by the ceremonious presentation of a B.B.B.—Best British Briar—which type of pipes features his collection of several hundred.

Master of Queen Mary Likes Pipes

The tall, smiling, wind-and-sun-tanned skipper is a border Scotsman of Kirtlebridge, Dunfreeshire, 61 years old, a sailing man for 47 years, 35 years with the Cunard line, barring time out for war service. He is deliberate, friendly, chatty and easy-going, the last man in the world to pose for the portrait of a speed demon. Next to pipes, his hobby is collecting carvings of miniature elephants.

The son of a retired army colonel, with no seafaring folk anywhere in his line, he went to sea at 12 on the school ship Conway, and, at 14, shipped on a four-master around the horn to San Francisco. He joined the Cunard line as fourth officer. His first command was the Vennonia, and later he was master of many of the crack ships of the line, including the Lusitania, in 1914, and the Aquitania.

In his native Kirtlebridge, he lives in a house built in 1770, tramps through his 1,500 acres of copse and moors, works in his garden and raises spaniels. As one who has ranged the world through nearly half a century, he is happiest when headed homeward, for there he is the kilted chief of the ancient Irving clan, and there his heart is.

'We Must Hang Together'

"We must hang together" is one of the famous puns in history and is attributed to Benjamin Franklin. When the Declaration of Independence was signed, John Hancock, president of the continental congress, put his name to the document first. "Now we must all hang together," he remarked as he wrote his name. "Yes, indeed," retorted Doctor Franklin, "we must all hang together or assuredly we shall all hang separately."

Atlanta, Sept. 12. — Miss Wilma Bucy, former state Baptist Woman's Missionary Union secretary in Alabama, and at present director of Dale County Public Welfare, Ozark, Ala., has been elected field worker of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, according to Dr. J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary-treasurer.

Miss Bucy, who will enter on her new work here October 1, will assist Miss Emma Leachman of Atlanta in work done by the latter for nearly 20 years, Dr. Lawrence stated.

Four new missionaries named by the agency, the executive announced, are Rev. and Mrs. H. P. Pierson, Kenedy, Texas, and Rev. and Mrs. Charles Pierson, Nacogdoches, Texas, these being appointed for work among the Mexicans.

The report of Dr. Lawrence showed that August receipts of the Board totaled $16,598.35. In eight months of this year offerings have amounted to $394,758.82, an increase of $16,672.29 over the same period of 1937.

LAWRENCE - SMITH

With only a few intimate friends and members of the families present, Miss Sara Lawrence became the bride of Dan Crawford Smith at a quiet and simple, yet pretty and impressive ceremony at the home of the bride in Clanton last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The home was tastefully decorated in white and green. In the dining room, where the light was supplied by tall burning tapers, the table was centered with a large wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The ceremony took place in the spacious living room, where a beautiful improvised altar of banked lilies and greenery furnished a pretty background for the simple ring ceremony, which was performed by the grandfather of the bride, the Rev. J. O. Lawrence, of Pritchard and Mobile, who also performed the marriage of the bride's parents.

The bride was charmingly attired in a traveling suit of royal blue with dubonnet accessories. She entered the room on the arm of her father, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, who gave the bride away. The groom had as his best man Ealon Hocutt, of Auburn.

Lohengrin's Wedding March was softly played by Mrs. Barney Roberts, who also played Schubert's Serenade during the ceremony, which was preceded by Miss Kathryn Foss singing "O, Promise Me." The prayer was also rendered by Miss Foss, singing "The Prayer Perfect", with Mrs. Roberts accompanying.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served to those present, with the charming bride performing her duty of cutting the beautiful cake, with Mrs. Billy Smith assisting Mrs. Lawrence in serving.

The bride is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Lawrence, and is one of the most popular and charming young ladies of the younger set of Clanton. She is a graduate of the local high school, attended Huntingdon College, Montgomery, and the University of Alabama, where she has numerous friends, and was listed as one of the most popular girls of the two colleges.

Mr. Smith is the youngest son of Mrs. Mamie C. Smith and the late P. C. Smith, of Clanton, and a native of this county, his family being among some of the first settlers in and around Thorsby. He graduated at the local high school, and received his B. S. degree at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute this past term, and immediately accepted a position with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., in Akron, Ohio, and later in Birmingham.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Birmingham.

TERRACING SEASON NEAR

Many farmers in the erosion control area near Clanton have found that they can substitute their own labor for cash in getting terraces built on their farms, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent, Soil Conservation Service.

While terraces can be built to Soil Conservation Service specifications much more quickly with tractors than with horse drawn equipment, many farmers who feel that they cannot afford to make a cash outlay for tractor built terraces have sufficient labor available to construct etrraces with their own equipment.

When horse drawn equipment is used, however, it is highly desirable that only a few terraces be built at a time and that these be brought to specifications as soon as possible, Mr. Wood said.

Results obtained by this method on a number of farms in the local area show that it does not necessarily require power equipment to build good terraces. In these instances terraces have been built to Soil Conservation Service specifications with equipment available on the average farm.

Correctly run lines to give a variable grade terrace is the first step toward good terraces. After these lines are run the actual construction of the terrace is ready to be begun.

With a turn plow throw the first furrow up the hill on the stakes. The next furrow is thrown down hill on the stakes. At least four furrows should be thrown to the stakes before dragging up is done on both sides of ridge. Successive plowing and dragging should continue until a width of 8 to 10 feet and a heighth of 18 to 20 inches is obtained. Next move up hill about four feet and begin plowing out a balk with deep narrow cuts being made on the upper side. Plowing and dragging both sides of the balk should continue until balk is completely plowed out.

Then go over entire length of terrace and build up low places in ridge with shovel or slip scrape. This dirt should be taken from the channel. The lower end of terrace should be opened immediately, so as to allow the water to slowly drain. In some places it will be necessary to establish a sod strip across end of terrace to prevent washing or gullying. In most cases it is possible to drain terraces to woods or heavily sodded pastures, and no protective work will be necessary at lower end.

Department Lists Plantings in 128 Streams In 35 Counties

Montgomery, Sept. 12. — Nearly half a million young bass and bream were planted in 128 lakes and streams of 35 Alabama counties during July and August of thisr, according to figures released by I. T. Quinn, State Conservation Commissioner. The other counties will receive shipments of fish as soon as possible during the current planting season of the State Conservation Department, it was stated.

All of the young fish planted during the two month period were raised at the state's Eastaboga and Aliceville hatcheries, and the Marion federal hatchery. They were distributed in state trucks. The total was 386,652 bream and 31,070 bass, and the counties scattered from the Tennessee line to the Gulf of Mexico received an average of 11,934 fish each. The fish were planted in cooperation with county sportsmen's organizations under direction of state fish hatchery men and department game wardens.

An arrangement whereby 70 farmers and 4-H Club members of Hale County are growing crotalaria seed patches as demonstrations will result in better crop production for the entire county, believes County Agent J. A. Medlock.

ALABAMA HEALTH DEPARTMENT ATTRACTS PHILIPPINE EYES

Montgomery, September 12. — The work of the Alabama State Department of Health, especially in the field of sanitation, has attracted the attention of a health worker in the far away Philippine Islands, according to a letter which Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, recently received from Dr. A. C. Patag, local health officer of Talisay, Occidental Negros, Philippines.

"I am greatly interested in the activities, problems and progress of the sanitary conditions in your state", Dr. Patag wrote. "For this reason, I will appreciate it very much if you will send me regularly your official journals or any other printed matter which you think will help me and my office in carrying out our sanitary program."

Members of the various bureuas and divisions of the State Health Department have been instructed to furnish the writer with full information regarding their activities.

SILAS - CAGLE

A wedding of much interest to their many friends was that of Miss Vivian Solas to Mr. L. C. Cagle on Saturday night, September 3, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Silas, of Enterprise community. Only members of the immediate families and Miss Minnie Pearl Mims of Clanton were present.

Rev. E. L. Manning, grandfather of the groom, performed the ceremony. He also performed the ceremony for the bride's parents, 49 years ago.

Immediately afterward, a reception was given in their honor by Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Silas. The couple left Sunday for Birmingham, where they will make their home.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Services were good last Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Rev. J. J. Dubose preached three very interesting sermons. He brought with him his whole family, including six daughters, a son, and a son-in-law, whom we were glad to have with us, and give them a hearty welcome any time.

A revival begins here on Wednesday night, September 28, conducted by Rev. T. H. Spence, pastor of the Church of the Assemblies of God at Montgomery. He is originally from McComb, Miss., and is an able evangelist. Further announcement and information will be given in next week's papers.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Last Saturday night and Sunday were our regular preaching dates, and services were good; not so many were present, but everyone received a blessing.

We are trying to have Sunday school every Sunday; everyone has an invitation.

Our oldest member, Bud Jones, has been on a visit to Clay County to visit his sister, who is 79 years old; he is 77. While he was there a reunion was held in their honor, and 58 were present and enjoyed a grand time. He arrived back home last Tuesday morning.

Doc: The right leg of the patient is shorter than the left; thus he limps. Now, what would you do in a case of this kind?

Voice: I'd limp, too.

Even though Alabama cotton producers may be given a white or a red marketing card, or no card at all, the marketing quota provisions of the federal farm program do not hinder the normal movement of cotton to market, says A. W. Jones, administrative officer of the AAA in Alabama.

Farmers and farm women all over Alabama are taking more interest in the problems of their county agriculture at Saturday forums where the farm people and the county extension agents meet together to ask questions, discuss new farm methods, and to "really get to the bottom of their farm problems."

The United States Weather Bureau shows that since 1893, Alabama has had more clear days each year than cloudy days. From 1884 to 1893 the number of clear days was less than 140 except in 1891. Since 1893 the number of clear days has not dropped under 140 in any year, and in only four years has it dropped under 150.

TEN YEARS LATER

It was just 10 years ago — in August, 1928 — that the Kellogg anti-war pact came into being. The avowed purpose of the pact was to eliminate war as a national policy. The first article reads:

"The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recouse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another."

The pact was generally signed by the nations of the world, but, unfortunately, in its decade of existence, it has succeeded only in eliminating the official declaration of war which was fashionable during the horse and buggy days, before hostilities were commenced. In order to avoid violating the pact, nations since then which wanted to go to war have simply started their invasions without a formal declaration of war. Therefore their little expeditions with bombs and machine guns have not passed as "adopting war as a national policy".

For example, in 1931, Japan invaded China and took over Manchuria, all without declaring war. Four years later Italy invaded Ethiopia and liquidated Haile Selassie without any declaration of war.

Last summer Japan invaded China again, and now seems in the process of attempting to swallow the entire northern part of the country. Still there has been no declaration of war. The relations between the two countries are still officially peaceful.

The lesson seems to be that when so-called civilized nations want to fight they can always find a way to do it, just as uncivilized peoples do. Like its antithesis, love, war always seems to find a way.

WAS IT SOMETHING HE ATE?

The president dreamed about an airplane crash at the Washington airport and immediately promoted a conference committee into agreement on $10,000,000 worth of improvements which Washington people have been trying to get for 12 years, according to stories told by no doubt veracious congressmen.

If a mere dream prompted the president's action on the Washington airport, it must have been nightmares that brought about some of the other New Deal actions. Too much mince pie might be the etiology of the monetary policy; buckwheat cakes and sausage for a midnight lunch would account, perhaps, for the NRA and AAA; Welsh rabbit might explain Rex Tugwell, but nothing less than frijoles refritos con queso could have been responsible for the appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme Court. — Los Angeles Times.

NATIONAL DEBT THOUGHTS

When we read about the national debt, we wonder just how much is being talked about. If they want us to absorb the facts, they will have to quit talking in billions of dollars and get down to $1 bills or something like that, because we can comprehend such figures. They say it figures out about $325 per capita, and if they were to demand payment for our family, that would be $1,300. At $1 a day, we would have to lie in jail 1,300 days, because it is a cinch we haven't that much money. — Albany (Mo.) Capital.

Texas Democrats have nominated a flour salesman for governor. No doubt on the theory that he ought to be close to the dough.

OUR TWO GOVERNMENTS

In reality there are two governments in Washington. One is the regular constitutional establishment in which the law-making function is assigned to congress. The other is the rapidly growing jungle of bureaus and commissions, boards and authorities, which exercise all three governmental functions — the legislative, executive and judicial. Under the guise of executive orders or regulations, they are proclaiming laws in an unending stream, telling the American what he may do and what he may not do. In 149 instances, the American Bar Association found, a permit or license bearing the seal of an administrative bureau is made a prerequisite to carrying on a business or some other form of activity. — Nation's Business.

THEORIES AND FACTS

The theory back of the wages and hours bill, of course, is the old purchasing power theory. Give people more money to spend and they'll buy and consume enough to keep the wheels of industry turning. To make that theory work, we have pump priming, deficit financing, money manopulation, and all the rest of the bag of tricks. To be sure that a wages and hours bill was enacted, the president used all his driving force on congress, keeping both houses working until a bill — any kind of a bill — was finally prepared.

Nobody knows just what the effect will be. The bill as it stands is a hodge-podge of compromises, safeguards, anchors to windward. It may increase some wages in some of the more backward parts of the South. On the other hand, it is just as likely to scare employers in those regions into shutting up shop. If that happens, then purchasing power will be decreased instead of increased. — Baltimore Sun.

UNIQUE

Just 102 years ago, there being a surplus in the U. S. treasury, President Andrew Jackson asked congress to distribute $28,101,000 among the states. This was done, and New York received $4,000,000.

Since that time New York's share of the national surplus of 1836 has been resting undisturbed in a special fund, and the state constitutional convention, which met lately, had before it a proposal to give the legislature power to spend the moneyy.

Well, maybe it's all right. But our idea would be that New York State should hang on to htat fund — preserve it, perhaps, in a shrine of some sort as a rare historic relic. It is likely to be a long, long time before any state will get another cut from a U. S. treasury surplus. — New York World-Telegram.

THE SOUTH'S PROBLEM

This is one of the most serious basic factors that must be faced by the South tomorrow, its loss of the monopoly of supplying the world with its raw cotton.

Today other countries are shoving the South out of its former prominent place in this regard, all of the foreign markets which America formerly served having developed in the meantime sources from which they can be supplied nearer home with their raw staple.

When such organic influences are operating against the future economy of the South, it seems all the more absurd that political impingements should also be imposed further to aggravate and intensify its problems both for the present and for the future. — Charlotte News and Observer.

Germany has repudiated responsibility for the payment of the federal debt of the former Austrian reich. Other European nations, with England as a leader, have waxed indignant. They have some cause to be indignant.

Germany accuses England of inconsistency, stating that she did not pay the federal debts of the South African Republic after she conquered it. England replies by stating the cases are not parallel, since Germany claims she did not conquer Austria, but annexed it.

The debt, of course, should be paid as a matter of ethical conduct between nations. But England's case might be stronger and her indignation more convincing if she were to pay up what she owes Uncle Sam. The British budget is balanced, and we ought to be paid. We need the money. County Farm Agent's Notes

COTTON LOAN PLAN IS EXPLAINED BY JONES

Auburn, Sept. 12. — The government loan of 8.3 cents per pound under the 1938 farm program is available in full to cooperating farmers who have not knowinglyknowingly planted cotton in excess of the 1938 acreage allotment, A. W. Jones, AAA administrator in Alabama, announced this week.

Non-cooperators will be eligible to receive a loan at 6⅔ per cent of the rate applicable to cooperating producers and only on that part of the production in excess of their marketing quotas, according to Mr. Jones. The 8.3 cents is for seven-eighths middling cotton, with varying loans available on other grades and staples.

Loans will be made directly by the Commodity Credit Corporation and by banks and other lending agencies under arrangements substantially similar to those pertaining to previous cotton loans, Mr. Jones said. The corporation, he said, has allocated the sum of $100,000,000 for loans on the 1938 cotton crop. Loans will bear 4 per cent interest and mature July 31, 1939.

Banks and other lending agencies may make the loans to producers upon cotton stored in approved warehouses, and sell the notes to the Commodity Credit Corporation from time to time prior to 30 days from the maturity of the notes, at par with accrued interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. Such loans will be purchased only from banks and other lending agencies which enter into an agreement to pay 1½ per cent per annum on the principal amunt collected on the notes while held by agencies lending the money.

Loans will be made only upon cotton represented by negotiable insured farehouse receipts issued by warehouses approved by Commodity Credit Corporation. Such approval will be made by the manager of the loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation serving the district in which the warehouse is located, Mr. Jones declared. The districts served by each RFC loan agency for cotton will be the same as those used in the 1937-38 program, he said.

CRIMSON CLOVER HAS FINE USES

Auburn, Sept. 12. — Crimson clover, the crop that is growing in popularity among Alabama farmers by leaps and bounds, has five uses — soil building, soil conservation, grazing, hay and seed production, states J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in advising Alabama farmers to try an acre of this crop.

"The popularity of crimson clover may be greatly attributed to this wide variety of uses", he states. "Crimson clover acts in the same way of all legumes in adding nitrogen and humus to the soil. Ten tons of crimson clover per acre will add as much organic matter to the soil as about eight tons of barnyard manure and a great deal of nitrogen in addition. By providing a cover for the soil during the winter this legume checks soil erosion losses.

Winter grazing conserves the hay supply. Crimson clover sown in combination with small grain makes excellent temporary pasture during late winter and early spring.

Crimson clover alone makes excellent hay, but it is difficult to cure. For improved winter hay, sow a mixture of small grain, crimson clover, and vetch. This overcomes the curing difficulty and dads to the quantity and quality of the hay produced.

For additional sources of income, farmers in many sections will find crimson clover available. Farmers can build their soil, get enough seed for home use, and sell enough to make the crop a valuable source of income.

TURKEY DIET IS THE FALL IS IMPORTANT

Auburn, Sept. 12. — Turkey growers need to be very careful about what they feed, since some feeds can spoil the eating quality of turkey meat, said John E. Ivey, extension poultryman, today in advising growers that it is time to start priming turkeys for market.

"In feeding for market", says Mr. Ivey, "avoid feeds that you know are likely to produce off-flavor or dryness". Research indicates that some fish oils and fish meals are likely to cause off-flavors. So Mr. Ivey recommends that "all fish products be kept out of the diet of turkeys during the last 12 weeks before marketing.

"Other good protein supplements can take the place of fish meal", he says, "and sunshine can take the place of fish oils after turkeys get beyond the age of eight weeks. You don't have to take any chances with fish meals and oils during the last 12 weeks when turkeys are finishing off for market. However, if you have to use a fish meal, sardine meal seems to be the safest".

Among feeds known to produce high quality in utrkey meat, corn seems to be ahead of all other grains with eats, and wheat next in order. "Finish in young turkeys comes only with maturity", says Ivey, "and you can hasten maturity by feeding plenty of protein, minerals, and vitamins. Or, in other words, by feeding a well balanced growing diet of dry mash and scratch grains".

ALABAMA WOMEN HELP LAUNCH THE NATIONWIDE TAX CRUSADE

Chicago, Sept. 8. — Alabama women today joined forces with others representing 29 states in lauching organization of the National Consumers Tax Commission in what they termed "America's first nationwide crusade against local, state and national taxes that are raiding the family pocketbook".

Announcement of the setting up of the tax commission, which has established headquarters here, and statement of its objectives came from the president of the group, Mrs. Kenneth C. Frazier, of Dallas, Texas, long prominent in consumer campaigns in the southwest, and active in the Southwide Association of Consumers.

Alabama is represented on the national committee, Mrs. Frazier said, by Mrs. R. Branch Tarpley, 2114 — 21st Avenue, South, Birmingham, radio and drama chairman fo the Birmingham branch, National League of American Pen Women.

Mrs. Frazier declared the commission has set as its goal enlistment of 2,000,000 consumers in a national organization ultimately to have units in every city and town in the United States. She said plans call for members to pay annual dues of 60 cents each.

"Throughout the country", she added, "women are showing an increasing impatience with politicians and selfish groups who are still trying to pile taxes, most of them unnecessary, on the backs of the consumers."

HOG PROSPECTS LITTLE CHANGED

Auburn, Sept. 12. — Hog prospects for the coming marketing year, which begins in October, showed little change during the past month, reports the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Market supplies for the 1938-39 marketing year will be considerably larger than those of the present year.

However, the effect of these larger supplies on the price of hogs will be offset, at least in part, by the improvements in consumer demand for meats which is anticipated this winter.

PLAN FOOD SUPPLY, IS ADVICE TO HOUSEWIVES

Auburn, Sept. 12. — In many homes in Alabama the families are planning everything but the family food supply. If the food supply is well planned and carried out it is possible for the family to have enough and the right kinds of food without spending very much money, states Mildred Simon, new nutrition specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

If the income is low the variety of food must be limited and therefore chosen more wisely. Miss Simon suggests that housewives make the following division of the food dollar: one-fifth for meat, fish, and eggs, one-fifth for bread and cereals, and one-fifth for butter, sugar, molasses, coffee, tea, etc. The farm family could easily obtain more than four-fifths of the food supply on the farm.

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Forestry Committee of the State Chamber met on call of the Chairman, Mr. N. Floyd McGowin, in the offices of the State Chamber at 11 o'clock on Thursday, September 8. The meeting was well attended, those present being Mr. McGowin, Lyle Brown, T. D. Johnson, Col. Page S. Bunker, W. E. Penfield, L. P. Andrews, G. D. Evans, and members of the staff of the State Chamber. There was a general discussion of the forestry problems confronting Alabama at the present time, and the committee issued the following statement on adjournment:

"This committee is concerned with the forest land of the state, comprising almost 20,000,000 acres, or about 60 per cent of hte total. In the past, this vast area has been the principal source of wealth to this state, and in spite of more than 100 years of exploitation, a relatively few simple measures necessary are:

"1. A statewide effective system of fire protection.

"2. The education of land owners to a few elementary methods of proper cutting."

CHEVROLET SCHOOL

Detroit, Sept. 9. — A capacity enrollment of 30 students — three of the mfrom foreign lands — is assured for the third School of Modern Merchandising and Management for Sons of Chevrolet Dealers, which opens here Sept. 12. T. O. McLaughlin, director of the school, which W. E. Holler, general sales manager, founded in connection with his Quality Dealer program, made the announcement today.

McLaughlin has just returned from a tour of the United States during which he held 12 banquet meetings, with graduates of the two previous courses setting up the nucleus of a permanent alumni body. In the course of the trip, he interviewed many prospective students, from which 27 of the 30 enrollees for the approaching session have been picked.

"This girl's fresh from the country, and it's up to us to show her the difference between right and wrong."

"O. K., pal. You teach her what's right."

After a hard day's trip on a coast to coast bus, during which there were numerous stops, an old lady complained to the driver.

"Say, young man, seems like we stop at every other telegraph pole."

"Well, ma'am", the driver replied, "this is a greyhound bus."

NEGRO MINISTERIAL EDUCATION

Atlanta, Sept. 12. — Inaugurating a new program which church leaders of both races call the most effective plan for mission work among the negroes, the Baptist Home Mission Board this week launched a program of negro ministerial education.

As initiated at the board's monthly meeting, presided over by Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, president, 12 teachers of Bible were employed for service in 11 colleges in 10 states. Included in the list of schools are two in Alabama, Selma University and Tuskegee Institute.

"This is the first time our board has had a coordinated program of negro ministerial education", Dr. J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary-treasurer, stated as his recommendation for the inauguration of this new work was unanimously adopted.

Souse (bumping into lamp post): "Excuse me, sir." (Bumping into fire hydrant): "Excuse me, little boy". (Bumping into second lamp post and falling down): "Well, I'll just sit here until the crowd passes."

Librarian: "Sir, we are about to close for the day; is there anything you would like to take out?"

Patron: "Why, yes. How about the brunette in the red dress?"

Lesson for September 18

JONATHAN: COURAGEOUS FRIENDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 20:4-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—A friend loveth at all times.—Proverbs 17:17.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Noble Prince Jonathan.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Noble Prince Jonathan.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Adventure of Friendship.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Cost of Being a Friend.

Without question, the most precious possession any man or woman has (apart from his fellowship with God if he is a Christian, and the love of his own family) is friendship. It is the flower that blooms by the side of the rugged pathway of life. Like many flowers, some friendships need to be cultivated and encouraged.

It has been said that the love of a woman for another woman is a beautiful thing, the love of a man for a woman an even more devoted and precious thing, but that the bond of love between man and man surpasses all in its strength and glory. Some might question such a statement, and yet it is true that between man and man there is the possibility of the highest type of friendship. David and Jonathan stand at the head of an inspiring list of men who loved each other with their whole souls.

The lesson for today calls for a careful reading of the incidents in the life of Jonathan and David recorded in I Samuel, chapters 14, 18, 19, and 20, as well as the first chapter of II Samuel. It is a story which will richly reward a careful reading. Considering the printed portion in the light of this background we note six things that characterized this great friendship.

I. Cultivated (v. 4).

Friendships must be "kept in repair." Foolish and almost wicked is that man who by boorishly offending his fellowmen, or by neglecting the thoughtful words and acts that cultivate friendship, drives men away from him. "He that hath friends must show himself friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Consider the admonition of our Lord in Luke 16:8, 9, where he urges the righteous use of even our worldly possessions to cultivate eternal friendships. Read what Jonathan did in I Sam. 18:3-5, only one of his many loving and thoughtful acts.

II. Courteous (v. 8).

David asked that Jonathan deal kindly with him, and the entire story reveals that he did just that, always. More friendships are wrecked on the rocks of little discourtesies than in almost any other way.

We live in an age which affects an outward veneer of culture but which is at heart often thoughtless and unkind. Let Christian men and women be courteous. They should be as followers of the gentle Jesus, and it will bring them countless friends.

III. Candid (v. 9).

Friendships that last must be built on absolute candor, not the kind that delights in telling an unpleasant truth, but one which speaks the truth in love. Jonathan told David the truth.

IV. Courageous (vv. 12, 13).

Jonathan was such a faithful son that when the time of parting came he stayed with his wicked father rather than go with David, whom he loved. But he was true to David even though he knew it would incur the wrath of his father if that friendship became known.

Things that cost us nothing are usually "worth it." Real friendship calls for sacrifice, standing by in the night hours, sharing burdens, loyal even though others may condemn us for it.

V. Covenant Keeping (vv. 16, 17).

Covenants entered into by solemn treaties in our time are soon discarded as "scraps of paper." People make promises to one another that they never intend to fulfill. Jonathan and David made a covenant and kept it. True friends do not violate their loving agreements.

This matter of trickery and falsehood in life and business is one that deeply troubles the writer of these notes. He sees unmistakable evidence that this perverse spirit has come into the precincts of the church itself. We should have a revival of honesty in office, home, state, and church.

VI. Complete (v. 17).

"He loved him as he loved his own soul"—such a friend was Jonathan. His devotion to David had no qualifying "strings" on it. He was not seeking something for himself. The closest he came to that was to bring his children into the covenant with David (v. 15), and who could question the propriety of such devotion between true friends? He saw that David was to supplant Saul as king, and in the face of his own interest as Saul's son, he put David forward.

Friendshjp is akin to our relationship to God in that it calls for a complete giving of ourselves, if we are to be true friends. This does not mean that individuality is lost, or special interests and abilities destroyed, but it does mean a whole-souled desire for our friend's welfare, and a complete devotion of our all to his good.

SHAW - WATSON REUNION

Another happy gathering was when the Shaw and Watson families held their fourth annual reunion on Sunday, September 4, 1938, at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Cobb, Route 2, Jemison.

The weather was ideal for the occasion, and everything was in readiness for a great day, the long table across the yard and the lemonade stand having been previously arranged. In the early morning people were coming from all parts of the state, while some had come from their homes the day before. The descendants of these two pioneer families are located in various states, including Oklahoma, Texas, Tennessee, Georgia, New York, Florida, and Alabama. After having been met by the welcoming committee, Mrs. James E. Cobb, Mr. H. V. Shaw, and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shaw, the guests were registered by Mrs. Lesta Lucas, assisted by Miss Mary Lane Cobb. Handshakings and greetings were exchanged throughout the entire morning, while the refreshment committee, composed of Mr. James E. Cobb, chairman, Mr. Oscar Cobb, Mr. Ira Stevens, Mr. Earl Cobb, assisted by Mr. Gerald Cobb and Mr. Clyde Lucas, served lemonade in unlimited quantities to the huge crowd as they chatted and reminded one another of happenings of the past. Occasionally a sad note was struck, but soon someone would tell of a prank that had been played on them in earlier days and all the crowd would roar in laughter, everyone seemingly enjoying the friendliness and fellowship together.

At noon a bountiful dinner was spread and served cafeteria style under the supervision of Mrs. Oscar Cobb and Mrs. Geneva Cobb, sasisted by Miss Mary Vay Shaw. At this time, the general chairman, Mrs. Ira Stevens, called the crowd to order with a few brief remarks and announcements. Then Mrs. H. V. Shaw read the following resolutions: "We, the people assembled at the Shaw - Watson reunion, Sunda, September 4, 1938, wish to extend to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Cobb and family our heartfelt thanks and true appreciation for their splendid loyalty and kindness in furnishing and preparing such a beautiful place for holding such gatherings. We believe that such get-together meetings are well worth while to all who attend, and hope that the same may be continued for time to come." The resolution was adopted and heartily approved by the approximately 200 people present. Following this, Mr. W. H. Shaw spoke for a few minutes on "Fellowship", after which he gave thanks. Then a stream of people started on either side of the 60-foot table, which was filled to overflowing with food, and everyone helped themselves and ate of the choicest food until they could eat no more. Even large platters of brown fried chicken and tall layer cakes were carried away untouched.

The afternoon was spent socially and in singing. The children enjoyed the privilege of outdoor games. A number of beautiful quartets were rendered by Mr. Bill Cofer, Mr. Henry Godfrey, Miss Rubye Smith, and Mrs. H. V. Shaw, who had charge of the music for the day; also, duets by Mr. John Cofer and young son, Kenneth, of Quinton, Ala.

In the late afternoon a group of friends joined the two families to share the pleasures of the day. The honor guests for the day were Dr. and Mrs. Elwyn Ballard of Jemison, and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Nelson of Thorsby.

Each individual seemed happy, although tired, and the thought of each one was that:

"Now the day is over,
Night is drawing nigh;
Shadows of the evening
Steal across the sky."

Goodbyes were said until the next reunion. — Mrs. Ira Stevens.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE
No. 2 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

Gives Electricity Additional "ZIP" To Get There;
Takes Out Some of the "ZIP" So You Can Use It

THAT'S the transformer, which to you may look like a plain or corrugated square or round painted iron box on a pole, or a gleaming battery of huge, mysterious appearing cylinders at a substation, such as you see in the picture.

The transformers located at the generating plants give the freshly generated electricity additional "Zip"—that is, they increase its voltage—to force it over the long transmission lines to the general locations where it is to be used. Arriving there, the electricity passes through one or more additional transformers which hold back some of the "Zip," so that when it reaches your home or place of business, your school or church, it is at the right voltage for use in the electrical devices which make living and working today so much easier than in earlier days.

You can rely on the dependability of Alabama Power Company electric service, because in the design and construction of its electrical transmission and distribution systems, its engineers have specified numerous transformers and much other equipment of the right size and kind placed at all points where needed, and have on hand spares for replacements on the rare occasions when they are needed.

T. L. McKee On Fraudulent Voting

To the people of Chilton County:

In the last three primaries held in this county for the nomination of officers on the Democrat ticket, there was very little consideration given to law and order. Lawlessness was as rampant, and crime was as prevalent in this county as ever was the case in the hectic pioneer days. In that day when crime became unduly prevalent in a village, the law-abiding citizens of that community organized themselves together to combat or wipe out an unbearable condition, and justice was administered very swiftly and certainly; however, we might surmise that many innocent victims were hanged from whatever would support the hangman's rope. With the total disregard of our judicial and legislative edicts for law and order on elections, and with the illpractice of some of our officials and politicians, who go to the extent to defy and violate the criminal law of our land, shall I not ask you, as citizens of this county, that we take some steps to remedy this condition, and what shall be the line of procedure? We know that it is a penitentiary offense to influence the suffrage of a voter by money or promises, and yet some of our officials and political leaders of our county, state and nation, with the backing and support of still higher officials, used money and the promise of jobs for the direct purpose of adding votes to their favorite candidates. They even took advantage of the adverse financial condition that many people were in to further their selfish interest. This election fraud and criminal diversion of the right to vote as you please was practiced in the wide open. I repeatedly asked the county papers to call attention to these charges, and they did, and no one has denied them. And if we have an honest system of government and retain our liberties, then the honest people of this county, state and nation must elect men to their offices.

I have said before that your officer is no more crooked than the vote you cast. If you vote for a crook, he will be a crook after you vote for him, and it is entirely up to the honest voter to decide whether vote stealing, vote buying, and forging votes is dishonest or crooked before you cast your vote in this coming election. I think that vote buying, whether it be by money or promise of a job, directly or indirectly, should be condemned and penalized by law; and further, I believe that the grand jury should be called and a thorough investigation be made before the November election, though judging from past experience and observation, we cannot very heavily depend on many of our officials, whose oath of office should compel them to have already acted on such election fraud. It would seem that if this lawlessness is not checked by legal court procedure, then the indignant and outraged citizens, who have the courage and fortitude to fight such lawlessness, will have to take whatever means at their command to stop it. I hope and believe that we will have a fairer election in November than our primaries were, but I would like to ask every honest citizen to make it his duty and a part of his business to see that honesty is practiced at the polls, and that vote buying is not allowed, and if it should be practiced over their counsel and advice, then report it to the grand jury, which I understand will be reassembled before this term expires.

That is only information. I do not know that it will ever be called together, but I do know, (though I do not buy or drink whiskey or beer), that there are from 10 to 15 bootleg liquor and beer joints in this town and county, some of them on main streets, as well as the hundreds of election law violations, that need the grand jury's attention, and has been needing it for a considerable time. We all know that we cannot keep drunks off of our streets a slong as the bootlegger is allowed to sell it in the wide open, and all of us know that many of these joints have been running for a year or more, and that it is carried on here in the face of the fact that the population of this county voted two to one for it to be dry.

The reasons that we have all these things mentioned above are: (1) we do not use enough judgment in selecting our officers; (2) we do not have enough backbone to come out in the open and condemn it; and (3) we are too prone to leave the other fellow to look out for the best interest of our county and people. I know, and you know, that if we leave it to the guidance of an old seasoned politician, that we are headed for the rocks, and my advice to you is to use your own judgment in voting for your officers, because a seasoned politician could not have anything but a selfish interest in trying to influence you.

I am with you, heart and soul, for honest and efficient government. Respectfully, — T. L. McKEE.

WOMEN URGED TO TAKE INTEREST IN THE FAIR

Dear women of Chilton County:

This is the first year that the fair committee has set up for the women of Chilton County a Women's Department at the county fair. It depends upon us to make this year's exhibit a successful one. The success of this exhibit determines our place in all future county fairs as a Woman's Department.

We are appealing to you to select those articles in your community that you consider worthy of attention, and see that they are entered in this exhibit. This does not mean only articles listed in the premium list of the Women's Division found in the Chilton County Fair Catalog, but any article that you consider worthy of consideration in the department of women's work.

Articles will be received for entrance in this exhibit Saturday morning from 8 a.m., to 12 noon, at the office of the home demonstration agent in the building just east of the courthouse, also Monday from 8 a.m, to 4 p.m., at the fair grounds.

Hoping that you will take a personal interest in this exhibit, and that the Women's Division will grow to be a better department in years to come, through your efforts, I am, sincerely yours, — Mrs. H. K. Christiansen, Director in charge Women's Department, Chilton County Fair.

FINAL WARNING ISSUED TO ALL FOOD ESTABLISHMENTS

Health Department Is In Position To Refuse Permit To Operate If Demands Are Not Met

Notice was served early this week on Chilton County's 59 food handling establishments that all health department permits must be obtained prior to October 1 in order for proprietors to be in position to secure renewal of county license privileges. Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, according to Dr. S. D. Sturkie, local health officer, has been notified that the county is now in position to enforce this regulation, and he will instruct all city and county officials to this effect.

Very satisfactory progress has been made in the health department's campaign to bring Chilton County's food handling establishments up to the standards required under the new law, it was pointed out by Mr. Fred H. Buckelew, county sanitation officer. To date, he reported, 15 establishments have qualified for their permits. Among these are Green Roof Cafe, Busy Bee Cafe, Upchurch Drug Co., A. & P. Market, Wright Drug Co., T. B. Deramus Market, Gafford Lunch Room, Clyde Mims Market, Fred's Eat Shoppe, Broadhead Market, Piggly Wiggly Market, Clanton Cash Store Market, Bean & Taylor Market, Taylor Grocery Company Market.

A final check-up of food handling establishments will be made by local health officials on September 15 and 16. After that date proprietors who have failed to meet the requirements will have to visit the health office and make a request for an nispection. Assurance has been received by the health department that city and county officials will cooperate whole-heartedly with the department in the enforcement of this new regulation.

HERE'S ONE FOR DR. I. Q.

Excuse me, Professor, I'm in great need of your help. It's like this: I bought two goldfish, and it's got me all mixed up. First I named them Take It and Leave It, but that wasn't so good; so I changed their names to Once and Twice. When people would say, "Come here, little fish", I'd say, "You have to call him Twice and the other one Once". But now I can call them both once because I realized that in naming them Once and Twice, I had named them both twice once before. I realized that I could not name one Once before and the other Twice before because I've already named them once before and twice. Now neither comes when I call Twice, and both come when I call Once . . . . Ohhhhh, Professor!

Don't act like a baby.

I can't help it. I was born that way.

UNION - BANNER

VOLUME 46.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1938 NUMBER 23

CHILTON COUNTY FAIR AT AIRPORT SEPT. 20-24

WHAT HAS THE NEW DEAL DONE FOR COTTON FARMER?

The price of cotton this year, 1938, is the lowest, according to the cost of production, that it has been in 124 years, according to a statement in the September issue of the Southern Farmer, published in Montgomery, the heart of the deep South and the cotton belt.

Chilton County farmers need not be reminded of the pitiful condition of the cotton farming industry this year. We are all only too constantly and drastically — and we might say painfully — reminded of this bad state of affairs.

The Union-Banner has always contended that our farmers could get along better if let completely alone by the government, and we have seen nothing to change our idea about it. We have had six years of planning, and the number of demonstrators and clerks in the county agent's office has grown to be a small army, yet you know that farming has become less profitable every year. The New Deal has promised us something better every year if we signed up, but have we gotten anything better? The cotton farmers of Chilton County and Alabama have done their part; has the agricultural administration under Mr. Wallace come across with theirs? You cotton farmers answer that question, and remember there is an election on November 8th. And don't let anybody tell you different or lead you wrong. Keep your eyes open, farmers!

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS FRIDAY, 2:30

C. C. H. S. "Tigers" To Pry Off Lid With Verbena High Here This Week End

The 1938 edition of the Chilton County High School "Tigers" go into action Friday afternoon of this week at 2:30 on the local field against the Verbena High team.

This year's team is an unknown quantity, and Coach Spicer will be much interested to see what his team is to look like under pressure. Much good material was lost from last year's team by graduation. The place of Williamson will be hard to fill, as will the places of Littlejohn, Ware, Reynolds, Johnson, and others. Of the boys of last year who are returning, Locklear, Armstrong, Melton, and Cooper look best for the backfield. However, some of the first year boys may take over a starting assignment at any time. In the line the experienced men are J. W. Johnson, McDowell, L. Jones, and Thornton. Much work will have to be done on the line before the charges of the Tiger opponents can be stopped without gain.

Coach Spicer has a fair sized squad out each afternoon, and if the new candidates come through, the team should be as good or better than last year.

Go down Friday afternoon and see what kind of power package Coach Spicer unwraps in the curtain raiser.

The season schedule is as follows:
Sept. 3 — Verbena, here.
Sept. 30 — Isabella, here.
Oct. 7 — Maplesville, place pending.
Oct. 14 — Open.
Oct. 21 — Sylacauga, there.
Oct. 28 — Montevallo, here.
Nov. 4 — Wetumpka, there.
Nov. 11 — Holtville, here.
Nov. 18 — Columbiana, here.

Criminal Court Is In Session This Week

Judge Arthur Glover and Solicitor Winston Huddleston, both of Wetumpka, are in Clanton this week, holding regular jury criminal court, July term. The docket will consume the greater part of this week, and Judge Glover will probably issue the sentences Friday or Saturday.

Cases Disposed Of

The following cases were disposed of Monday and Tuesday:

Dixie DeJarnett, attempt to murder, found guilty of assault and battery; fined $175; took appeal.

Henry James Pearson, negro, of West End, attempt to murder; sentenced to six to eight years.

Harry Gaiters, negro, of Thorsby, attempt to ravish, found guilty; sentence will be imposed Saturday.

Virgil Jones and Leonard Hayes, two boys who snatched money at donkey baseball game, charged with grand larceny; found guilty of petit larceny, and fined $25 each.

Important Capital Cases Came Up Wednesday

On the docket set for Wednesday were the following capital cases: Jack S. Dupree, George Torrence, J. W. Godfrey, and John Mooten, each, robbery; Lorenzo Smith and Dewitt Bailey, each, rape; Ben Wallace, William Bradley, and Woodfin Littleton, each, murder first degree.

At the time we went to press Wednesday at noon, four of the above cases had been disposed of. Jack Dupree, George Torrence, and J. W. Godfrey, each charged with robbery, were sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary. Ben Wallace, charged with first degree murder, in the brutal knife slaying of Mrs. Pearl Scott two months ago, plead guilty to the charge and was given life imprisonment.

The civil docket will be taken up on Monday morning, October 3rd, and continue throughout most of that week.

COX - BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Chapman announce the marriage of their granddaughter, Miss Freddie Cox, to Mr. Arthur Brown, of Clanton, last Saturday afternoon. Miss Cox has made her home with her grandparents since childhood.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE IN BEAT 12 MET FRIDAY

At the call of the chairman, P. M. Martin, the Republican committees in both boxes of Beat 12 met at Union Grove church last Friday night in a joint meeting. P. M. Cleckler is chairman of the Box 1 committee, and all members of both groups were present with the exception of two. A few other interested citizens dropped in, as well as all of the Republican nominees except board members, making the total attendance about 30. It was not announced as a public meeting, but merely a business meeting of the committees.

All indications are that the citizens of Beat 12 are enthusiastically behind the entire Republican ticket. They are at work and will continue so until the votes are counted on November 8th.

ONE CASE OF MALARIA REPORTED IN CHILTON COUNTY IN AUGUST

Montgomery, Sept. 19. — Chilton County was one of the 57 counties from which one or more cases of malaria were reported during the month of August, the State Department of Health announced today, adding that one case was reported during the month from this county.

The 10 counties from which no cases of this disease were reported during August were: Barbour, Choctaw, Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, Etowah, Monroe, Pickens, Washington, and Winston.

Malaria cases reported from the state as a whole totaled 1,017 in August, as compared with 650 in July, and 765 in August, 1937, the State Health Department announced.

E. M. Pinckard Died At Houston Saturday A. M.

Dr. J. P. Hayes received a telegram from Earl Pinckard last Thursday morning, September 15th, announcing the death early that morning of his father, Evans Moore Pinckard, in Houston, Texas.

E. M. Pinckard, age about 70, will be remembered by the older citizens of Clanton as a leading merchant here until 25 years ago. He operated a big business in the building now occupied by Big Four Hardware Company for a number of years.

ROOSEVELT POWER HIT BY SPEAKER

Rep. Dewey Short, Of Missouri, Flayed Roosevelt Regime In Address Saturday

Striking the theme that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty", Congressman Dewey Short, of Missouri, Saturday night called upon Birmingham Republicans celebrating Constitution Day in the Terrace Room of Hotel Tutwiler, to reunite and send men to congress who would "save the Constitution from dictatorship".

He said President Roosevelt is seeking dictatorial powers, and using every means at his command to perpetuate himself in power.

The Missourian traced the long struggle man has made for his liberty, naming the Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, and the penning of the Constitution as the four great steps in that struggle.

"A great Democrat penned a great document", said Congressman Short, "Washington turned down a crown, and Franklin told Americans 'you have a republic if you can keep it'. I tell you that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. We'll have no king, we'll have no one-man rule."

He remarked casually that the people of the United States have fared well under their Constitution.

"Little did we dream the time would come", he shouted, "when we would have to stand up in defense of this Constitution and in defense of our flag. Democrats and Republicans never have differed on the meaning of our Constitution and our flag — they are as precious to Alabamians as they are to a hill-billy representative from the Ozarks."

The congressman then traced the history of President Roosevelt's legislation from the NRA on down to the reorganization bill, declaring Roosevelt had been beaten on every piece of major legislation.

"The Supreme Court still stands", he said, adding joshingly, "of course, it's a little Black." This play on the name of Hugo Black, of Birmingham, associate member of the U .S. Supreme Court, drew good natured laughter.

He declared there is only one issue before the people — whether one man or the people shall rule the United States.

Congressman Short was introduced by T. J. Kennamer, national Republican committeeman from Alabama, who termed the speaker as a man of "enough learning to grace the White House".

While Congressman Short was addressing the Republicans, Congressman Clyde Ellis, 29, newly elected New Dealer from the Third Arkansas district, arrived in Birmingham prior to making a tour of the state's power dams.

Ellis, who is from Bentonville, is in the district adjoining that of Short. Ellis is interested in converting rivers into power which flow into his district. Those rivers, incidentally, flow into Arkansas from Short's district.

URGED TO CONSERVE WATER

Citizens of Clanton are urged by Mayor C. Fenn Jones to conserve the supply of water by using only that which is absolutely necessary.

The washing of cars is strictly prohibited until further notice. "The situation is not serious, but we want it to remain not serious", say Mayor Jones and the city officials.

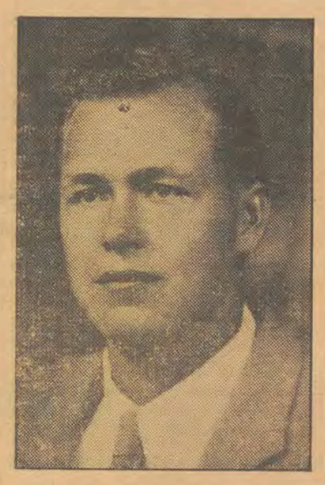
Old Coffee Pot In Wyatt Family

The Union-Banner has come into possession of a very old heirloom of the Wyatt family — an iron coffee pot which was used by Bucky and Mariam Wyatt back between 1800 and 1850, when there were no stoves, but cooking was done on a fire place. The pot was kept and used by the family of Mike and Martha Powell, the latter a daughter of the two old settlers in Alabama. It was kept by Mrs. Janie Wilson, a granddaughter, and was used by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. B. Wyatt for several years as a coffee pot. It is shaped nearly like a present day wash pot, and will hold about three quarts.

In last week's Banner a report was made of an old hog trough. Well, there is one much older and still in use. Ben Wyatt is using a trough to water his mules in which was hewn out of fat lightwood by his father, Dock Wyatt, in 1888. Uncle Dock used it to run tar in to grease his wood spindle wagons with. The trough looks to be good for many more years yet.

Old Bible And Slate

After reading about old books in The Union-Banner, Mr. Henley Moore, of near Coopers, has brought in an old Bible and an old school slate which were handed down to him from older forefathers. The old Bible was published in 1828, and was first in the possession of John Moore, who was born in 1792, in South Carolina. It went to his son, Will M. Moore, and then to the present owner, Henley Moore. The old school slate was used by the elderly named Moores during the old log house and dirt floor days of the early nineteenth century. This John Moore was the grandfather of Madison and Alf Popwell and Jane Popwell Wyatt, who died during the past decade.



TO WIDEN SECOND AVENUE WEST

A movement has been on for the past week or so to broaden Second Avenue from the intersection of Kincheon Road to where the avenue empties into Selma Highway. The property owners have signed up, and the street will be made 50 feet wide. This will greatly enhance the usefulness and appearance of the thoroughfare. The property owners might decide to pave the street after it is widened; that would be a great improvement.

REVIVAL TO OPEN AT TABERNACLE

Large Tent To Be Provided; Special Invitation Offered To Clanton People

Rev. F. H. Spence, pastor of the Assembly church at Montgomery, will begin a revival at the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle next Wednesday night, September 28. He will bring with him his spacious tent, which will accomodate a good crowd. Everyone is invited; the pastors of Clanton and vicinity have a special invitation.

REV. F. H. SPENCE
Evangelist

Next Saturday night and Sunday are preaching dates at this place. Our pastor, Rev. J. J. Dubose, will be here with a good message, as usual. Our Sunday school was well attended last Sunday; we hope to make it better from week to week.

Don't forget the revival, which begins next Wednesday night. Rev. F. H. Spence, an evangelist of note, will interest you with his messages. Attend every service.

KIWANIS CLUB NOT TO MEET FOR LUNCHEON TONIGHT

Due to the fact that most of the members of the Kiwanis Club are assisting with the Chilton County Fair, in progress this week, the weekly luncheon for tonight will not take place.

All Kiwanians can make their attendance at the fair by reporting to Secretary J. Mell Martin any night this week. — Patterson Hicks, Pres.

Notice To Baptists

To the Pastors and Church Clerks of the Chilton Association:

Pastors, allow me to insist upon you to preach sermons on scripturally financing God's kingdom, and follow by taking an offering for the Cooperative Program, from now until the association meets, in order that each member of the churches may have the opportunity to do their part in the carrying forard of God's kingdom; God loves a cheerful giver.

Church clerks, please call on your pastors, deacons, and secretaries of the different organizations of your church, and all who can and will assist in filling out in the most complete way possible your letters to the association, for your minutes for the associational year will come to you just as the information is given by your associational letter.

Please let me urge upon you the importance of filling every space possible on your letter to the association. Write plainly, putting in all names and figures in their correct space, and the correct amount in each space.

You will have a new letter blank this year; read it carefully and study it closely before filling it out, as a careful study of it will be a great help to you in filling it out. Also, if there is any church which does not receive a letter blank, see or write me; I have some that I can supply to a few churches.

May God's blessings be upon and abide with all. — S. J. M. Webb, Associational Clerk; G. G. Williams, Moderator.

CHARLIE BURNETT STABBED BY NEGRO SUNDAY NIGHT

Charlie Burnett, mechanic for Hayes Chevrolet Company, was stabbed in the lung by a negro boy out about West End last Sunday night. Mr. Burnett was rushed to a Birmingham hospital in a rather serious condition. The negro boy who stabbed him was just 15 years old, and is known by the officers, who are on the watch-out for him.

Chilton County Fair Opened Tuesday Night To Big Crowd

Second Annual Event Going Over Big; All Exhibit Booths Are Filled; Aviation Day, Public Wedding, Amateur Races On Tap For Week End

Officers and those responsible for the second annual Chilton County Fair are elated and jubilant over the way it has gotten started off. Tuesday night was the opening, and there was a fine crowd out to make the first rounds among the exhibits and to see the many free attractions offered. Of course, the crowds generally increase as the week grows and everything gets in good swing.

Thursday night will see a record crowd, when there will be a wedding performed out in the presence of several hundred or maybe over a thousand witnesses. This wedding certainly will not be nullified for lack of witnesses able to testify to the performance of the ceremony. Some prominent young man and some nice young lady will be married, the license donated to them, as well as $25.00 in cash money. There will likely be other presents presented to them.

Friday will probably be the most interesting day program, and will likely draw the largest crowds. This is aviation day. Interesting stunts will be performed high up in the air, including some breath-taking surprise numbers and a parachute jump. Mr. Glenn Messer, noted ace of Birmingham, has been here since Tuesday, and has charge of the flying features of the Fair.

The Saturday and Saturday night are the real focal periods of the fair, when the climax of interest and attendance is expected. This is farmers' day, when every consideration possible will be extended the farmers of the county. The fair primarily is for the farmers, but Saturday and Saturday night have been especially set aside for them.

Exhibit Booths Filled

Mr. J. Mell Martin, secretary, reports that every exhibit booth is filled, and many interesting things are on display. The talent of Chilton County is to be seen in these exhibits from all over the county. And the livestock is everything that was expected and more than was promised.

Don't forget the amateur horse and mule races Friday afternoon and Saturday afternoon. These are going to be interesting. No professional or trained racing animals will be permitted to compete in these races, and the fair management will not be responsible, but those entering will do so at their own risk.

If you have not already attended, make sure to get to the Chilton County Fair at least once during the remainder of the week. You will not regret it.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY NEVER FAILS US

Alabama Power Company, which we feel almost belongs to Chilton County, since two of its big hydro plants are in our back yard, is always demonstrating its loyalty to its home folks. Recently the company was approached for a donation toward paving a part of Lay Dam Road, and forthwith the president, Mr. Thomas W. Martin, informed us that the request had been granted.

Also, the company has most obligingly built a nice permanent line out to the airport and will furnish power and lights for the county fair and other functions that may be held out there. Chilton County people appreciate all this. We are proud of Alabama Power Company.

EIGHT BEFORE MAYOR JONES

Coming up before Mayor C. Fenn Jones Monday of this week were eight law violators. They were: two negroes and five white men for public drunkenness, and were fined $8.00 each; one negro tried for driving while intoxicated was fined $50 and cost. Some of them are working out the fines on the streets.

FIRE AT NIVENS HOME

Last Sunday shortly after noon the roof on the home of Deputy Sheriff J. A. Nivens caught on fire. Before the fire department could get it extinguished, some two or three squares of the shingle roof had been burned off. Quite a bit of damage was done by the water used to put out the fire.

DIPHTHERIA FLARE-UP IN CHILTON COUNTY

Seven new cases of diphtheria were reported to the county health department since the first of September, according to the bulletin released from the local health office. The outbreak appears limited to the northern section of the county in the vicinity of Jemison and Thorsby. Chilton County parents were urged by the county health officer to be on the look-out for the appearance of symptoms of diphtheria in their children, and to call the family physician without delay. Protection of children against the disease with a single injection of toxoid was stressed by Dr. S. D. Sturkie.

Announcement was made also of the health exhibit by the department at the county fair, which began September 20. An interesting and educational display of activities of the department will be presented for the benefit of those atttending the fair, it was stated by the health offciial.

CITY TO DRILL WELL AND INCREASE WATER

Arrangements have been made with the largest well boring concern in the world to come to Clanton and drill a deep well. The work will begin right away, and will likely be finished in less than a month. A company in Memphis will drill the well and guarantee it to furnish as much as 50 gallons of water per minute.

Resolutions Passed In Mass Meeting Saturday

Mass Meeting Asks All Candidates Not To Get Votes Illegally

Be It Resolved, By the people of Chilton County at mass meeting assembled in the courthouse on this 17th day of September, 1938, that we will not vote in the general election in November, 1938, for any candidate for office who solicits or procures any illegal absentee ballots for said election.

Be It Further Resolved, That if it comes to our knowledge that votes are being purchased illegally or money spent illegally for any candidate that we will give publicity to such transactions, and that we are going to contend for honest and fair elections in Chilton County, and we condemn dishonesty, whether it be on the part of Democrats or Republicans.

Be It Further Resolved, That a committee be appointed by the chairman of this meeting to solicit each of the candidates for office in the November election to sign the following pledge with reference to said election:

I, the undersigned candidate for office in the November election, hereby agree that I will not get, or permit any person to get for me, any absentee ballot to be voted in said election except bona fide voters who reside outside the county or who will be absent from the county on the date of election in the bona fide performance of their duties, and in strict compliance with the law, and I further agree that I will not purchase any votes for said election, neither will I permit any person to purchase any votes for me directly or indirectly, nor will I spend any money except for the legal and necessary expenses of said election. (Candidate's signature).

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The story goes that a father said to his little boy, "When you do a bad deed go put a tack in the barn door. This will remind you that you have done wrong." One day the little boy came in and said, "I haven't room for another tack. The barn door is full." The father replied, "Well, why don't you start now and do a great deal of good, and whenever you do a good deed go and pull out a tack." One day the little boy came in with his face beaming and said, "Come on, Dad, I want to show you something. I got the last tack out of the barn door today." The father went to the barn and stood with his little boy, looking at the door. A shadow came over the little boy's face. He said, "Dad, I got the last tack, but look at the scars." Most people — even Christian people — have scars. The grace of God is sufficient to save unto the uttermost. God delights in forgiving and blotting out our sins. But sin always leaves men worse than it finds them. It is wonderful when God saves a drunkard, a thief, or a libertine; but it is far better to be saved before one becomes a drunkard, thief, or a libertine.

Some time ago on the platform of our college a minister of the gospel told the story of his conversion. He had been a thief and a robber. He had been in the penitentiary several times. He had been a drunkard and a drug addict. A colored man in prison gave this poor, wrecked man the gospel story. The man was converted. He is God's faithful messenger and has won thousands of people to Jesus Christ. But here is the point I have in mind: This man is one of the very few men with a wicked past who ever told his life story in such a way that young people would want to escape the sins he had committed. I have heard a few converts of this type tell the story of their conversion as though they were great heroes because they had sinned so greatly. Without any intention of doing harm, some such people magnify their dissipations as though they had something to gloat over and rejoice about. Sam Jones would have been a greater minister if he had never been drunk. Jerry McAuley could have been a greater soul winner without ever having been in prison. It is not desirable to sow wild oats. Men have to reap what they sow. Often they reap what they sowed in their dissipated days, after they are converted. "I have a hard liver, a skipping pulse, and a shattered nervous system due to the dissipation of my early days," a consecrated minister said to the writer one time. Oh, that young people who read these lines would trust Jesus Christ as a personal Savior before sin degrades them and blasts their lives!

"What was your sister so angry about?"

"Why, she sent me to the drug store to get some cold cream and I got ice cream. It was hte coldest they had."

WILDLIFE CONSERVATION CAMP ATTENDED BY 4-H BOYS & GIRLS

Two boys and two grils were carried to Shocco Springs Thursday, September 8, and returned September 11. They were: Cecil Little of Thomas Junior Club, Earl Traywick of Mt. Pleasant Club, Esther Lee Dennis of Thomas Junior Club, and Louise Sansom from the Vermont Club.

While this group was at Shocco Springs they received valuable information on wildl life subjects such as the building and management of fish ponds, care and number of fish they should stock with, the nesting habits of doves and quail, their shelter and food requirements. Other subjects discussed were beaver and deer. In addition to this information, they received much instruction and pleasure in the recerational games played for them at this resort.

THIRD CHEVROLET SCHOOL OPEN

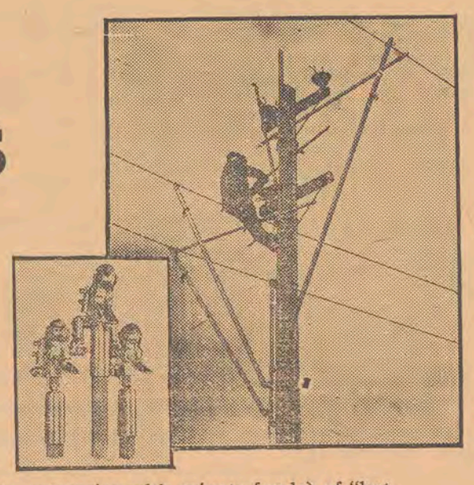
Not only all sections of the United States, but such distant countries as New Zealand and South Africa, are represented at the third School of Modern Merchandising for Sons of Chevrolet Dealers, which opened a 8-weeks session in Detroit September 12.

The school was inaugurated last spring by W. E. Holler, general sales manager, as an adjunct of his Quality Dealer program. Selected candidates from the broad field afforded by the Chevrolet dealer organization are now brought to Detroit for a special training course in various aspects of the automobile business, the purpose being to equip them for successful operation of their fathers' businesses when those establishments shall have passed into the hands of the second generation.

Milt Tolbert Show Coming To Clanton

Mr. Jack Hutchison, advance booking man for Milt Tolbert Shows, was in Clanton making arrangements for appearance of that famous road show here for two performances Saturday, October 1st. Milt Tolbert had a fine show last year, and Mr. Hutchison left the assurance that it was still better this year. It will show on the same lot as heretofore — next to Thomason Hotel. Further announcements will follow.

P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service, says there is enough dependable information obtained through scientific research available to cause a revolution in Alabama agriculture. This information has been obtained by the Alabama Experiment Station in every section of the state.



Peas and beans for planting next spring can be protected from weevils by storing them in air-slaked lime. For small amounts of peas, the correct amount of lime is one pound to two pounds of peas. For lrage quantities one pound of lime should be mixed with three or four pounds of peas.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

No. 3 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."
—REDDY KILOWATT

HOT STICKS

HAVE you ever seen a line crew at work on wires and wondered how it is possible for the men to carry on their work while high-voltage electricity coursed through the wires? They weren't always able to do this. Before the invention and perfection (by private enterprise with private funds) of "hot sticks," which are mechanical "fingers" with an uncanny ability to grasp and move electrical wires and their smaller accessories, it was necessary to "kill" an electric line before any work could be done on it, and thus interrupt your use of electric service. Today, electric lines carrying thousands of volts can be worked on without interruption of service, with little hazard to the men, due to the development of "hot sticks" and other protective devices and methods. In only rare exceptions where some heavy piece of equipment must be changed or an unusually severe storm has caused extraordinary damage, is it now necessary to take an Alabama Power Company line "out of service." Even so, there are "loop" circuits, so the interruption is only local.

Equipping line crews with hot sticks, so that they may work more safely and with as little interruption as possible to the flow of electricity over the wires to your home or place of business, is another example of the effort constantly to improve and keep dependable your electric service.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

DAVID: TRIUMPHANT FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Psalms 23 and 27:1-6.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want. Psalm 23:1.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Song of the Shepherd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Song of a Shepherd Boy.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Songs of Faith and Courage.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Steadfast and Triumphant Faith.

What a fitting conclusion to our three-month study of Old Testament characters it is to sound the note of "triumphant faith." The life stories which have passed in review have been true to life, as they have shifted from strength to weakness, from fear to courage, from moral responsibility to moral weakness. But God is the one who changeth not—and we would not close our series properly without the encouraging reminder that the man who truly believes God may know strength out of weakness, courage in place of fear, may like David rise out of degrading sin and defeat into the joy and victory of faith.

Two elemental needs are common to all mankind—provision for the maintenance of life, both physical and spiritual, and protection from the enemies of soul and body. Our first Scripture portion declares the faith of David in God as his providing shepherd and the second as his security from fear.

I. Provision (Ps. 23).

"The Lord is my shepherd." Putting God first in every detail of life means that there will be

1. No want (vv. 1-5). "My cup runneth over," and surely then there can be no lack of any good thing. God is able and willing. We, like David, should trust Him.

2. No weakness (v. 3). "He restoreth my soul." The world is puzzled by the rejuvenating power of the grace of God in the Christian's soul, but it becomes very real to us through the Word, through prayer, through the indwelling Holy Spirit Himself.

3. No wandering (v. 3). "He leadeth me." In an unknown or dangerous country the essential thing is to stay close to one's guide. In the wilderness of this sinful world, we must keep close to our divine Leader. He knows where the still waters and the green pastures are to be found, even in wildest and most barren land.

4. No worry (v. 6). "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." It was true of David, it is (or should be), preeminently true of the Christian. Someone has said, "If we trust we do not worry; if we worry we do not trust."

5. But—blessed assurance. Not only will the goodness of God follow us all our days, but we shall "dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

II. Protection (Ps. 27:1-6).

"The Lord is my light and my salvation"—could there be any greater certainty that we shall be delivered from every danger and difficulty? To the one who walks in that light there can be

1. No fear (v. 1). "The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?" He is the perfect and final answer to all the fears of life.

2. No failure (vv. 2, 3). "Though an host should encamp against me . . . in this will I be confident," that they shall but stumble and fall. One of the fears that dogs the footsteps of a man is that after all his effort and labor some enemy will come in and destroy. The Christian must often meet wicked and troublesome enemies — but though they be a host, he may be serene in his soul, knowing that if he is right with God the devices of man or devil against him shall only fail.

3. No falling (vv. 4, 5). "He shall set me up upon a rock," and that rock is in "the secret of his tabernacle." The assurance of the believer in Christ is in Him, His work upon the cross and His certain word of promise.

David longed for the house of the Lord; he wanted to return to the temple from which his many wanderings so often separated him. How blessed is our lot as Christians for we have in our own bodies the temple of the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 3:16, 6:19); we have Christ in us as the hope of glory (Col. 1:22). We also long to be in God's house (that is if we really love Him), but if we are born again we have the temple of God wherever we may be.

4. No fainting (v. 6). "Now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me." Just when, humanly speaking, we would faint because of the enemies all around us, or by reason of the heat and pressure of the fight, then God causes our heads to be lifted up and in the moment of apparent defeat there is victory.

5. But—a song. "I will sing praises unto the Lord." The atmosphere of praise is one which the enemy of our soul cannot stand. It is too rare, too pure, too holy for him. Next time he tries to defeat you—why not "Try Praise"? It works!

POPLAR SPRINGS

We had large crowds at our Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night services the past week and we invite them all back.

Our B. Y. P. U. was good Sunday night. There has been so much sickness and deaths and other troubles around until our B. Y. P. U. has not been doing as well as it should. We will get new literature before long and let's all come and make it one of our best quarters. There is more people who could come to services regular if they would. We know we all have our troubles and we all are busy with our crop gathering but instead of using Sunday as a rest day entirely. Lets mix a little worship with it and I think we will all feel more like working the following week. Sunday is a rest day from daily labors but it is a work day for the Lord's purposes.

We should serve Him all the week but especially on the Sabbath day. We've got to take time to die so why not take time to go to church regularly.

Our prayer meeting will be Thursday night as usual. Please let's all come. We will all be working Thursday and will be tired but our minds will be rested if we make an effort to go and serve our Lord.

WILLIAMS - MULLINS

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Williams, of Thomaston, Ala., announce the engagement of their daughter, Nell Louise, to Edwin LeGrand Mullins, of Clanton, the marriage to take place October 9.

A definite program to help raise the income of farmers who have a gross cash income of less than $312 has been luanched in Alabama by the Works Progress Administration. Low income farmers will be given employment near their homes in order to give them more money for the necessities of life. Applications can be made now at the county welfare offices.

Members of Alabama 4-H Clubs have a direct bearing on two important conservation measures needed in hte state, announces J. B. Wilson, agricultural engineer of the Alabama Extension Service. They need to help conserve the soil, and when they do this (by helping to plant "cover" on more than 3,000,000 waste acres) they will be going a long way toward conserving the state's wildlife.

And Corrigan is probably the type fellow who baits a trap after it is already set.

CLAIMS FOR REFUND OF TAX PAID ON COTTON GINNING

Carelessness in the preparation of a claim for refund of taxes paid under the Bankhead Cotton Control Act of 1934, with respect to the ginning of cotton, generally results in the defeat of the claim, regardless of its merit.

Claims for the refund of cotton ginning tax must be carefully prepared in strict confromity with the instructions contained on the back of G. T. Form 111. The claiant must comply with each of said insrtuctions which relate to his claim; otherwise, the probabilities are against the favorable consideration and payment of this claim.

Over 300 claims for such refunds, which have been filed in this office, have failed to comply with Paragraph 5(b), requiring supporting evidence of the claimant's statement that he paid the ginning tax to the ginner in money. A compliance with this subdivision is absolutely essential to secure the payment of the claim. Other instructions are as important.

In order that your claim may be considered promptly and favorably, it is urged:

1. Write Harwell G. Davis, Collector, Internal Revenue, Birmingham, Ala., for application forms. Study every paragraph of "Instructions" on G. T. Form 111 and comply with every reuirement and suggestion contained in the "Instructions".

2. That the claimant type or print his name and address on the first page. If the Collector cannot tell exactly the name and address of the claimant, he will be unable to make the necessary investigation to entitle the claimant to the payment.

3. That the claimant for the refund apply in the name the ginner reported the claimant's taxable cotton on F. T. Form 103. Otherwise, the Collector will not be able to certify that the ginner's G. T. Form 103 shows that the claimant ginned taxable cotton. For instance, a man might be named "J. M. Smith", but be generally known as 'Bud Smith". If he is listed on G. T. Form 103 as "Bud Smith" and makes his claim as "J. M. Smith", the Collector will not be able to know that "J. M. Smith" is "Bud Smith".

4. Where the claimant cannct apply in the name shown on G. T. Form 103, he should attach an affidavit fully showing the facts. In the event the claimant is administrator of an estate, certified copies of letters of administration must be furnished.

5. The claimant must file, duly executed, both G. T. Form 111 and 971. Do not file one without the other. Attach the two forms firmly together, so as to prevent separation.

6. (a) Section 5(b) fo instructions requires claimants to submit supporting evidence of payment of the amount o fthe tax paid ot the ginner. It is absolutely necessary that the claimant comply with this instruction; otherwise, the claim will in all probability be denied. So far, not a claim filed with this office shows compliance with this provision. (b) "Supporting evidence" is something in addition to the statement of the fact that the ginner's G. T. Form 103 shows the claimant ginned taxable cotton. As stated in "Instructions", it is the check given to the ginner for the tax, or the ginner's receipt for the payment. Probably, if no written evidence of the payment exists, an affidavit of the ginner that the tax was paid in money by the claimant might be accepted. However, there must be some supporting evidence of the claimant's sattement that he paid the tax in money.

7. Again, a general statement under "Additional Facts" on G. T. Form 111, that the ginner's G. T. Form 103 shows that the claimant ginned taxable cotton does not constitute sufficient supporting evience of the payment of the tax by the claimant. Furthermore, such statement is of little assistance to the Collector unless it shows the datees of the ginning of the cotton.

8. No right to a refund exists where the tax was paid in exemption certificates, even though those certificates were purchased through the agricultural agencies in strict accordance with the law.

This office wishes to be of every service it can in assisting everyone entitled to a refund to secure the same. — Harwell G. Davis, Collector; J. D. Hollis, Chief P. T. Refund Division.

PARTY BACK FROM FLORIDA

Joe Ben Downs has just arrived back in town from a week's trip to Arcadia, Fla., touching at Lakeland, where he visited with his wife and children, and on the way back at Bushnell, Greenville, and Sopchoppy, Fla., continuing around the scenic coast route to Marianna, for a short stopover.

With him were Mr. and Mrs. Mack Thomas, of Pratt City, and their son, James, and his wife. Mrs. Thomas went to the funeral of her brother, Mr. W. B. McGuire, and it was Joe Ben's privilege to furnish the transportation for the trip.

At Bushnell, on the return trip, a short stopover was enjoyed with J. E. Driver, better known as Ed Driver, who is making his home in that section, and has for several years. Ed is head of the WPA in that section. Incidentally, Ed sent in his subscription to The Union-Banner by Joe Ben, and we are starting his paper with this issue.

At Greenville a visit was made with another brother of Mrs. Thomas, Mr. George McGuire. At Sopchoppy, Joe Ben paid a visit to a cousin whom he had not seen for several years.

A good trip was enjoyed, without any accidents of any kind, except an encounter with one of those loose running piney woods rooter hogs near Chiefland, resulting in a bent bumper and fender. Business in Florida at present is quiet, but the tourists are beginning to arrive, and the fruit season is beginning, so it won't be long before things will be lively. The early oranges are quite sour.

SID GIBSON REPORTS ON DOG POISONING AT VERBENA

One bright morning a few days ago, the decent residents of Verbena were deeply saddened by the poisoning and death of two very close friends who were friends to all in this community.

Jiggs, the happy, lovable little dog owned by Mr. Fred Calloway, and Jiggs' friend, a young fox hound, owned by everybody, were given poison by some human fiend, and died in agony which they could not understand happening to them among former friendly men and women.

This dastardly deed (and we wish we could use another consonant at the beginning of dastardly) proves to all dog lovers in Verbena that there is a dangerous character living somewhere in this section who will bear watching.

If we knew who committed this crime, we would not flatter him and insult the dog family by calling him a son of a dog. He is an illegitimate son of satan.

We hope that the souls of Jiggs and his little hound friend are safe in a God-made dog heaven somewhere during the day time, but we also hope their spirits will return to Verbena at night in the form of vicious bloodhounds and will bark and bite the conscience of the soulless criminal who brutally murdered them.

I would rather live in a place inhabited only by mangy hounds than in an Acadia with a person who would give poison to a happy, harmless dog.

This terrible deed breaks Verbena's record in this line, as, according to old timers, this is the first time such a crime has been committed here. — S. L. Gibson.

REFUGE

The services here were well attended this week end. Sunday was our regular preaching date. The pastor brought fine sermons Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Visitors at the church during the week end included: Mr. and Mrs. Jadie Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Plier, Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, and Mr. and Mrs. Vester Miller. We are always glad to have visitors.

Our new church building is practically complete now, except for paint. We only missed one Sunday in the house. At the first service in the new building the first song was "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"; the first prayer was led by the pastor; and the first communion service was held last Sunday night. Services will be held here again next Sunday and Sunday night, with Bro. A. C. McMinn doing the preaching.

The third baptismal service of this season wa sheld at Mims Pond Sunday afternoon. Five were baptized, which makes a total of 36 baptized from this church this year.

There will be a cotton picking at the home of Doston (Bill) Mims on Thursday afternoon. Everyone go and help pick cotton, as neither Mr. nor Mrs. Mims are able to pick. — Mrs. J. R. Connell.

EDWARDS - COPPOCK

The marriage or Miss Lucille Edwards, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Edwards, to Mr. Ernest Coppock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Coppock, of Jacksonville, Ala., wsa solemnized on Wednesday evening, September 14, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Marion Mims pronounced the vows for this young couple, using the impressive ring service.

Marking the altar, where the ceremony was performed, were effective arrangements of Boston and maiden ferns, with tube roses and pink gladioli interspersed with tall pink and white candles, which were lighted by Master Earl Wilkins, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Ernest Wilson, wearing a blue velvet model set off by a shoulder corsage of tube roses and fern, rendered Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and during the ceremony played "I Love You Truly", softly.

Miss Pauline Durbin served as maid of honor. She wore a fall model of vine-tone velvet, with navy blue accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of pink gladioli.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attired in a fall creation of gray light weight wool, made with a smart coat trimmed with silver gray caracul fur. With this she wore a dubonnet color doll hat, with veil and accessories of the same color. Sweetheart roses and lilies-of-the-valley fashioned her lovely bridal bouquet.

The bride and her father were met at hte altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Fred Treadaway, of Jacksonville.

After the ceremony the wedding guests were ushered into the dining room. The dining table was covered with a lace cloth over pink. The center of interest was the beautiful bride's cake, which was embossed in sweetheart roses, flanked on each side by two crystal bowls of mints. The cake and mints carried out the color scheme of white and pink.

The bride cut the cake. Miss Leola Devaughn and Mrs. Curtis Billingsley presided over the punch bowl. Miss Devaughn wore a pink net over satin. Mrs. Billingsley chose as her evening gown a blue satin. Both wore shoulder corsages of pink gladioli.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Coppock left for their wedding trip, after which they will be at home in Jacksonville.

Some skin troubles are tough to correct, but we do know this—skin tissues like the body itself must be fed from within.

REV. J. N. GREEN HAD GOOD YEAR

Rev. J. N. Green, of Jemison, states that he has just closed a successful year at his four churches; has taken in 49 members, and has been called back to all his churches, for the fourth year.

Despite extensive tests over a long period of years, the railroads have failed to find a substitute which will stand up successfully under heavy main line service, to take the place of the chemically treated wooden cross ties.

Resolution In Memory of J. L. Vines

Whereas, God, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved Deacon J. L. Vines, we bow in humble submission to His divine will, saying, "God's will be done".

We wish to express our deepest sympathy to his sons and daughters in their bereavement.

We also wish to emulate the exemplary life of Bro. Vines, always faithful in the discharge of duty, willing always to do what was best for the ongoing and upbuilding of God's kingdom on earth; he was cheerful in disposition and kind in his nature.

We shall miss him since he has gone from our midst.

We recommend that a copy be sent to his family, a copy to the county papers, and a copy to the Alabama Baptist. Respectfully submitted, — Thorsby Baptist Church Committee, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Merchant.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

Bindle Pete Seeks Hobo King's Head

NEW YORK.—Many years ago, this writer, quite unintentionally, aided in making Dr. Ben Reitmann of Chicago the first king of the hoboes, by some newspaper stories written with no partisan or political intent. For some reason or other, my name got on the hobo mailing list as a "jungle judge" or "shack" or something and, from time to time, there comes fraternal greetings, campaign literature or news of the order. The latest, from one "Bindle Pete," is quite violently prejudiced against Jeff Davis, the present king, and says he is to be deposed because he rode to Europe on the Queen Mary and because he has been working at Hollywood, helping coach the directors in studies of hobo still-life.

This department has been quite indifferent to the hard luck of kings in recent decades, but it would seem too bad if King Jeff Davis were dethroned. He has been a likeable monarch, bald and genial and diligent (perhaps that's the trouble) in the interests of his kingdom, and not making any trouble for anybody.

His father, James Davis, was a journeyman of newspaper mechanical trades in Cincinnati, and young Jeff took to the road at the age of 13, covering more than 1,000,000 miles in his subsequent 40 years of rambling. He assails radicalism in the hobo brotherhood and says he will keep it 100 per cent American. He made more than 2,000 speeches on Americanism during the World war.

How could a hobo ride these slick new chromium trains with the catfish faces? King Jeff probably is working on that.

Bette in Scarlett Marathon

WHEN she was bad, she was very, very good, and when she was good she was horrid. Not exactly, but, in a rough general way, that was the story of Bette Davis. Hence, while other stars shy away from the hell-cat Scarlett O'Hara, as not their type, Bette Davis may take her on. Early in her career, Miss Davis played charming hellions with great effectiveness and didn't seem to mind.

She was Ruth Elizabeth Davis, a Massachusetts school girl, changing her name to "Bette" at the age of 12 in preparation for her stage career. She later changed her hair—it is brown—and her general makeup. Entrance to the theater came easily, after a course in a dramatic school. She went to Hollywood in 1932. Her first play, "Broken Dishes," brought few cheers, but, with coaching by George Arliss and better casting, she hit the up-grade.

Lehar Now Rewriting Merry Widow

UNTIL recently Franz Lehar was living in Vienna. The news that he is rewriting "The Merry Widow" makes one wonder whether he finds Vienna still merry—whether young writers still write their plays in the cafes along the Kurftenstrasse, as he did in 1905. The world has waltzed along quite a way in the interval between the original and rewritten versions.

Herr Lehar got $300,000 from his overwhelming New York success in 1907. He waltzed it all right into the stock market and bade it good-by. He returned to his native Budapest, lost another lump sum of $75,000 and then became a good business man. His thirty or more operettas, five of which have been produced here, have made him rich.

He is, or was a member of the Vienna Rotary club, attending luncheons faithfully, singing club adaptations of old tunes, wearing a two-inch button with his name on it and engaging in friendly back-slapping—big and gregarious, 68 years old, with his lush mustache touched with gray. He was a "knapsack child," as he put it, the son of a wandering musician. He was a child violinist. Dvorak persuaded him to hang up his fiddle and take to composing.

The Grave of Confucius

The grave of Confucius is in a large rectangle separated from the rest of the K'ung cemetery, outside the city of Q'iuh-fow, in China. A magnificent gate gives admission to a fine avenue, lined with cypress trees and conducting to the tomb, a large and lofty mound, with a marble statue in front, bearing the inscription of the title given to Confucius under the Sung dynasty: "The most sagely ancient teacher; the all - accomplished, all - informed king."

PUBLIC DEMAND MAKES ANOTHER DR. SCHOLL DEMONSTRATION POSSIBLE

One of Dr. Scholl's Fleet of Trailers Now Bringing Relief From Foot and Shoe Troubles to Thousands of People.

Some months ago, as our readers will remember, Levine Brothers had brought to this community a Dr. Scholl shoe and foot relief demonstration. The success of this event was so gratifying that Levine Brothers have been beseiged with requests from those who were unable to attend the first one that a return engagement be arranged.

This has now been provided for, so on September 28 every man, woman and child having trouble with their feet or shoes will have another opportunity of availing themselves of this exceptional service.

A Dr. Scholl trailer is a very unique and unusual conveyance. It carries a wide range of Dr. Scholl's scientific shoes, a complete line of his famous foot comfort appliances and remedies, an X-ray machine, Ped-o-graph, automatic shoe sizer, and other scientific equipment for testing feet and fitting shoes.

These demonstrations are conducted by Dr. Scholl's specially trained factory experts who know foot anatomy, the causes of foot and shoe troubles, and the most approved methods of relieving and correcting such conditions.

Everybody is cordially invited. Free Ped-o-graph prints and complete foot analysis will be made of each visitor's feet.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL

A most successful leadership school was held Tuesday, September 20, in the auditorium at the city hall. Miss Catherine Haynes, specialist in clothing and handicraft, gave a demonstration at the morning session on "Selection of Coats and Dresses", and for the afternoon session a demonstration on "Stenciling" and "Tie Dyeing".

Miss Mattie Jo Barber, home agent, presided over the meeting, and assisted Miss Haynes with the demonstrations.

MIDWAY - MT. CREEK CLUB

The Midway - Mt. Creek home demonstration club met at the club house September 14, with 17 members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. S. R. Hudson, the minutes were read, and roll was called by the secretary.

A fine demonstration was given on making a double bed size mattress by Miss Barber and club members.

COUNTY COUNCIL

The Chilton County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs met in the office of the home agent Saturday morning, September 17. Mrs. H. K. Christiansen, president of the council, presided over the meeting, at which the following clubs were represented: Verbena, Thorsby, Fairview, Midway-Mt. Creek, Mineral Springs, Baker, Mt. Pleasant, Shoults, Isabella, and Poplar Springs.

An installation ceremony was held at which time officers for the year 1938-39 were installed.

A Constitution and By-Laws committee was appointed by the presiden;t 21 persons were present at the meeting.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

POINT OF VIEW

Low viewpoint, as here, gives a picture one aspect. High viewpoint produces a different picture. Try both.

MANY things go into the making of an artistic, appealing picture—and not the least important is the point of view.

In fact, the viewpoint determines the type of picture you get. Consider a picture of a person out of doors. Stand back thirty feet to take the picture, and you get a landscape view with a figure in the foreground. Stand only a few feet from the subject, and you get an informal portrait with the minimum of background. In other words, if you want to feature the person—get close to your subject. If it's the landscape you want—stand back.

Angle shots are unusual and attract attention. Shoot from an elevation, and you get a "bird's-eye" view of your subject. Shoot from below and you get a "worm's-eye" view. The resulting pictures of the same subject from the low and high viewpoints will be quite different and they will lend variety to your snapshot collection.

For example, the picture above was snapped from the beach below the diving board. If the snapshooter had been perched aloft in the diving tower, with his camera pointed downward toward the pair on the springboard, his picture would have been quite different—entirely because of the difference in viewpoint.

In this picture, a K-2 filter was used on the camera lens to darken the sky and emphasize the clouds. Ordinarily, the filter would have necessitated increased exposure, but here the beach reflected so much light that 1/50 second at f.8 was correct. Had the picture been taken from a high viewpoint, with camera pointed down toward the water, no filter would have been used, because the water photographs dark without it.

Next time you're taking pictures—and today is as good a time as any—try snapping the same subject from several viewpoints, high, low, close-up, and distant. Then compare the pictures. You'll readily see how viewpoint helps you to control the arrangement of your pictures. You can simplify backgrounds, eliminate undesirable parts of a scene, make all sorts of changes—all by moving left or right, forward or backward.

This is one sure road to better pictures — study different viewpoints; choose the best one to tell your story—then shoot.

FARM REHABILITATION

"Growth in knowledge and the use of practical home and farm management practices in my opinion are the most important services that have been made available to farm rehabilitation families in Chilton County", said Mr. Durbin, County Supervisor. "Placing our families in touch with better agricultural methods, as well as guidance in home making, and proved operations to provide better living is more important than the loans we make.

"With the assistance of Miss Ila Merle Brown, the rehabilitation home supervisor, in many cases our farm wives have surprised their men folks and deserve much praise for their part in this uphill right to better living from farm labors.

"Many of our wives have been taken from the field altogether as they continue to prove their labors are worth more in the home than in the field. The careful planning of additional income activities, and sound management practices, together with preservation of products from garden and field, canning of fruits and of meats enabled most families to lay by a reserve of food that has been found to be the best possible insurance against crop failures. Regardless of what happens, these families will have plenty to eat. The saving in cash outlay for food supplies means that when crops are turned into cash the money can go for things ot better living conditions and to pay off obligations and buy wanted and necessary items.

"Chilton County farm families keep records just the same as business houses do. The inventory, budget, and farm plan is set out in these records, and rehabilitatoin families know what they want to do and what is best for them to do, how much food is needed, how many head of livestock to be fed, how many more chickens and how much feed will be required, hogs required for meat for the family, and hogs to be raised for sale. Other requirements also of good farm management and husbandry are carefully worke out with the assistance of the rehabilitation supervisors.

"The increase in net worth of most of our families indicate the soundness of the farm and home plans worked out by each family with the aid of rehabilitation supervisors", concluded Mr. Durbin.

BEAUTY EXPERT DEFENDS "UPSIDE-DOWN" TREATMENT

THE ladies, bless them, are are practically standing on their heads.

According to Dorothy Cocks, Beauty Editor of Pictorial Review, the topsy-turvy method is entirely practical and sound.

"The head-down, feet-up beauty treatment is based on the theory that bringing blood to the facial tissues, to nourish them from within while you cream them from without, ought to make creams work to best advantage," writes Miss Cocks in the October issue.

"Circulation does two things that contribute enormously to good looks and vitality. It brings fresh food and energizing oxygen to every tissue and cell of your body. And it carries away from every cell and tissue the accumulated wastes that are a drag on its activity, that choke its functioning and dull its bloom.

Dorothy Cocks

"In much the same manner as a furnace, your body burns up food and fresh air to keep alive, to work, and to replace worn parts. It is a complicated system, but a dandy one, provided the blood keeps on its job as the carrier of food, oxygen, wastes. When the blood stream lags, brings supplies lazily to the tissues, or is indolent about carrying wastes away, your fire of youth burns lower and lower. You feel sluggish, tired, old. And you look it.

"In summer you are more active. You swim, hike, make camp, golf, ride, garden. Even if you don't conscientiously do regular exercises, you do things that make arms and legs and waist muscles work. You are active, and so you activate your blood stream. Jumping around a tennis court, pushing a lawn mower, both make you redfaced and hot because they both use up physical energy, and so create a demand in your muscles for new supplies of food-fuel and oxygen. The blood speeds to carry the supplies round and round. And you feel fine, look glowing.

"Ever fresh supplies of nourishment, fresh impetus of energizing oxygen, quick removal of functional wastes—they are what keep tissues young, cheeks firm, eyes bright, hair strong and shining. A busy blood stream is a grand beauty tonic."

IS THE TVA BANKRUPT

In a long, soundly reasoned editorial, The Atlanta Constitution, a leading newspaper in this part of the South called "the TVA area", has this to say: "Private producers of electricity, in fixing rates, must do so in anticipation of remaining solvent. Annual deficits would soon break them. The actual cost of production must necesarily be taken into consideration. Not the least of these costs is taxation. Even the land at the bottom of their storage lakes is not so deeply immersed as to escape notice of the tax assessors. The TVA, of course, pays no taxes. It is a federal corporation. A sizable credit is thus acquired on its books. But, in bookkeeping, where there is a credit there must also be a debit. The debit, in this case, is to be found in the tax records of local communities and counties. . . .

"It is suspected that TVA is selling power without any definite idea as to its cost; that in making the allocation of 52 per cent of the cost to power it sought to fit the cost of production to rates rather than the rates to the cost of production. In private industry such a procedure would lead to bankruptcyy. By the same method of appraisal as is usually accorded private utilities, TVA is in a continuous state of bankruptcy, as well as in a flourishing state of obsolescence. Yet the American people are being asked to pour additional hundreds of millions of dollars into six similar 'provinces' in a scheme to embrace the nation into one regimented whole."

The menace of the TVA is not limited to its cut throat, tax free, tax subsidized competition with the heavily taxed, stringently regulated private utilities. Extend the principle underlying the TVA to other business, and what private enterprise could survive? If the money of all the people, plus the advantages of tax freedom and the national credit, is to be used to provide one service, why should it not be used to provide other services — insurance, food, newspapers, automobiles, entertainment, and everything else? Socialism is never static. Unless nipped in the bud, it will go on, and more and more business, more and more private investments, will be swallowed in the process.

The American people are entitled to become part of "one regimented whole" if they choose. They are entitled to throw democracy overboard, and accept in its palce any sort of dictatorial "ism" they please. But until the people understand the "real issue" and act on it, it is the part of patriotism to fight every inroad on that American system which has given us the highest standard of living in the world.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

A great many people, especially apologists of the New Deal, assert that this Roosevelt depression has been an unusual one, that it has not started as have other depression in the past. There may be a measure of truth in this, and the unexpected relapse of business may be due to the fact that the recovery which preceded the sinking spell was not the sort of recovery usually experienced after depressions in the past.

In commenting on the financial history of the past few years the Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, stated recently that in the past "recession was almost always preceded by great business activity, large profits, excessive optimism, speculation, and heavy accumulation of debt. Often the collapse was apparently precipitated by some spectacular event, such as a large failure; but in retrospect, it appears as an inevitable consequence of the preceding excesses. * * *

"The completion of readjustments was followed, after varying ntervals, by recovery in which one factor or another seemed to play the leading role, depending on the conditions of the times. In some cases it was the development of new areas; in others the growth of new industries or the exceptional rapid expansion of old ones. But these factors, like the apparent causes of the collapse, could hardly have exerted the influence that they did if the general situation had not been favorable to recovery."

The above description of a recession or depression, so far as causes are concerned, certainly fits the one we had commencing in 1929. But the following recovery under New Deal sponsorship, was not like the recovery described above.

The main reason is that "Horse and Buggy" recoveries were brought about by private enterprise spurred on by a new demand caused by a national shortage of goods, and coupled with increasing confidence in the business picture. In the New Deal "recovery", private enterprise was compelled to take a back seat. The doctors sought to reform the country before healing it. Business expansion was not the hesult of growing confidence in the business future, but in federal pump priming which gave a temporary stimulant but caused the long time prospect to look darker than ever.

No wonder then that recovery did not follow the normal course of recoveries, and that another recession came so soon and so unexpectedly. The business of the nation lost confidence in the pump priming, federal expansion policies. At the first sign of the curtailment of federal stimulant there was another collapse. Now the same old remedies are being tried.

In its report, the Guaranty Survey well says that genuine recovery has never been built on currency depreciation or on the artificial stimulus of government borrowing and spending. There is the history of the New Deal "recovery" in a nutshell. If the same medicine is used again, we can expect the same sort of collapse to follow any temporary stimulation, whenever the government starts to cut down the doses again.

TAX ILLUSIONS

The major defect in our federal tax system is shown practically every time a Connecticut mayor comments on WPA. Almost always, either openly or tacitly, he suggests the WPA is helping Connecticut by the grants it expends here for relief. The picture is of a benign central government, solicitously watching over the necessities of its lesser units and ladling out funds from its endless supply whenever the local relief costs dip dangerously toward the red. Yet the simple fact is, of course, that the money from Washington comes orginally from the people, and that what Connecticut gets back, Connecticut has put in.

But how can such a commonplace be so much overlooked? Simply because the federal tax system tends to cultivate an optical illusion. It falls into two parts, the levies on income and estates and those on various transactions, called excises. But the excises, which are paid by the whole people, are largely invisible, while the wealth taxes, paid by a very small minority, are very visible, indeed. The result is that most of us figure we don't pay anything to Washington at all. But we do, and not a penny comes back to us from Washington that we didn't ante up to begin with. — New Haven Journal-Courier.

ANOTHER PEAK

After six years of planning and federal expenditures of 40 billion dollars, doubling the national debt, "that man is here again". And despite his whiskers, he looks like the same old depression.

To be more explicit: Harry L. Hopkins, the chief relief work dispenser at Washington, announced the other day that the MPA enrollment had reached its largest size in history. The number is 3,038,908 persons. But in relation to the volume of unemployment, the rates are lower than they were in February, 1936, when the previous peak of 3,036,000 was reached. This is supposed to be encouraging. You may figure it out for yourself — if you can.

Evidently something has gone wrong with the New Deal theories about restoring prosperity to the country and curing unemployment. Announcing that the WPA enrollments are now the highest in history doesn't seem to lend any great amount of encouragement to the belief that the depression in the United States is rapidly being cured.

Of course it is only a coincidence that the previous three million peak came in 1936 before the presidential election, while the second one comes in 1938 before the congressional election. That has nothing to do with it — to assert that election year had anything to do with it would be charging that the New Deal was politically immoral — like the Republicans are when they vote in Democratic primaries.

New Deal leaders are said to be confident in Washington that they can defeat both the Jeffersonian Democrats and the Republicans this year. They are counting on the relief vote. They must know they couldn't turn the trick otherwise.

Those German spies probably could have found out everything they wanted to know by mailing a self-addressed, stamped envelope to an information bureau. — Toledo Blade.

EXECUTIVE ARROGANCE

The time will come when Mr. Roosevelt's direct intervention in the senatorial campaign in Georgia will be recognized by the people as an act of executive arrogance.

When that time will come we do not profess to know. The president is a man of much personal charm. He also is adroit and persuasive, and has great skill in prdoucing the kind of publicity that he desires. He also is in command of the largest resources in public funds and public offices that ever have been granted an American president. He also is in control of the most thoroughly organized and thoroughly oiled political machine that this nation has ever known, and in Mr. Farley he enjoys the services of a master mechanic of politics. In these circumstances, no one can say how long a time will elapse before the people will judge the president's acts through clear and understanding eyes.

But, unless the American people lose the self respect and the hard-headedness which have sustained them through 150 years, the time will come when Mr. Roosevelt's intervention in the senatorial primary will be put down definitely as the act of a dictatorial executive. — Baltimore Sun.

THE PERFECT TEAM

The twin horses that pull the public ahead are those of Capital and Labor. When one of these horses becomes balky or fractious, it's slow going, if any at all.

When both of them are pulling in unison and cooperating, the public rides smoothly, and the horses themselves get to the end of their destinatoin in swift and profitable pace.

The public — the nation — seems to be at this moment set for some going ahead.

Its travels will be pleasant and gainful only to the degree of unity with which the steeds of Capital and Labor pull the heavy chariot. — Charlotte Observor.

PRESIDENT'S PARTY PURGE PETERS OUT

The Democrats, themselves, are repudiating President Roosevelt. This is the significant feature of the senatorial primaries culminating last Wednesday in the decisive vistory of Sen. George of Georgia over a New Deal stooge sponsored by the president. Coming close on the heels of similar setbacks in other states, the Georgia election rings down the curtain on the days of Mr. Roosevelt's "greatness", when a nod from him could unseat a senator who had voted contrary to orders from the White House. It appears that the United States senate is to remain an elective, deliberative body, chosen as provided by law, by the sovereign voters of the several states. The American people seem unwilling to scrap our time-honored system of checks and balances for an aggregation of 96 nincompoops patterned after Hitler's Reichstag. The effort of the chief executive to destroy the independence of the legislative branch of government is doomed to failure as complete and ignominious as his attempt to nullify the Supreme Court.

It was several months ago that Mr. Roosevelt, in a public address, made one of the most remarkable pronouncements of public policy ever heard from the lips of an American politician. He told the world that in the future he would intervene in party primaries on behalf of some favored individual, where the contest was between a liberal and a conservative. Mr. Roosevelt, of course, reserved the right to define who is liberal and who a conservative; a liberal being one who agrees with Roosevelt, not part of the time, nor 75 per cent of the time, but a Simon-pure, unadulterated, 100 per cent rubber stamp and yes-man. While, on the other hand, any senator who ever manifested any independence of thought and action is, of course, a conservative, or "reactionary", denied the Roosevelt blessing, and cast into outer darkness. With the power and prestige of the Roosevelt name, plus some proper manipulating of patronage, and lining up of job-holders and relief beneficiaries, it was figured that the president could put congress in its place. He would make an example of a few of the boys who had kicked over the traces. Then, with congress cowed and eating out of his hand, the executive could signal full steam ahead for whatever remaining radical ideas he and his brain trusters have formulated.

So the country was treated to the spectacle of a President of the United States trying, openly and unashamedly, to name the men who make up a supposedly separate and independent branch of our government. The Roosevelt support was not just moral support — the prestige of his name and influence. It was something far more tangible — the mobilized backing of hordes of job-holders in every state, swung into line to defeat these men who dared disagree with the man in the White House. In any fairly close election, this vote might well prove the balance of power.

Fortunately, the rank and file of the electorate, unbought and refusing to be browbeaten, failed to take kindly to Mr. Roosevelt's ambitions. The suspicion aroused in the public mind by his attempt to destroy the independence of the judiciary crystallized into conviction that there is something wrong with the man, and that his schemes must be squelched. That is just what the voters have been doing, in one state after another.

The first big test came in Iowa, where Sen. Gillette, a self respecting Democrat, who had voted against hte court bill, was marked for the slaughter; the New Dealers ran a 100 per cent Rooseveltian rubber stamp against him, and Gillette won a smashing victory. Sen. Pope, of Idaho, radical New Dealer, went down before a conservative. Clark, of Missouri, who has fought the president on major issues, won hands down. In the lower house, the president lost Maverick, of Texas, a demagogue after his own heart, and McFarlane, who also had the presidential blessing. Barkley, of Kentucky, the senate majority leader, had the fight of his life to be renominated, and it was openly charged that only padding the WPA put him across.

The most clear-cut tests came in South Carolina, Maryland, and Georgia. President Roosevelt went into each of these states and demanded the defeat of senators who had crossed him. The voters promptly responded by renominating Smith of South Carolina, Tydings of Maryland, and George of Georgia, each over a presidential protege.

It was in Georgia that Mr. Roosevelt was seen in his most offensive exhibition of poor taste. He went to Georgia, and with the state's honored senior senator on the platform, assailed him and demanded his defeat. This ill-mannered intrusion stirred up a veritable hornet's nest among the Crackers, and caused Mr. Roosevelt's man Friday, one Camp, to run a poor third. Second place went to Talmadge, anti-New Dealer.

Right here in Alabama, the president's attempted assumption of dictatorial power has turned public sentiment against him. Our people have keenly watched the outcome in other states, and most of them have been pulling for the independent candidates against the rubber stamps.

The truth is that Mr. Roosevelt has again sadly misjudged the temper of the American people. His vaunting ambition has led him into a position which may mean his end as a party leader. In his attempt to control the congress, as in his effort to dominate the Supreme Court, he has run squarely into that intangible wall of public opinion, that sentiment of the average voter that makes or breaks politicians.

The prevue of new fall styles shows that what the stylish senator will be wearing in the future will certainly not be a collar bearing the initials "FDR". Fortunately for our liberties, the average voter's conception of a United States senator just does not agree with Mr. Roosevelt's.

GAME & FISH NEWS

First Quail Distributed

Planting of the first Bobwhite quail raised at the State Conservation Department's game farm in Autauga County started last week when a truck load of birds left the farm Friday, September 16, for distribution in several North Alabama counties. Commissioner I. T. Quinn said that approximately 6,000 quail would be released within the next few weeks, with every county in the state getting an equal share. Lands on which the birds are planted are chosen by local conservation clubs and sportsmen's groups, with landowners and clubs operating under a joint agreement for protection of the birds. The uail, transported from the far min a depratment truck, are delivreed to the respective fame committees of the local clubs, who release them on the specified lands. This is the first full season that the game farm has operated, and the supply of birds will be limited. Commissioner Quinn pointed out that it will be impossible to stock all the lands on which applications have been received, but every county will receive an equal share of birds. Production is expected to increase next year.

Licenses Sent Out

Hunting, fishing and fur catchers' licenses for the fiscal year 1938-39 have been sent out to all probate judges in the state by the Conservation Department, and they will go on sale October 1. The licenses purchased last year expire September 30. Those who hunt, or fish with rod and reel or artificial bait on or after October 1, will be required to have the new licenses. State hunting license is $3, county $1; fishing $1. Revenue is used solely for restocking the fields and streams of Alabama and in other related conservation work.

Fishing Better

With the advent of cooler weather, fishing conditions in many sections of Alabama are reported better. The weekly fishing report compiled by the Department of Conservation indicates a revival in angling following the hot weather of the past two months.

Horse And Mule Show At The Fair

Many Interesting Features And Prizes Offered On Colts, Etc.

Messrs. Bill Fiquett and Dr. W. L. Parrish have worked up a number of interesting and worth-while features pertaining to the livestock department of Chilton County Fair. Cooperating with them, a number of merchants of the county have offered as prizes different items in harness, seed oats, and other things of value to owners of stock.

Besides the cash prizes and merchandise awards, the above named gentlemen offer for the best unbred mare a free stud fee; and for the best filly, 18 months to three years old, one free stud fee. A very valuable merchandise prize will be given the owner of the best family consisting of mare and two colts, the oldest not to be over three years old.

There will be 20 or 25 other merchandise prizes for other entries of mares and colts. Those in charge of the livestock show desire to create as much interest as possible in this phase of the fair.

Amateur Races Friday and Saturday

There will be amateur races Friday afternoon and Saturday afternoon, when any mules, horses or colts, untrained for racing, may be entered. This promises to be a most interesting part of the horse and mule show. The fair asosciation and those in charge of the stock department wish it thoroughly understood, however, that they are not responsible for any accidents. All entries in the races will be made at their own risk.

If they look young, they're old;
If they look old, they're young;
If they look back — for heaven's sake, follow 'em!

CHILTON BOY WON CASH PRIZE IN ANNUAL TON LITTER SHOW

A Chilton County entry won the ton-litter championship at the annual hog show last Friday at the Union Stock Yards, Montgomery. The first prize of $25 in cash was awarded to Austin McCarty, of Jemison, whose litter of 10 had weighed a total of 3,410 pounds. Cost of feeding the 196-day-old litter was $146.56.

With 32 litters and 251 head entered, this year's show was featured by unusually close competition, it was announced.

At the close of the show, the hogs were sold at the Chicago price for the day, tops going at 9.25, heavies at 9.00, and No. 2's at 8.75.

McCarty's first prize litter sold for nine cents a pound, and totaled $306.90, a sum equivalent to the present market value of about seven bales of cotton. The hogs ere six months and 12 days old.

In the champion barrow contest, two 4-H Club boys, Ray and Raymond Kelly, twin brothers, of Rockford, Coosa County, took first honors and the $10 prize.

Five 4-H Club boys garnered four of the 10 prizes. Judges were Dr. R. S. Sugg, Alabama Extension Animal Husbandman; Tom McCord, Vice President of the Union Stock Yards; and Ed Stewart.

LEGUMES BEST CROP FOR PECAN ORCHARD

Young pecan trees grow faster and make heavier yields when the orchard is planted to winter legumes, followed by summer cultivation, says W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist, Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Various soil treatments were tried at the U. S. Pecan Station, Robson, La., under the direction of the Bureau of Plant Industry. Commenting on these experiments, Mr. Ruffin said that either Austrian winter peas or hairy vetch may be used as a winter legume. The summer cultivation should consist of at least three diskings, or enough to control weed growth.

Slightly lower yields were obtained with a winter legume crop followed by a summer inter-crop of cotton. Still lower yields were obtained with a winter non-legume crop followed by summer cultivation. The poorest yield and tree growth occurred when grass was allowed to grow in the orchard the year around.

The winter legume, Mr. Ruffin points out, gives the young trees available nitrogen, and clean cultivation in the summer prevents other plants from taking needed moisture from the young trees.

LESPEDEZA SERICEA IS PROMISING HAY CROP

Belle Mina, Ala., Sept. 19. — Lespedeza Sericea is one of Alabama's most promising hay crops to take care of teh increasing numbers of livestock on the state's farms, believes Fred Stewart, superintendent of the Tennessee Valley branch station of the Alabama Experiment Station.

Mr. Stewart has produced more than two tons of hay per acre with this leguminous hay crop. The hay is of extra fine quality, and feeding experiments have shown that livestock is exceedingly fond of it. It is produced at very low cost and will grow on most of the soils of the state.

Tests at the Sand Mountain sub-station at Crossville have also resulted in outstanding growth and adaptability of lespededeza sericea as an economical hay to be grown for winter feeding.

County Agent G. B. Phillips of Limestone County says in his estimation this is Alabama's hay crop of the future. With more attention being given in the state to additional livestock this discovery should prove highly beneficial to Alabama farmers.

SEPTEMBER PLANTED OATS ARE SUCCESS

Belle Mina, Ala., Sept. 19. — Fred Stewart, superintendent of the Tennessee Valley sub-station of the Alabama Experiment Station, believes he has proven that oats can be grown successfully in North Alabama. In ten years of tests he has yet to fail in the production of a good crop.

His crop averages 60 bushels to the acre, and at the same time provides an excellent cover for the soil during the winter. He plants Hastings' 100-Bushel, a red rust-proof variety, in September, and then in March applies 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. He attributes much of his success to the September planting with the nitrate of soda fertilization coming second in his estimation.

"There is no reason why hundreds of farmers of the state cannot do the same thing, since oats provide feed, protect land, an are fairly inexpensive under the above method of production," according to Mr. Stewart.

BLACK BELT LAND NEEDS PHOSPHATE

Marion Junction, Ala., Sept. 19. — Experimental results at the Marion Junction sub-station of the Alabama Experiment Station, which is devoted almost entirely to livestock tests, have shown conclusively that practically all Black Belt land heretofore considered useless for crop production can be made profitable by the application of phosphate.

Bumper crops of oats have been made following applications and Black Belt pastures have been reported as equal to any in the state after receiving this fertilizer. Grasses and clovers show outstanding growth after basic slag or superphosphate applications.

FUMIGATION WILL CONTROL WEEVILS

Auburn, Sept. 19. — With fall comes the ever present problem of protecting corn, peas and beans from weevils so that they can be saved for planting next spring. Fumigation with carbon disulphide is the best known method of keeping this weevil damage to a minimum, says J. M. Robinson, head of the zoology - entomology department, Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Fumigation depends upon the tightness of the crib or store room. If the room is not tight and cannot be made tight to prevent the escape of gas, then small quantities of the product should be fumigated by using a large box or barrel that can be covered.

Determine the number of cubic feet in the container, crib, or store room. Make the room or container as air-tight as possible. Pour carbon disulphide on sacks spread over the pile of seed. Apply at the rate of one pint to 60 gallons if a barrel is used, and from eight to 15 pounds if a bin, crib, or store room is used, depending upon the tightness of the room. Close the room or container tightly and do not disturb for 36 hours. Open the room after this time and allow the seed to air out thoroughly. Then store in containers or heavy sacks to keep other weevils out.

If the seed are perfectly dry and mature before fumigation, the feeding qualities or germination will not be injured by the process. The weather should also be fairly warm at the time of fumigation, since the carbon disulphide gases are more likely to penetrate the pile of seed in warm or hot weather. Most seed should be fumigated soon after harvest.

The main precaution to take with carbon disulphide is to keep fire of any kind away, because the chemical is highly explosive. Copies of the leaflet giving full particulars on weevil control measures may be obtained by writing to the Alabama Experiment Station and asking for the leaflet "Control of Insects in Stored Grains, Peas and Beans."

Sherlock Holmes: Ah, Watson, I see you have on your winter underwear.

Watson: Marvelous, Holmes, marvelous! How did you ever deduce that?

Holmes: You forgot your pants.

Sandy was thinking of getting married, but wanted to be sure that the girl of his choice was thrifty.

So one night when out walking with her, he said, "Maggie, I ken a lassie that reads for 'oors in her bed at nicht and wastes a lot of gas. Do you read in bed?"

"Only when it's a moonlicht nicht," she replied. A week later they were married.

Flying over the Bay of Naples, an air pilot turned to his passenger and asked, "Have you heard that phrase, 'See Naples and die'?"

"Yes," said the passenger.

"Well," said the pilot, "take a good look; the propellor's come off."

Young Co-ed: Oh, Dad, I've just discovered that the girl who sits next to me in Biology has a hat exactly like mine.

Father: So I suppose you want me to buy a new one!"

Co-ed: Well, darling, that would be cheaper than changing schools.

Anything the matter with the car?

Well, there's only one part of it that doesn't make noise, and that's the horn.

"What is home without a mother?" asked the good looking young man.

"Well", replied the sweet young thing, "I am, tonight."

Angler (to friend): Yes, the fish was too small to bother with, so I got two men to throw it back into the water."

THORSBY CLUB MEETS

The Thorsby Home Demonstration Club met for a spend-the-day on Tuesday, September 6, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Goddard. There were 14 members present to be instructed, as well as assist, in a demonstration in mattress making. Shortly after the ladies assembled, each one lent a helping hand toward the making of an inner-spring mattress, under the direction and assistance of the county home agent, Miss Mattie Jo Barber.

At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all present, after which the demonstration was continued until a real nice, comfortable looking mattress was completed, being made at less than one-third the purchase price of this type mattress. This demonstration proved to be very practical and economical to the thrifty homemaker.

The club was to have as its guest for the day, Mrs. Kennedy, from Mt. Pleasant. Miss Anne Watson, Shelby County home agent, also made a short visit.

A business meeting was held in the afternoon, at which time the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Anna Phalin; Vice President, Mrs. J. H. Goddard; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Jim Collins; Reporter, Mrs. Tom Lessley.

MASQUERADE

Other Side Of Grits, Greens & Gravy

Editor Union-Banner:

I have noticed two letters in your paper recently about Grits, Greens and Gravy. I would like to present my version of this subject. A man with little or no grit goes through life just working, and says or thinks nothing about how he and those about him are faring. But it takes a man with tons of grit to endure what we are having to put up with now under the present administration in Washington and our state and county excuses for public officials. The working man has a tough row of stumps to hoe these days.

Then, as I see it, Mr. Green is the man who will still go and vote for the mess again after we have tried it and has had to put up with it for the past few years. The way we are faring, no one except a "green" could fail to see through it and observe the lies that have been and are being told. I sincerely hope there will not be enough "greens" to put these kind back in office again this year. A majority has been "green" in Chilton County for the past few years; but I think most of us who were so green as to vote that bunch in have now gone hungry and without sufficient clothes, and have had the "gravy" poured on us so much that we are now about dried out. There is nothing green left in us.

Now, the gravy was fine at first, when we were getting all those good things given us; but soon they began to promise us more and more and give us less and less. Now, the big boys with the white collars and the big cars are getting all the gravy and most of the grits. So us poor devils have about got our craws full of greens without any shortening or grit to help us digest the mess. This has made us all sick.

I am caused to wonder what is going to happen next to the poor old farmers, especially those who are afflicted and cannot even do a hard day's work, and after they have toiled under hardships and made a little, then get beat out of even that little bit by someone in an easy chair drawing a big salary out of our tax money. These big boys do not know what a day's work is. But some day, unless I miss my guess, that big boy is going to be sizzling in hot "gravy", and the sooner it is the better it will suit us poor green horns. Some of us have been asleep in our green pastures for the past few years, but thanks be, we are now waking up and taking on enough grit to assert ourselves and demand our rights. Those little gifts no longer mean anything when we come to realize they are taking away twice as much as they are giving us.

Yours very truly, — J. R. Huckabee, R 1, Jemison, Ala.

What Is The Status Of Your Subscription To The Union-Banner?

X X X X X X X X X X X X

It is now fall of the year and cotton picking time. There will likely be a few dollars passing around here and there; and this is the time NOW when you should begin to check up on how much longer before your subscription to The Union-Banner expires.

The management of this paper realizes full well that it is hard to get hold of a spare dollar. There is always a gasping, hungry hole awaiting for it to be deposited therein; but we believe there is scarcely anything you can spend one dollar for that will bring you as much genuine satisfaction as a year's subscription to The Union-Banner.

It is probable that you will receive a card within the next month or so announcing that you will receive only a few more copies of the paper unless you renew your subscription. The purpose of this advertisement is a kind of forewarning to the approach of this notice to you. If you have already paid up, then pass this by; on the other hand, if your paper has not expired but will during the next few months, then begin now to arrange to take care of it when the card comes to you announcing the expiration date.

We are perfectly frank with you — we want you to give us that dollar and let us continue sending your paper for another twelve months. And we are equally as frank when we say we believe you could not spend a dollar any more advantageously. You are surely interested in Chilton County, its progress, its political and economic problems, the community happenings, and the many other homely and personal features of the paper which you are as accustomed to and as acquainted with as the publishers are themselves. Many are continuously referring to The Union-Banner as seeming like one of the family. We like for you to feel this way about our paper. We want it to serve the interests of Chilton County, and at the same time we want to give our readers the kind of paper they want and the kind they have a right to expect. We feel that we have at least partly succeeded in this in the past, and we have every expectation of continuing it.

Help us give you and Chilton County a better Union-Banner by renewing your subscription when it expires this fall. Don't lay the card aside when you get it, but attend to it right then.

DID YOU KNOW?

Did you know that a Republican was responsible for that laudable clause in the present banking law insuring depositors up to the amount of $5,000? And did you know that President F. D. Roosevelt opposed this clause in the banking law? Well, such is the case, although many give the New Deal credit for this fine and protective piece of legislation. Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg, of Michigan, is the daddy of that particular law, and it is a law in spite of the New Deal and not on account of it.

FOSHEE SAW SERVICE IN TIDE AND TROJAN CLASH

Jessie Frank Foshee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion D. Foshee, of Clanton, is again attending the University of Alabama this year, and holds a key position on the Crimson Tide football squad—that of left guard. Clanton's honored son played this position well as the Tide clashed with the Trojans before sixty thousand spectators last Saturday in Los Angeles.

Betting odds were against Alabama, but these warriors went out for revenge, and they got it, beating the Trojans 19 to 7. Football critics say the Tiders have the conference title already cinched without playing a conference game. Clanton is proud of Foshee's record, and he can bet we are rooting for him every time he is placed in a pinch.

COUNTY FAIR WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

Exhibits And Livestock Were Best In History Of Chilton County Fair

A most successful Chilton County Fair came to a spectacular close last Saturday night, following a week of enlightenment, fun and entertainment for the people of the county. The Littlejohn amusement company furnished the tents, side shows, and free grand-stand entertainment, including acrobatics and very beautiful fireworks. These features were fine for a rural county fair such as ours was. Gragg Field or Clanton Airport proved to be an ideal location for the fair, affording ample space for parking and all activities connected with it. This location also afforded the added attractions of flying and stunts in the air, which came off as advertised.

Special mention should be made of the booths, personal exhibits, and the live stock shows. These things showed up well for the farmers, schools, ladies organizations, as well as stock and hog raisers of the vicinity. Special mention should be made of the booth prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Butler Lowe, as well as that of Clifford Manning, and many others. Of course the different schools and clubs were permitted to name their booths, and naturally received the credit deserved.

Those people who made the Fair possible are deserving of much praise and commendation for the many efforts put forth, making the occasion the success that it was. All are looking forward to a bigger and better county Fair for 1939.

The secretary of the Fair Association, Mr. J. Mell Martin, says that a complete list of the prize winners will be published in next week's paper.

Ala. Hospital Service Has Come To Clanton

Hospital Insurance Plan, Under State Franchise Introduced Here

A special Act of the Alabama Legislature, 1935, gave permission for the creation of Hospital Service Corporation of Alabama, a non-profit insurance service providing hospital care for its members. By non-profit is meant that any surplus that becomes available will be used to reduce rates or extend benefits to certificate holders.

This week Mrs. Frank C. Lokey, of Birmingham, a former Clanton girl, before her marriage being Peggy (Pearl) Harris, is in Clanton getting the work started off, and says that some person here will be named to become permanent representative of the corporation. In the meantime, this newspaper will be glad to furnish information to anyone desiring the same or put them in touch with a representative.

The rates for membership are two cents to three cents per day. Children under 16 are eligible at 30c per month. No physical examination is required, and the plan offers 21 days free hospital care in any one of thirty-five hospitals over the State, including Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton.

Mrs. Lokey reports that there are now 40,000 members in Alabama. The corporation has the approval of the State Medical Association and the American College of Surgery. Prominent doctors constitutte the official staff of the corporation, and they draw no pay for their services. The president is Dr. A. C. Jackson of Birmingham.

This seems to be a very worth-while service, which is now and will continue to serve a laudable purpose in Alabama.

ELECTION DAY IS DRAWING NEAR

It is now only a month and a week until the November election, and it appears that the old Republican pachyderm has once again become able to raise his snout, highset his tail and limber into a gallop. Alert political prognostigators foresee for the Republicans in the nation this Fall the addition of from sixty to eighty seats in the House of Representatives. It appears that the northern and eastern States are becoming more rebellious to the Democratic-New Deal party than other parts of the country, but the same trend is more or less prevalent the nation over. In other words, it looks as though 1938 is going to be a Republican year.

It is too early for anyone to say just what Chilton county is going to do on November 8th, but it is safe to say that the voters of the county are doing some serious thinking just now. They have had and are having much to bear upon their minds as to county politics, the successes and failures of the present county officials, the conduct and outcome of the Democratic primaries of May 3rd, June 14th and July 26th, the campaigns preceeding these primaries and the various adjuncts thereto.

People are saying this and that will happen, provided we can have a fair election, and if the voters are not influenced and enticed with money, false promises of jobs, and so on. Well, this condition should not be let to enter into the affair; and the people of Chilton county, we believe, have become disgusted with such pollution of the ballot boxes. The Union-Banner has been conducting a campaign against illegal voting, buying of votes and otherwise corrupting the ballot ever since the practice was started, and we have had the support of the leading citizens of the county in the fight. Grand Juries in some counties of Alabama have made exhaustive investigation of such corruption as we have had here, and bills have been gotten in some instances. More people in Chilton County now realize that something must be done about it than ever before, and something is going to be done about it. The good, law-abiding citizens of Chilton county are going to see to it that we have a fair election here this fall.

And, gentle voters, while you are making up your mind about the coming election, ask yourself this question: "What political party is responsible for the miserable mess the farmers of this country are in at the present time? What party and what administrtion has spent billions of dollars of hard-earned and borrowed tax dollars to bolster up prices of farm products, curtailed production and tried every other experimental scheme possible, and yet old king cotton is now selling at the lowest price, according to the cost of production, that it has sold at in 124 years? Also, coming a little nearer home—what political party is responsible for the ballot box corruption, the apparent stealing and buying of votes in Chilton county during recent years? Also, when you are riding in your truck or wagon or car over the public roads in Chilton county and get stuck in a gully or run into a broken-through water box or culvert and sprain an axle or jerk a kink in your back, what political party are you compelled to blame for such miserable condition of our county roads?

All the offices in the county are not to be filled this year, but we can make a healthy start by putting Republicans back in the offices that are to filled, and then attend to the rest when we get to them. The voters of Chilton county are wise to the tricks. The voters of Chilton county are ready to swap horses—and the whole team must be swapped—without the loss of one. We are solidly united on this objective, and we will not be thrown off the right track. Keep your eyes open, voters, and work like fury.

ATTENDANCE AT BAPTIST S. S. IS HIGH PAST FEW SUNDAYS

Officers and teachers, and other interested attendants at Clanton Baptist Sunday school, are rather elated, and justly so, over the attendance for the past few Sundays. The total attendance for each Sunday during this past month: September 4, 251; 11, 275; 18, 288; and 25, 282. This is the best average attendance for any entire month in a long time, and probably ever, exclusive of the Sunday back ten years ago when there were over 600 present one Sundayy.

Probably explaining this fine attendance is the fact that two or three of the largest classes have had on a special drive. But it is hoped that the interest and attendance will not dwindle very much even after these drives are over. The men's class closes its drive next Sunday, and Mr. H. S. Shaw, the teacher, and Mr. J. Watts Moore, the secretaryy, are making a special effort to boost the attendance to the limit. This class will have charge of the closing exercises next Sunday morning.

OLD CLAW HAMMER USED IN BUILDING FIRST COURTHOUSE

There has been brought to The Union-Banner a hand-made claw hammer which was said to have been used in erecting the first courthouse in Chilton county. The hammer was brought in by Clanton's veteran blacksmith, John D. Wyatt, and was said to have been made by Buchy Wyatt back in the early 1800's. John Wyatt's father, Uncle Dock Wyatt, used the hammer when he worked on erecting the first courthouse in Chilton County, at Grantville, three miles northeast of Clanton.

Mr. Wyatt also brought in a little drawing knife about 5 in. long, which is said to have been made by the same man in his blacksmith shop over a century ago. These things may be seen at The Banner office.

DRY COUNTIES TO HAVE MORE PROTECTION FROM STATE

The information has been released from Montgomery that extra patrolmen are to be furnished by the ABC Board to counties of the State remaining in the dry column. Dry counties were promised protection by the State, if they chose to remain dry, and the State, it seems, is going to do its best to make good that promise. We venture to say, however, it will be a rather hard job, under the circumstances.

Clanton Man Chosen As Campaign Speaker

Judge J. O. Middleton Named By National Republican Committee

The Speakers Bureau of the National Republican Committee, Washington, D. C., has requested Judge J. O. Middleton, of Clanton and Montgomery, to speak in the Congressionla campaign under its direction from now until November 8th. Judge Middleton has advised the chairman of the bureau, Hon. I. K. Barta, that he will be available for speakings after October 15th.

The Union-Banner is proud of the honor that has been placed upon our own J. O., and we congratulate the bureau upon its obtaining the services of such a convincing speaker and staunch Republican. His many close friends in Chilton county will be pleased to hear of such a distinct honor being accorded Judge Middleton by the Republican National Committee.

Chilton County News Has Changed Hands

Ownership Passes From Billy Smith To Mark L. Tucker of Montgomery

Effective October 1st, ownership and the capacity of publisher of Chilton County's 2nd oldest newspaper passes from the shoulders of Billy Smith and will be assumed by a veteran in the game, Mark L. Tucker, formerly of Birmingham, but more recently of Montgomery. Mr. Tucker's son, Marion Tucker, also of Montgomery, will become business manager of The News. Both Messrs. Tucker, with their families, have already moved to Clanton and have set up housekeeping here. They live in the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parrish on Sixth Street.

Mark L. Tucker, who is assistant to the State Tax Commissioner with the Graves administration in Montgomery, will continue to be in the capital city practically all of the time; Marion Tucker, who recently resigned a position with the Bureau of Publicity for the State Highway department, has already come to Clanton to stay, and will assume his duties as business manager of the paper on October 1st.

The Union-Banner extends greetings to these new-comers to our little city, and look forward to peaceable relations with them in the field of journalis in Clanton and Chilton county. The Union-Banner has had the pleasure of knowing the elderly Mr. Tucker for a number of years, specially while he was traveling for Western Newspaper Union in Birmingham. We welcome them to Clanton.

Billy Smith, who has been with the Chilton County News for eleven years, says he is going to rest up for a while. He will not stay idle for long, but has no statement to give out as to what the termination of his few weeks' reprieve will be. Mr. Smith says, however, that his family will remain in Clanton.

Mark Tucker, who was born in Bibb county and who lived in Chilton county during early boyhood, has been in the newspaper business in some form for the past half a century. He has owned and operated twenty-three different newspapers during his long career.

The Tuckers are Methodists and Masons, and are always very active in religious and faternal enterprises.

Mr. Bonnie Hand will remain as editor of The News, and the personnel of the shop will remain the same as heretofore.

HORSE RACES PROVE STAR FEATURE OF COUNTY FAIR

Plans Are To Have Similar Races Every Month Or So In Future

Dr. W. L. Parrish, Bill Fiquett, and others, hit on a happy note when they conceived the idea of having some amateur competitive horse and mule races at the County Fair this year. This feature was set in motion last Saturday morning, and taken up again in the afternoon.

Four young jockeys entered the races, they being John Frank Goodgame, Bobby Vinson, Earl Holley and Frank Parrish, all of Clanton and vicinity. Saturdayy morning's races resulted in the awarding of first place to John Frank Goodgame, second to Frank Parrish, third to Earl Holley and fourth to Bobby Vinson. Saturday afternoon somewhat reversed the order of the winners, giving first place to Frank Parrish, second to Earl Holley, third to John Frank Goodgame, and fourth to Earl Vinson, Bulter substituting for Bobby Vinson.

So many people became interested in this feature of the Fair that it is being talked freely to make the races a kind of permanent affair, competitions to be held every month or two. By watching the papers, those interested will be able to keep up with the happenings and the announcements. The next races will held about November 1st, according to Dr. Parrish.

BIG FOUR HARDWARE HANDLES JOHNS MANVILLE ROOFING

Mr. Lester Jones of the Big Four Hardware Company announces this week that this store is now placing especial emphasis on Johns Manville asbestos roofing, together with the installation of same where the customer wants it furnished and put on in the same operation. Mr. Jones points out that this company is prepared to render this building service at a substantial saving, conserving for the customer from one-third to one-half of what they have likely been paying for this installation service. Read the adv. of Johns Manville in this week's Union-Banner, and get Lester or Amon Jones to furnish you an estimate on your job. "We can save you money," say Messrs. Jones.

County Farm Agent's Notes

WINTER CATTLE RATIONS GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Suggested rations for beef cattle during the winter to keep them in best condition are given for Alabama farmers today by Dr. R. S. Sugg, beef cattle specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. Any one of these rations is good for dry cows, heifers, and stocker steers, he states, adding that home-grown roughage, low-grade hay, velvet beans in the field cottonseed hulls are all important.

Rations are: (1) Velvet beans grazed in field; (2) stacked johnson grass with access to hay field; (3) grass hay, 15 to 20 pounds, and cottonseed meal, 1 to 2 pounds per head daily; (4) silage, 30 to 35 pounds, and cottonseed meal, 1 to 2 pounds daily per head; (5) grass hay, 15 pounds, and legume hay 5 pounds per head daily; (6) soybean, cowpea, peanut or other legume hay 15 to 20 pounds per head daily; (7) cottonseed hulls, 15 to 20 pounds, and cottonseed meal, 1 to 2 pounds daily.

WINTER CARE OF COWS IMPORTANT

Auburn, Ala.—Dairying can be made profitable this coming winter if dairymen will take good care of their cows, declares F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist.

Essential points that must be kept in mind if best results are to be obtained from dairying are listed by Mr. Burns below:

1. Well ventilated, dry stables insure good health and good work on the part of the cow.

2. Free access to clean water and salt should be had at least twice daily.

3. Do not reuire cows to stand in yards or fields on cold rainy days. It takes feed to keep cows warm.

4. Reserve the best feed for fresh cows, but do not let dry cows become thin. Cows that are thin at calving time never have a chance to do their best.

EXCHAGE OF GOODS IS NEED OF FARMER

Washington, D. C.—"In the United States we have very definitely before us the problem of maintaining a market for our export cotton while at the same time we enable our cotton farmers to live better than they have in the past. More international exchange of goods is probably the principal need of the cotton farmer of the United States," Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture stated recently. "But the cotton farmer sees no virture in putting eight million bales of cotton on the world market year after year if that means he must accept an unprofitable price of five cents a pound for it. There is no gain to the cotton farmer, and none to the country either, in the long run, in destroying the hills of the South by overplowing merelyy to supply the cotton exporters of the United States and the cotton importers of the rest of the world with five-cent cotton.

"We do not propose in the United States to make our cotton production methods as efficient as possible. By producing on the richer lands which can be protected from erosion, by using the most approved varieties of cotton which we are rapidly discovering through an intensive research program, and by reducing pest and other hazards, I believe we are going to be able to meet fair competition from any country in the world, provided we follow a sensible lending policy and provided our tariff policy with regard to the bulk of our imports is such as to enable foreigners to obtain the necessary dollar purchasing power to pay for our cotton surplus.

"The statement which I have made with respect to cotton applies in principle to our other exportable agricultural products," said Secretary Wallace. "We believe we can meet legitimate competition from the world in cotton, wheat lard, tobacco, and many kinds of fruits. I believe that by following our trade-agreements program we can build up a sound foreign market for a considerable volume of agricultural exports, and I think we can fill that market in compitition with unsubsidized exports from other nations."

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMA

(By A. W. Jones)

Auburn, Ala.—In trying to find a solution to the economic problems and especially the agricultural worries of the cotton growing South, probably our greatest danger and weakness is our difficulty in seeing the entire problem and determining the ultimate end of the various plans and courses of action offered. All of these plans look good at first sight. We also fail to recognize some of the steps that are important contributing factors to the proper solution of the problem.

There are several plans being advanced as more adapted to the needs of the South than the present Agricultural Adjustment Act. Farmers and others interested in the welfare of Alabama should make it their business to get correctly in mind a conception of: (1) what the major problems of the South are; (2) the conditions, circumstances, and factors that have led to the development of the problem; and (3) a sensible and logical program leading to a solution of these difficulties. We should have full and free discussion on the complications we find ourselves enmeshed in and what is the most balanced course of action to take in correcting these complications.

A few of these might be listed as follows:

(1) What kind of a program will aid farmers most in providing an abundant living, producing sufficient cotton for domestic and export demands, and conserving our soil resources.

(2) What kind of a program will aid cotton farmers most in getting their fair share of the nation's income.

(3) What could we expect of the domestic allotment plan for cotton if it were adopted.

(4) What problems do we have with relation to cotton exports.

(5) What has been the effect of this and foreign countries' credit and financial policies on our cotton trade.

(6) What is the cotton farmer's interest in this country's trade and tariff policies.

All of us remember one of the first simple childhood fables told to us, htat of the agreement of all the birds to come tagether for a demonstration in nest building. It is recalled that this was accurately planned and each step was to be carefully explained and followed from the clearing off of the place on the ground where the nest was to be built until the soft downy inside was finished.

However, on the day that the birds came together and as the lesson progressed, many became impatient and flew away. Others were not willing to stay and see the finish; others thought they had learned sufficiently after the first step; and still others thought they had better individual plans. The result was that many birds drifted away after each step and, so build in their nests today, stopping with the last step learned. The whip-poorwill merely selects a clean place on the ground nad lets some of its eggs roll away and consequently is a rare bird. The simple-minded dove makes a mere bed of sticks, but the most sensible and hardy of all birds, the penguin, completes the nest for its young with a lining of the softest feathers plucked from its own breast.

The moral of this is, of course, to be thorough, learn all there is useful about the problem at hand, follow carefully a well planned precedure, consider all the factors, and make a complete and satisfactory finish of each job.

Let us be sure that in our attempts to build a more satisfactory economic structure for ourselves that we are not leaving out some important considerations. Let us be sure that we are following step by step a sound and logical procedure that will give us in the end the kind of security which we all agree that we need.

From time to time we would like to discuss in this colume some of these economic factors which we feel are so important to everyone.

Thousands of acres of creek and branch bottoms in Alabama now grown up in worthless scrub trees and bushes, if cleared, phosphated and seeded would enable farmers to add to their incoe by keeping a few additional head of livestock, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

Eleven bushels of corn alone are required to produce 100 pounds of pork. Six bushels of corn and 50 pounds of a mixture of eual parts of tankage and cottonseed meal will do the same thing. At current prices of tankage and cottonseed meal 50 pounds of this supplement costs around a dollar. It will pay the hog raiser to use supplement unless he can produce corn for 20 cents a bushel, says F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman.

Since 1935 Alabama has increased its income from hogs 147.2 per cent or $4,59,000, according to J. D. Samford, extension economist. The number of hogs during the same period has been increased by 196,000 head.

The estimated yield of 225 pounds of cotton per acre this year is 65 pounds below the record yield of 290 pounds last year. It is still above the yield of 194 pounds per acre for the ten-year average 1927-1936.

A FEW WORDS ON THE PRESENT SITUATION

Editor Union-Banner:

When I read Mr. J. R. Huckabee's letter in last week's Banner, I could not help but say: "Backward, Turn Backward, Oh Time, in Your Flight," for his view-points and mine are the same.

Now, dear farmers, let us just stop and think seriously for a moment, let us turn back the pages of time. When we were under the Republican administration, we were getting around 23 cents a pound for our cotton, business was flurishing, but not so today. Our cotton is our surest money crop in this country. It is all we have to depend upon to pay off our debts and mortgages. Our acreages are cut so low and the price so low until there is not many of us poor farmers that can live and half way meet our honest obligations. What can we do about it? Nothing, of course, under the convening conditions, and the mess things are in. I am prone to wonder, how we, as true Americans and intelligent people, as we should be, are forgetting the Almighty God, the Great Ruler and Honest Judge; are we still looking, hoping and trusting in Him to lead us out from under this awful state of depression, or are we trusting in "man" here in this world to do it?

Dear friends, let me say to you all with a heart that tries to be honest. Are we trusting in man for all things? Have we forgotten God? If so, let us still remember that He still reigns on high, and if we use our hearts, think right and do right; vote right and leave the rest to God. He will lead us out from under this bondage and distress. Your true friend, A Little Ignorant Farmer.

Montgomery, Ala.—A statement released here today by Mr. A. C. Montgomery, Director of the educational campaign of the Alabama Motorists Association, in sponsoring Constitutional Amendment No. 1 before the voters of Alabama in the General election on November 8th, requiring all State gasoline and special motor vehicle tax revenues to be spent exclusively for road purposes, discloses that the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is the most recent organization to actively endorse Amendment No. 1.

Farmers, as a group, have a very vital interest in road development because they pay somewhere in the neighborhood of 25 per cent of all gasoline and other special motor vehicle tax revenues. Also, whether or not a farmer owns a motor vehicle, he is interested in good roads because good roads improve the value of his property, provide better means for delivering his products to market, and provide a safer means of transporting his children to and from school. Consequently, the farmer naturally is interested in anything that will hurry up the development of farm-to-market roads, Mr. Montgomery said.

SUCCESS OF PARTIES DEPENDS UPON CHOICE OF GUESTS

ALMOST everybody knows how to give a party, but very few know how to go to a party and make it fun.

Henrietta Ripperger

"Behind every successful affair is a hostess who has given of her best to make the occasion fun for everyone," says Henrietta Ripperger in the October issue of Pictorial Review.

"Why is it that some of your acquaintances are the sort you always want to include, and others you dismiss with an Indian grunt —"Un-un"—of disgust."

On the other side, according to Miss Ripperger, we have those phlegmatic souls who won't romp and play with the others. They sit down stolidly, practically defying you to amuse them. And they stare. A little friend of ours sized this species up after spending an afternoon with a small visitor. She came in and sighed, "It's no use, Mother. I can't entertain her. She won't even try to be nice." The person who is sulking may have what seems to her (or him!) a sound reason. Maybe she doesn't like someone else who is there. She is jealous. Or the uncooperative stooge may even be very shy. In any case, the result is a social selfishness that is hard on the spirit of a party.

"Others are even aggressively disagreeable," says Miss Ripperger. "They check up on what their escorts are doing, usually making some crack. Once sampled, this kind is hastily put back on the shelf.

"There is the bored type, even harder to take, and another kind to bite and put back is the get-together-in-the-corner- ...e, who talk only to their bes. .riends—talk loudly enough to be annoying but in tones too low to be understood.

"There is, on the other hand, the Card who comes to give the party a lift. But what a lift! He somersaults into the room, landing neatly at your feet. This trick, which it has taken him years to perfect, is meant to startle and delight. But somehow, it only startles.

"On the positive side we have the people whom we can best describe as always friendly. They are amenable to suggestions, and their friendliness explains why everybody likes to have them around."

BUT---

he wonders why so many other customers go to the other store where the prices are no lower, and the merchandise no better.

There is one thing about the other store, though. It's well lighted, and the customers can see what they're buying. They also see many other things they hadn't thought of buying when they entered, but are reminded to buy because they're in plain sight under plenty of light.

"LIGHT CONDITION" YOUR STORE

Alabama Power Company has in its employ 23 lighting advisors, who, with the aid of a little instrument called a "sight meter," gladly will help you determine if the lighting in your home, school, office or factory, can be improved. A Friendly Store That Is Growing Up With Alabama

POPLAR SPRINGS

Something wonderful has happened at our church. Our Sunday school, B. Y. P. U., and prayer services are getting better every service. People around here have been praying, and our prayers are being answered. We had grand crowds at our services the past week end, and we ask them all to come back and try to bring someone with them. We will keep on praying, and we know our prayers will be answered.

We received our new Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. books Sunday and we are ready to start right.

Mrs. Katie Lee Duke is back from the hospital and is doing very well. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Tom Miller has been on the sick list for quiet a while. We hope she gets better soon.

We're all happy at our swift progress in our church services and ask every one to pray with us that it will continue to grow.

We have changed the time of our B. Y. P. U. and prayer services. They will begin at 7:00 o'clock instead of 7:30. Our Sunday school will be at the usual hour. Everybody is welcome to all our services.—Reporter.

University News

University, Ala.—Several new professors have been added to the faculty and many of the departments have enlarged the field of their activities as the University of Alabama begins its 108th session.

For the first time, a degree of master of arts in speech will be given, a new full time instructor has been added to the department of speech, a speech clinic setablished and a number of new courses added in the department according to Prof. T. Earl Johnson, head of the department.

Because governmental activities and interest in government are rapidly increasing, the University of Alabama has established a Bureau of Public Administration.

The Bureau, University President Richard C. Foster explained, will operate in conjunciton with the University's department of political science, and will have available the staff of that department, in addition to its own staff, in carrying on the work.

Primary functions of the bureau will be to offer its services in a consultative capacity for the public officials and governmental agencies in Alabama; make general research studies of governmental problems; make surveys of the organization and operation of such governmental agencies as request it; build up a library of current materials in public affairs.

Fourteen students enrolled in the University of Alabama believe that by traveling 744 miles a day to and from classes they can save on school expenses.

They live anywhere from five to 56 miles from the campus, coming to school in the morning and returning home in the afternoon. Half of these students are registered in the College of Education.

Most traveled of the students who will eat, sleep and study at home is Richard Vann Jordan of Bessemer, 46 miles from the campus. Riding the longest distance will be Miss Monterey Miller of Birmingham, who lives 56 miles from the University. She is a graduate student majoring in Education.

The adage "beautiful but dumb" does not apply to the co-eds at the University of Alabama for the women students again walked off with scholastic honors for the past semester.

Far outstripping their masculine schoolmates, who still maintain this is a "man's world" is the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority which compiled the highest average for the school session. The Kappas had a mark of 1.8687, which is nearly a "B" average. This was far above the general women student's average of 1.4735 and much higher than the top ranking fraternity, Delta Chi, whose mark was 1.6350.

SHOULTS

Let me say to the young voters of the county, take advise from the older heads. Let them advise with you as to how to vote in November. The first vote I ever cast was a Democrat vote; and oh my, how I was served in return a pan full of hard times. Then I moved to Chilton County, and have been voting the Republican ticket ever since.

Well do I remember back in the early nineties how I had to take 50 cents in the dollar for my crops, that was when the Democrats were in power in the nation. It was the Republican that caused me to get dollar for dollar for the things I had to sell.

Later on a Democrat probate judge and part of the county officers got in charge in the county, and he didn't have time to talk to common people. So, young folks, notice how you mark your ticket in November. I notice that the moon will be full near election day. Next day the moon will be in eclipse—and so will the Democrat party, never to be seen in Chilton county again for a long time.

Let me say to the young voters, study the situation and vote for what you know is to the best interest of the county. A man can shut one eye now and see what is going on. Yessum.—Uncle Remus.

CITIZEN WRITES ABOUT NATIONAL CONDITIONS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please permit me a few words through one of the papers I enjoy reading most. This is a wonderful country of ours; we boast of many different serums, but kill 30,000 people annually with automobiles. We can supply Japan with millions of dollars worth of munitions, but cannot sell to China; can shout loudest for peace and can build the biggest and most expensive battle ships; can construct the biggest dams to open new areas for cultivation, and at the same time pay an army of men big salaries to plan how to reduce farm crops.

This is a wonderful country. Representative Snell of New York says we are in the greatest depression we have ever known. We have gone beyond 1932. We have increased the debt by fifteen billions of dollars, States have used up their resources and we have lost $50,000,000,000 in national resources. Business has lost its courage; the people have lost hope, and all nations are in distress, knowing not what to do.

There are today in Congress 110 Roman Catholics, 104 Methodists, 64 Baptists, 60 Presterbyterians, 55 Episcopalians, and 134 others, of whom 10 are Jews. This is the first Congress in which Roman Catholics have been in leading position as to numbers. Does Jim Farley need credit for this? J. C. Edwards, Maplesville, Ala.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

No. 4 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

Electrical "Measuring Spoons"

NO SALESMAN will try to sell you an "electrical measuring spoon" for your kitchen—because it isn't a kitchen gadget. But it does have a lot to do with the dependability of the electric service you use for cooking, lighting, refrigeration and other household, commercial and industrial purposes.

All electric equipment, even including lamp bulbs, is designed to use a voltage which must be kept within certain limits if the device is to operate satisfactorily. Here is where the "electrical measuring spoon" does its work. Engineers don't call it that, but a "regulator." The ordinary measuring spoon used in the kitchen will hold only so much of the ingredient being measured. The line or generator regulator automatically limits or releases the voltage of the electricity coming from the generator and passing over the wires, so that it is always right for use at the switch in your home or business.

In generator and line regulators you have another example of the development and use by private business, of equipment to make your electric service reliable.

The apparatus shown in the photograph was designed to regulate the voltage on wires carrying 54,000 horsepower.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Lesson for October 2

THE ONE TRUE GOD

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:2, 3; Isaiah 45:22; Mark 12:28-34; I Corinthians 8:4-6.
GOLDEN TEXT—And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.—Deuteronomy 6:5.

Today we begin a series of studies which should be of unusual value, a consideration of the Ten Commandments in the light of the teachings of Jesus and related New Testament passages. It is appropriate to point out that, far from being outmoded, the Ten Commandments are really the basis of all moral law. They need a diligent re-study and re-emphasis in our day of disregard of moral standards. As interpreted by the Lord Jesus and applied to our daily living, the truth of these commandments should be brought home to every boy and girl and man and woman in our Bible schools.

The lessons begin at the right point, for the first commandment properly deals with our conception of God. What a man thinks about God determines his entire outlook on life. We begin right when we declare that there is but one God.

I. The Truth Stated—There Is One True God (Exod. 20:2, 3).

Jehovah means "I will be what I will be," or "I am that I am." (Exod. 3:14). His very name declares God to be the self-existent, eternal one. How infinitely gracious then is the use of the word "thy" in verse 2! He—the great I AM—is my God.

There are many things concerning which we do not speak dogmatically. There are even Christian doctrines about which spiritual and earnest men may honestly differ, but regarding God we say with absolute assurance and complete exclusiveness—there is but one true God. If He is what He claims to be, if God is not to be declared to be a liar, then it is beyond the realm of possibility that there could be any other God. Hear it, ye men and women of America who in an enlightened land and age bow down in heathenish worship "before the god of gold, the god of self, the god of wine, the god of success, the god of fame, the goddess of pleasure, the god of licentiousness." The one true God says, "I am Jehovah . . thou shalt have no other gods before me."

II. The Truth Explained.

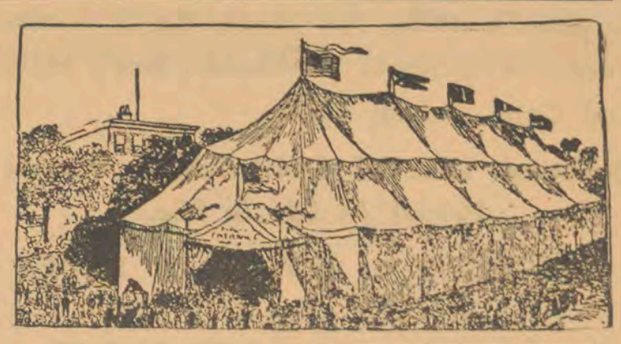
1. God is our Deliverer (Exod. 20:2). He who brought Israel out of the bondage of Egypt is the one, and the only one who can deliver men from the bondage of sin. If you think that a sinner is not in bondage read Titus 3:3 and Romans 6:16 and then read the verses following in both passages, and not only see but follow the way of deliverance.

2. God is our Saviour (Isa. 45:22). Again note that "there is none else" who can save. "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).

It was this verse that led one of the world's greatest preachers, Charles Haddon Spurgeon, to accept Christ as his Saviour when he was just a humble lad. Perhaps some boy or girl who reads these lines may do likewise, and become a great instrument in God's hand. Teacher, perhaps the Spurgeon of the next generation will be in your class today. Win him for Christ!

3. God is Love (Mark 12:28-34). In I John 4:8 the truth is stated in all its glorious simplicity. "God is love." He not only loves us, and calls on us to love Him, and enables us to love both Him and our neighbors, but He "is love." Love is of the very essence of God's nature. He is the source of all true love. He is love.

It was for this reason that Jesus replied to the question of the scribe as He did, directing the whole life of man into love toward God and his fellow man.



It is worthy of careful note and emphasis in our teaching that the recognition and appreciation of this truth on the part of the scribe brought him near to the Kingdom of God, but not into it. He was "not far from," but he was not in it. It is terrifying to think how close men may come to entering without doing so. Reader, have you entered into eternal life through Jesus Christ?

4. God is our Father (I Cor. 8:4-6). Paul is speaking of the eating of meat offered to idols, and points out that such false gods are really nothing. This is true not only of the idols of wood and stone, but of supernatural beings, demons worshiped by primitive peoples. There are such spirit beings, active even in our day in such cults as spiritism, but they are not divine, not true gods (v. 5).

The true God is a Father, yea "the Father," of whom are all things and we in Him (v. 6). As there is but one God, there is also but one Lord, Jesus Christ through whom the one God has wrought all things, and through whom we also come to God. If we have Christ we have all; if we have not Him we have nothing. Is He your Saviour?

Mr. Emmett Powell and son, from Decatur, were in Clanton Saturday night and Sunday on business.

The fifth annual runnng of the Alabama Amateur Shooting Dog trials will be held January 30-31 on the Maytag preserve near Union Springs, it was announced by Rufus Malloy, club secretary, in a letter to the Alabama Game and Fish News. Drawing for braces will take place Sunday night, January 29, at Union Springs. Entrance fee will be $3.50. Judges will be L. B. Maytag and Col. T. S. Horses will be available at nominal cost, and lunch will be served on the grounds.

Quail Distribution

Shipments of Bobwhite quail to all parts of the State are being made at the rates of two or three truckloads a week in an effort to give every county in Alabama its share of the estimated 6,000 birds that will be available from the State Game Farm this year, according to Commissioner I. T. Quinn. On September 16 a consignment of birds went to Jefferson, Blount, Etowah, Calhoun, Cleburne and Marshall Counties. September 19, Chambers, Lee, Macon, Randolph, and Tallapoosa got 100 birds each. The next trip was September 21, and birds were sent to Mobile, Baldwin, Conecuh, Escambia, and Butler Counties. On September 23, quail were delivered in Walker, Tuscaloosa and other counties in that section. The quail are released on lands designated by county conservation clubs and sportsmen's organizations.

There will be singing at Chestnut Creek next Sunday afternoon, October 2nd, beginning at 2 o'clock. All singers are invited to attend.—A. O. Boswell.

The Thorsby Y. W. A., met at the home of Mrs. Earl Henley Tuesday night. Hattie Porter had charge of the program, which was about the Holy Land. Those present were: Dorothy Franklin, Hattie and Mary Sue Porter, Helen Kendrick, Jessie Martin, Helen Lowery and Ruth Cox,

Dr. E. E. Upchurch has had a mingling of bad and good luck during the past month. He had to go to the hospital from an operation, but received a bonus insurance check for just $1,000 after he got back home.

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The past week was a rather thrilling one at Jemison High. On Wednesday, at 10:10, classes were dismissed so that the students might attend the Fair. Then Thursday the news came that the F. F. A. and community booth won first prize. Then Friday the school booth won first prize also. James Littlejohn's rooster won first prize in the poultry exhibit.

On Friday, in chapel, Horace Cleckler told about the F. F. A. boys' trip to Florida last summer. Then Arnold White gave a talk on the creed and aim of the F. F. A., and the importance of the club.

At the present there seems to no particular sport other than Mr. Denson and a few of the boys play football, as it is too late for baseball and not quite time for basketball. Thursday all boys are asked to sign up, so they will soon start practicing.

This being the first test week everyone is "getting down to brass tacks." We hope they continue to do so and make good grades.

NEW MAGAZINE

The Journal has received the first issue of a new magazine called America's Future. It is quite an elaborate publication in rotogravure form and carries at its masthead the following statement of its objectives: "To Uphold Constitutional Government; To preserve absolute independence of the three departments of our government; To prevent any domination by the executive over our courts or congress; To resist every move toward one - man rule; To drive 'rubber-stamps' from public office; To put an end to government encroachments on legitimate business; To foster private enterprise under fair competition; To promote employment and just rewards to the worker; To restore to farmers their normal income and buying power; To safeguard Liberty and equality of opportunity; To preserve human rights and property rights; To revitalize faith in Democratic institutions."

It should not be necessary to state that this magazine's sponsor is Frank Gannett, Liberty Leaguer and chairman of the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government, and to predict that its life will not extend much beyond the good year of 1940.—Alabama Journal.

We wonder how it is that any well-meaning citizen of the United States can find fault with and cast scornful insinuations against a publication that has for its avowed purpose the many noble and patriotic ideals outlined in the above list of objectives, regardless of whether its sponsor is a Liberty Leaguer, Constitutionalist or what-not. In our humble way of seeing it, we believe it would be a good policy if the above objectives were more effectively used and persistently followed during the remainder of the present New Deal administration and on and on in future adinistrations in the nation. What objection could anyone have to this?

Thorsby Institute News

On Friday at chapel, Miss Laverna Jones, History and Public Speaking teacher at Thorsby Institute, gave a talk, giving reasons why public speaking courses are helpful. They are not merely for the sake of giving reading, but teach one how to breathe correctly, have poise, to give a talk without being self-conscious, etc. Miss Jones has had much training in this line and is able to teach adults as well as younger people. Perhaps there are some older people not in school who would like to form a class. It would prove very helpful to the members.

On October 14, at 7:30 p. m., the first open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will he held.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT EXHIBIT A SUCCESS

Many favorable comments by fair-goers were received by the local health department on the health exhibit at the fair, according to Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health officer. "The many compliments of the public", he stated, "made us feel that our efforts to provide an interesting booth had met with success. We had a particularly enthusiastic response to our display of stained slides of the causative organisms for tuberculasis, diphtheria, typhoid fever, malaria and syphilis for microscopic examination. This feature enabled us to introduce to the public the germs which are responsible for our major problems. For many of the spectators who came into the health booth it was the first opportunity of their lives to look into a microscope."

Another feature which attracted the interest of many fair-goers was the incubator built by the sanitation officer, Mr. Fred H. Buckelew. This life-saving device for the care of prematurely born infants can be borrowed for use in homes in the county in which it may be needed at the request of the family physician.

The pneumothorax outfit with a large poster explaining how it is used in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis attracted unusual interest also, stated the health officer. Well received were the posters on syphilis depicting the main points in the prevention and cure of that disease.

Only one new case of diphtheria occurring southeast of Thorsby was reported to the health department last wek.

FARMERS ASKED TO PLAN EARLY FOR FEDERAL AID

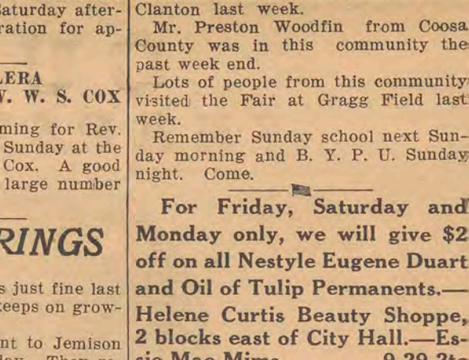
Farm families who desire federal aid to finance crop-making operations next year are urged to make arrangements early, said Mr. Marvin Durbin, Rehabilitation Supervisor in charge of the Farm Security Administration office in Chilton County.

Ample funds have been provided for next year's loan requirements of families who farmed with FSA assistance this year, and additional funds are now available to allow more families to be aided.

"An advice from our regional office in Montgomery, Ala., states that new families may be helped this year if applications are submittted in time to be handled. New applicants are urged to make arrangements before the rush season. Applications will be available at the local office in the Johnson building October 1. This office will be open each day in the week except Sunday to receive new applications.

"Loans may be secured to finance purchase of necessary farm supplies, livestock, seed, fertilizers, feed, tools, household equipment, and in case of new families for temporary food or clothing requirements. Under this loan farmers will be given from one to five years in which to repay the amount they borrow at 5 per cent interest for the time the money is used. This loan can also be used to re-finance mortgages on livestock, tools, etc.

Loans are made to familes who own or rent lands that are capable of producing a good living and the additional earnings to repay loans. If the borrower is a tenant it is required that he must have a written lease for the period of the loan."



Assistance is given the family in working out a practical plan of farm and home management. This plan, worked out byy the borrower and the county rehabilitation supervisor, outlines the operations for the year based on available farm labor and productiveness of the soils to be cultivated. The plan provides for food for the family and feed for the stock so that family can live at home and also produce a cash income to retire debts and buy more livestock and equipment, or other practical requirements.

Aid to Motorists — The 1939 Plymouth instrument group is dominated by this ingenious "safety signal" speedometer that automatically flashes a warning for three different driving speed zones. CHEVROLET ORGANIZE NEW SCHOOLS

Chevrolet's service and mechanical departments and its engineering staff joined hands this week in what is said to be the largest training assignment in the automobile industry—the schooling of the entire Chevrolet wholesale organization, the service managers of some 10,000 Chevrolet dealerships from coast to coast, and the operators of about 1,000 large car and truck fleets, in the servicing of the new 1939 Chevrolet, to be announced a few weeks hence.

The huge operation has been organized by Ed Hedner, national director of the service. Its successive stages will proceed on clocklike schedule. It will begin with the schooling of nine regional product representatives, already in Detroit for their course, and will extend throughout the service personnel in the remotest corners of the country.

COTTONSEED BEING GRADED THIS FALL

Auburn, Ala.—Much of the cottonseed produced and marketed in Alabama this year can, for the first time, be sampled and graded under supervision of the United States Department of Agriculture, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, said today.

At the present time, the Battle Laboratory in Montgomery is the only known testing laboratory and samples may be sent for grading and sampling.

In Georgia, where marketing of seed in the early areas gets under way in August, the major portion of crushers already have entered into voluntary agreements to buy cottonseed from the 1038 crop on the basis of the United States standard grades. These agreements provide that each lot of seed purchased by a cooperating mill shall be sampled by a bonded and licensed sampler, and graded by a licensed cottonseed chemist. Federal inspectors will supervise the sampling and grading.

Supervised sampling and grading of cottonseed was inaugurated by the department last year in the Mississippi Valley, where samples representing approximately 1,500,000 tons of cottonseed were handled under Federal supervision during the 1937-38 season. The work is being extended to the Southeastern States this year by request of mill operators in the seaboard areas. The States in which the work is being extended this year are, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, Virginia, and South Carolina.

T. L. WILLIAMS BEEN WITH POWER COMPANY FOR ABOUT 21 YEARS

Following his schooling in Chilton County schools, T. L. Williams, Clanton District Manager of Alabama Power Company, attended the Newton (Alabama) Normal School one year and then launched into the hardwood lumber business for two and a half years. Feeling that this kind of business was too "hard" he decided to follow "old Beck" for a while. Finally, one day, after coaxing old Beck around the field for a couple of years, T. L. decided it would be much easier to process the products of the farm rather than produce them and he engaged in the gin and warehouse business for about four years.

Finally, the bug bit him and he made a connection with the Wade Electric and Ice Company of Clanton, thus beginning his utility service in 1914. On June 11, 1917, he secured his first position with the Alabama Power Company as assistant operator at Lay Dam. After progressing through the higher positions at Lay Dam he was transferred to Clanton on May 1, 1920 as Local Manager with 256 customers, and has been at that location ever since. As District Manager of that district he now has supervision of the electric service for over 1,767 customers.—H. H. Luttrell, in Powergrams.

Mr. Emmett Powell and son, from Decatur, were in Clanton Saturday night and Sunday on business.

BETHSALEM

The singing here was very successful by the cooperation of adjoining communities. The singing was opened by the chairman, afterwards followed with prayer by Mr. Clem Billingsley. We appreciate the presence of everyone, and especially the singers. Everybody has a special invitation to be present the next fourth Sunday in November. The singing will be postponed for October on account of the singing convention at Clanton.

The directors for the afternoon were: Mr. Clem Billingsley, Mr. Carlos Owens, Mr. Aubrey Gray, Miss Zelma Wilkins, Miss Willie Nell Owens, Mr. Claude Little, Miss Woodard Herrod, Miss Gertie Mae Wilkins, Mr. Jasper Jones, Edward Wilkins, Mr. Dewey Hughes, Raymond Brigance and the Cooper quartet. Also, Mr. Steward and sons of Billingsley, were present and presented several numbers. The pianists were Miss Nita Jones and Mr. Raymond Brigance.

The children and grand children met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Headley, September 25, to celebrate Mr. E. H. Headley's birthday, who is 52 years old. The day was enjoyed by all who were present. At noon dinner was served to 18. His daughter, Louise, gave him a surprise cake with 52 candles. There were also four big fat chickens.

Those who enjoyed the good eats were: Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Headley, Mr. Arthur Headley and son, Horace, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Headley and children, Annie, Merle and Luther Lamar, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barrett and children, Mildred and Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Lummie Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Odis Miner, Mrs. Nunley Blackmond, Mrs. Jannie Oaks.

Everyone left wishing to meet with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. a year from today.

Mr. Headley wishes to thank all for the many useful and valuable gifts donated.

High-producing dairy herd in the Alabama Dairy Herd Improvement Associations during August was owned by F. A. Cobb, Gadsden. The herd averaged 725 pounds of milk and 32.1 pounds of butterfat. During the month there were 44 herds in the associations with a total of 1,868 cows on test. The average feed cost per 100 pounds of milk was 67 cents.

MURPHY REUNION

The children, grand children and great grand children met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy last Sunday for a annual reunion. The morning was spent in hand-shaking, laughing and talking. At noon a bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all. The dinner was spread on the ground under the large trees. There were a total number of 83 present.

Everybody began to leave about 4 o'clock in the afternoon for their respective homes, all wishing Mr. Murphy many more happy birthdays. This was his 80th birthday.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER 1

To be voted on by the voters of Alabama in the General Election on November 8, 1938.

Amendment No. 1 merely requires all of the State gasoline and other State special motor vehicle tax revenues (the 6c State gasoline; the tag tax and the 2c State lubrcating oil tax revenues) to be spent exclusively for the construction and maintenance of roads, streets and bridges, and for the retirement of road, street and bridge obligations.

The Amendment does not disturb the present distribution of these taxes. Cites and Counties will continue to receive their present shares just as they are now doing.

It does not include the ad valorem tax on motor vehicles.

It merely requires that the money collected from these taxes be spent solely for road, street and bridge purposes for which these taxes were created and levied.

Aside from the injustice of using thes monies for general governmental purposes, the principal reason why the Amendment is being offered is to protect Alabama's Federal Aid road money, which we receive each year from the Federal Government for road buildng purposes. The Federal road law under which we receive these road funds, now provides for a heavy penalty to states that spend excessive amounts of their own road funds for non-highway purposes. The maximum penalty is one-third of our annual allotment which means that Alabama could lose as much as $1,000,000 some years if diversion of these monies are permitted. We now receive from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 per year.

The ratification of this Amendment on November 8th will positively prevent any future loss of Federal road funds. Consequently, it is to the interest of everyy yvoter in the State to vote "YES" on Amendment No. 1 on November 8, 1938.

BUDGET BALANCE

When Treasury and congressional officials meet in Washington soon to discuss tax legislation they will find at least one among their number—and he is something of a Tartar—intent on tackling the federal budget also from the other end, namely, the spending end. Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is quoted as declaring to his state Democratic committee that "excessive federal spending must cease."

The admonition comes just a day after news reports that the administration expects a conference in about two weeks with heads of congressional tax committees in which, after after exploring social security taxes, the questions will be raised of broadening the income tax base and state securities. Assuming, as is evident, that more money must be raised to meet the public debt and that visible taxes are preferrable to invisible, these moves are commendable.

Even more commendable and imperative is the course pointed by Senator Harrison, which will almost surely have increased support in the coming Congress. The warning is a familiar one, but couched in a truism which given a rich nation must heed.

"No government can long continue to live beyond its means of support and maintain its credit and integrity," says Mr. Harrison. "Certainly we must take care of the hungry, but you know and I know there are thousands on the WPA rolls who have no business there. There are too many people in America who think the government exists just to take care of them."—Christian Science Monitor.

HEADING FOR TROUBLE

It is proper, in the name of that humanitarianism of which the New Deal constantly talks, to warn Harold Ickes of the danger of entering into an exchange of words with Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. The Secretary of the Interior started the fracas by saying that "no senator comes oftener and with more insistence for WPA grants than this same Senator Glass." Senator Glass's reply is studded with such gems as "confirmed blackguard, saturated with hate," "wanton falsehood," "fatuous policy of doing business," "mean and impertinent" and "coarsely upbraided." It may be doubted whether Carter Glass has even started.

If the Secretary of the Interior chooses to continue the battle he is likely to find that the Virginia Senator has a superior arsenal of facts and much greater skill in the use of these facts and in putting his thoughts and emotions into trenchant language. If Mr. Ickes wants to pick a fight, he had better start all over again.—New York Sun.

PURGE SURVIVORS

The Senate at the next session of Congress will oppose President Roosevelt more strongly than did the one at the last session.

The men who have survived the "purge" will be more independent. Not for a moment can it be said that they will love the New Deal clique after it attempted to destroy them.

Senator Gillette obtained the nomination in Iowa against plain administration opposition. Senator Van Nuys of Indiana was marked for political death. Senator Lonergan of Connecticut, Senator George of Georgia, Senator Adams of Colorado and others are on the New Deal blacklist.

NAILING IT DOWN!

Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, in a speech on freedom of the press before the American Press society, gave newspaper publishers and press associations hell.

The senator was the author of a bill which failed to pass the last Congress making it a crime "to publish as a fact anything known to be false."

It is interesting to note in passing that had the Senator's ill-starred bill become a law no newspaper would have been able to publish all of Senator Minton's speeches.—New York Worl-Telegram.

MARYLAND'S VERDICT AND MAINE'S

In a judgement as significant as any so far rendered in this year's primaries the voters of Maryland have properly rebuked the President for presuming to tell them how to cast their ballots. That Senator Tryings is thus renominated is of minor importance; he was, in the larger sense, only a symbol. What does count is the fact that a great state has reaffirmed its faith in democratic processes and provided a wholesome example of resistance to outside interference and attempted dictation.

For President Roosevelt the result is a major defeat. There is no way to make it anything else. To a greater degree than in other states he injected his personality into the contest. He campaigned actively on behalf of the opponent of Mr. Tydings. He permitted federal office-holders to venture into the field of partisan politics. At the last minute he let two great PWA projects speak moneyed words on behalf of his favorite candidate. That all these stratagems were completely ineffective is at once a tribute to the independence of the people of Maryland and a lesson to ambitious politicians everywhere.

Once again there is reassurance that the nation stands committed to tripartite rule and that it will not tolerate domination of one branch of government by either one or both of the others. In this instance it is the Executive Department which has been put soundly in its place. It will be kept there. The next Congress can be counted upon to make sure of that.

In the light of Maryland, the verdict rendered by the voters of Maine seems of comparatively small consequence. Yet to the state itself it means much that the efficient Governor Barrows has been re-elected. He has given the state one of its best administrations and he is deservedly handed a mandate to continue.

By sending to Congress a solid Republican delegation, Maine serves notice that it sees no reason to change the hostile opinion it formed of the New Deal two years ago.—Boston Transcript.

Naval authorities have decided that an ensign's marrying two years after he graduates from the U. S. Naval Academy is not misconduct. Marriage is seldom misconduct but it is taking a long chance.

When they return to Washington for the next session of Congress—and most of them will return, or will give way to Republican senators even more independent in thought—they will unquestionably be opposed to further moves for centralization of power and denial of the rights of the people to govern.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

PURGES NOT NEW

That purges are not new to the world and that even though they have been successful in late years in countries such as Russia, Germany and Italy, where the courts, the legislatures and the armed forces as well as the press and radio have fallen into the hand of one man, purges appear to have been attempted even as far back as 1649 when the attempted purger became the one who was eventually purged. History seems to be repeating itself in the United States today, where the purger has finally met his waterloo in the opposition of the public.

The Washington Star, recently dealt with such an instance editorially, in which it states.

"It seems that 'purge,' the Americanism coined to explain what happens to non-conformists in the dictatorships, is the word our own Anglo-Saxon forebears had for such procedure no fewer than three hundred years ago. The term dates back, to be precise, to the year 1649, and to an event in the Cromwellian Revolution, which was destined to be far more closely connected with the foundations of our own country than any continental European event was.

"In 1648 the Parliamentary troops occupied London, and King Charles I was placed under destraint. The House of Commons was the only authority which could act. Hence the dominant faction, representing the will of the country as against the pretensions of the crown, decided to take stepts to insure harmonious action. On December 6, Col. Thomas Pride was ordered to place his regiment in front of the House. He himself took post at the door, with a list of the objectionable members in his hand. One by one, about a hundred members were forcibly excluded. This preceeding, which came to be known as 'Pride's purge,' having been completed, the Rump, or sitting part of the Parliament, laid charges against Charles for treason; adopted a resolution asserting its sole right to govern the kingdom, without concurrence of the crown or the Lords; and appointed a trial court. By sentence of this court, Charles was put to death on the scaffold in Whitehall on January 30, 1649."

The present day success of the "purge" in other countries is due to the fact that "parliaments" are either put under control or abandoned entirely; courts and the army are controlled, leaving no avenue of escape to the people. Otherwise, a free people would purge the purger.

The primary expenses of Congressman Lewis, running for the Senate against Tydings in Maryland, were given as something like $7,000 up to August 30. This, of course, doesn't include the expense of the President's political trip to Maryland on Labor Day, which is the first Mnoday in September.

President Roosevelt, in commenting on the South Carolina primary election result said that "it is often said that it takes a long, long time to bring the past up to the present." It ought not to be so hard to catch up when the present is traveling on a merry-go-around.

When a West Side man was asked by his wife to explain the difference between direct taxation and indirect taxation, he replied: "When you ask me for money, that's direct taxation; when you go through my pockets while I am asleep, that's indirect taxation."—Exchange.

DEFEATISM

The chief trouble with a lot of Republicans, according to a wise political observer who expressed his opinion in no uncertain terms the other day, is a spirit of defeatism. How often, he continued, does one meet a Republican on the street who will say: "Yes, things are looking up in our neighborhood. More criticism of Roosevelt since he started his purge. This plunging the nation into debt further and further has a lot of people scared. Still, what is the use? You can't beat four and a half billion dollars. The New Dealers will buy themselves back into office."

Of course if the Republicans and anti-New Dealers permit themselves to be frightened out of action by the spectre of four and a half billion dollars, then the New Dealers will ride back into power.

But if they get out to attend Republican meetings, make themselves heard, and above all, if they go out to the polls and vote when election day rolls around, then the results will be a lot different than many pessimists expect them to be. It may be possible to buy a close election, but it is impossible to buy a landslide. And there will be a landslide of anti-New Deal voters if those who oppose the present condition of affairs, with its purging and its experimentation, take the trouble to register their honest convictions. The spirit of "what's the use?" is made to order for disciples of the new dispensation.

The result in California seems to indicate that a lot of folks out there would prefer a $30 a week pension to a monthly relief check.

With exception of a business meeting of the directors, which is scheduled at State Chamber offices, all other meetings will be held at the Jefferson Davis Hotel.

A program has been planned that will be instructive and helpful in the development of Alabama. CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank each and every one for their kindness and helpfulness shown our mother, Mrs. R. N. Wilit were possible I would like to thank it were possible I would love to thank each one personally.—Mrs. J. R. Askins.

IN MEMORY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gillian and bore the spirit of their baby, John Frank, to the great Beyond. We loved him, but the Lord loved him best. Do not mourn for him, dear parents, for the Lord planned all things well.

He was 10 months old and was sick only a few hours. Everything was done for him that loving hands could do, but to no avail.

We wish to thank all the good people in and near Coopers for their kindness, which was rendered us in our bereavement.—Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gillian and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ingram.

RUPTURE
SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Jefferson Davis Hotel, Montgomery, Friday and Saturday, only, October 7 and 8, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case,regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

Add. 6441 N. Richmond St., Chicago.

For 15 years assistant to F. H. Seeley, famous rupture expert of Chicago.

"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give you a crown of life." This does not mean to be faithful as long as we live. That, of course, is understood. It means to be faithful up to the point of death. In other words, be faithful enough to die. God is looking for faithful people. He appreciates faithful people. He promises a special crown of life for the man with a martyr spirit. The Hebrew children went through a fiery furnace and came out alive, but they had the hearts of martyrs. They believed that God would deliver them, but they said, "Whether He does or not we are not going to bow down to false gods." Daniel had no special fondness for a lion's den. He had rather have a comfortable bed in a nice room in a palace, but his conscience would not let him fail God in the hour of crisis. So, he took his chances in a lion's den. He came out safe and sound, but he had a martyr's heart. I wonder how many who read these lines, if an emergency should come would meet the emergency with the spirit of a martyr. Suppose some cruel Nero held sway and should demand the head of every Christian who would not go back on Jesus Christ. Would we "stay put"? Judas Iscariot sold Jesus for thirty pieces of silver. I have known people to sell Him for less than that and they were not even decent enough to hang themselves after they had done it.

The road to hell is paved with good intentions. A way down in the depth of the heart of the average man is a desire to go straight. No man really intends to go to hell. A vile sinner who believes the Bible, who believes there is a heaven and a hell would not honestly sell his hope of heaven for a million dollars. Even sinners hope sometime to change, but they delay their decision. They harden their hearts. The devil dopes them. They go out into eternity without God and without hope. It is an awful thing to be a sinner. Sin always produces hell. It produces hell in this world. It turns happy homes into places of torment. It turns peaceful nations into bloody battlefields. Sin fills the graveyards with the dead. It puts strips on convicts. It puts widow's weeds o nlonely women. It pinches wrinkles of pain in human faces. It dims the eyes and pales the cheeck. It makes the heart skip a beat. It makes the breath short. It disgraces girls. It breaks up homes. It digs a grave for a suicide. It erects the scaffold for the murderer. It populates hell. Sin is an awful thing. Jesus Christ, the sinless Son of God, took our sin on Himself and bowed His head and died. If our sin could break the heart of Jesus when He bore it, if it could cause Him to cry, "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken Me?" it will certainly damn and destroy our souls unless we trust Him Who is able to save to the uttermost all who come to God by Him. Jesus has to be a wonderful Savior to save men from sin. How good He was to die for us. How wonderful He is to save us. If you haven't trusted Him, God help you to do it.

Notice To Baptists

To the Pastors and Church Clerks of the Chilton Association:

Pastors, allow me to insist upon you to preach sermons on scripturally financing God's kingdom, and follow by taking an offering for the Cooperative Program, from now until the association meets, in order that each member of the churches may have the opportunity to do their part in the carrying forard of God's kingdom; God loves a cheerful giver.

Church clerks, please call on your pastors, deacons, and secretaries of the different organizations of your church, and all who can and will assist in filling out in the most complete way possible your letters to the association, for your minutes for the associational year will come to you just as the information is given by your associational letter.

Please let me urge upon you the importance of filling every space possible on your letter to the association. Write plainly, putting in all names and figures in their correct space, and the correct amount in each space.

You will have a new letter blank this year; read it carefully and study it closely before filling it out, as a careful study of it will be a great help to you in filling it out. Also, if htere is any church which does not receive a letter blank, see or write me; I have some that I can supply to a few churches.

May God's blessings be upon and abide with all. — S. J. M. Webb, Associational Clerk; G. G. Williams, Moderator.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—In 1918, the Bolsheviks were fixing to shoot Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, but he persuaded them to let him go to America so he could get a new wooden leg. He got it, also a beautiful wife, a $5,000,000 airplane factory, and a lot of flying records, culminating in his new east-west transcontinental record of 10 hours and 3 minutes, from New York to Los Angeles.

Seversky Gets A Wealth of Things Here

Flying for Imperial Russia in the World war, he engaged in more than 100 dogfights with the Germans and dropped 13 of them. But one day they dropped him—into the Baltic. A forty-pound bomb, which he had failed to release, exploded as the ship struck the water, and blew it to bits.

Recovering consciousness later, he discovered that, witless as he was, he had been clinging to a pontoon. The water was red around him. Shifting his good leg over the pontoon, he made a torniquet of his torn trouser leg. He swooned again, as a Russian destroyer picked him up. He crow-hopped the Chinese border on his wooden leg, as a stupid border guard refused to recognize his papers.

Washington received him hospitably, in April, 1918, and made him a consulting engineer for the army air service. He later experienced some rough going, but the only real crack-up in his career was encompassed in that drop into the Baltic. He was steadily on the uptake, designing planes, flying and bringing through his factory. In 1933, he designed and built an amphibian plane which made a record of 177.79 miles per hour. Trained in the Imperial Naval academy, he has contributed greatly to aviation engineering and design.

Several years ago, using an alarm clock and few electrical odds and ends, he made a waltzing plane, swaying rhythmically with band music from below. His waltzing days were over and he found this a satisfactory substitute.

SIMON LAKE, the inventor of the submarine, 72 years old, hopes some day to get an under-sea peek at the sunken continent of Atlantis.

Lake Out to Redeem the Submarine

In a mid-town hotel in New York, he is up to his knees in blueprints of submarine adaptations and gadgets which he hopes will be found useful by the deep sea boulevardier. His father is 91; his grandfather lived to the age of 96 and his sister to 102. Although his once red hair is white, he thinks he is just now getting his start in life.

His 25 basic patents alone made the submarine possible. Like many, possibly most, inventors, he could devise a scheme for almost anything except getting what was coming to him. So, in his genial, casual way, he is broke.

Reading Jules Verne, when he was 10 years old, led him to capsize a rowboat on the Toms river in New Jersey and test his staying powers in the submerged air chamber. In 1894, he made a wooden submarine 14 feet long, with a soda water tank supplying compressed air. It worked nicely. In 1894, he made the Argonaut, Jr., in which he cruised under the water for thousands of miles on Chesapeake bay.

Like the Wright brothers, he aroused little attention. He finally got Washington interested when he telephoned to the capitol from the bottom of the sea. His working submarine came through. Washington didn't seem to care much what he did, so he took his invention to foreign capitols. Czarist Russia made him some impressive offers but he decided they were a dissolute lot and, as a self-respecting American business man, he wouldn't have anything to do with them.

All in all, he became fed up with bureaucrats and red tape and governments in general and turned to deep sea treasure hunts. The submarines, of course, destroyed much more treasure than they ever dredged up. This troubles him. Vigorous and energetic, with a wrinkled, knobby weather-beaten face, genial and friendly, he plugs along alone in his hotel to redeem the submarine by making it a general cargo and passenger carrier.

Chilton Swamped Verbena High Last Friday 33 to 0

Melton, Carl Cooper Jones Star In Curtain Raiser At Clanton

The Chilton Tigers scratched and clawed its way to an impressive 33 to 0 victory over Verbena on the local field Friday afternoon. The locals used just about every kind of offense in the catalog, polishing up a sparkling attack on their tip-toes much of the time.

After kicking off to Verbena to start the game, Chilton held, and received the ball on their own 40. Carl Cooper and Armstrong got a first down on the Verbena 45. Then Snowy Melton cut through his left tackle, and sprinted 45 yards for a touchdown, in as pretty a piece of broken field running ever seen on the local field, with Armstrong, Locklear, Jones, and others blocking beautifully. The extra point missed and the count was 6 to 0.

Another kick-off to Verbena, Chilton held, and took the ball in midfield. Tere the juggernaut began to roll, and never stopped until Cheif Juggernaut Carl Cooper plunged over the last white line. The extra point was good; score 13 to 0.

In the second quarter, Chilton started their fancy laterals, one of which found Bucky Armstrong fighting off three tackles an stepping 65 yards for a touchdown but an official ruled he had stepped on the sideline about the 20, and the ball came back to that point; it was a pretty run. From that point line plunges took the ball to the 4-yard stripe, from where Mack Askins plunged over for the third counter. This extra point failed, and the count stood 19 to 0 at the half.

Chilton received to start the third quarter, but bogged down as the result of a fumble and a penalty for holding. They were not long denied, however, as Verbena fumbled on the first play on their own 20, and the locals score on five plays, with Bucky Armstrong lugging leather on the last jaunt into the promised land. The extra point, a nifty pass, Armstrong to Hayes, was good, and the count was good; score 26-0.

The last counter came in the last quarter, when Chilton kicked from their own 40, after having been penalized for holding, Verbena fumbled the punt, and an orange-shirt fell on the ball. Two more penalties took the Tigers back to Verbena's 40, but then came the second scintilating lateral, with the ball being tossed around basket fashion, Locklear coming out on the end of it, and racing 30 yayrds for a touchdown, going the last five yards with two tacklers hanging on. The point was good, and the count was 33 to 0.

Here Coach Spicer sent in seven second-stringers. Chilton received, and with only one paly in sight, Big Mack Askings ripped over his left side for a first down as the whistle sounded.

While the whole team shows a better balanced aggregation than last year, yet the boys miss the plunging, running and passing of Williamson, and the line experience of those who finished last year.

Worthy of especial mention in Friday's game might be named the following: Little Snowy Melton, Chilton's elusive "married man" half back, displayed his usual speed and elusiveness, and was blocking well. Armstrong was getting a flock of tackles, and doing some fancy passing and running. Carl Cooper looked like the wild bull of the Pampas as he ripped into the line for gain after gain. Locklear did a good job at the signal post, calling the plays like a good general. Askins showed the spectators that they may look out for him later.

In the line, Headley, midget guard, stood up well, and his No. 11 could be seen coming out of every tangle. Jones, lanky tackle, was a stone wall on defense, as usual.

McDowell held his position like an all-star, and Morris Taylor, a new Tiger, played a splendid game. C. D. Hayes, another new Tiger, played his end position like a veteran. Lavern Cooper, better known as Hairbrain or Dumbell, played a splendid game at the pivot post.

The players tie into Isabella next Friday. These teams are strong rivals, so if you want to see a good game, see this one.

The Repeal Havoc

Here in the United States exist conditions which are fast becoming unbearable. About half of the young people drink intoxicating liquors. Some are already habitual drunkards. More than 1,350,000 young women and girls are being used by liquor establishments to lure men to drink.

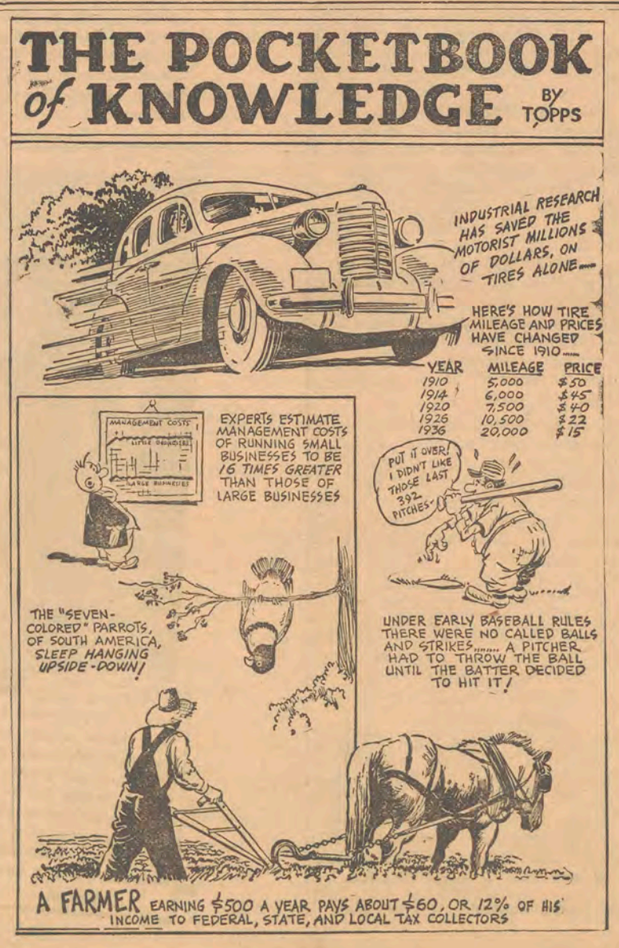
Our highways are filled with drunken drivers who menace the lives of travelers. In the year 1937, there were 39,400 deaths in traffic accidents; hundreds of thousands of persons were permanently crippled and incapacitated for coping with life's battles. Drug stores, resturants and grocery stores which five years ago were respectable establishments and carried only clean lines of merchandise are now little less than filthy saloons. Our sidewalks are clutered with drunks, even mothers with babies in their arms stagger about.

Births of idiotic babies (which during prohibition became almost an unknown thing) are rapidly increasing. Our list of defective underpriviledged children has mounted tremendously. The very air we breathe is poluted with the stench of alcohol. Kidnaping and all manner of atrocious crimes are rapidly increasing. The demands for salacious literature has grown alarmingly. It is considered smart to get on a "jag". It has become dangerous for a man to step out on a dark street much more so for a woman.

Immorality runs unchecked. Syphilis and other death-dealing diseases have increased to such a terrifing extent that our government has made huge appropriations for the purpose of curing (if possible) those afflicted, and eradication of the disease which we know is time wasted and money thrown away so long as we allow alcohol drink. Insane asylums, penal institutions and orphanges are filled to over-flowing. Many more such institutions to accomodate, increase in cases.

Very few persons, in comparison to populations, attend any church; and scarcely anyone is interested in reform or uplift work; especially is this true among the young people. Apathy, indifference and shirking of duty are now flagrant characterstics of a huge majority of our citizens. Those of us who still have a claim to respectability are content to merely drift along without lifting a finger to stop the trend to crime and shame, which grows baser and baser so prolifically, since it receives the greater part of its nourishments from alcohol.

In short, our once great nation has sunk into a quagmire of degradition from which the most uncivilized and savage country on earth should shrink with horror and disgust. We are filled with drunkenness, disease, poverty and crime of the lowest type imaginable. We stand upon the precipice of total destruction — we have forgotten our God.



"Who is to blame for our being in this horrible condition?" Some reader asks. Our answer is, "The voters of America, are to blame. You caused our once sweet smelling earth to send forth a stinch, which ascends unto the heavens, when you put that little 'X' on your ballot in front of the word 'Yes' to repeal the 18th Amendment, instead of placing it before 'No' as you should have done." You never thought that innercent little "X" would turn into a cross too heavy for us to bear—a gigantic, bloody cross, crushing us down, down into a pit of filth and slime, as repeal became effective, did you?

Mr. voter, di you remember what God says about the man who put the bottle to his neighbor's lips and made him drink? Oh, you never gave a man a drink in his life and you never touched the stuff yourself, you just voted that way because they told you it would make times better; you say, voter, you never gave a man a drink literally, but you have put the bottle to the lips of millions by your voting wet; you have made your people drink; you have placed a stumbling block in their path; you are not innocent. A man's vote is a sacred tool to be used in the carving of his country's destiny.

When you voted wet, you used that tool to take down and not build up, you used it to destroy and not to save the nation. Yes, Mr. voter, you are to blame. God keep you.—Rev. M. Lockhart, Clanton, Ala., Route 5.

TIFFIN STORE SAYING IT WITH TULIPS

Tiffin Furniture Company Is Offering a Special Collection of Tulip Bulbs Through Cooperation of Mattress Manufacturer

From all indications Clanton will be considerably beautified next Spring through the numerous plantings of tulip bulbs now being made. Tiffin reports that the Rainbow collection of Dutch tulip bulbs they recently announced in connection with their participation in the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Spring-Air Mattress, has made a big hit, and that the boxes of bulbs have been going like hot cakes. They have been obliged to re-order, and are in hopes that the full quantity asked for will be supplied. On the basis of the number of bulbs locally distributed, they have made the interesting computation that if all other distributors of this offer throughout the country are enjoying an equal demand, a total of five millions bulbs would be required to satisfy the requests. National headquarters at Holland, Michigan, announced that they could take care of orders up to a million and a half, but beyond that there was some question whether there would be any more bulbs available.

Bronson Ruffin Honored By Purina On Tuesday

Local Feed Dealer Becomes Member of Advisory Service of Co.

Mr. Louis C. Cardinal, sales manager of Southeastern Territory for Purina Mills, together with the local representative of the company, Mr. J. B. Nutter, were hosts Tuesday noon to Jeff and Bronson Ruffin, and a few business men of Clanton, had luncheon at Thomason Hotel. The occasion was the awarding a charter from the company to J. L. Ruffin, feed dealer, and likewise presenting to Bronson Ruffin a certificate declaring him the authorized advisory service representative of Purina in Chilton county.

Purina Mills are this year observing their 45th birthday, and in connection with the anniversary are placing especial emphasis on this feeding advisory service which they are offering the poultry and livestock raisers of this territory.

These gentlemen made an exhaustive explanation of the plans of the company in extending this work and advising those interested in the work as to the plans and workings of the system. This work of Purina, it seems, has come in a most opportune time for the farmers of this section; the farmer's realize that they must depend on other means of making a living other than the raising of cotton. Raising poultry and livestock seems to offer the most feasible solution, and this advisory service will surely prove invaluable to those who see fit to take advantage of it. There are, no doubt, great possibilities in the livestock and poultry business in the South and Southeast, and is a laudable undertaking that Purina has assumed to educate the people along those lines. In this the farmers of Chilton County have available to them a service that will most likely prove of incalculable worth to them.

Bronson Ruffin has taken one course in Purina's school and advisory council; there will be 3 more courses before he becomes a master in the service. He will not wait until he finishes the course, however to begin working with and advising the farmers of Chilton county. He will set in right away at this work; and in the meantime, if you have any problems worrying you relative to poultry and livestock, young Mr. Ruffin will be pleased to get with you and help you solve your problem.

Novel Colored Eggs

Messrs. Cardinal and Nutter had some eggs with them which had been especially produced as to the color of the yolk; this effect being produced by feeding the hens certain cemical rations. Some of the yolks were deep green and some were cardinal red. This is a most novel accomplishment, and goes to prove that Purina laboratories really know their hens and eggs.

THE BAD NEWS

PLEA IS DENIED FOR BETTER COTTON LOAN

Carolinian Heads Group of Southern Senators Seeking Additional Subsidies or Higher Crop Advances

Washington, Oct. 3. — Administration farm executives said today they were unable to grant congressional requests for additional subsidies on this year's cotton crop or higher government loans on cotton and wheat.

Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Jesse W. Tapp, acting agricultural adjustment administrator, told a group of senators, led by Chairman Smith (D.-S. C.) of the senate agriculture committee, that they were sympathetic with the plight of the cotton farmer but unable to act under present legislation.

Smith Criticizes Department

While Brown was explaining the agriculture department's reasons for fixing this year's cotton crop at 8.3 cents a pound instead of 11 cents plus, asked by southern senators, Smith interrupted.

"We are not going to solve this by standing around and raising our eyebrows," the veteran senator said. "We are up against the American farmer."

Brown, serving as spokesman for Secretary Wallace who was out of the city, broke in with:

"I hope you don't think the department of agriculture is against the farmer."

"I sometimes do," Smith replied quickly. "Let's call a spade a spade, and not a damned old shovel."

Senator George (D.-Ga.), like Smith a democratic primary victor despite opposition from President Roosevelt, said he thought that department officials had given "too little attention to the fundamental intent of congress," by fixing cotton loans near the minimum possible under the farm act. The Georgian said congress had greatly reuced cotton acreage in an attempt to keep cotton prices "near parity."

READ SANDERS LETTER

Just because you see it is long, do not pass up the letter in this week's paper by W. L. Sanders and not read it. This letter contains some things that the people of Chilton County ought to give due and careful consideration. Mr. Sanders says: "We sowed destruction when we destroyed our cotton, corn, wheat and hogs. These were the blessings that God gave us with which to feed and clothe humanity; but for the love of money we destroyed the blessings of God to satisfy the greed of man."

Read this letter on an inside page of this week's Union-Banner. It is a gem.

Teachers Institute Held Here Monday

Schools of County Opened For Session Tuesday Morning

About one hundred seventy-five teachers of Chilton county were in attendance at the county teachers institute at the high school building in Clanton Monday of this week; only one or two were absent, that being on account of an unavoidable hindrance.

Prof. Luther E. Little, county superintendent of education, presided over the session, which opened at 9 o'clock. Devotional was conducted by Rev. Oscar A. Davis, pastor of Clanton Baptist church, which was followed by roll call and announcements by Superintendent, Little. Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer, spoke for fifteen minutes, followed by Miss Mattie Joe Barber, home demonstration agent.

Prof. J. T. Searcy, attendance superisor, spoke for about fifteen minutes, followed by Mrs. N. S. Johnson, president of the Chilton county P.-T. A. Council.

Dr. J. W. Abercrombie, supervisor of teacher certification, State Department of Education, delivered a brief address, bring the time up to the noon hour. In the afternoon came group meetings, the high school principals and teachers meeting with Pro. Patterson Hicks as leader, and the junior high school teachers with Prof. M. S. Smith as leader. The elementary teachers met with Miss Schuter.

Prof. Mayo, connected with the educational end of WPA in the State, delivered a brief address, followed by a business meeting of all the teachers. The closing of the day's work was that of the Extension groups.

All the new teachers of the county were asked to stand; there were about twelve or fifteen who thus signified that they were teaching for their first time in the county this year.

As has been customary for the past several years, the schools of the county not already open, began their year's work the next day following the institute, Tuesday, October 3rd.

FOUR INJURED IN AUTO WRECK SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Spigener's ambulance answered a wreck call up above Jemison about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and picked up Mr. and Mrs. James P. Blankenship, their four-year-old child and the husband's mother, Mrs. Bulah Blankenship. The four injured people were carried to Highland Avenue Baptist Hospital, Birmingham, for attention.

The four people, residents of Siluria, Ala., met with an automobile accident at the first crossing on the Montevallo cut-off near Haggard's store, when their automobile collided with another car coming to the crossing from a side direction. Both automobiles were badly demolished, but the occupants of the other car came out uninjured.

The elderly lady was suffering chest and back injuries, while the child seemed to have sustained painful injuries in the face. Mr. Blankenship was only slightly injured, while his wife suffered a broken shoulder.

MRS. ANGELINE ALRED DIED

Mrs. Angeline Alred, age 83, mother of Hance and Bud Alred, died at her home near Samaria Thursday morning, September 29th. The aged lady had been suffering from a broken hip sustained in a fall two weeks ago.

Burial was at Samaria Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock, services conducted by Rev. Oscar A. Davis, assisted by Rev. R. C. Edge, pastor of Capital Heights Baptist church, Montgomery. Spigener was in charge.

Surviving are two sons and four daughters. The husband, Joseph C. Alred, died sixteen years ago. Mrs. Alred was the daughter of Sinclair Jones; a former commissioner of Chilton county; the family resided in old Salem community on the river up until some thirty-five years ago.

Gradie Wyatt, of Providence, Beat 16, killed a rattler Monday morning measuring 5 feet, four inches, and having 21 rattles. It measured ten inches around; was killed at the head of Cool Branch near the home of Riley Robinson.

Chilton County Post American Legion is called in special meeting on Monday night, October 17th, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of getting the post lined up for the coming year's work, and to further effect the reorganization of the auxiliary. A fine meeting was held Monday night, October 3rd, at which some interesting speakers appeared from other posts of the State. A tentative auxiliary was organized at this meeting.

All ex-service men, their wives, daughters and sisters are urged to attend this meeting Monday night, October 17th, at the courthouse in Clanton. You are urged to lay aside everything and attend this important meeting.

ALA. POWER COMPANY TO SPEND $383,000 FOR IMPROVEMENT

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 3.—Alabama Power Company today announced a $383,000 improvement and addition program for its transmission and distribution facilities in Southeast Alabama. This amount covers only the major equipment which will be purchased or moved into the territory and does not include regular minor extensions and additions which are made from year to year and which will probably amount to several hundred thousand dollars ore during the next 12 months, if business continues at present levels or improves.

Preliminary engineering work has been in progress for some weeks on the project, materials and equipment are alread on hand or on order and work in the field is scheduled to start about October 15 with view of completion about March 15, 1939.

This improvement program is the result of consideration given to the growth in the use of electric service in Southeast Alabama and to future prospects for this territory.

The project includes a partial rebuilding of the present high voltage supply line to Union Springs; the extension of 110,000 volt service as far as Eufaula; the reconstruction of the 44,000 volt line between Eufaula and Dothan, and extension improvements and additions in and around Dothan.

The completion of this program should result in still more dependable electric service for Southeast Alabama. Its inauguration represents the conviction of officials of Alabama Power Company that the development of Southeast Albaama may be expected to continue. The program announced will mean sizeable expenditures in the section for labor, construction material and supplies and other services within the improvement area.

Officials of Alabama Power Company state, that: "This substantial improvement program is in line with the Company's policy of providing electrical facilities in line with both the immediate and anticipated electric service needs of the territory it serves."

For Friday, Saturday and Monday only, we will give $2 off on all Nestyle Eugene Duart and Oil of Tulip Permanents.—Helene Curtis Beauty Shoppe, 2 blocks east of City Hall.—Essie Mae Mims. 9-29-2tc

Circulation of air and fairly warm temperature are important for proper drying out of the potatoes before they are put into storage. The storage temerature should be about 55 to 60 degrees but where it is impossible to place them in storage and maintain this temperature they should be placed in the cellar or a relatively tight building and covered with hay, shucks, or straw as a protection from cold weather.

P. O. Davis, statet extension director, said the recent Fat Hog Show and Sale at Columbus, Ga., at which Russell County farmers and 4-H club members won $216 in prizes and received $2,985.65 from the sale of their hogs was only one xample of the progress Alabama is making toward putting hog production on a paying basis on more farms. In addition, 90 per cent of the approximately 500 hogs were high quality animals.

An economical method of protecting farm biuldings and foundation of the home and barn from termites and decay is the use of either crude or refined creosote, advises H. W. Dearing, assistant agricultural engineer of the Alabama Extension Service.

Mrs. W. V. Bell, president of the Grady Home Demonstration club in Montgomery County believes she has some sort of record on mattress making. She had cotton picked on the farm Monday morning, ginned Monday afternoon, made into a mattress on Tuesday and slept on the mattress Tuesday night.

Fumigate seeds by placing in airtight container and treating with carbon disulphide, advises W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist. Half cupful s sufficient to treat a barrel of seed. Place liquid in shallow receptacle on top of seed pile, and close container to make it air-tight. Allow to remain for 1 to 2 days. Seed should not be treated thoroughly dry. If seed are in sealed bags these should be opened before treating.

ANNUAL CONVENTION COMING TO CLANTON

The annual convention of the Alabama District Council Assemblies of God will convene with the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle Assembly October 10-13th, under the large tent now erected by the church. The committees will begin their work Monday afternoon the 10th. The opening message of the convention will be given at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday by Elder J. C. Thames, of Elba, Ala., who will preside throughout the convention.

About 300 ministers and others are expected to attend from all over the State, and quite a few visitors from out of the State. The devotional services will begin each morning at 9:00 o'clock and the business sessions at 9:30 a. m. There will be preaching at 11 a. m., 2 p. m., and 7:30 p. m. each day.

The general superintendent, Elder Ernest S. Williams, of Springfield, Mo., is expected to be present and do much of the preaching during the convention. The public is cordially invited to all of these services.—J. C. Thames, District Superintendent.

STATE'S INCOME IS HIGHEST YET

Figures Show $90,000,000 But The Amount Is Not Really That Big

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 3. — The state's income for the 1937-38 fiscal year ending tomorrow will exceed $90,000,000 — or an expenditure per person of approximately $30.

The income is the highest on record. Last year total receipts were $71,548,045.

Figures in the state comptroller's office reveal that the state's income from all sources, including Federal grants and payments to the Unemployment Compensation Commission, through September 26 was $88,407,717.

Daily average receipts were $244,899.

The $77,407,717 by no means represents taxes paid nor does it present a true total of the state's income.

Due to the system of bookkeeping used by the state, many sums are counted twice. It is estimated that these recounts, listed as refunds and transfers will amount to $20,000,000.

Lesson for October 9

SPIRITUAL WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:4-6; 32:1-8; John 4:19-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.—John 4:24.

"The First Commandment bids us to worship God exclusively; the Second bids us to worship Him spiritually. The First Commandment forbids us to worship false gods; the Second forbids us to worship the true God under false forms" (Farrar). Israel had lived among the Egyptians, a people known for their worship of images, and was about to enter into Canaan where there were many false gods. The Lord was therefore careful not only to forbid the worship of other gods, but also to forbid the making of images of any kind, whether they represented the many gods of heathendom, or were attempts to symbolize the true God. In studying this lesson we need to exercise care lest we miss the point by talking only of the gods of wood and stone which the heathen worship, and fail to apply the truth to any improper use of images which may prevail in our land and in the present day. Let us lay aside any preconceived notions and face the facts in the light of God's Word.

I. True Worship Required (Exod. 20:4-6).

This commandment expressly forbids idolatry in any form. The injunction is twofold. (1) Men are forbidden to make any material likeness which to them represents a being to be worshiped. It matters not whether it be an image of what men believe God to be like, or the image of an angelic being, a heavenly body, in fact "anything that is in the heaven above," or on the earth—such as a man or animal; or under the water—such as a fish. (2) If such objects have been made either by ourselves or others we may not bow down to them, nor render any service to them. Let us all examine our religious ceremonies and practices in the light of God's commandment.

Observe that obedience to this command brings rich blessing to "thousands" (v. 6), whereas disobedience is a curse not only to the man who disobeys, but also to his descendants. Spiritual blight so often runs through whole families, while spiritual life just as often blesses those who follow us. Blessed is the man who gives his children and his children's children a true spiritual heritage, but woe be unto that man who passes on the darkness and spiritual death of unbelief to his children!

II. False Worship Established (Exod. 32:1-8).

It comes to us as a real shock that a people so highly privileged, so well-instructed and so ably led as Israel should turn to idolatry. The story reveals the depravity of the human heart. Their excuse that Moses was gone was only an excuse without foundation. They did what their hearts wanted to do, and they used his absence to put forward their wicked desires.

Let us be careful lest we be misled or indeed, mislead ourselves into creating a God after the concept of our own heart and mind. We, like Israel, may be tempted to "make us gods" to which we will bow down and worship. It may not be out of place at this point to warn against a folly which seems to have laid hold of the church, that of almost deifying our Christian leaders. A man who is called to speak for God is a highly privileged man, worthy of our support and our respect. But let us remember that he is only a servant, an instrument in God's hand, and let us never be guilty of worshiping and serving "the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed forever" (Rom. 1:25).

III. True Worship Defined (John 4:19-24).

One would suppose that a truth so vital and fundamental as that stated in these verses would long since have completely saturated the life of the church as well as of the individual believer. "God is a Spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Even in this year of our Lord 1938, countless men and women still believe that worship has something to do with place (vv. 20, 21) or race (v. 22) or some other external device or formula. What a pity that this should be true when the gracious and delightful way to worship is through personal spiritual communion between God and man.

Deadening formalism is not our only enemy. There is the powerless preachment of modernism—and in all honesty must we not admit that even some so-called fundamentalism has in many respects lost the true spirit of the faith for which it rightly contends. We who cherish the truth of God's Word will shun modern liberalism. We may not be tempted to obscure the worship of God by formalism. But we may be in danger of a dead orthodoxy, being as someone said "orthodox about everything except I Corinthians 13"—or failing to worship God in spirit and in truth and not living out that spirit in loving service to our brethren.

Cornered by Lion, Woman Cows Him With Light Beam Till Help Arrives

CHASED and cornered by a mountain lion on a California ranch, Mrs. Mary Alexander, of San Ardo, Calif., owes her life to a light with which she kept the beast at bay until help arrived.

Mrs. Alexander had spent the day at a neighbor's rodeo and, riding home after dusk, dismounted to open a gate. Her mare had been "acting skittish," she said, but she attributed this to eagerness to get home. As Mrs. Alexander swung the gate open, the mare bolted and disappeared.

That meant a hike to a corral, about a half mile away, where there was a telephone connected with the ranch house. Mrs. Alexander set out to telephone for a lift home. She had got within a few hundred feet from the corral when a blood-curdling cry rent the air. She recognized it instantly as the cry of a mountain lion.

"I whirled around," said Mrs. Alexander, "and looked straight into two eyes like live coals. How close they were I don't know—I turned and ran for the corral. When I reached the place where the telephone was, the lion came close, as if he were going to spring. I grabbed the telephone and began grinding the crank. The noise frightened the beast, and he retreated a few feet.

"Even as I rang, I had no hope that help could reach me in time. Then I saw a flashlight on the telephone box. I picked it up, determined that when the lion attacked me, I would try to use it as a weapon. I pressed the switch and played the beam of light on my enemy.

"Instantly the lion snarled and backed away, blinking and shifting about to get away from the glare of the light. Whenever I relaxed my vigilance for an instant the beast quickly advanced again. This continued until he finally heard the approaching ranchers, when he fled. If I hadn't known that all the ranch flashlights were kept loaded with fresh batteries and that I could depend upon this one to continue working, I'm afraid I would have lost my nerve. And if the light had failed for any reason, I'm sure that the men from the ranch would have had their trip for nothing, because that lion meant business."

Mrs. Alexander learned later that her mare had arrived home, sweating and excited, after bolting at the gate. She undoubtedly had sensed the presence of the lion in the neighborhood.

PLOWING TERRACE CHANNELS

Proper plowing of terrace channels twice a year is essential to good terrace maintenance, according to Mr. James H. Wood of the soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Ala.

Since growing crops hinder the plowing of terraces, the period between the harvesting of summer crops and the planting of fall-sown grain or winter legumes is an excellent time to do terrace maintenance. Heavy rains during the past cultivating season caused considerable silting of terraces on clean-tilled fields, Mr. Wood said.

Plowing of terrace channels in the spring and fall can be done with a turning plow as the land is prepared for crops. Where breaks have occurred should be repaired with drag pan and shovel.

Where terrace ends have silted up, it is highly important that they be opened to permit water to flow freely out of the channel and prevent overtopping, Mr. Wood added.

Mr. Chas. S. Deason left Friday to assume his duties as private secretary and law clerk to Judge Leon McCord of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and will be located both in Montgomery and New Orleans. Mr. Deason is the son of the late Judge E. B. Deason, former Democratic Probate Judge of Chilton County, and is well known locally.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDowell, of Chattanooga, Tenn., visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed Giles Saturday and Sunday.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We are glad to say our church is still growing and getting more interested in the work and service of the Lord. We feel that Bro. Robinson's term as our faithful pastor is still bearing fruits. People are becoming more interested in going out after the ones who have gone astray and bringing them to church; we are becoming more interested in the lost souls of man. So, we want to pin a bouquet on Bro. Robinson while he is living to show him we thank him for his tireless efforts at Poplar Springs.

The group-captains chose sides Sunday night, and we want to see which group can put on the best programs. We also have started Bible drills in B. Y. P. U. It's lots of fun at the same time it helps us to learn more about the Bible. All this and similar things are contributing to the up-building of our church.

Mr. J. L. Smith will conduct prayer service Thursday night. We also hope to have one or two special songs. So everybody come.

We had visitors from Samaria Sunday night, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Logan. We were glad to have them with us and ask them to come back.

We will hold conference next Sunday to get the letter ready for the association.—Reporter.

Two farmers were talking on the streets the other day. One said: "I have plenty of peas, plenty of potatoes, plenty of corn, plenty of meat, milk and butter, and if there is not a great change between now and Christmas I will be the fattest, biggest and raggedest sucker that ever marched through Chilton county."

ADDRESS OF E. H. LITTLEJOHN LAST SATURDAY

I am pleased to adress you on a subject so vital, the very fabric of a Democracy.

My theme, this afternoon is, "Our Indebtedness to our Neighbors and Nation."

Our first obligation is to inform ourselves.

Ignorance or stupidity makes us the prey of those who are politically alert as to foreign influence on our political fiber, even to communism or other foreign elements.

Paul said to the Roman church, "I Am Debtor To The Greeks And The Barbarians, To The Learned And The Unlearned."

Our possessions make us debtors to our neighbors, nation, and unborn generations. What are we doing about it?

We read in Leviticus 25-10, "Proclaim Liberty Throughout all the land." This quotation is also written on the side of the old "Liberty-Bell", which hangs in the State House in Philadelphia.

Paul said, "Standfast, Therefore In The Liberty Wherewith Christ Hath Made You Free, And Be Not Entangled With The Yoke Of Bondage."

There are the lost ten tribes of Israel that we will endeavor to follow from the northern kingdom in the old world to Chilton county.

This oppressed people, the lost ten tribes of Israel, rose up out of all the oppression and persecuted in the days of "Bloody Mary," at the time of the overthrow of the Roman Empire, when Europe was drenched in blood during the 16th Century.

They started a steady march in quest of "Liberty," undauntingly determined, led, as we believe, by the hand of God until He planted their feet firmly on the soil of the North American Continent.

And here after many hardships and battles they wrote that famous decuent that startled the world, "The Constitution of the United States of America."

What is your indebtedness to this? Are we a trifle?

Possessions like these of ours demand that we sit as kings and queens in gratitude to God; to the faithful blood of the martyrs; to Paul Revere in his mid-night ride; to that grand old General Washington, who the breastworks, commanding his men, and suffering with them at Valley Forge.

What are we going to do about it? Make it a play-ground, or a trifle? Or will we measure up to the standards of citizenship in our great and grand old Chilton County?

Or will we sell out for a 5c cirgar or a pat on the back, thus trifling away our liberty and power in government to the alert, well-informed political mind filled with selfish aims?

There is a trend to surrender the greatest liberty of earth just by listening to, may I say, two or three in a church or a community.

This centralization of power began in the church, one, three or as many as five hundred or a thousand surrendering or submitting their responsibility to what two or three will say.

This trend has gone even to Washington.

God bless Chilton County and it's people.

The Farmer
The Forgotten Man

Editor Union-Banner:

I have heard and read lots about the New Deal, the forgotten man, Etc., and I have tried to figure out what these two expressions mean. I have come to the conclusion that, although the intention was probably good, yet as it has worked out, the New Deal is simply robbing the farmer and working man of all that he can earn, and has let him go naked to face the hot sun and endure the wintry winds, while those thousands of $10,000 a year government bureau employees are getting fat off of the hard-earned pittances us poor devils earn and have to pay back as high taxes. Yes, indeed, it is easy now for us to see who the poor forgotten man is—the one that Mr. Roosevelt had such great feeling for before the election but whom he also forgot soon after he got into office. The farmer and working man like you and me—that is the forgotten man—and we are forgotten now more than ever before in the history of the world.

If you don't believe the common people are in a sad state of affairs, just go to the relief office in Clanton where the farmers are signing up for the WPA. That will give you an idea of what the New Deal has driven the people to in Chilton County, and I guess it is the same way everywhere. Are we in better shape than we were two years ago, or five years ago. You know the answer fellow sufferers.

Dear voters, I wish you would just get out and look around you and see the poor hungry children, crying for bread, and facing a cold winter without sufficient clothing to keep the cold wind from biting their skin:

The farmers of Chilton County have worked hard and have earned an honest living, but have we got it? Who is to blame that we have been denied what we have worked for? You know it is the men in the high offices. Will we continue to elect such men to office? No, we have got quite enough to convince us that we must have a chance in our government officials. The court last week sent off three boys for robbery, which was no doubt just punishment for them; but what about the big boy in the swivel chair who in a very polite way takes from thousands of poor farmers and workers that which they have earned by the honest sweat of their brows? Is it right for them to get by with their legal racketeering?

We have heard those Hoover days cussed and discussed, but I say give me back those good old days of freedom when I can say I am a free man and can get a dollar's worth for every dollar earned and spent, instead of having to take 55 cents for every dollar I have done two dollar's worth of work for.

If the voters of the country will use the experience we have had for the last few years, with a little common sense, there will be some changing going on in November. We will put some of these swivel chair boys to work for a living instead of drawing $10,000 a year from the forgotten man. There is only one way to do it, and that is for Republicans and Democrats to turn their backs on the New Deal on November 8th. Yours for a fair deal for the farmer and working man.—J. R. Huckabee, Jemison, Ala., Route 2.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

"OFF-GUARD" PICTURES

For more natural pictures, catch subjects "off-guard"—unaware of the camera.

MOST people like to have their pictures taken. In fact, they like it so well that when they see the camera they put on a special "picture expression." And as a rule this special "picture face" isn't what we want at all.

There's a way to keep your subjects from seeming camera-conscious. Briefly, it is—"Catch them when they aren't looking." Don't let them know their picture is being taken.

Pictures so taken are known as "off-guard" snapshots. Such snaps attract attention because they picture the subject in a natural, characteristic pose and get away from the usual look-at-the-camera-and-smile type of picture with which we are all too familiar. An "off-guard" picture can tell a real story while the other type tends to be just a record picture.

How to take them? It's easy. Just learn to handle your camera unobtrusively. Wait until your subject is paying no attention to you. Then casually snap his picture. It's all a matter of using your camera nonchalantly and efficiently. The better you can do that, the more easily you can capture snapshots that are truly "off-guard."

If you use a focusing camera, with fast lens, try to anticipate picture opportunities, and set the camera in advance for distance and proper exposure. Then when the snapshot chance develops, all you need do is shoot.

For example, to take the picture above, the camera was set in advance for six feet. Lens and shutter were set for an exposure of 1/50 second at f.11—less than normal, because the bright, sunny beach was reflecting plenty of light. On a grassy lawn, which reflects little light, exposure would have been 1/50 at f.8. With his camera pre-set, all the picture taker had to do was wait for the melon to be cut, and catch his companion's delighted expression. It was just a matter of lifting the camera and snapping the shutter.

If you haven't tried taking "off-guard" shots, try it. It's fun, and the results are a delight.

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—This writer has always thought it would be a good idea for the newspapers of a city to make an award every year to the person who had provided them with the most good copy. In New York, I would nominate Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, for 39 years curator of mammals and reptiles at the Bronx zoo, almost any year. He has just left for Trinidad to catch some parasol ants, which he has been craving for a long time. It has been generally supposed that the ants pack leaves and petals for shade. Dr. Ditmars puts us right on that. They gather them only for food.

Dr. Ditmars Superlative News Source

The curator has exploded many myths, but usually substitutes something even more interesting. Reptiles haven't the slightest interest in sweet music and aren't soothed by it, monkeys will return to cleared jungle if it grows again; the mother snake does not swallow the little ones in times of danger.

But, being thus disillusioned, we learn from Dr. Ditmars that there are sea serpents, great schools of them, in the Indian ocean and the western tropical Pacific. They are as gaudy as an Elks' parade, with cold, beady eyes, and emit a dreadful venom. Dr. Ditmars carries them on the books as hydrophiinae.

There are flying snakes, fish that climb trees, fish that shoot down bugs out of the air by expelling pellets of water like an air gun, frogs that can swallow rats, frogs with vocal power 1,000 times that of a man, insects which are carried by jungle people for flashlamps, animals which can travel 60 miles an hour and animals which never lie down.

Dr. Ditmars is 62 years old. At the age of 15, he began gathering insects for the Museum of Natural History. He had a year of newspaper work before joining the staff of the zoo, which may account for his being a friendly Santa Claus to reporters.

IT IS recalled that Homer Martin, the fighting parson who contends with John L. Lewis in a Faustian struggle for the body and soul of the automobile union, was the world hop, skip and jump champion just a few years ago—and may be still. It is only three years ago that he quit the pastorate of the Leeds Baptist church in Kansas City, got a job in the Fisher plant, organized the local of the United Automobile Workers' union and became its first international president.

Homer Martin May Still Be World Champ

His battle soon turned from the bosses to the left-wingers of the union and that's the issue of his contention with Mr. Lewis. Getting under way, he eloquently plastered William Green of the A. F. of L. and it is not clear where he would be headed in case of a final break with the C. I. O. leadership.

He is tall, athletic—once a track star for the Illinois Athletic club—with a wide, ready smile and shell-rimmed glasses. He gets $3,000 a year for a whole lot of trouble and strife, but seems to enjoy it. He is 36 years old, born and reared on a southern Illinois farm.

THIS writer knew quite a number of early-day aviators, including Lincoln Beachey, Art Smith, Bob Fowler, Si Christofferson and others, and he always wondered why none of them ever dressed the part They all were as drab as so many gray moths, while their role certainly called for a dash of color. One thought of the sartorial dash of d'Artagnan, Porthos and Athos if they had been riding the skies.

Col. Turner In Splashes Of Gay Colors

Col. Roscoe Turner, who recently lifted the Thompson trophy at Cleveland, for the second time, winning $22,000, satisfies a long-felt want. His flying togs are modeled on the old-time pousse cafe, calculated to give him protective coloring against a flaming sunset, but high visibility from below.

For years, off and on, he has been picking up records in pink pants and a lavender tunic, or in an ensemble blending many shades of blue, cerise and henna, with a rakish English officers' cap, ruddy face, Grover Whalen wax-tipped mustache and a couple of octaves of fine teeth. Here, as the old books on decorum would have it, is an outfit which would take you around the world.

Colonel Turner is of California background, the title being a dispensation of the governor of that also colorful state.

STATE'S INCOME HIGHER THAN EVER BEFORE

Figures Show $90,000,000 But The Amount Is Not Really That Big

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 3. — The state's income for the 1937-38 fiscal year ending tomorrow will exceed $90,000,000 — or an expenditure per person of approximately $30.

The income is the highest on record. Last year total receipts were $71,548,045.

Figures in the state comptroller's office reveal that the state's income from all sources, including Federal grants and payments to the Unemployment Compensation Commission, through September 26 was $88,407,717.

Daily average receipts were $244,899.

The $77,407,717 by no means represents taxes paid nor does it present a true total of the state's income.

Due to the system of bookkeeping used by the state, many sums are counted twice. It is estimated that these recounts, listed as refunds and transfers will amount to $20,000,000.

An economical method of protecting farm biuldings and foundation of the home and barn from termites and decay is the use of either crude or refined creosote, advises H. W. Dearing, assistant agricultural engineer of the Alabama Extension Service.

Two farmers were talking on the streets the other day. One said: "I have plenty of peas, plenty of potatoes, plenty of corn, plenty of meat, milk and butter, and if there is not a great change between now and Christmas I will be the fattest, biggest and raggedest sucker that ever marched through Chilton county."

Swim With Safety Is Object Of Red Cross Training

Girls in swimming class learn prone pressure method of resuscitation of victim of drowning.

EVERY year shows increasing thousands of people engaging in water sports, flocking to beaches and pools, and to unprotected swimming holes while picnicking and camping. Yet deaths by drowning have shown a steady decline in the past 25 years, until from a former annual death toll of 12,000 persons, now only an average of 7,000 persons needlessly surrender their lives while at play in the water.

The American Red Cross, which has led in water safety instruction and life saving in the nation for 25 years, attributes this encouraging decline to increased knowledge of safety rules in swimming, the widespread knowledge of resuscitation of the drowning person, and increased protection of the tyro swimmer at beach and pool.

Red Cross chapters throughout the nation sponsor training of life savers, and 82,000 persons were trained in this vital knowledge during the past year.

The instruction by the Red Cross not only water-proofs the individual swimmer, but it teaches him how he can, with greatest safety to himself, be most helpful in saving the life of a person in distress.

FOREST SERVICE TO ISSUE PERMITS TO HUNTERS

The open season for hunting squirrels is almost at hand, the season this year being scheduled from October 15 through January 15.

District Forest Ranger, Cecil E. Clapp, in charge of all National Forests lands in Bibb, Chilton, Dallas, Perry, Hale and Tuscaloosa Counties, has announced that permits will be issued to those persons desiring to hunt on Government-owned land. This permit will be available to anyone who purchases the regular County or State license, an who wishes to hunt on Forest Service land in the abovednamed counties.

In order to secure a permit, the applicant should write to Ranger Clapp, in care of The Forest Service, Selma, Ala., giving full name, mailing address, number of license, and county in which license was purchased. Or application may be made by contacting any of the Forest Service towermen or other field men.

The only Forest Service area in this section restricted to hunters is the newly-established game refuge comprising about 60,000 acres, located approximately in the center of the area, formerly under the supervision of the Resettlement Administration in Hale, Tuscaloosa, Bibb, and Perry counties. A portion of this area is familiarly known as the Kaul Lumber Company tract. The boundaries of the refuge are now being posted by the Alabama Department of Conservation.

AIABAMA POWER CO. TO SPEND HUGE SUM FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 3.—Alabama Power Company today announced a $383,000 improvement and addition program for its transmission and distribution facilities in Southeast Alabama. This amount covers only the major equipment which will be purchased or moved into the territory and does not include regular minor extensions and additions which are made from year to year and which will probably amount to several hundred thousand dollars ore during the next 12 months, if business continues at present levels or improves.

Preliminary engineering work has been in progress for some weeks on the project, materials and equipment are alread on hand or on order and work in the field is scheduled to start about October 15 with view of completion about March 15, 1939.

This improvement program is the result of consideration given to the growth in the use of electric service in Southeast Alabama and to future prospects for this territory.

The project includes a partial rebuilding of the present high voltage supply line to Union Springs; the extension of 110,000 volt service as far as Eufaula; the reconstruction of the 44,000 volt line between Eufaula and Dothan, and extension improvements and additions in and around Dothan.

The completion of this program should result in still more dependable electric service for Southeast Alabama. Its inauguration represents the conviction of officials of Alabama Power Company that the development of Southeast Albaama may be expected to continue. The program announced will mean sizeable expenditures in the section for labor, construction material and supplies and other services within the improvement area.

Officials of Alabama Power Company state, that: "This substantial improvement program is in line with the Company's policy of providing electrical facilities in line with both the immediate and anticipated electric service needs of the territory it serves."

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Miss Louise A. Boyd, wandering far from sunny San Rafael in California, pushes farther up the East Greenland coast than any American ever went before. She was a comely woman of 30, skilled in the rubric of serving tea and all the niceties of Victorian etiquette before she shoved into the ice pack and began pot-shooting polar bears—nine in one day. She might have felt like the late William James who, free from a long stretch at a Wisconsin chautauqua, asked passersby if they could direct him to a nice Armenian massacre.

Venturesome Louise Boyd Modest Soul

For the last 12 years she has been equipping stout little Norwegian sealers for her Arctic expeditions. She has trained herself in scientific observations and her findings are published under scientific auspices. She holds decorations from two foreign governments and the American Geographical society has published two of her books. She surveyed a stretch of the Greenland coast, previously uncharted, and for this the Danish government named the area Miss Boyd Land. She has ventured farther north than any other white woman.

She dislikes publicity and has little of the histrionic sense common to explorers. So far as the reporters are concerned, she might just as well make an expedition to Flatbush. At great labor and expense it has been ascertained, however, that she takes a nice wardrobe north with her and that she always powders her nose before going on deck. She probably was trapped into these indiscreet admissions as she has made it clear that all this is nobody's business.

Weaving through ice packs on an Atlantic voyage gave her her big idea. One of her chief interests on her northern voyages is photography. She is the daughter of John Boyd, wealthy Californian. The old manse at San Rafael, which this writer has seen on occasion, is a citadel of decorum, from which, it would seem, none would ever wander, so far and so dangerously.

THOSE who liked Thomas Mann's "The Coming of Democracy," will find in Dr. Cyrus Adler, who celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday just the other day, a living statement of Herr Mann's theme. A scholar and humanist, he has given his life to an exemplification of democracy as an ethical and cultural aspiration and not a political formula—which is Thomas Mann's impassioned thesis. This writer thought of that when he read the book, and spotted up Doctor Adler's birthday in the future book for attention here.

Dr. C. Adler Embodiment of Mann's Theme

He is the only president of two colleges, Dropsie college of Philadelphia and the Jewish Theological Seminary of New York. A fellow of Johns Hopkins university, where he obtained his doctorate, he taught at the University of Baltimore. He has been a stanch defender of science and the humanities against bigotry and insularity through the more than half-century of his teaching, writing and speaking.

At his retreat at Woods Hole, Mass., he is still creative, alert and vigorous. He is saluted here as the proprietor of one of our most important birthdays.

DR. GEORGE D. BIRKHOFF, professor of mathematics at Harvard, seems to be the first to note the competition in the academic world from the influx of superintellectual refugees from Europe. As the doctor sees it, mathematicians won't be worth a dime a dozen if these highly gifted men keep on coming. However, his observations indicate no narrow insularity on his part. He is all for the enrichment of our intellectual life, but notes that somebody may have to ride on the running board with all this overcrowding.

Prof. Birkhoff Warns of Influx Of Intellectuals

When Einstein began batting his hot relativity grounders this way, Doctor Birkhoff was one of the few men in America who could field them. He is a prolific writer in the overlapping zone of mathematics and philosophy, one of the most heavily garlanded men in the scholastic world, a distinguished Catholic layman holding high papal honors for scholarship. He is a native of Michigan, educated at the University of Chicago and Harvard.

Mr. Clark Headley, of Pinedale community, came home last week from Marion, S. C., and went to work at The Union-Banner office.

WAR SCARE

Americans can be thankful to some of those Senators whom the administration has attempted to purge, for keeping us out of the League of Nations and the World Court. For if ew had been so entangled the recent war scare in Europe would have been more than a scare and the boys of our nation would already be facing the bullets fo some foreign army. The fact that we were not in the European squables which are numerous, but the weakness of the League and the World Court through our absence has no doubt caused Great Britain and France to refuse to exchange several millions of more lives to settle what some call a principle.

Only an imbecile would fail to have great sympathy for Czechoslovakia in its recent predicament, but our part should end there. We had sympathy for other nations 20 years ago and turned that to direct help. We sacrificed tens of thousands of lives of promising young men and so disorganized our system of government through the economic strain on it that we are still feeling the bad effects today.

If we rushed to the rescue of every country that went to war we would be in continuous wor. We could have been in Ethopia, Spain, Austria, China and Czechoslovakia, practcally all at the same moment. We could by setting such precedent spread ourselves so thin that we ourselves would soon be lost in the many deals and redeals that make up Old World politics.

The creation of Czechoslovakia by the League twenty yars ago was possibly a major error. It created a small nation that sooner or later was to become the prey of larger nations. What is happening now in Czechoslovakia is merely a redeal of its mixed nationals.

NOT MERELY ECONOMIC

There are doubtless reasons enough for the rise in the number of WPA workers to an all-time high, for employment and business activity are still off from normal, however you figure it. It os now feared in Washington that, if the present rate of addition to the rolls continues, the funds available may be exhausted a month too soon. This is indeed a gloomy outlook, one which hardly fits in with the New Deal theory that happy days are here again only when New Deal policies are put into effect.

Indisputably, the economic situation is not perfect, in spite of five years of Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to improve upon the apostles of reaction. But in this heated season of political campaigns it may be that the rise of WPA workers to 3,038,875 is not of purely economic interest. It is just barely possible, to judge from what one can read in the newspapers, that the new high in the number of relief workers reflects a political emergency also. —Baltimore Sun.

Youth is not the age of pleasure; we then expect too much, and are, therefore, exposed to daily disappointments and mortfications. When we are a little older, and have brought down our wishes to our experience, then we become calm and begin to enjoy ourselves.—Lord Liverpool.

A good man is the best friend, and therefore soonest to be chosen, longest to be retained and indeed never to be parted with, unless he ceases to be that for which he is chosen. — Jeremy Taylro.

THE PURGE

The purge is over with varying effects. The major victories for the White House, in its effort to return a "rubber stamp" legislature to Washington, were the renomination of its senatorial leader, Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, and the defeat of its balking House Rules Committee chairman, Congressman John O'Conner of New York for the Democratic nomination but who won the Republican nomination. On the other hand, the White House lost two of its strongest leaders in the Senate, James P. Pope of Idaho and William Gibbs McAdoo of California, and two in the House, Maury Maverick of Texas and Herman P. Kopplemann of Connecticut. It failed to defeat Senators Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, Ed Smith of South Carolina, Walter F. George of Georgia, Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana, Bennett Champ Clark, and others marked for purge.

But it is being whispered in some quarters that the White House claims an accomplishment as a result of the drive it made, i. e., that it had proved there is some hope for a third term for Mr. Roosevelt by driving all conservatives into one political group and the radicals and so-called "liberals" into another; that the purge test, although 99 per cent against the aministration, showed up the weak angles in this plan which can be corrected by 1940. One of the weak points, it is understood, is the necessity of joining together the farmers and left wing labor groups on common grounds. These, flanked by millions on government dole, or depenent on government handouts, would, it allegedly claims, carry the White House occupant in for a third term.

The most serious defeats experienced by the White House in the purge were all in the South. It indicates, then, that the White House political strategists have overlooked one important factor — that the South shows it intends to remain solidly against any such plans as are apparently in the minds of some in Washington. Without the Southern votes the White House politicians would have to figure again. Southern votes are and have always been the necessary element in any Democratic Party victory. Without it Mr. Roosevelt would not be President today. We would have had a "President" Garner instead. Many bellieve that with these Southern votes it will be "President" Garnter in 1940.

AMERICAN DICTATORSHIP

We do not subscribe to the opinion held by some, particularly, that the President is laying the groundwork of an American dictatorship. To agree to such a view requires more imagination than we possess.

This much seems obvious, however; that somewhere down the path the President now pursues, if he were to go far enough, lies the end of representative government, as this country has known it for a century and a half.

It is the dictatorial type of mind which demands yes men for colleagues and cries out against those he describes as yes-but fellows. And it is a refreshing reminder that democracy is alive and alert when State after State turns against the yesser and supports the yes-but.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

There is said to be a threatened shortage of sauer kraut in Germany. There may be something in those stories of social unrest beyond the Rhine.

POWER SHORTAGE

Formation of a committee to investigate war emergency power problems may prove the latest move by President Roosevelt in his attempt to "collar-and-club" the privately owned public utilities. This presidentially appointed committee in recommending and drafting legislation for passage in the next Congress will merely bait the hooks for New Deal War-Lords in furthering their fight for public ownership of the electric power industry.

In March of this year the President ordered the War Department and Federal Power Commission to survey the possibility of a wartime power shortage. The study was to have been approached from two angles — sufficiency of power in time of war and need for additional equipment; and the coordination of existing power lines not now connected. In identical letters to members of his war emergency power commttee, the President stated:

"The reports regarding the supply of electric power in the event of a national emergency made to me by the War Department and the Federal Power Commission in response to my request of March 18, 1938, have given me concern. These studiies have disclosed a shortage of power to meet the needs of the nation's industry in the event of war such as to constitute a serious threat to the nation-security."

What Mr. Roosevelt failed to mention in his letter though, was the fact that this present national war time power shortage is the direct result of two New Deal presidentially-sponsored programs: unfair government competition with the private utilities, and the dismantling of public utility holding companies under the Holding Company Act of 1935.

Government competition in the Tennessee Valley, the Northwest region, and various other sections of the country has resulted in an investors' strike and building lag in the private utility field. In-vestors shun the purchase of private utlity stocks when government competition threatens annihilation of private companies through so-called "yardsticks" and other unfair business methods. Money used for new construction in the private utility field during the five years from 1933 (date of ariginal TVA act) through 1937 fell off 68 per cent as compared to the ten year period of 1923 through 1932 — in spite of the three depression years of 1930, 1931 and 1932. It is not possible for the utilities to sufficiently increase facilities without "new money" has been practically impossble under the threatening shadow of the administration's scheme of socialized power.

The "death sentence" of the Holding Company Act empowers the SEC to compel all holding companies, with few exceptions, to confine hteir operations to a single intregrated public utility system, supposedly within a single state. As a result, the privately owned electric power companies during the past few years have limited their distribution systems to operate under the privisions of the act. The strange coincidence of the whole situation is that at the same time the SEC is dismantling its first public utility holding company, the President strikes upon the idea to coordinate existing power lines not now connected — by congressional approval, and with funds, of course, from the people's tax money in the federal treasury.

In short, one of two philosphies may impel Mr. Roosevelt in the development of this new federal power policy. Either he realizes the pitful blunders in his programs of competitions and regulation in the private utility field and hopes to "save his face" through this emergency measure by compensating for losses so far involved; or he intends to go one step further into the impractical realm of socialized industry.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

A congressional commission studying un-American activities and propaganda directed against our institutions should merit the full help of the Administration. But it does not get it.

The Commission appointed to undertake this work has not been given the co-operation and assistance by other departments envisaged in the bill creating it. Its work has been brought practically to a standstill.

On the other hand, the similar group investigating civil liberties in this country and using most of its time and opportunity to criticize and condemn American industries and business, has more than 100 aids and investigators supplied by the Administration thru WPA and the Department of Justice.

Why should an investigation of radicalism be hamstrung, while an attack on industry is supported? Or don't the American people want to hear this question?—Syracuse Post-Standard.

The president says some of the states have been able to balance their budgets because they received a lot of federal funds. Well, who is to blame for that?

Alabama Fur Pelts

Thousands of Alabama farm youths earn money during the winter trapping season by catching, preparing and selling the skins of the raccon, o'possu, fox, rabbit and other fur-bearing animals. Many adults also earn a living or augment their income by trapping. The annual turnover of pelts in Alabama amounts to a considerable sum. To assist the farm boy and trapper in obtaining more money for pelts, to increase the value of the fur crop, and to secure uniformity in handling fur skins in Alabama, an interesting article on the preparation of pelts from Alabama animals has been prepared by Fred S. Barkalow, Jr., of the Auburn zoology - entomology department. This article will be printed in full in the November 1 issue of the Alabama Game and Fish News, along with several illustrations showing proper ways to clean and stretch skins. The fur-trapping season in Alabama opens December 1, and the article will be available to the public long before that date. Copies may be obtained by writing the Conservation Department, Montgomery, after November 1.

Squirrel Season

The state-wide open season on squirrels in Alabama begins October 15 and closes January 15. Many inquirries have been received by the State Conservaton Department about the squirrel season htis year. Several years ago there was a split season in effect, with north and south Alabama having different shooting dates. The law now in effect provides for a uniform statewide season of October 15 and January 15. The open season on bears, foxes, o'possums and raccoon, hunted as game, began October 1. Quail, turkey and deer seasons open November 20.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

According to a story which appeared recently in an American magazine, a San Francisco newspaper sent a sports writer to Australia to give a round by round account of a heavyweight prize fight. The night of the fight arrived. The editor of the sports department of the paper was all excited awaiting the news of the fight. No news came from the sports' writer. The dead line drew near when the paper was supposed to go to press. The managing editor wondered what had became of his sports writer in Australia. Just before the dead line arrived a cable came. It was not a round by round account. It simply said "Johnson won in the fourteenth round". The sports writer was a brilliant reporter, but he was not reliable in an emergency. Unreliable people are rarely dependable in a crisis. Ability, talent, genius and gifts are no substute for dependability. God wants people He can count on. Many professed Christians take vacations, spiritually speaking. When they should be on the firing line for God. In Bob Jones College we are constantly drilling into our boys and girls the idea of being faithful, dependable, and reliable under all circumstances.

The highways of America are practically thronged with university and college graduates who have no positions. Many of these young people have "learning complexes". The early settlers of America were taught to depend upon themselves and to develop their own initiative. They had a "go get it" spirit. Our modern educational system seems to give the young people an idea that the world owes them a living. Maybe we are doing too much for them. They used to walk to school. Now we take them in busses. They are not taught to stand on their own feet. It is not best for life to be made too easy. Paul wrote Timothy, his son in the Gospel, and told him to endure hardships as a good soldier of Jesus Christ. Hardships of some kind are necessary. Young people who "can't take it" are never prepared "to give it". We are training a nation of "softies". In the early days of the Christian church it cost something to be a Christian. It meant suffering. It often meant martyrdom. In those days Christians were courageous and uncompromising. In our modern world we have many compromising Christians who think of themselves and of their interest. Recently the writer was talking to a pastor who said. "If I make good here I will get a raise next year". The preachers of this generation ought to read the story of Peter Cartwright and the pioneer ministers who blazed their way hrough the desknew the meaning of sacrifice and suffering. We read in Revelations of a crowd in heaven who attracted attention. Someone asked who they were and the message rang out, these are they which came up through great tribulation".

PLEA IS DENIED FOR INCREASE IN COTTON LOAN

Carolinian Heads Group of Southern Senators Seeking Additional Subsidies or Higher Crop Advances

Washington, Oct. 3. — Administration farm executives said today they were unable to grant congressional requests for additional subsidies on this year's cotton crop or higher government loans on cotton and wheat.

Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Jesse W. Tapp, acting agricultural adjustment administrator, told a group of senators, led by Chairman Smith (D.-S. C.) of the senate agriculture committee, that they were sympathetic with the plight of the cotton farmer but unable to act under present legislation.

Smith Criticizes Department

While Brown was explaining the agriculture department's reasons for fixing this year's cotton crop at 8.3 cents a pound instead of 11 cents plus, asked by southern senators, Smith interrupted.

"We are not going to solve this by standing around and raising our eyebrows," the veteran senator said. "We are up against the American farmer."

Brown, serving as spokesman for Secretary Wallace who was out of the city, broke in with:

"I hope you don't think the department of agriculture is against the farmer."

"I sometimes do," Smith replied quickly. "Let's call a spade a spade, and not a damned old shovel."

Senator George (D.-Ga.), like Smith a democratic primary victor despite opposition from President Roosevelt, said he thought that department officials had given "too little attention to the fundamental intent of congress," by fixing cotton loans near the minimum possible under the farm act. The Georgian said congress had greatly reuced cotton acreage in an attempt to keep cotton prices "near parity."

W. L SANDERS WRITES ON NEW DEAL QUESTION

Editor Union-Banner:

It has been some time since I have asked for space in one of your columns, but issues of the present are of such vital importance, I feel that it is my duty to express my views at this time. It is not my purpose to criticize or offend any individual and hope that no one will so construe this article. Of all issues that confront the people, our farm problem is the greatest.

The farming industry is not only the oldest of all industries, but is the most important, because the very life of any people is dependent upon the products of the farm. If the people of this nation continue to exist, the farms and farmers must be preserved, and the question with us is can it be done with our present farm program? For any program to be a success it must be based on equity and justice; without justice, it is doomed to destruction. The people were brought into this program through promises, deceit and selfishness and have led them to the point of bankruptcy.

Many people say, "the government, through the farm program is trying to help the farmers." I challenge the truthfulness of that statement, because the government has full control of the farmers. They say how many acres he can plant, how many pounds each acre can produce; they peg the price on each pound he shall sell. Then if the farmer fails, who is responsible?

Any sane person knows the answer to this question. The designers of this farm program never intended that it should help the farmers, but to the contrary, that it should make slaves, and subjects of the government. You have been told that farmers' farm organizations designed our present farm program. Nothing could be farther from the truth, according to the list of names on page eight of the hearings before the committee on agriculture of the United States Senate House Reccrd 3835. Secretary of Agriculture, Henry Wallace, furnished the above committee a list of the names of those who wrote the Agricultural Adjustment Act. Here are some of the names of those big farmers whom you have been asked to follow, and whom you have followed, and who are going to lead you beyond redemption if you continue to follow them.

Mr. E. F. Creekmore, an employee of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, at a salary of $75,000 per year. This great farmer helped write the bill; Mr. E. E. Huff, President of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, represented by W. M. Thatcher, at a salary of $15,000 per year, helped this farm relief bill.

Here is a group of editors of commercial agricultural papers who helped write this farm bill. The prosperity of the papers depend upon the advertising they receive from big business interests that exploit the farmers. Here they are: Dr. Fait Butler, Editor of the Progressive Farmer, Memphis, Tenn.; C. V. Gregory, Editor of the Prairie Farmer, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Dan Wallace, Editor of The Farmer, St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. Dante M. Pierce, with The Wallace Publishing Company; Des Mones, Iowa. These together with the Secretary of Agriculture, are the lords and master of our farm program that has brought our present farm prosperity. They have sold this program to the farmer for a few parity and rental checks, and we are farther from parity today than we have ever been. This group is responsible for the cost of the great army of employees necessary to administer the program; and this group of employees has become a great machine, blasting at the very foundation upon which civilization depends, and that is farming.

The manufacturing and commercial industry has never been interfered with and handled equal to that of the farming industry. No agency of the government has ever forced any manufacturer to sell his goods below the cost of production. No government agency has ever asked the wholesale or retail merchant to sell his goods for less than they cost him, but have pegged the price of the farm products at about 50 per cent of what it cost the farmer to produce it.

Is this not sufficient evidence that the government is not trying to help the farmers? They are only making slaves and subjects of them. Does Secretary Wallace not know that it cost the farmer more than eight cents per pound to raise cotton this year? Does Wallace not know that eight cent cotton on small allotments is going to mean that thousands of farmers are going to be forced to give up their milk cows, their meat hogs, and their last ear of corn? Mr. Wallace is not the only one that is responsible for the distress this destructive and ungodly program has brought, but every man that has given it their support for the sake of a few dollars and without regard for the welfare of their fellow man. According to the Bible, the people are reaping just what they have sown.

We sowed destruction when we destroyed our cotton, corn, wheat and hogs. These were the blessings that God gave us with which to feed and clothe humanity. But for the love of money, we destroyed the blessings of God to satisfy the greed of man. At this point, I want to mention the Christian institutions, their relations and participations in this destructive program.

My conception of a true Christian is a person who loves his neighbor as himself, and will not for the love of money, do anything that will bring distress to anyone. Is this what most church people believe? The answer is yes. Is this what the church people practice? The answer is no. Many people go to church on Sunday and testify of their Christian religion and how they love their neighbors, but on the following week they will go to the county agent's office, and only for the hope of a dollar, they will endorse a program that they know will bring suffering and distress to their neighbors. After the neighbor has been crushed and distress comes, they go back to the church and pray to God to lift up whom they htemselves have put down.

The preacher, the leader of the flock, should not fail to warn their followers to be careful as to what kind of economic program they support. that if the program is not right, they are not justified in giving it their support. Some people say the preacher is out of his place if he mentions politics in the stand. Soe say that politics and religion will not mix. I will admit that politics should not be carried into religion, but unless more pure and undefiled religion is put into our politics, we are a doomed nation. The Bible tells us that when the righteous rule the people rejoice, but when the wicked rule, the people mourn. Which is the case today? Are the people rejoicing? Or are the people mourning? Distress and poverty on every hand. Why? Simply because the wicked are in power.

Why are the wicked ruling the world today? Because thousands of preachers and so-called Christians have given them their support. One is as deep ni the mud, as the other is in the mire. If we only had a Jonah to warn the people of the destruction that is to come, we might repent and be saved from that great calamity. When will people begin to practice what they preach? When will people pluck selfishness fro their hearts to the extene they will not rob their neighbor? When will people pluck prejudice from their mind and vote only for principle? When will the people rise up and be real thinkers, students, teachers, preachers and doers of all that is just and right, instead of mere animals? None of these things will happen until the true Christians gain control of all our laws and governing bodies of this nation.

Let us hope, work and pray, that we will be given a moses to lead us out of this political and economical wilderness. Yours for a change.—W. L. Sanders.

WISHING FOR SOME HOOVER HOGS

"Be sure, your sins will find you out." I have come to be kind of like the old darkey preacher. He was preaching away against the devil, when a man dressed with horns and like the devil walked into the church. The old preacher looked at him and said: "Mr. Devil, from my lip I have been against you, but in my heart I have been for you all the time."

When the New Deal came into being, from my lips I was a Democrat, but in my heart I was a full, staunch Republican. I then spoke about the Hoover hogs, saying that we would have to eat Hoover hogs (rabbits). Now, many of us would like to get the hide from a Hoover hog to wear and keep us from freezing to death. Those Hoover hogs would look good during these "prosperous" Roosevelt days.—A Farmer.

FARM NOTES

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMA
(By A. W. Jones)

This week we are beginning a discussion of certain economic questions which face Alabama agriculture, and which must be solved if the State, South and Nation are to continue along the road of progress.

To get at the basic facts tied up with the many problems which are crying for adequate solution perhaps it is best to state questions and then give the answers. Therefore, in our column this week we will follow this procedure:

1. What are some of the problems connected with soil conditions and uses in Alabama?

(a) Alabama farmers with the United States average of 13 acres and an average for the State of Iowa of 21 acres.

(b) This scarcity of land forces Alabama farmers to produce intensively cultivated crops such as cotton and tobacco that require large amounts of human labor. This scarcity of land also prevents to a large extent, due to low yield per acre, the crop diversification, production of food and feed crops, pastures and livestock which we all agree that Alabama needs so badly.

(c) Most of the land in the South is poor due to rolling topography, high rainfal, and a warm cimate which increases erosion and organic disintegration in the soil. Sixty-one per cent of the nation's badly eroded land is in 13 Southern States with conditions similar to Alabama. The South is losing top soil to the value of $300,000,000 annually by erosion.

2. What is the tariff policy of the United States and how does it effect agriculture in Alabama?

(a) The United States for more than one hundred years has followed a high protective tariff policy for the benefit of mnaufacturing industries. The value of most agricultural products and especially cotton is determined by the world price for such commodities without benefit of tariff protection. The result of this tariff protection for industries and no protection for garicultural products has been a long, severe, nad continuing penalty to people engage in cotton growing.

(b) The increased cost of goods because of the tariff has ranged from 19 per cent to 53 per cent.

(c) Several of our most serious depressions have occured, as was true in 1932, when the import tariffs were at their highest.

(d) Another effect of the tariff has been to upset the balance of trade between the United States and other nations, causing decreased foreign sales of American cotton, greater competition by foreign grown cotton, and retaliation by other nations with tariffs against our products. In many instances our tariff system has not served to promote international good feeling.

3. How do manufacturing and other industries in Alabama compare with industries in other parts of the country and what is the effect of this on agriculture and general conditions in Alabama and in the nation?

(a) In Alabama approximately 75 per cent of the people are engaged in agriculture. In the United States there are approximately one-third of the people engaged in agriculture. Industries in Alabama are therefore very meager in comparisoni to other sections of the country. This forces a large number of people to remain on farms, growing more cotton when more cotton is not needed at a time when they should be able to find employment in industries to which Alabama materials, power and other resources are suited, but when Alabama attempts to expand industrially, we find freight rate discriminations that make it practically impossible for the products of such industries to go to the markets where such products are consumed.

(b) The effect of this excess population engaged in agriculture and our condition of deficient industries has resulted in greater cotton surpluses, lower income, lack of markets for agricultural products, and the inability of people in the South to keep pace with the rest of the country in the use of manufactured products.

(c) The average cash income from farm production in the 38 states outside the South in 1937 was $359 per person. The average income per farm person in Alabama was $91. The average income per person in the United States not engaged in agriculture was $492 in 1935.

COTTON MILLS AID IN COTTON BAGGING

Auburn, Ala. — Seven and one-half pounds will be the extra weight added to bales of cotton covered with three-fourths standard cotton bagging by 70 of the leading cotton mills, P. O. Davis, State Extension director, has been advised by the Cotton Textile Institute.

This is being done to equalize the weights between bales cavered with cotton bagging and those wrapped in jute agging. Cotton has been sold on a gross weight basis, and as jute bagging weighs more than does cotton bagging, many planters preferred the latter as they received payment on the jute bagging at the same rate for which the cotton was sold.

The dairy farmer who milks low-producing cows fed largely on purchased concentrates stands little chance to get much out of his dairy business this coming winter, says F. W. Burns, dairy specialist, Auburn. The farmer who has produced a liberal supply of legume hay and silage and is planning to feed a grain mixture consisting largely of corn, oats, and cottonseed meal will find that high producing cows will furnish a good market for their home-grown feeds even with the prevailing low prices for dairy products.

ASSIGNMENT OF AAA PAYMENTS POSSIBLE

Auburn, Ala. — Opportunity for every Aabama farmer to adopt the soil-building practices needed on his farm is afforded by a plan whereby the farmer assigns part of his 1938 AAA payments to bankers, farmers' exchanges, or merchants in exchange for seed and fertilizer this fall, announces J. D. Samford, farm finance specialist of the Alabama Extension Srevice.

This plan, already functioning in practically every county of the state, allows farmers to get seed, phosphate, or basic slag, or terraces for his land without any cash outlay on his part, according to Mr. Samford. Bankers, merchants and the various county farmers' exchanges have entered enthusiasticaly into the movement because they realize that farmers may desire to adopt these needed practices but cannot afford to release the cash money at the present time.

They also realize that by assisting farmers to adopt these practices that approximately $60,000 will be received in the county and that the improved crop production, more and better pastures, and increased production of livestock from more feedstuffs will mean more money for farmers and better business in the future, according to Mr. Samford, who has been working with the various agencies on this plan for several weeks.

Among the practices to be covered by this arrangement are planting and fertilizing, with basic slag or phosphate, winter legumes, establishing and fertilizing permanent pastures, terracing, and other practices. Farmers are advised to contact their county agent for details of the plan and the local sponsors of the assignment of payments for seed and fertilizer.

SOIL BUILDING PROGRAM BENEFITS SHORTER FARM

Auburn, Ala. — Production of a "bumper" crop of cotton and feed material in spite of the boll weevil and bad weather conditions has convinced A D. Ray, a farmer near Shorter, that soil building practices pay big dividends.

Mr. Ray reports that he has made 75 bales of cotton on 64 measured acres of land this year. He estimates that his corn will yield 35 bushels per acre. In addition to these crops, Mr. Ray has produced enough peanuts to fatten 70 or 80 head of hogs and plenty of legume hay for farm usage. He says, "If we hadn't had a bad crop year, I would have made a pretty fair crop."

Mr. Ray is an ardent believer in cover crops. He states that his aim is to have every acre of his farm under cover during the winter. He has been planting winter legumes for more than five years and likes them better each year. His experience has taught him that Basic S.ag is of untold value under winter legumes. He reports that the two best crops he ever made were following vetch that had been fertilized with 400 pounds of Basic Slag.

Until now Mr. Ray has concentrated his efforts on soil building work. He states that now since he has his land to the point where he can raise feedstuff, he intends to increase his livestock His next efforts will be exerted towards the development of an ideal pasture. When this is done he will have: High yield of cotton; plenty of corn and permanent hay; peanuts and hogs; pasture and cows.

RUFFIN ADVISES STORE SWEET POTATOES IN FALL

Auburn, Ala. — It is no laughing matter that many Alabama farmers spend time and effort during the summer raising sweet potatoes for food and feed in winter and then because of improper curng and storing the potatoes ruin, advises W. A. Ruffin, specialist in horticulture, in offering suggestions to far people for saving the yams.

Essentitals of successful storage of sweet potatoes are that they be mature,, dug before frost, carefully handled, well dried, or cured, and kept at the proper temperature when stored.

Digging of potatoes is the least important but rough ahandling while being dug will cuase potatoes to decay in much the same manner as apples. Best practice, says Mr. Ruffin, is to place the tubers in a padded crate when digging them instead of throwing the in piles. Before entering storage they should be cured or dried thoroughly.

Plenty of sunshine is best for curing but otherwise a warm place near a chimney or a shed or room where a temperature of 80 to 85 egrees may be maintained for ten days to two weeks is needed. Farmers who do not have curing houses may put the potatoes in crates and stack them in the chicken brooder house, allowing space between crates so they may get plenty

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."
—REDDY KILOWATT

Before You Could Blink Your Eyes

IT'S truly a "mechanical miracle"—this directional distance relay used on the Alabama Power Company system to isolate transmission line trouble without "hunting around."

It's one of the "brainiest" devices of the many types of relays in use. It is built so that it "knows" when and how fast it should operate in case of trouble or when it should let some other relay clear the system of trouble.

It works so fast that if you were watching it and blinked your eyes, its operation would be completed almost before your eyelids could move.

Protective relays of many types are installed at numerous points on Alabama Power Company system. They are among the many costly devices developed by engineers (in private industry) which keep your electric service dependable.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT

The rehabilitation loan program in this county calls for soil improvement and petter tenure arrangements this year, states Marvin Durbin, County Rehabilitation Supervisor. Longer leases are necessary to make real headway in rebuilding soils to produce abundant yields.

The old system of leasing a farm for one year or for a cropping season has been determined one of the principal contributinf causes to the plight of many farm families and the present conditions of lands.

Effort will be made to aid families who rent lands to secure leases for at least three years, and where possible for five years, so that a soil-building program can be included in the farm for next season and for subsequent years. Written leases will be required detailing the agreement between tenant and landlord and both will be adequately protected by definite provisions of the leases. By soil-building practices the tenant will see improved yields some from his labors nad the landlord will have his land improved for future advantage, continued Mr. Durbin.

CHILTON COUNTY HIGH DEFEATS ISABELLA

Last Friday the Tigers scored a sensational victory over their strong rivals, Isabella. The Tigers scored the first and only marker in the first period.

Chilton County High kicked off to Isabella, and after taking the ball on downs, the Tigers marched down the field beautifully. Two passes failed to work, but the old end around end was ready for service. This play gained first down, Isabella then began to realize they must fight if they wished to hold the fighting Tigers. The Chilton County High tried three line plays and they fail to gain any yardage, then came the great moment for the Tigers, a pass from Scotty Armstrong to the long lanky end, C. D. Hayes, proved fatal for Isabella, this scoring the touchdown for the Tigers, the extra point was made with a short pass over the rght side of the line.

During the next period neither team threatened, as they exchanged punts around mid-field.

In the third period, Isabella broke loose and got into pay dirt, but failed to do any damage to the 7 point lead of the Tigers; Isabella tried a pass which was intercepted and carried back down the field, there Isabella lost their chance of scoring on the Tigers.

The fourth and last period little Shifty Hip, married man, Melton, plunged off tackle for 35 yards, displaying the most beautiful stretch of broken field running you have ever seen. This run carried the pig-skin to the Isabella one yard line, they failed to carry the ball over. The Tigers received a penalty for five yards and were unable to make any progress from this time on. After this threat was over, neither team was able to get into pay dirt again.

The Isabella team proved to be a hard fighting team and they were hrad to beat. As a whole, the Isabella line showed more fighting spirit than did the Tigers, and a fighting spirit plays a very important part in football.

The Chilton County High Tigers play their next game with Maplesville, another strong team, and hard to beat. Each team has been saying they are going to win. So, if you want to see a good football game, go to Maplesville next Friday afternoon.

HEALTH OFFICER ADDRESSES TEACHERS INSTITUTES

Teachers gathered at both the white and colcred teachers Institutes heard a brief address this week by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County health officer. Special emphasis was laid by Dr. Sturkie at the colored institute on the need for teachers striving to improve school lunches and teaching the school child to wash the hands before the lunch period. The need for one hot dish to be served at the school especially during the cold months was pointed out. The effect of the nutrition of the school child on the hookworn problem in the county was discussed briefly.

Teachers of the white institute were urged to beccme more active in the health education program in the school. The health officer declared with reference to health education that the schcol teacher was the only person excluding the parent who had enough contact with the child to bring home the lessons of health and make them lasting. To accomplish this Dr. Sturkie said the teacher should use illustrated posters and charts and should help each child to know the important facts about the outstanding health problems of the community.

Cooperation by teachers with the health department in the exclusion of sick children from the classroom to prevent the spread of disease was declared to be a highly important phase of the school health program by the health officer.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL BEGINS SOON

Machinery Being Set In Motion For Hard Drive In Chilton County

The time is not far distant when the annual roll call for the American Red Cross will be officially opened, as Armistice Day, November 11, always marks the opening date for that drive. Thanksgiving Day marks the closing of the period.

Mr. J. Mell Martin, local roll call chairman, announces that he is busy making the initial arrangements for the drive for memberships again this year. Committees will be named, literature will be distributed, and a hundred-and-one other details worked out.

Last year in the nation there were more memberships taken than any year since the pre-war drives; Chilton county people came across well with their subscriptions. We cannot afford to go backward, but we must try and improve on last year's record.

Chilton county and Alabama have been fortunate this past year, so far as calamities are concerned, but the nation has suffered a normal or more than normal amount of catastrophes. The Red Cross has been called upon to contribute heavily of money and of material assistance. The Red Cross can only function upon the contributions received from such sources as roll call drives.

Those who have been enrolling should begin to prepare for the drive, which is less than a month away, and not only re-enlist, but help in the work of telling others of the Red Cross and the necessity of other members joining.

A POTATO WITH A RUFFLE ON

Among the freaks of nature recently brought in to The Banner office was a sweet potato which had grown through a small hole in disc wheel apparently from a clock or small machine The wheel was scalloped around the edges, making the potato appear to be wearing a ruffled collar.

Triplet walnuts are other curosities recently brough in by Mr. Luther Payton of Shiloh community, probably a dozen in all. They were gathered from a tree said to be over a hundred years old, on the old Dick Edwards place. Mr. Payton said there were numbers of twin walnuts gathered from the tree also.

Oak Tree Seven Feet Through

This freak was not brought to The Banner office, but was reported to us by reliable parties. Messrs. Ruben F. Wyatt and Arthur Tippett were out on the E. H. Littlejohn place near Shoults and saw a water oak tree a little over seven feet through just above the ground. Eighteen inches above the ground the tree was 22 feet and 3 inches in circumference, and 17 feet three inches at four feet above the ground.

Another unusual thing is a small oak twig with long horse hairs growing out from the bud at the end. This exhibit came from near White City in Autauga county and may be seen at The Banner office.

Telegrams Explain Cotton Penalties

The following telegrams from officials of the Agricultural Conservation Committee of Alabama, are intended to explain some matters to the farmers regarding the penalties exacted where too much acreage has been planted to cotton this year:

Auburn, Ala., October 10th.

My attention was called to the confusion regarding the discussion of penalties in Saturday's meeting. A penalty of five cents per pound on the normal cotton yield per acre for acreage planted to cotton in excess of the cotton acreage allotment will be charged against any payment due a farm by the government, under regulations governing the operation of the 1938 agricultural conservation program. The tax of two cents per pound to be paid by the farmer to the government applies only to farmers producing in excess of the 1938 cotton marketing quota for the farm.—Thomas H. Martin, State Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Auburn, Ala., October 10.

G. O. P. OFFICES PLANED

Birmingham, Oct. 10—J. G. Bass Republican campaign manager for Alabama, announced today he would open campaign headquarters here soon for the November election.

Bass, former Birmingham postmaster, said Republican would campaign vigorously in north Alabama.

MR. SAM WILLIAMS IS STILL 100 PER CENT

A most welcome visitor at The Union-Banner office last Saturtay was Mr. Sam Williams, of Enterprise community. The principal purpose of Mr. Williams in calling was to talk politics a little; he soon got down to the particular point in politics which he wanted to discuss—the report that he was about to go Democratic. Mr. Williams left no possible doubt but that he is still one hundred percent Republican and there is no likelihood that he will change his mind soon. He thinks it more necessary now that the voters stick together for the Republican ticket than ever before since he can remember. Mr. Williams says: "If there ever was a Republican, I am one."

Another good Republican and upright citizen wishing to allay similar reports of him possibly being off the strait and narrow path is Mr. Elijah Devaughn of Pleasant Grove, Beat 15. Mr. Devaughn says he can be counted on to the limit for the Republican ticket, and that he has never entertained any idea of bolting. He too thinks it is most necessary for the honest, liberty-loving citizens of Chilton county to pull together in a unit this Fall.

Elected For Post With Alabama WPA

Billy Smith, former publisher of the Chilton County News, has been appointed as Director of Information of the Works Progress Administration of Alabama, according to an announcement made this week by Col. W. G. Henderson, State Administrator. Billy, as he is known to Clanton and Chilton county, succeeds George L. Davis, who has been appointed as executive assistant to the director of the National Emergency Council. Mr. Smith assumed his duties on Monday, October 17th.

LOCAL DEMOCRATS OPEN CAMPAIGN

Last week the Democratic campaign in Chilton county saw its official opening, that body launching upon a long speaking campaign in the different communities. The opening gun was sounded by the campaign chairman in a statement: "The Republicans will be so overwhelmingly defeated this year that they will not offer a candidate in 1940. . . . The victory will again go to the Democrats this year and by a much larger majority than ever before."

Judge J. Lee Smith also touched off the big artillery at Verbena one night last week. The Chilton County News quoted him as saying: "This county is in excellent financial condition, and there is no comparison in this condition and that of the former administrations."

It appears to The Union-Banner that these two gentlemen are kindly hitching their wagons to a star. But that star may prove to be a shooting comet before the outcome of this campaign is finally determined.

ROOSEVELT SELLS THE COTTON FARMER DOWN THE RIVER

Evidence multiplies that the honeymoon is over between the New Deal and the Cotton Belt. The strange political marriage of Yankee radicals and the conservative democracy of the South appears headed for the rocks. For the South, it has been all along in the nature of a "shotgun" union, forced upon this section by necessity and the traditions which demands that the South accept any candidate, however odious, who may win the Democratic nomination. It appears that this tradition has at last worn threadbare, and that the ill-assorted alliance is coming to an open break.

The New Dealers have been interested in the South only to the extent that they could use Southern votes to serve their purposes. So long as they could rely upon the votes, however reluctant, of Southern senators and representatives, they were fairly liberal in distribution of largesse to the South—though at best this section has fared poorly compared with other areas of doubtful political allegiance.

Relations between the White House and Dixie began to cool when certain Southern senators voted against some of Mr. Roosevelt's destructive measures, notably the court packing scheme. The situation reached a climax in recent months, when Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to control outright the senatorial nominations in Georgia and South Carolina met crushing defeat.

An entire section must pay dearly for these manifestations of political independence. They have been followed by a policy of reprisals, in line with the New Deal policy of venting its spleen upon those it cannot control. Secretary Wallace annouces that there will be no increase in cotton loans — the South will get only the below-cost-of-production pittance now advanced. President Roosevelt recently refused to even grant an audience to a delegation of senators and farm representatives who called at the White House to plead the cause of the cotton farmer.

All this will cause no surprise to those who understand the true New Deal philosophy and the workings of the Roosevelt mind. For all its altruistic mouthings, the New Deal has the political philosophy and morals of Tammany Hall. It believes in the pay-off, but only to those who deserve it, and makes no bones of turning thumbs down on the economic welfare of a section that no longer blindly follows the lead of the master demagogue in the White House.

The row between Roosevelt and his northern radicals, on the one side, and the old-line Democracy of the South on the other, is more than just a temporary spat. It goes to the fundamentals, to conflicting theories of government that are as far apart as the poles, though temporarily united under the party mantle. Mr. Roosevelt and his Secretary of Agriculture are not helping a restoration of harmony by adopting a punitive attitude toward the South. Southern pride and self-respect appear at last aroused, judging from the recent election returns from Georgia and South Carolina. An open break between the two conflicting schools of thought within the party appears scheduled for 1940.

Cotton Meeting Was Failure At Courthouse Last Saturday

Hundreds Of Farmers Disappointed At Results Of Gathering Intended To Discuss Acreage Measurements

The cotton farmers meeting at the courthouse last Saturday morning, at which farmers were expecting to get some satisfaction and adjustments relative to their cotton marketing and acreage problems, proved to be a complete failure so far as that most desired objective was concerned.

Last week after the newspapers had been mailed out, a letter was sent to Judge L. H. Reynolds by Mr. P. O. Davis, Director, from Auburn stating that Mr. Thomas H. Martin, chairman of the state committee, would be in Clanton Saturday at 10 o'clock to meet with the farmers of Chilton county and hear complaints from them regarding the workings of the agricultural adjustment program in the county. Judge Reynolds got out the announcement over the county as best he could, not having the use of the papers to carry the announcement.

Consequently some three hundred farmers gathered at the courthouse Saturday morning at the time announced, expecting to hear some explanation about the cotton acreage adjustments of this year's crops. Mr. Martin, who was in the city and at the county agent's office was called several times over the phone and asked to come up to the meeting and make explanations of the plans to the farmers. Each time they stated they would not come to the gathering, but they would hear complaints, one at a time, at the county agent's office.

Finally the meeting was called to order by Judge Reynolds and a committee was appointed to go to the county agent's office and invite Mr. Martin to come to the courthouse and talk to the farmers. Both Mr. Martin and Mr. Fant agreed to come to the courthouse, provided they would not be called upon to explain the workings of the present plan, acreage, production limits, Etc.

This they did, and practically all of the time Mr. Martin had to stay in Clanton was consumed in he and Mr. Fant talking to the people about what the administration had done for the farmers and how the new plan for 1939 was expected to operate. Several questions were asked them regarding the measurements and allotments of this year's crops, but no satisfaction could be obtained as to these questions. In the course of the discussions, the arguments between Mr. Martin, Mr. Fant and Judge Reynolds got rather heated, but the net results of the meeting were that the farmers heard very little explanation of the matters in which they were most vitally interested,—that of some solution to the bad situation they are in this year by doing their best to abide by the rulings and plans of the agricultural adjustment administration.

In his discourse before the meeting Mr. Martin stated that if the farmers of Chilton county wanted an investigation they could get it; but he felt that he, occupying the position that he did, should explain that the money which the government had paid the farmers was paid from a trust fund, and that it could be recalled by the government. In some other county in the State, according to Mr. Martin's statement, there had been an investigation, and one farmer had to pay back to the government the amount of $800.00.

Judge Reynolds quickly expressed his resentment to the apparent attempt of Mr. Martin to run a bluff over the farmers in the meeting, assuring Mr. Martin that he was addressing a bunch of "blue-eyed, straight-haired, white citizens," and that they were not to be bluffed. Some fifty farmers rose from their seats and started toward the speakers, but they were persuaded to go back and keep their seats.

The farmers of Chilton county have tried to co-operate with the authorities this year and all years past in the acreage and allotment programs, but they find it very difficult to comply with and well nigh impossible to live up to the many conflicting acreage measurements, allotments, Etc., meted out to them by the agricultural authorities in charge of the programs.

The farmers of Chilton county generally are not contrary folks. They want to co-operate with all plans of the officials to the general betterment of the farming situation of the county. But it looks as though the extent of their patience has about been reached and tested to the limit.

The result of the meeting last Saturday morning indicates that the next move is expected from the administration. The farmers of Chilton county have done their part nobly. The question now is: What are Mr. Fant, Mr. Martin and others of the agricultural administration going to offer?

FARM NOTES

PEACH TREE BORER CONTROL OUTLINED

Auburn, Ala. — October is a month of work for Alabama peach growers if the State is to continue to increase peach production that reached a new high this season, advises W. A. Ruffin, entomology and horticulture specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. This month is the proper time to combat the peach tree borer which does more injury to the peach crop than probably anything else.

For trees over four years of age Mr. Ruffin advises application of approximately three-fourth ounce of paradichlorobenzene around the tree trunks this month. North Alabama trees should be treated from October 5 to 15; and trees in the southern part of the State should receive the treatment from October 10 to 20.

To apply this material, remove all stones and trash from around the base of the soil, but do not dig it up. Apply the proper amount in a continuous band about 1 or 1½ inches from the trunk. Several shovelfuls of trash-free soil should be placed over this to form a mound an then packed. This mound shoul be torn down in from 4 to 6 weeks, depending on the age of the trees.

Trees under four years of age can be treated safely by the paradichlorobenzene-cottonseed-emulsion method. Two pounds of paradichlorobenzene are disolved in 1 gallon of cottonseed oil, 1 pound of fish-oil soap is added, and the mixture is then stirred well; after this it is emulsified by pumping twce from one container to another. One-half pint of the stock emulsion is then mixed well with 7½ pints of water and ½ pint is used for one-and two-year-old trees, or 1 pint is used for three-year-old trees. The emulsion should be applied directly to the base of the trunk and the soil should be mounded around the tree as in the band method. Mounds should be torn down in 4 weeks.

For trees under 4 years recent experiments indicate that an emulsion of Ethylene Dichloride is safer and probably a little more effective than the paradichlorobenzene emulsion. Due to the fact that it is rather difficult to make emulsions of any kind it is doubtful that many farmers will be interested in using this new control method. However, growers interested in securing details of these different methods should write to the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn.

LOAN RULING IS GIVEN BY JONES

Auburn, Ala. — A. W. Jones, State AAA administrator, says that those farmers who are classified as non-co-operators under the 1938 farm program cannot secure government cotton loans except on that portion of their crop produced in excess of their marketing quotas.

"Non-cooperators cannot get loans on cotton produced by them within their quotas. Loans to farmers who have not cooperated under the program can be made only on cotton produced this year in excess of quotsa," he said. Rate of loans to this group of cotton growers will be only 60 per cent of the rates applicable to farmers who are classed as cooperators, stated Mr. Jones.

"A non-cooperator is a producer whom the county committee has adjudged to have knowingly overplanted in excess of the cotton acreage allotment estaglished for his farm," Jones explained If the committee determines that a producer has not "knowingly overplanted" he will be considered a cooperator and will get the full govrnment cotton loan rate.

The amount of cotton eligible for a loan in the case of non-cooperators cannot be determined by the county committee until "the total actual production in 1938 is reported to the county office and the farm marketing quota is adjusted on that basis." This information was contained in a telegram received by Jones from I. W. Duggan, director, AAA Southern Division.

"If a non-cooperator produces 4-500 pounds of cotton and his marketing quota is 3,000 he is eligible for a loan on 1,500 pounds. However, if the marketing quota is 3,000 pounds and he produces less than that amount he is not eligible for a loan," Jones explaine.

Forty Butler County farmers have decided that feed comes before livestock and have established pasture demonstrations on which phosphate has been applied and grass seedings, recommended by the Alabama Experiment Station, made. With the spread of pasture development farmers believe that twice the present number of livestock can be produced in the next few years.

Austin McCarty, 4-H club boy of Chilton county, made a profit of $185.-34 for six months care of his litter of pigs which won first prize at the annual ton-litter show at Montgomery. Weighing 3,410 pounds, the ten-pig litter took first prize of $25 and was sold for $306.90 at six months of age. Expenses for care and feed were $146.56.

Cliff Walton, editor of the LaFayette Sun, says the only way for a farmer to make money is to farm to make a living. There is no way to defeat the farmer who grows all his feed and all possible foods at home. No farmer has ever farmed to make money but that he has failed of success.

During the year 1935 there were 1,206 wage earners employed in the printing industry in Alabama and the average yearly wage paid was $1,294.46. This included photo-engraving as well as the publication of newspapers, books, periodicals and general commercial printing.

There are approximately sixteen thousand concerns in Albaama selling cigarettes and tobacco at retail.

(By A. W. Jones)

What are we up aganst in Alabama in regard to our farms, our factories, our schools, and our general well being? Last week we discussed some of the soil problems of Alabama and the South, the effect of the tariff policy on agriculture here, and the effect of manufacturing and industries on farm living and general conditions.

We in the South, although our section has been classed as the major economic problem of the nation, are beginning to realize that we must act if our condition is to be improved. A frank discussion of some of our problems helps us to crystallize our thinking and to marshal our forces for betterment.

Alabama and the remainder of the South, through the effects of poor soil, the high tariff, and the lack of more industry to go along with agriculture, supports 28 per cent of the population and yet we have only 11 per cent of the bank deposits of the nation. In other words, we seldom get ahead enough to have money to put in the bank.

In addition, our system, now being changed, of growing only cotton with a pay-day once a year requires extensive use of credit. This, together with the uncertainty of income from cotton with its fluctuating prices, has resulted in high interest rates, increased mortgages, indebtedness on farm lands, and a high degree of tenancy. The average farm tenancy in the United States is 43 per cent — in Alabama, 64 per cent of the people engaged in farming are tenants

Just what effect has all these problems had on living standards here in Alabama? Well, the average value of the farm home in the South is $650. More than a third of these homes are unpainted, more than a third unscreened, only 5 per cent have water piped into the house, and only three per cent have water piped into bathrooms. A much smaller percentage of farm people in Alabama have such conveniences as telephones, automobiles, radios, electric current, and similar improvements enjoyed by people in other sections.

Next week we want to try to show you how these problems of agriculture effect health, schools, use of the soil, and also how these conditions affect not only Alabama and the South but the entire country as well.

CHEAP FEED, GOOD ANIMALS IS NEED

Auburn, Ala. — Buying cattle to feed or feed for cattle is speculation, says Dr. R. S. Sugg, beef cattle specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, unless both are produced economically. Good cattle and sufficient cheap feed are prime requisites for profitable beef production.

"Producers must be prepared to meet competition by low-cost production, which can only be done by increasing the yields of feed crops per acre and the carrying capacity of pastures," he states. "In addition, the type and quality of cattle that the market demands must also be produced."

Beef cattle producers and farmers overlook one of the most pratical and economical ways to improve the type and quality of the cattle—use of good bulls Cooperative buying, community purchase, an other methods of securing a bull will pay dividends all down the line, according to Dr. Sugg. Calves from a good bull are frequently worth 25 to 40 per cent more than those sired by a scrub bull. If native cows are used as a foundation the use of a good bull will build up the herd within a few years.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the following essentials of beef cattle production, a progressive development of the State's agriculture:

1. Provide two to five acres of pasture for each animal.
2. Provide two or three tons of sorghum silage, or one ton of hay, and 300 pounds of cottonseed meal, or 700 pounds of velvet beans for wintering each animal.
3. Use good type purebred Hereford, Angus, or Shorthorn bull.
4. Grade up herd by keeping best heifers.
5. Cull out non-breeders and poor producers to secure at least 85 to 90 per cent calf crop.
6. Market calves at weaning age.
7. Keep posted on market requirements and trends.
8. Arrange for ample, long-time financing.

MRS. M. S. PLIER HAD ENJOYABLE TRIP

Editor Union-Banner and People Back Home:

I left Coulee Dam, Washington, about 10:00 a. m. and traveled down through the Grand Coulee 30 miles, and passed the great Dry Falls of the Columbia River, said to have been caused by melting glaciers changing the course of the river in prehestoric ages and leaving the falls dry a sheer drop of 600 feet.

Then I traveled on west across Cassade Mountains and beautiful plains to Seattle, which is a really beautiful city. There I spent the night. In the morning I went down to the docks and took a boat over to the quaint old English town of Victoria, the capital city of B. C. The city is beautifully situated on the southeast end of Vancouver Island, overlocking the straits of San Juan De Fuca with the Olympic Range and snow-capped Mt. Baker in the back-ground.

This boat trip lasted about 70 miles. I really enjoyed the old city and the Canadian people were so nice. After my visit there I took another boat up to Vancouver, 80 miles farther. This is the center of commerce of B. C., and one of the largest cities of the northwest. The beautiful lawns and flowers stay green throughout the year here. The city is noted for its pure water from glacial fed streams. The city at this time has the greatest profusion of flowers of any city I have ever visited, they are simply beautiful.

I traveled back by land, coming on down across the border soon in Bremerton, Washington then to Everett and back to Seattle. From there to Wenatchee. Here are the delicious apples, one of the largest orchards in the United States—they are really pretty. They are now picking and shipping to all parts of the world. Three cars left this coulee last week for Mediterranean parts. Most of them cross the Pacific, rather than through the Panama Canal.

From the apple orchard back to point of beginnnig, Coulee Dam.—Mrs. Sid Plier, Mason City, Washington.

WEST CHILTON

Like everywhere else, West Chilton is having her share of the complicated, disjointed, unbalanced conditions now prevailing among the people of America.

We believe the people will learn some good lessons thereby. One great lesson is, from all indications the people are getting aroused, and are returning to their first love politically. And that will be a great stride in the right direction.

We glance backward and note the wise administrations of the past in our county, and seeing our present local unsatisfactory condition, calls in thunder tones for a change. Well, in the person of our Republican nominees we believe we have the men ready to do our work in a satisfactory way. Who doubts such men as Maddox, Culp, Pitts, Taylor, Rockett, Cobb, and Davis, some of whom have been tried and not found wanting?

Mr. Editor, we heeded your advice in the last Banner and eagerly read Mr. Sanders's letter, and found it as you pronounced it, "A Gem." We noted he said we destroyed nation's blessings in order to promote prices. Yes, we did that, and how foolish we were! What benefit is there in raising prices, when the anxious consumer cannot buy the commodity; and while business lags, and is afriad, while money is say, while investors are doubtful, we may destroy crops, yet it all looks like child's play. The consumer has no buying power, so we drag along doing artificial work, and in the end no better off. But it seems we are learning our lesson and want a change. We people can make a change if we wish to.

We wonder if the "New Deal" farm program will continue? The more we reduce acreage the greater the carry over, at that rate we will never get anywhere. People are growing poorer, but it will not do to quit, no, but organize more, and make your farm organization serve you better. While gloom is all around us, go forward, and work and vote for our interests and true Americanism. We can not afford to quit and yield in despair.

Yes, we enjoyed Mr. Sanders's letter. We are glad we have such young men in our county. We hope all the good people in the county will stand in one solid phalanx against vote buying and vote selling. It is a shame on us to have such a condition. We can remove it if we will.

Then the absentee ballot law. We know what it will do. Let us work and vote for it to be eliminated.

Then let our battle cry be honest elections, back to true Americanism.

"Eternal Vigilance is the Price of Liberty."

Mr. Isaac Waldrop of Herrin, Ill., is here on a visit until next March.

Miss Johnnie Smith has returned from a long visit to Denver and Littleton, Colo.

Cotton crops in West Chilton are short, and the price—just forget it.

There are no laws in Alabama regarding working hours of male or female adult labor, but there are laws, however, prohibiting the employment of children under 14 years of age in any gainful occupation, except agricultural or domestic service. The law also provides that no child under the age of 16 shall be employed in any gainful occupation except agriculture or domestic service for more than six days a week nor more than eight hours a day.

HOOKWORM PROBLEM DESCRIBED

The importance of hookworm infestation as a health problem in Chilton county was stressed today by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, in a weekly departmental bulletin. Quoting from the most recent survey made in the health official pointed out that of 4,356 children examined 1,177 were positive for hookworm. Calculated on a basis of percentage, this amounted to 27 per cent infestation of all school children in the county. Comparing the incidence in white and colored people, Dr. Sturkie pointed out that 3,506 white children 1.102 or 31.4 per cent had hookworm while of 850 negro children only 75 or 8.8 per cent were positive for hookworm The study also revealed considerable difference in the percentage of children infested in different schools. The greatest percentage was in Free Springs, where 78.5 per cent of the children had hookworm; other schools with a high incidence were Concord B., with 61.8 per cent; Popwell, with 61.3 per cent; Flint Hill, with 59.0 per cent; and Morganville with 57.3 per cent.

In pointing the way to a control of this problem Dr. Sturkie declared that the building of privies was the only percanent solution. Treatment of infested individuals plus wearing of shoes have brought about some reduction, he said, but attempts to remove all worms by treatment have proven too expensive to be practical because of the necessaity for repeating the treatment.

The suvey showed that while Chilton county does not have the worst hookworm problem of any county in the state, it nevertheless has enough hookworm infestation to challenge its people to exert their best efforts to control the disease. While many cases are mild, according to the local health officer, there is seen frequently in Chilton county cases with severe anemia, retarded mental and physical growth, Etc., and other manifestations of severe hookworm disease.

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—G. Ward Price, British war correspondent, who is Adolf Hitler's friend and supporter, and who has traveled, lunched, dined and visited with him off and on for years, is England's most authentic news source as to Der Fuehrer's plans. Lord Rothermere's paper, the London Daily Mail, which employs Mr. Price, has been scooping the ears off the other London sheets on Hitler stories.

Hitler Bares His Soul to Mail Scribe

Mr. Price previously has related how he and Lord Rothermere were two of four guests at Mr. Hitler's first formal dinner party after he seized power. That was December 19, 1934. It was about this time that Lord Rothermere, reaching 80 per cent of the British reading public, through his newspapers and press associations, began his unceasing campaign for fascism in England. A third guest at the dinner was E. W. D. Tennant, of the Anglo-German fellowship, a fellowship which Lord Rothermere and Mr. Price have diligently fostered, with their Apologia Fascisma.

Mr. Price, educated at Cambridge university, is a seasoned and richly garlanded British war correspondent. As foreign correspondent of the Daily Mail, he was with the Turkish army in the first Balkan war; he was an official correspondent at the Dardanelles, he was with the British army at Salonika. He has long been a quasi-official reporter for the British empire. He writes concisely, clearly and expertly, with a keen alertness for revealing little human touches and with little concern for the dry imponderables of political or economic theory.

His book, "I Know These Dictators," published in this country last year, was, in the view of this writer, big news, and should have stirred up a lot of excitement. Principally about Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, it builds out of intimately observed minutiae of their minds and persons a synthesis of virtue, charm and heroism.

Mr. Price, in this book, reports that Adolf Hitler is genteel, humorous, courageous, chivalrous, abstemious, profoundly intellectual, kindly, forgiving, unselfish, tender, a clever story-teller, and loves dogs and children.

DR. NORBERT WIENER challenges Milton, or Pope or whoever it was that observed, "Chaos umpire sits, and by decision more embroils the fray." At last, says this famous savant of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, scientists "can now predict what will happen in states of complete confusion."

Scientists Can Now Predict Way of Chaos

As Dr. Wiener explains the new outreach of the calculus, at the fourth international congress for applied mechanics at Cambridge, it seems to clock everything, from a case of hiccoughs to Adolf Hitler, just so long as it is "pure" chaos and not a mere adulteration. That ought to let in most of Europe.

He read English at the age of three and Latin at five, and entered Tufts college at the age of 11, finishing in the class of 1910. He took his master's degree in 1912 and his doctor's in 1913, both at Harvard.

At the age of 19, he was an assistant professor at Harvard, lecturing on "The Theory of Knowledge." Dr. Wiener has kept on steadily gathering laurels in the groves of Academe.

* * *

EVENTS of the last few weeks have, of course, flushed many half-pint Hitlers in Europe, chief among them being young Leon Degrelle, of Belgium. Counted out last year, he now bounces back with some show of power; enough, at any rate, to make a martial stir of men and horse in Brussels, with word that he might start delivery on the "terror" which he has been promising for several years.

A Petticoat Putsch Is New Threat

Thirty-two years old, of the type of a healthy and husky high-school lad, he is the best-looking of all the Hitler apprentices, and there's no knowing but that he might start the world's first great petticoat putsch. Comely young women have flocked to his banner in shoals, and much of his support has come from women. He has both allure and showmanship and few of the stigmata of the paranoiac, unless it be his apparent determination to scare everybody to death.

He tried to seize Brussels in October, 1936, stirring up considerable violence. His party is the "Rexist."

REFUGE

Services were held here Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night as usual. Bro. Lockhart preached Sunday and Sunday night. There was a very large crowd at each service. We invite every one to come back and be with us in every service.

We are sorry to say that there are a few on the sick list this week, but they are improving rapidly.

Sorrow were brought to this community when the death angels visited the home of Mrs. Davis and carried her away to the Great Beyond. She was buried at Mt. Springs church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Jodie Connell and wife of this community have moved to Clanton. We will greatly miss them, but we hope for them a lot of success.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Easterling of Sylacauga visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Easterling the latter part of the week.

There will be baptising at Mr. Elijah Mims's pond next Sunday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. This will make us 37 members by baptism, 13 by letter and six by restoration. This will be the fourth baptizing in the passed two and one-half months we have had here.

We held service here on Monday night of this week for the purpose of finishing up our last year's work. We had good attendance, and our pastor, Rev. M. ockhart preached a good sermon. He used as his subject, "God's Promises."

We are going to have an old fashion meeting at our church next Sunday, the men are going to wear their overalls and the women are going to wear their bonnets and aprons; the pastor is also going to preach in his overalls and baptize in his overalls. If you want to be in a real heart-stiring service, just come to Refuge next Sunday.

There will be meeting next Saturday night. Every one come and be with us.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. M. J. Davis. We also thank our friends and the church, Mt. Springs, for the lovely flowers they gave. We are thankful to Dr. N. S. Johnson for his kindness also.—The Family.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

For some reason or other we just feel that our Church is beginning a new life. The Spirit it seems livelier and stronger. The spirit has always been willing, but sometimes the work we did seem to have been weak and discouraging. Our efforts lacked the fire of God perhaps. Perhaps we didn't pray before we tried to do the job. Perhaps we were not trying to work for God's glory. Is that the way any of you feel?

We have begun a new Sunday School year now and may we everyone pray and help everyone else to attend and work for God in the Sunday school, preachng services and all other activities of the church.

God calls us to work for him. May we always heed His call, seek His guidance, do His work, and we shall without fail receive tne blessings waiting to be showered on our church.

FIRE PREVENTION PAYS

The President's proclamation setting aside the week beginning October 9th as Fire Prevntion Week is a timely reminder to every thoughtful citizen of the importance of preventing the needless waste occurring each year from forest fires.

Joseph C. Kircher, Southern Regional Forester of the United States Forest Service, says that the prosperity of the South in the years ahead is vitally bound up with the conservation and wise use of her forest resources. With the expansion of timber using industries, Mr. Kircher states it is necessary that everything possible be done to insure adequate permanent timber supplies. The first step in this direction is to stop the tremendous waste of present and potential timber by fire which kills and injuries trees before they can serve a useful purpose.

Dick Heath, who has been in a Birmingham hospital for the past month, was brought home by Martin's ambulance Friday of last week.

J. N. Scott Discusses Politics and Religion

Editor Union-Banner:

Some weeks ago I wrote a letter stating that people in politics were no worse than lots of people in our churches. This rule will work in reverse also. The Bible says "By their fruits shall ye know them," and this is a rule that will work every time. I am of the opinion that there has got to be a general cleaning up to take place in the heart and lives of people before we can ever expect to prosper again in this great nation of ours.

There has been more things to hit the United States, bringing destruction and distress to the people, in the last decade than has ever been before, and our candidates have promised us everything good before they were elected. After they were elected, they have given us everything except what they promised. God has been left out of everything, including our government, and the result has been wholesale suffering among humanity. This will continue until people come back to God.

Who ever heard of so many storms, tornadors, dust storms, floods and hurracines as we have had during the past few years? As I see it, these things are sent upon our nation because our elected officials have virtually left God out of everything and are trying to run the things of nature by themselves. People cannot do this without having to pay for it in human suffering and human blood. Instead of doing the will of God and abiding by the wishes of the people who elected them, our officials have become bosses, lords and dictators. In consequence of all this, we can expect nothing but that the wrath of Almighty God will be poured out upon the nation and upon the people in some form or another.

Dear voters, let us just look around us in our State and County and see just what is going on. We should not close our eyes and play ignorant, because ignorance is no excuse. Our people are really in trouble, and it is all because the wrong men have been put in office.

Some people say what is wrong with the South is that we stick too close to cotton as our only money crop, but I say that much worse than that is the fact that we depend on just one political party to pull us through. This is what is hurting the South and not the one crop system. Suppose we advocate diversifying in politics a little and see if that will not help. We have tried the Democratic party for 75 years in Alabama and it has done but very little for us. Would it not be sensible to try something else? Every year we get more disgusted than ever, and I hereby put the farmers and laborers on notice. We will never have much better times until there is a change made in our politics in the South. We know we could not make things worse, and there is a chance of making it better if we turn it over to the other party.

Voters of Chilton county, let's look well to the future and try to put the best men in office in the county and State. The Republicans have a full ticket this time, and a good set of men. Yours for good government.—J. N. Scott, Jemison, Ala.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We are still having good crowds at our services, and the larger part of them show interest and take part in the services. We are proud to say our singing is improving too. Good singing is the life of any church activities.

Mr. Newborn Jones will conduct prayer service Thursday night. Don't forget to come. The Thursday night prayer service is as good, if not the best, of all our services.

Next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Bro. Burrell will be with us for his first service as our pastor. We want good crowds to show him we are going to stick by him in his efforts to win lost souls to Christ; and that there is a few faithful servants trying to carry on.

We have on our sick list this week, Mr. Herman Jones, who has been quite ill with pneumonia for some time. He is out of danger at the time of this writing. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Don't forget our prayer meeting, Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. Everybody is welcome.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR SUPERINTENDENT

Some people seem to be attempting to create opposition to the Republican nominee for County Superintendent of Education by stating that Mr. Maddox has had no experience in teaching in the public schools of the county, but that he has spent all of his teaching experience in the Congregational school at Thorsby Institute. We grant this is true; but we also contend that Thorsby Institute has always made a record in school work comparable to any school in Chilton county. Thorsby Institute graduates always make good grades when they enter higher institutions, and its graduates who enter life upon finishing there generally succeed in their endeavors.

For about twenty years Thorsby Institute has been accredited by and a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, a distinction enjoyed by no high school except those of high rating.

Prof. Rascoe Maddox has taught fourteen years in Thorsby Institute, and is to a great extent responsile for the work turned out by that institution, which we dare say is a credit to any teacher or any individual.

We sincerely hope no controversy will be aroused which will involve any school of the county, either public or private, to the extent of any detriment to the cause of education. We should hold our campaign, especially in the superintendent's race, well aloof of such tactics.

THE FARMER'S COTTON

Someone has handed in a little rhyme, slightly sarchastic but probably expressing a more or less true feeling of many farmers of Chilton county. It goes something like this:

Mr. Fant had so many renters he didn't know what to do,
He slipped in his office and pulled off his shoe;
He lit a cigar and propped on his thigh—
Eight cent cotton boys, no matter if you die.
Farewell, farmers, I'll see you on high;
Come back next Spring, sign up and get more pie.

A CHANGE OF VIEW

So far as the President's authority in connection with shaping the policy of the Democratic Party is concerned, that may be strictly the business of the party itself, as distinct from the general public. It can be observed, however, that the President has changed his views on this matter since he was governor of New York. For in an address on January 14, 1032, he declared:

"The principles of the party belong to the party as a whole; the duty of enunciating those principles belongs to the party as a whole. — Worcester Telegram.

Speaking at the conference, John L. Lewis linked President Roosevelt and President Cardenas as two great statesmen. But he surely doesn't think that Mr. Roosevelt would snitch some other folks' oil and sell it to Hitler, does he?

Our idea of zero in accomplishments is the success of certain scientists at Maryland University in perfecting a species of spinach that will withstand the hardest freezing weather.

THE COTTON MUDDLE THICKENS

There has been considerable confusion and unrest among the farmers of the county trying to comply with the cotton program as outlined in the 1938 law and as administered by the county agent and his force of helpers in the county. The situation reached a kind of climax here last Saturday morning when Mr. T. H. Martin, chairman of the State committee on the farm program, came here from Auburn.

In response by announcement made by Judge L. H. Reynolds that Mr. Martin would be here, a courthouse was full of folks from all over the county with the hopes of getting some helpful information about the pitiful situation they are in with the cotton program. The meeting was called to order by Judge Reynolds, and a committee was appointed to go to the county agent's office and try and induce Mr. Martin to come and address the meeting. Finally Mr. Martin and Mr. J. W. Fant, the county agent, came over to the meeting and spoke to the gathering for several minutes. The sustance of their discourses, however, was principally explaining the new program for 1939 rather than helping the farmers with the present dilemma they are in the midst of with this year's co'ton crop.

Messrs. Martin and Fant very reluctantly entered into a discussion of the present situation, and did so only after practically all of the time of the meeting had been consumed in speaking of other farm matters.

The meeting failed of its purpose of getting anything definitely done about the present cotton situation, even though Judge Reynolds and others made desperate efforts to get some encouragement from the farm department officials for the planters of the county.

The Union-Banner ventures the statement that neither Mr. Fant nor Mr. Martin are so much to blame for the monumental mess the cotton marketing program is in in Alabama and Chilton county. The truth of the matter is the whole arrangement from Washington on down is so everlastingly complicated that no human mind can see through all of it. Mr. Martin and Mr. Fant as well as the balance of the administrators are embarrassed at the complete failure and unavoidable collapse of the entire top-heavy and totering structure.

The only solution is to sweep off the whole ground clean of the fragments and rubbish and begin a new; and next time put men in charge of it who know that they can never know as much about farming as the farmers themselves, and leave the biggest part of the problems and solutions to the individual tillers of the soil.

Judge Reynolds is to be commended for the noble way in which he stood up and defended the integrity and rights of the law-abiding farmers of Chilton county, against the threats and insinuations hurled at them.

SECURITY FOR THE COOK

So President Roosevelt intends to include domestic servants in social security and will take the matter up with the next sitting Congress. There will be plain and fancy bookkeeping on the part of housekeepers. There will be many bureaucrats necessary to check payments by housekeepers. These bureaucrats will see to it that no housekeeper escapes. Government will enter the kitchen and the bed chamber and will look on while the maid serves dinner. It will require a lot of money to support the bureaucrats assigned to checking.—Charleston News and Carrier.

WHAT IS A DEMOCRAT?

When the Republican Party was beset by a struggle between the conservatives of the East and the liberals of the West, the Democrats, who were then in the minority, used to get a great deal of fun out of the situation by asking the question: "Just what is a Republican anyhow? It is a La Follette liberal or a New England conservative?"

Well, the Republicans of various shades of opinion seem to be pretty well united now by a general antipathy to the New Deal and the political regimentation for which it stands. The questions might now well be asked: 'Just what is a Democrat? It it a Jeffersonian of the old school, such as Senator Glass or George? Is it an untra-liberal of the kind of the new senatorial candidate from California? Is it a Wallace plower-upper, or a Hopkins socializer?"

The fact is that there are as many if not more kinds of Democrat now than there were species of Republican in the old days. Perhaps this is one of the penalties a party has to pay for being in the majority. That it is a fact goes almost without saying. The President himself has been quoted as stating that he would prefer "liberal" Republicans in most instances to "conservative" Democrats. The Democratic Baltimore Sun said recently:

"It is silly to say that all of these men and women (the Democratic voters of 1936) see to eye with Mr. Roosevelt or with each other on every issue that arises. It would be even sillier to try to make them see eye to eye with Mr. Roosevelt or with each other. Moreover if anyone would presume to say that they must see eye to eye with Mr. Roosevelt and each other or else leave the party, the party would immediately fly apart into a thousand groups and the Democratic Party as such would cease to exist."

Here is some pretty good evidence of our contention from a consistently Democratic, albeit not a New Deal, newspaper. It only sums up what a great many political students have come to realize during the past few months, especially since the hectic purge primaries.

Republicans who have been discouraged in the past by the spectacle of their party torn by factional dissension need not be so discouraged in this year of 1938. Everywhere there seems to be a tendency on the part of Republicans to get together to fight the New Deal regimentation. On the other hand there are signs of Democratic rifts everywhere. The New Deal party is held together now, not by Jeffersonian traditions but by the steady stream of relief money which flows out of Washington.

Mexico is said to be in the midst of a severe business decline. Didn't we read some time ago that President Cardenas was trying out a New Deal?

Remember the old fashioned politician who had to raise campaign money from his friends and fellow party men with which to carry on the campaign?

The Katydids are said to be singing their songs earlier than usual this year, indicating an earlier frost. This will be sad news for a lot of budding political campaigns.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala.—"Alabama's reputation as a State where excellent health conditions prevail is one of its greatest assets in the competition for tourists," Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, said today in commenting upon a recent estimate that approximately 422,000 persons from other states and from foreign countries become temporary Alabamians every year.

"Let a serious epidemic develop and the impression get abroad that a person takes a chance of contracting a serious illness by drinking Alabama water, eating Alabama food, sleeping in Alabama hotels and tourist camps, or associating with Alabama people, and you will see Alabama's beautiful highways become virtual strangers to 'foreign' cars, he added.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

We read about a rich man who had a great harvest. He tore down his old barns nad built new ones. He folded his hands and told his soul to take its ease, and that night the fool died. What a hard time that man had. First, he had a hard time accumulating something. Second, he had a hard time saving what he had accumulated. Third, he had a hard time trying to convince himself that what he had accumulated could satisfy his soul. This story of the rich fool reads like current literature. Men "tug and toil" to save something. After they have saved it they are worried to death for fear they will lose it and most of them usually do. It is not as hard to make money and save money as it is to satisfy the heart with material things. Man is an immortal being. He has got to live somewhere forever. Material things cannot satisfy his soul. The rich fool said, "my soul eat." Think of the soul eating a barn, and grain, and land, and stocks, and bonds. God made man. He knows what kind of bread the soul needs. Jesus said, "I am the Bread come down from heaven." The hungry hearts of earth's teeming millions whether they know it or not are crying for the Bread of life.

Many theolcgians in our modern world refuse to believe the doctrine of "original sin." They talk much of the divinity of human nature. Some say that man was neither born good or bad. The Bible teaches that man was born in sin. While these theologians are talking about not believing in "original sin" and depravity, the people are trying themselves to invent "original sins." All of these practices such as wild cocktail parties, sensational divorces, "affiniti and other shocking things are not original with the people who are doing them. Vices like these have always been the cause of the overthrow of empires, the wreckng of civilizations, and the destruction of the people. There is one game that no man has ever been able to beat. That is the game of sin. Deterioration and disintegration have already set in in America and all the other countries of the world. Sin is never constructive It is always destructive. It never pays. It always produces bankruptcy. It never lifts up. It always pulls down. It never produces life. "The wages of sin is death." The statesmen of the world are endeavoring to hold up the house of civilization but it is about to fall. Sin has produced the moral termites that are eating up the foundation upon which we have built our civilization.

R. J. GOODE REPORTS GOOD MARKETING FOR ALABAMA

The result of several months survey and work on the part of the marketing Division towards working out trade relations for Alabama products with Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands was announced this week by R. J. Goode, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries.

Commissioner Goode's survey reveals unlimited marketing possibilities with these two territories due to there being no tariff or import duties since these territories belong to the United States Due to the development of the State Docks and the Port at Mobile, Alabama products are now n a position to favorably compete with those previously shipped from New York and other ports. Puerto Rice is one of the most fertile fields for importation existing at the present time. It has the densest population of any principality in the world, 500 people per square mile, a total population of nearly 2,000,000 and an area approximately 36 miles wide and 100 miles long. Practically all of the foodstuffs consumed have to be imported due to the scarcity of land in this Island and due to the fact that 75 per cent of the productive land is planted to sugar cane.

TIGERS DEFEAT "BLUE DEVILS"

Last Friday afternoon the Tigers won their third game by the score of 13 to 6. This game proved to be the hardest fought game of the year so far. After the game each team realized that they had been in a football game.

The back field and line both played a splendid game. After the kick-off to the "Bule Devils," they fumbled on the third play, the Tigers received the ball on the Maplesville 35-yard line, Clanton then received a five-yard pen, which put the ball on the 40. As the ball was swapped to Snowy Melton, the line opened a hole large enough to drive a wagon through. So little Snowy Melton galloped down the field for 35 yards, leaving the ball on the five-yard line.

After two more plays the pigskin was carried over for a marker. The Tigers then kicked off to Maplesville. At this point the Tigers were unaple to stand up under the pressure that the Blue Devils turned on, this made the score 6 all.

As the second period began Clanton lived up to their namesake, the fighting Tigers, due to the fact that the line cooperated with the back field, and enabled the Tigers to march down to pay dirt again. They also made the extra point. This made the score 13 to 6.

During the last half of the game each team played hard, but neither being able to cross the last white line.

Due to the fact that each man on both teams did their part like professionals, I am not able to pick out any particular star.

The Tigers go against the Sidney Lanier "B" team next Friday afternoon at 2:30. This game has all the marks of being a good game. Everyone has a cordial invitation to attend.

The Tigers have played three games which made the total of 42 points, their opponents have made only 6 points. The only team scoring on them was the Maplesville team last Friday afternoon.

VERBENA LOSES TO ISABELLA

The Isabella eleven won over Verbena by the small margin of 6 to 0. These teams proved to be evenly matched, each team fighting for what they received.

This game was last Friday at Isabella.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jones (Estor Owen), Miss Ethel Black and Mr. Trion Wilder of Cooling, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Owen.

WETUMPKA LOST TO TROY

Last Friday the husky Wetumpka team lost a very exciting game to Troy. Wetumpka has played three games and lost only one, that being by the score of 6 to 0.

CRIMSON TIDE MARCHES TO THIRD STRAIGHT VICTORY

Jesse Frank Foshee again sees service with the Crimson Tide. The red elephants won their third game by defeating North Carolina 14 to 0.

Herkley Mosley stared in this game. He galloped 62 yards, the longest run for the Crimson Tide this season. Jess Foshee as usual played a top notch game at guard position.

Again may we say we are proud of our Clanton boy, Jesse Frank Foshee.

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Benjamin Russell, Alexander City industralist, was re-elected president of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at the closing business session of the annual meeting held in Montgomery, October 4th. His election was unanimous, with the Board of Directors giving him a rising vote of thanks for services performed since the Chamber was organized.

Various speakers throughout the day paid tribute to Mr. Russell's fine leadership and the progress which had been made by the State Chamber its first year.

More than two hundred business leaders representing 40 counties of the state attended this meeting and expressed enthusiastic interest in the work already accomplished and faith in the program as outlined by President Russell for the coming year. The organization, according to Mr. Russell will steadily push forward its program for developing Alabama and materially improving the earning opportunities of its citizens.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

The American Legion today has developed into one of the finest institutions in America, and is enjoying a wave of favorable public opinion that is greatly appreciated, especially by the rank and file of its membership.

The stand that is taken by the Legion against the dictatorial policies of other nations is a splendid position that all lovers of democracy will greatly admire. But let us be able to determine the difference between foreign "isms" and the American Labor movement, so that the membership we have struggled to, and have finally attained, won't be misled as some of the most reactionary groups throughout America would have them misled. We must bear in mind that, although a lot of our program has been accomplshed through legislation and other ways, we have had almost the same struggle that has confronted the labor movement; not in the same manner, of course, but our biggest enemies have also been labor's biggest enemies.

Now that the American Legion has come into its own, despite this opposition, they are more or less giving us the soft pedal and trying, at the same time, to enlist our help in their drive to further persecute labor organizations by giving them the nick-name of "communism."

If we will be very careful to remember that the American Legion is an institution made up, for the most part, of American working people and that these people are not reds and that lots of them are members of organized labor, whether it be the CIO or the AFL, then there will be no chance for the common enemies of labor and the Legion to succeed through a carefully planned scheme to pit the American Legion against organized labor, and, as a result, weaken the American Legion to the point where further gains would be impossible.

Let us remember that the chief aim of both the American Legion and the American Labor Movement is greater democracy for everybody. Signed: Earl Crowder.

CHEVROLET COMPANY TO HOLD BIG MEETING

The fact that increased sales spell an increase in gainful employment has received heavy stress this past year. Chevrolet is going a step further and demonstrating that even the preparations for selling, if conducted on Chevrolet's scale, can put thousands of people to work, create vast demand for commodities, and spread economic benefits of the most tangible kind. For between October 6th and October 14th, Chevrolet is holding a Dealer Pre-view "convention" of 80,000 persons, climaxed with a banquet at which that number will be served.

The meetings will be nationwide in scope. They will be held in 42 principle cities. Chevrolet dealers, their retail salesmen and other members of their organization will attend. Since the average number at each meeting will be nearly 2,000, this will necessitate engagement of the largest banquet place at each point. The event will rate, in many cities, as the largest undertaking of its sort on the local records, just as the overall project probably exceeds in size anything in the annals of business.

The purpose of the convention is to present to the retail organization Chevrolet's new passenger cars for 1939, which are scheduled for public announcement October 22. Central Office executives, aided by field wholesale personnel, will make the presentation, and lay before dealers the company's plans for advertising and selling the products during the months to come.

ONE QUESTION Leads to ANOTHER

YOUR affairs are rarely so simple, whether they are business or social in nature, that a brief communication is adequate to settle them fully when the other party is in another city.

One question leads to another—and that is why a three-minute long distance telephone call is not only effective, but truly economical.

It is a two-way exchange of ideas. It saves time. It allows the warm tones of your voice to express your personality. It enables you to use a surprisingly large number of words. Best of all, it is low in cost.

Look in the front pages of your telephone directory, or ask the "Long Distance" operator, for the rates on the call you would like to make.

Long distance telephone rates on most calls are even lower after 7 P. M. every night, and all day Sundays. But any time, to anywhere, telephone to get results.

Lesson for October 16

REVERENCE FOR GOD

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37; 12:33-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.—Matthew 6:9.

Character reveals itself through the words and deeds of a man. He may try to conceal his real spiritual condition and may assume an outward appearance of piety but he need not say many words, nor meet many of life's problems, before his true condition is revealed.

Our lesson for today touches primarily on the matter of the words of men, presenting first God's command that in speaking we are to show reverence for His name, and then leading up to the expression of that reverence in abstinence from swearing and from idle talk.

I. Reverence Commanded (Exod. 20:7).

The forbidden thing is the taking of the name of the Lord "in vain." Our use of the word "vain" carries the meaning of "useless, without purpose or meaning." This is part of what is in mind in this commandment, for the name of Jehovah is sacred and is to be reverenced as standing for the eternal God. It is never to be used carelessly, or for a frivolous purpose. All too often we tell jokes or stories which have no real purpose or meaning except to elicit a laugh and in them we use the name of God. We all need to exercise care at that point.

The Hebrew word translated "vain" has the additional meaning of "evil" and "falsehood." Men are so bold that they may even use the name of God to support themselves in a lie. God hears and will in no wise hold them guiltless.

II. Swearing Forbidden (Matt. 5:33-37).

The Sermon on the Mount (so-called), from which this portion of Scripture is taken, is difficult to interpret to the satisfaction of all. Some disregard its evident application to the kingdom and, attempting to apply it in the midst of an ungodly generation, fall into such inconsistency that they abandon the effort and regard the teaching of the passage as impossible idealism. Others, who rightly interpret the passage as presenting the laws and principles of life in the kingdom of God when it shall be fully set up on earth with Jesus as King, fail to make any application of those principles to the life of those who are now living in this world—though not of it—but rather have their citizenship in heaven. This is also an unfortunate error.

We who follow the Lord Jesus are not to swear by either things sacred or things that might be called secular. Perhaps He has in mind that our lives should be so true that men will not need to have any kind of an oath to be assured of our sincerity and honesty. Some believe that all oaths even in court are forbidden, while others, with due respect for the feelings of those who hold this view, regard the taking of oaths in official matters as not being in mind. All would agree that the careless and almost sacrilegious use of God's name in administering oaths would be taking His name in vain.

Swearing is also entirely beyond the pale with Christian men and women. It is all too common with both men and women. A great church has organized a "Holy Name Society" to keep its members from using the name of the Lord in profanity. What a telling comment on the times in which we live!

III Judgment Assured (Matt. 12:33-37).

Jesus had cast out a demon who had possessed a man and made him blind and dumb. The Pharisees could not deny the miracle but attributed it to the power of Beelzebub, prince of the demons. Jesus closed their mouths by pointing out that Satan did not work against himself, and went on to speak solemn words regarding their and our responsibility for what we say.

A day of judgment is coming, when we shall answer for the idle and wicked words which we speak. While we would not bring condemnation upon those who indulge in the innocent pleasantries of life by making too severe an application of these words, neither should we destroy their evident import by failing to apply them to our daily conversation. One need but listen to the casual small talk of men and women in public places to realize that we need to give attention to the matter of elevating not only the conversation of others but our own as well to a nobler and more helpful level Surely Christians should speak for the glory of God on every occasion and in each circumstance of life.

The way to accomplish this worthy purpose, and the only way, is to have the heart and life filled with the good treasure of God's Word, for verily out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. What do your words and mine indicate to others regarding what is in our hearts?

KENNAMER CLAN

In the death of T. J. Kennamer, this state has lost one of the most distinguished members of one of its most distinguished Republican families.

For many years, the name of Kennamer has meant as much to the Republican Party in Alabama as the name of Bankhead has meant to the Democratic Party, T. J. Kennamer at the time of his death being the Republican nominee for Congress in the Ninth District. One brother, C B. Kennamer, is on the federal bench at Montgomery, and another brother, F. E. Kennamer, is on the federal bench at Tulsa, Okla.

The sire of this clan was Seborn F. Kennamer, a prominent farmer, of Marchall County who, if he were living today, would be 108 years of age. Seborn Kennamer was one of those thousands of North Alabama who fought vigorously against the secession of his state in 1861, and he felt so keenly about it that he, along with many others from that section, served with the Union Army. His particular capacity with the Federals was as a Scout, and after the War he served as a member of the 1867 constitutional convention.

A record such as this is not one to inspire particular political favor with the majority of Alabamians, but we must not lose sight of the fact that Seborn Kennamer was as conscientious in his espousal of an unbroken union as his neighbors were in the espousal of a new and separate nation for the South—and his sons through all the years have remained faithful to the party for which he fought. They have not shifted with the winds; they have been with their own crowd in times of prsoperity and in times of adversity, and can anyone criticise a loyal man?—Tuscaloosa News.

Two Things Overlooked

Two outstanding events in the Kennamer clan are generally overlooked by the press and those offering comments. It is recalled by tradition and by older citizens of Marshall County that Seborn F. Kennamer, father of the late T. J. Kennamer and Judge C. B. Kennamer, was the owner of several slaves, but that these slaves were voluntarily freed by their owner some time before the Emancipation Proclamation. As stated in the foregoing edtorial from Tuscaloosa News, Mr. Kennamer opposed secession and volunteered his services to the Union army.

Following his service as member of the Constitutional Convention of 1867, however, Seborn Kennamer did not approve of the Carpet Bag regime forced upon the South by the Yankees, and although remaining true to the party and principles of Lincoln Republicanism, for a quarter of a century aided his fellow countrymen in the Southland to oppose the encroachments of the Carpet Baggers.

So, with The Tuscaloosa News, we repeat the question: "Can anyone criticise a loyal man?"

IN MEMORY

Our hearts were made sad Tuesday night, September 20, about 7 o'clock, when God saw fit to send the death angel into this world, and waft away from this earthly home, the sweet life of grandmother, to another beautiful Home not made with hands.

Grandmother Wilkins, age 68, died at the home of one of her son, C. L. Wilkins, near Enterprise. All during her sickness, she bore it all patiently, and seemed to be waiting for her Savior to call her home. She lived a beautiful Christian life, and set many good examples in the way she would like for us to go.

To know dear grandmother, was to love her. Her willingness and kindness to do work for the Lord, made her life so much sweeter. She has so peacefully and quietly entered into that beautiful home, where Jesus has only called her from this earth to never more roam.—A granddaughter, Gertie M. Wilkins.

Mr. Hence Thompson of Pinedale community, returned home Monday from Marion, S. C.

ARTICLES IN THIS PAPER YOU'LL WANT TO READ

There are some important articles on the inside pages of this issue of The Union-Banner you will want to read. Mr. W. A. Reynolds is writing on local politics, and his letter is most timely. In another article we quote from the address of Herbert Hoover over the radio Monday night; this will give you some worth-while facts about national politics.

Then, going from the ridiculous to the sublime, turn to Joe Ben Downs's account of his air trip to New Orleans; then you will be interested in Jap Scott's account of his activities last Sunday.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL BEGINS SOON

Work Being Pushed In Anticipation Of Successful Drive

The organization of the local chapter of American Red Cross preparatory to the opening of the roll call drive on November 11th is getting well under way, according to the roll call chairman, Mr. J. Mell Martin.

All communities will be worked, especially the urban parts of the county, and ample opportunity will be given all to join again this year and thus aid in the most worthy work of the organization.

It must be understood by now that half of the money paid into the Red Cross remains in Chilton county to be used in all worthy causes by the local chapter committee. Mr. Martin is preparing a list of the contributions made from this local fund the past year, and same will be published when completed.

It is hoped that those people who are asked to do different jobs for the Red Cross will respond by doing their part to the best of their abilities. Let's get organized and do the job better this time that we ever have before.

THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY WILL GET WHAT THEY VOTE FOR

The time is drawing near when the citizens of Chilton county will be permitted to name their county officers for the next four years. Among all the offices to be filled, those most directly affecting the lives and well-being of the entire citizenship of the county are the two places of County Commissioner from the First and Second Districts. There are bigger paying offices than Commissioner, but there are none more important to the actual well-being of the county than these. Our citizens are all more or less acquainted with the duties and functions of these offices, and a little thought will reveal that the performance of the men in these positions very vitally affect us all.

The question arises, are the people of Chilton county satisfied with the performance they have gotten from the Commissioners Court during the past four years? If so, then they should vote in favor of a continuance of the same. On the other hand, if there has been a lack of efficiency and the failure to use best judgment in the management of the county's financial and public road affairs, then we ought to cast around for a probable better arrangement.

Next to Commissioner of tangible importance to the citizens is the office of Representative. There can be laws passed in Montgomery that prove obnoxious to the general citizenship of the county; while there is often a necessity of good local laws being passed. Really and truly a dependable man and one deserving of all trust should be sent to the Legislature to represent Chilton County.

All the offices are important, and the Republican ticket contains names of men thoroughly competent of filling them, but these mentioned are of the most direct and tangible interest to the citizenship generally. Let us all vote for the best interest of the county, because it is upon our choice that lies the destiny of our county government for the next four years.

Above all, no citizen should cast his vote under the guidance of some petty personal matter and at the same time hope that the majority of citizens may have more backbone than one's self and that the final outcome ought to be different from what that one's own vote was. Sometimes we feel that some people vote just that way, all the time hoping that their vote may be killed. Such voting is not in accordance with the principles of Americanism, and is dangerous to our free intitutions.

But back to our subject: Disregarding the possibility of fraud, the outcome of this election on November 8th will be just what the people of Chilton county make it. Does not the gravity of the situation demand our most careful consideration and the exercise of the best judgment at our disposal? If The Union-Banner may, let us appeal to the voters of Chilton county not to wink at this or that inconsistency, but vote for what we know to be the best general interest of all.

VISITORS FROM TEXAS

The editor of The Union-Banner happened to meet up with a person last Sunday whom we were very glad to become acquainted with. It was Mr. J. R. Connell, of Mineola, Texas, a former Chilton county man. Mr. Connell has been a resident of the Lone Star State for around forty years, and has been reading The Union-Banner most of the time since he had left this part of the counry; he has written a few letters for publication in our paper. J. R. Connell is the only surviving brother of the late Rev. W. H. Connell of Stanton, and is an old acquaintance of Uncle George and Watt Willis as well as a number of other residents of Chilton county. He once lived in Enterprise community.

Mr. Connell, together with his son, Woodrow Connell, and son-in-law, Dillie Walker, also of Mineola, were out at Mt. Springs attending the homecoming services last Sunday.

The editor of The Union-Banner had been knowing Mr. Connell, by reputation and remote control for a number of years, but last Sunday was the first time we had had the pleasure of seeing him. We enjoyed seeing him, as well as his son-in-law.

Approximately 1100 cars of foodstuff are move daily by the railroads into New York City and suburs.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Did you know we are feeling good about something we had want to pass it on to you and rejoice together? That something is that records of last Sunday and of the same Sunday a year ago show that last Sunday we had 42 more people in attendance at Sunday school than we had a year ago. We think that is fine, but did you know that if all would come who should come would yet increase the attendance about 100 more? Now let's be thankful for the increase we have had and work even harder to get even greater increase for next Sunday and all future Sundays.

Our hearts go out in sympathy and love to the family of our faithful member, Bro. R. S. Sumner. May God's richest blessings of comfort be shed on them lovinly and may His mantle be cast on someone who can be just a blessing in our church as was Bro. Sumner. We personally and as a church shall miss him.

We want all the ones who are having to be absent from our church services to know that we are remembering them and miss them, and are praying that all will be well with them soon.

We, who can, let's carry on the Lord's work as best we can and not fail in any way any of the services, Sunday school, preaching services, leagues and all others.

NATIONAL GUARD UNIT

Plans are moving swiftly toward a Volunteer National Guard Unit or a Volunteer Militia Company here being sponsored by the local Kwanis Club and other influential citizens of the community, who are eager to obtain this improvement and this addition to Clanton and the State of Alabama.

If this volunteer Unit becomes strong enough and active enough it will be easier to get a National Guard Unit established here. After this volunteer unit is established the Government will furnish rifles to drill with, but will not be able to secure uniforms until the unit is mustered into the National Guard Unit.

If the community is fortuate enouga to get a national guard unit located here,, the Government will build an Armory here.

All those interested in joining this unit and drilling one night each week see Horton Walker, Patterson Hicks, Bonnie Hand, or John Higgins.

Mr. and Mrs. Tam Miller spent a while Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Williamson of Mt. Springs community.

Walker County Youth Died In Local Hospital

Young Man Shot In Connection With Chicken Theft

Lester Sargent, age 20, of Parrish, in Walker county, died in Central Alabama Hospital Friday, from wounds sustained in an alleged chicken theft racket in Cedar Grove community last Wednesday night, October 12th. Albert S. Sargent, 23, brother of the dead man, was arrested and placed in jail in Clanton in connection with the theft charge, or larcency, Thursday.

Sheriff J. R. Hardy said a youth who identified himself as Lester Sargent, 20, of Parrish Ala., was shot, and his brother, Albert S. Sargent, 23, was arrested in connection with a reported theft of chickens from Lloyd Mims, farmer of the area.

A third man said to have been involved in the theft escaped, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Hardy said according to an account given him by Lloyd Mims, Luther Mims, a neighbor, and Walter Gillespie, all farmers in a community north of here, the three men pursued three others accused of stealing chickens. After an automobile chase of several miles, one of the men pursued was caught and the other critically wounded.

Hardy said the chase began about midnight after the chickens were stolen from the Lloyd Mims farm.

Albert Sargent was caught shortly after, Hardy said he was told, but Lester Sargent, near death from loss of blood, was not found until late Thursday morning in a field south of Calera.

The sheriff said Lloyd and Luther Mims and Gillespie told him Lester Sargent ran after being shot during the encounter that followed the highway chase.

The remains of the young man were prepared here by Martin and shipped to Cordova, Ala., in Walker county.

CHILTON POSSE CAPTURES NEGRO

A posse of a large group of men Friday captured, after an all-night chase, a Negro accused of attempting to break into a farmhouse in the Minooka community about six miles South of Calera.

Bloodhounds from Speigner Prison were brought to the scene of the hunt and tracked down the Negro on the L. & N. tracks several miles from the scene of the attempted burglary. Warrants charging the Negro with burglay of several other homes in the community were later sworn out today, Hardy said.

Several articles found in Green's possession were identified and claimed by citizens of Minooka vicinity.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — Radio listeners in all parts of the State were urged today by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, to tune in on the weekly radio programs sponsored by the American Medcal Association, which were resumed for the 1938-39 season October 19th.

"These programs will be heard at 1 p. m. (Central Standard Time) every Wednesday through stations of the Blue network of the National Broadcasting Company," he said. "They do not consist of health talks but are half-hour dramtizations written and produced by professional radio artists, with orchestra accompaniment. They are prepared no the basis of information furnished by the A. M. A.'s Bureau of Health Education. They are intended to supplement, dramtize and enrich health instruction in the schools, but not to take the place of classroom instruction, text-books or project teaching."

TIGERS DEFEAT LANIER "B" TEAM

The Chilton County High Tigers clashed with the Lanier team last Friday in probably the hardest fought game to be played the entire season, the Tigers coming out victorious by the score of 13 to 6.

During the first period of the game the blue jerseyed and white numbered Lanier team marched down the field to score the first marker of the game, but the place kick for the extra point failed.

As the game progressed the Tigers got on the war path. The Orange and Blues were unable to gain a sufficient amount of yardage through the much heavier Lanier line, and then a most beautiful aerial attack began. The tigers pulled a fake line buck, being something like this: The man carrying the ball reached the line of scrimmage, shoveled a pass into the waiting arms of C. D. Hayes, and he in turn lateraled to the signal calling Locklear and after strutting for about 10 yds. as he was being pulled to the green the sprinting captain, Scotty Armstrong, then relieved him of the pig skin and while the Lanier team was figuring where the ball was he galloped down the field about 40 yards for the Tigers, first marker of the game and the extra point was not made.

During the next period of the game each team fought like mad men to get to pay dirt and in turn each team failed to cross the last white line, in this period there was a splendid display of punting, such as punting out of bounds on the 5 and 10 yard lines.

In the next quarter after a beautiful punt from Scotty Armstrong, the Lanier team was held for downs on their 25-yard line and as they tried to punt out the long lanky Jones of the Tiger squad proved to be the monkey-wrench in their machine by blocking the punt thus putting the Tigers into scoring position without much effort, a few line plays and the ball was carried over the white line, a pass from Armstrong to Melton made the point good the score now being 13 to 6 in favor of the Tigers.

During the last quarter the Tigers fought hard to hold their 7 point lead and with much effort they were able to hold the lead they had gained.

The star linemen were as follows: The one and only Hairbrain Cooper, although he may be called Dumbell he is still able to play a good game at the pivot post for the Tigers, the long lanky Lester Jones as usual played his position splendid, ripping through the line and blocking the punt thus enabling the Tigers to score the winning touchdown, a first year man also starred in this game the player being none other than Hubert Williams.

The star in the back field was Scotty Armstrong, the swindle-hip Captain. The other backs did their part well but made no spectacular runs.

The Tigers meet Sylacauga next Friday night at Sylacauga.

During this season the Chilton High Tigers have scored sixty-five points while their opponents have only scored twelve points.

OUR DAY OF REST

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:8-11; Luke 13:10-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.—Exodus 20:8.

Rest—how full of meaning that little word is when we recall that it means quiet for the struggling one, calm for the troubled, repose for the weary, tranquillity for the disturbed, cessation of labor for the worn-out one. God in His infinite wisdom saw that without rest man would soon destroy himself, and He made provision for one day in seven when labor should cease and man should be free for that re-creation of soul and body which should fit him for the labor of the week. Men in their greed have coveted the time God gave for rest and have used it for themselves, and the ragged nerves and broken bodies, to say nothing of the impoverished spirits of our day, testify that it can be done only at our peril.

Our study centers around Scripture passages which have to do with the Jewish Sabbath, but since it was essentially a day of rest, and afforded an opportunity for the worship of God, the principles surrounding it are applicable to our day of rest—the first day of the week, the Lord's Day.

I. Why We Keep a Day of Rest (Exod. 20:8-11).

1. God commanded that there should be a day of rest—one out of seven—and that should be sufficient to cause His people to "remember" the day "to keep it holy." It is cause for grave concern that Sunday has become a day of swimming, hiking, auto-driving, golfing, and one might go on with the list almost indefinitely. Many men or women who have had built into their own characters the stalwart virtues nurtured by family attendance at the house of God, have not only forgotten their own need and responsibility but are destroying every vestige of interest in divine worship in the hearts of their children. It is serious business to go astray oneself, but infinitely more serious to mislead one's own children.

Notice that the day of rest was to be not only for the family but also for servants and for visitors. The employer who operates his factory or office on Sunday violates this commandment. Note also that the man who is to rest on the seventh day is supposed to work on the six days. Some folk neglect to do both.

2. God's command is strengthened by the divine example (v. 11). We are not able to do all things that God does, but here we are privileged to follow His example.

II. How We Keep the Day of Rest (Luke 13:10-17).

The incident recorded by Luke does not give us an exhaustive list of things to be done with our day of rest, but it is interesting to note that our Lord was

1. In the house of God (v. 10). Jesus was in the synagogue. The distinguished Apostle Paul never became too great or too good to attend divine worship. We all need to go to church (if it is at all possible for us to do so) to fellowship with others in the things of Christ. Let us have a revival of church attendance, and not only on Sunday mornings, but also on Sunday night and for midweek prayer meeting.

2. Alert to the needs of others (vv. 11, 12). It is not indicated that the woman asked to be healed. Jesus saw her need and met it. We can not do what he did, but there are needs that we can meet if we are but alert to see them and willing to help.

3. Active in service (v. 13). In spite of the criticism which He knew would come from the lazy and helpless standers-by, Jesus did the work of God. We may glorify God by being ready—yes anxious—to serve in the church. Our daily work is set aside on the Lord's Day not that we should be indolent, but that we should be free to do the Lord's work.

4. Contending for the faith (vv. 14-17). Jesus met the unjust criticism (which, by the way, was leveled at the poor woman because the critic feared Jesus) by a masterly appeal to the law of the Pharisees (vv. 15, 16). But He did more than that, for He ably defended the rights of humanity as superior to the formalities of man-made law. The law is always supreme until the Lawgiver comes, and no law can hinder Him by its letter, as He fulfills its spirit.

We may not speak as Jesus did, that is to declare what the law is, but we may in His name, and by His grace and power declare the full counsel of God, defend it against its critics and withstand those who while bearing the name of Christian leaders only hinder the work of Christ (compare III John 9, 10). For such service we need His guidance, His wisdom, His power, and His grace.

"YOU AND YOUR MONEY"

WITH the whole world in more or less of a state of chaos and millions of people unemployed, it is refreshing and encouraging for one to read a little book of some 80 pages entitled "You and Your Money" of which C. Donald Dallas, President of Revere Copper and Brass Incorporated, is the author. From the first to the last page of this little book there is a wealth of information presented in the language of the layman, which when read by American citizens in particular, will give them heart to carry on and they will see a rainbow of prosperity and happiness in the years to come.

C. Donald Dallas

The foreward of the book was written by Virgil Jordan and he has summarized in a few words the fact that there is something inspiring for everyone who has the luck to be an American today. The people of America have a privilege and opportunity, he states, that remains to few others—that of freedom to determine their own destiny. One can only pray that they will not prove too stupid and lazy to use it.

ENJOYED SERVICES AT PROVIDENCE LAST SUNDAY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give space to relate that I had a most wonderful time on last Sunday in the worship of God. Rev. J. C. Thomas from Elmore county came up to old Providence church, Beat 13, and preached us a wonderful sermon. This man of God told about the sleeping Christians and the trouble it brings to those who stay awake and are trying to do something to advance the Kingdom of God. This was at 11 o'clock.

After the services I carried him to Dargin in Shelby county, where I had been invited to a family renunion of one Bro. Nabors, whose family consisted of 22 children; 18 are still living. That was the largest family reunion I ever had the pleasure of attending, and the largest dinner.

The children and friends got together and gave us some real good old gospel songs, and everyone really enjoyed themselves.

After the reunion we came back to Providence and had another wonderful sermon delivered to us by Bro. Thomas. All present at each of these services really enjoyed themselves. It was a wondrful day. The Lord was with us in a big way all day.

We are expecting another great day the 5th Sunday at Center Hill church, two miles west of Jemison. Everybody is invited; it is going to be an old time singing in both old books. We are especially looking for all the candidates to be present and help out. They will be expected to direct at least one song each in the old books. So, everybody come and bring your books, on the 5th Sunday, October 30th. Yours for a great day.—J. N. Scott, Jemison, Ala.

Clanton Gospel Tabernacle Hosts At Big Convention

Southeastern District Council Of Assemblies Of God Met Here Last Week; 300 Guests

One of the most widely attended and most successful religious conventions ever to assemble in Central Alabama met at Clanton with the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle last week, Monday through Thursday, October 10-13, when the Southeastern Council of the Assemblies fo God, District of Alabama, met with the local members here.

The convention came as a finish to a one-week revival conducted by the Rev. T. H. Spence, both revival and convention being voted by the vast assembly as the most successful. This is the first time the Southeastern District Convention has ever met north of Montgomery. Some 350 ministers, delegates and visitors poured in from all over Alabama and bordering states.

Religious meetings were held each day at 11 and 7 o'clock, with business meetings of the council delegates meeting at 9:30 and 2:30 each day. During these business meetings, the Rev. Marvin L. Smith, of Mobile, was elected as Chairman of the Executve Committee and General Superintendent of the Southeastern District Convention, to succeed the Rev. Thames, of Elba, wha had asked to be relieved of the duties, after a term of some years during which the district association and its field has prospered wonderfully.

The religious services were well attended by people of this community, and the large gospel tent, seating some 700 was never over half large enough to accommodate the crowds. Inspiring messages were delivered by Revs. Thames, Smith, Vogler of Springfield, Mo., and Hickman of Birmingham and others. Altar calls were given at all meetings, and the results were quite inspiring. Musical direction during the convention was under the guidance of the Rev. Helms.

Thank Chilton County People

Without the wholehearted cooperation of the people of Clanton and immediate vicinity, the housing problem for the hundreds of delegates might have been a serious problem, but members of the entertainment and housing committee were warmed by the fine response they received from these, our neighbors. People of all denominations — Pentecostal, Baptists, Methodists, and others, went out of their way to respond to this call of the Tabernacle committee for sleeping quarters for their visitors.

For this, members of the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle offer their sincere thanks, and await the opportunity to themselves be of assistance to their neighbors and friends, whatever their denomination, at an time that opportunity may present. We truly thank you all for your wonderful help in a time when we needed your homes for our people. We can never forget this favor, nor appreciate it enough.

The convention closed Thursday night after a most successful session. The visiting delegates and others expressed their hearty approval of the Clanton church, as well as of the City of Clanton and her fine people. It is believed that the convention will meet with the Clanton church again next year, inasmuch as all visiting delegates were heartily in accord that this was the best convention in the history of the Southeastern cenference.

The Clanton Gospel Tabernacle invites you to attend its preaching services, as well as its Sunday school, which meets each Sunday morning at 9:45. Come and be with us.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Saturday night and Sunday were our regular preaching dates. We had a house full at both services. The pastor delivered two wonderful sermons to us.

We all believe we have a preacher who stands for the Lord in every way and s going to do everything he can for the upbuildnig of Poplar Springs. But he or no other preacher, regardless of how fine a person and preacher, can do anything for a church without the whole cooperation, prayers, and help of the members of the church. So let's all pull together for the right and don't be trying to find some fault of the preacher. The Bible reads in one place that, "A House Devided Against Itself Will Not Stand." Let's give our pastor our whole cooperation and don't be so prejudiced, for we don't want Poplar Springs to be a "house divided."

Bro. McMann of Refuge community will preach for us the first Sunday in November. Let's don't forget and watch for further announcement in the Poplar Spring's news.

From now on B. Y. P. U. and prayer services wll begin at 6:30 o'clock. Everyone be on time.

We are askng everyone to pray for Poplar Springs church, as well as the others, that it may continue to grow in grace and to carry on the services of the Lord as He would have us to do. Everyone is welcome.

W. A. Reynolds Writes To The "Forgotten Man"

Editor Union-Banner:

I have been reading the current news, and after much thought I am wondering just where we are heading for. The whole world seems to have lost their reasoning and gone after strange Gods as they did of old. The Roosevelt administration or New Deal that started out with so much hope and promise for the "Forgotten Man" has almost faded away in dissapointment and grief. My mind turns back to the begnning of our great country how it fought with blood to achieve the great principles that are looked on so loosely. I think of George Washington crossing the Delaware River in the bleak cold and snow and his soldiers leaving their trail with blood to make this country a place of liberty and freedom, where men and women of all ranks could exercise their rights.

Now in the name of all that is good, can we do it? No, a thousands times no.. I can hear of farmer after farmer in this county being told to plant so many acres of cotton and afterward have to plow up from one-eight to five acres in the picking season. I believe if all the time these farmers have spent going to the County Agent's office to find out how much to plant and in the fall to find out how much they did plant, also waiting at the office to get this information; if they had spent the same hours in their fields producing cotton at 5 cents a pound that they would have more money than they would get out of the Federal Government.

I am beginning to believe as a great many good Democrats believe, that this whole set-up is a scheme to give a great host of people fat offices and the poor farmer will have the bag to hold. I am longing for the time to return when our liberty is given us to plant and sell what we want to. This is what made Patrick Henry say, "Give Me Liberty Or Give Me Death." When we lose our liberty we will be like many countries in Europe where only a few favored ones can have any right. I look on our favored County of Chilton as being the very best in the whole State. In the first place we are possessed of two political parties, the very principles that our great Government was founded on; so when one party failed it was time for the other one to step in.

I will ask all good citzens, don't you think it is time to make this change? I think of the many unfortunate happenings in our county in a political way, including the recent election fraud in the Democratic primary, and I am convinced that it is a shame and disgrace in any good county. These conditions which have existed and happened in our county within the last twelve months is almost enough to make any good citizen hang his head in shame. I believe that any Republican that sells his vote to a Democrat is as bad as the Democrat who buys it. Both should be disfranchised. A man that steals your vote is just as undesirable a citizen as a man who steals a horse.

There is no difference in an honest Democrat and an honest Republican. They both stand for a good honest government. Over two to one of the voters of Chilton county voted for prohibition, but have we had prohibition inforced in this county in the last few year? I feel it is time all good citizens should combine their efforts in making Chilton county a better county in which to live. In my judgment, the people of Chilton county have more cause to make a change and vote for and give their active support to the Republican nominees and elect the Republican ticket in Chilton county on November 8th, 1938, than ever before. Yours for the success of the Republican ticket.—W. A. Reynolds.

LEGISLATURE HAD ONLY $6,962,000 TO APPROPRIATE

State Chamber Makes Study of Alabama's Income and Reports Findings

Montgomery, Ala.—Only $6,962,000 out of the State of Alabama's gross receipts for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1937, were available for appropriation by the state legislature, according to a study of state receipts and disbursements made by the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at the request of Mr. Benjamin Russell, president. Members of the state chamber government committee who made the study were: Gen. John C. Persons, chairman, Dr. Lee Bidgood, Donald Comer, H. A. Pharr, J. W. Scott, and M. H. Sterne.

In releasing the report of the committee here today, Mr. Russell stated he requested the study because of apparently widespread confusion as to the amount of money actually available to the legislature.

"The figure of $71,000,000 has frequently been given," Mr. Russell said, "as the state's income for the fiscal year, but the amount of cash actually handled by the state, after eliminating interdepartment transactions, was only $58,000,000. This $58,000,000 included social security collections, federal grants and money turned over to counties and only $34,000,000 was left for all state operations. Schools, roads and other earmarked funds accounted for all of this $34,000,000 except $8,700,000, of which amount debt service and social security absorbed approximately $1,740,000, leaving only about $6,960,000 for appropriation by the legislature."

Mr. Russell's letter to the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce and the Committee's report follows:

Alexander City, Ala.
October 8, 1938

General John C. Persons,
Chairman, Committee on Government,
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce,
Birmingham, Alabama.

Dear General Persons:

Several members of the legislature, as well as private citizens who are interested in governmental affairs, have suggested to me that the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce could render a distinct public service by making a study of the income of the State of Alabama with a view to ascertaining what proportion of the state's total income will be available the coming year for maintenance of those departments of the state which are not supported by earmarked funds.

In view of the approaching session of the legislature, when many problems of appropriation and taxation must be considered, it seems to me it would be most timely and most helpful if such a study could be made. I hope that it is possible for your committee to undertake this study now and present your findings at an early date for the enlightenment of those interested in the financial status of our state government. I am confident that your effort in the matter would be appreciated, not only by those directly concerned with legislative matters, but also by the general public which is manifesting such a heartening interest in governmental problems.

Yours very truly,
Benjamin Russell, President,
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce,
Alexander City, Alabama.

Birmingham, Alabama.
October 13, 1938

Mr. Benjamin Russell, President
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce
Alexander City, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Russell:

In response to your letter of October 8th, the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce attaches hereto a statement of the receipts and disbursements of the State of Alabama for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937.

The figures are taken from reports of the State Treasurer and Comptroller. This statement is condensed and simplified.

Your attention is called to the difference between gross and net figures and to the many earmarked funds. Anyone examining these figures should keep these distinctions constantly in mind in order to arrive at the true net funds available for general purposes.

You will see from this statement that only $8,706,000 of the State's income was available for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937, for the general fund or appropriation by the Legislature. Of this sum $929,000 was used for debt service on harbor and renewal bonds, which is an annual charge until bonds are paid, and $815,000 was used for Social Security purposes and was earmarked for that specific purpose.

The balance of the income, viz. $6,962,000, was available for appropriation and expenditure by the Legislature. The main items of expenditure are shown on the statement.

Nineteen thirty-eight figures are not yet available. When they are ready your committee will supplement its report and analyze them. From information now in hand it appears that the 1937 receipts will be exceeded. The gross figures may reach a total of around $90,000,000, but in our opinion only a relatively small part of this increase will be income available for State expenditure.

Very truly yours,
H. A. Pharr
Lee Bidgood
Donald Comer
J. W. Scott
M. H. Sterne
John C. Persons, Chairman
Committee on Government

Fiscal Year Ending September 30, 1937

Gross receipts in all funds	$71,548,000

Each department is required to account for all funds which it handles regardless of the source of the funds and large amounts are accounted for in more than one department; for instance, the Highway Department transfers something like $2,500,000 a year from gas tax and tag tax receipts into the debt service fund, and very nearly all the amount received from the sales tax is transferred to various other funds. The total of such inter-departmental transactions plus a small amount of refunds was 13,274,000

This leaves the cash actually received by the state $58,274,000

Included in the above are:

Collections on account of social Security Statutes	$7,242,000
Federal grants for road construction and various other purposes	6,544,000
Warrants representing gasoline tax funds anticipated	1,750,000
Operating fund of A.B.C. stores	352,000
Total funds collected by the State but not available for state purposes	15,888,000
Balance of Revenue	$42,386,000
Taxes levied and collected by the State and turned over to counties and cities, principally gasoline tax and sales tax	8,121,000
Amount applicable to State operations	$34,265,000

The greater part of the amount applicable to State operations consists of earmarked funds. The largest items are:

Motor vehicle tax, three-cent gasoline tax and certain other revenues available only for road debt service, construction and maintenance. (Not including $4,459,000 Federal funds)	$11,611,000
Funds for education, including tobacco tax, various severance taxes, a portion of sales tax, three mills ad valorem tax, poll tax and various other taxes (including some appropriations and transfers)	12,794,000
Income tax, dedicated by constitutional amendment solely to payment of Refunding Bonds until all bonds are provided for, and thereafter to be used to reduce ad valorem taxes	2,010,000
Pension Fund, consisting principally of one mill ad valorem tax	930,000
Funds earmarked for agriculture	439,000

Funds not earmarked pass through the General Fund. The more important revenues going into the General Fund are corporation franchise tax, 2½ mills ad valorem tax, insurance department licenses, business licenses, net revenues of State Docks Commission, registration of securities and charges for examination of books of county officials.

Total receipts of the General Fund for the year aggregated	$ 8,706,000
Total disbursements from the General Fund for the year aggregated	8,950,000
Among the largest items are:
Appropriations to education	$ 2,776,000
Charities, hospitals and correction (including $984,000 for insane and feeble-minded institutions, $289,000 for feeding prisoners, $100,000 for Alabama Boys' Industrial School) Total	1,458,000
Debt service on Harbor bonds and old Renewal bonds	929,000
Social Security funds	815,000
Convict Department appropriations	500,000
Expense of Legislature	154,000

These special appropriations and expenses left a fund of some $2,000,000 available for expense of maintenance of all departments of the State not supported by earmarked funds.

The principal items of such expense were:

Comptroller's office and examination of accounts	$ 336,000
State Tax Commission (not including expense of collecting earmarked funds)	145,000
State Department of Health (including expenditures for county work)	324,000
Governor's Emergency and Contingent Funds	139,000
Judiciary, including Circuit Judges and Solicitors, Supreme Court and Court of Appeals	372,000
National Guard	107,000
Offices of Governor, Auditor, Archives and History, Attorney General, Treasurer, Secretary of State	122,000
Departments of Insurance, Banking, Mining, Labor, Employment Service, Service Commissions and Geological Survey	172,000
Departments of Child and Public Welfare	106,000

Wife (to late returning husband): "Is that you John?"
John: It better be.'

It is said the nazis are going to take over fortifications in the Sudeten area which were built by the Czechs with money borrowed from the French. In other words, the fortifications were built with our money. The joke is on us.

Judging from recent developments in Europe, when Shakespeare caused one of his spirites to say "what fools these mortals be," he furnished him with a mouthful.

PRIMARY INVESTIGATION

Despite the fact that the purges are over and the congressional and senatorial elections are almost upon us, the primary probes in the various states have not been completed. For a time the threatening news from Europe threw domestic issues in the background, but now that the dove of peace is in the foreground, for the moment at least, we may expect domestic problems to loom large on our politcal horizon again.

The activities of the Senate probing committee under Senator Shepard, of Texas, are continuing, and will be heard of even after the elections are over.

Investigation of complaints growing out of the Missouri and Ohio primaries have been closed, according to Senator Sheppard, but the committee is still investigating the situations in Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland, California, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, Arkansas and Wisconsin.

Although there have been complaints from many states, those from Kentucky and Tennessee have been outstandng. In Kentucky the committee was authority for the statement that its invesigaors had found a "deplorable situation" and the promise was made to submit the full facts to the Senate. It had been charged that WPA workers in Kentucky had been influenced to support the New Deal candidacy of Senator Barkley, the Senate Majority Leader, up for re-election, and that state employes had been influenced to line up for Governor "Happy" Chandler who was Senator Barkley's opponent in the primary.

The charges in Tennessee were as violent and widespread. There were said to have been many political activities by the WPA and it was reported that evidence was found which might justify an election contest in the Senate.

It may be answered that investigations from now on will be of little use because the electon will be over before they can be given a great deal of publicity. But this is not all of the picture. If scandals and misconduct are disclosed, this may be made the basis for contests in the Senate and House later. These two bodies are the sole judges of the qualifications and the election of their membership. Those who recall the furor that was made in the cases of Senator Newberry and Senator Vare a few years ago will feel that it will be difficult even for an overwhelming New Deal Congress to ignore evidence of the use of relief rolls for political purposes, if such evidence is submitted on a substantial basis by Senator Sheppard's committee.

In view of the political prominence of many of the candidates charged with using political pressure on the poor and unfortunate it will be decidedly embarrassing to their friends if it should develop that the leaders of a movement purportedly launched in the interest of the "poor and unfortunate" should be convicted of applying political coercion to those whom they had allegedly set out to help in the interests of a "commen humanity."

Democratic women meeting in Boston predict that the next Congress will be more progressive than the last one. But we hope it won't be more expensive.

A bumper wheat crop is predicted, and there is the prospect of longer breadlines. Figure it out how you will, "it don't make sense."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HIGH PRESSURE PROPAGANDA

The recent crisis in Europe which seemed for the moment to divide the dark and bloody continent into two armed camps on the very verge of war, revealed one thing to the United States, which s that in case of another European war we will face a deluge of propaganda which will make the one which overcame us in 1914 look like a mere trickling stream. In spite of the evident desire of a great majority of the American people to keep this country out of war the propaganda machines were oiled up and it soon became evident that the old slogans "fiight to save the world for democracy" and "wage a war to end war" were to be dusted off and hauled out again. The fact that the last war had cost us twenty billions and that the victorious nations still owe us ten billions on account, the propaganda evidently believed, could be obliterated from the minds of the people by the new war hysteria.

The war propaganda danger now is much more serious than it was twenty years ago, owing to the fact that the propaganda machinery abroad, like the airplane, has been perfected in the meantime. As "Newsdom" stated in a recent issue:

"That the press will be faced with even greater problems in reporting and interpreting a European war and in keeping its columns free of undue emotionalism than during 1914-18 because of tremendous strides that have been made by all nations in propaganda technique in the past twenty years, was the general opinion of newspapermen who witnessed the change in newspaper attitudes during the World War that eventually resulted in American intervention."

In view of the general realization of this propaganda danger the action of Congressman, Martin Dies, of Texas, in announcing the forming of a League for Peace and Americanism to fight this propaganda, no matter when it comes, is of especial interest. Representative Dies, it will be remembered, is chairman of the House Committee which has been engaged for several weeks in investigatalleged fascist, nazi and communist propaganda in the United States, and which has unearthed some startling and disquieting information.

Congressman Dies stated that he has "reliable information" to the effect that certain European countries were preparing to spend millions of dollars to carry on propaganda work in the United States to bring about our participation in any European wor which may break out. He continued:

"My information is that certain writers will be subsidized in the United States to carry on their propaganda, in syndicated articles in American newspapers, in behalf of certain foreign countries, and that prominent writers, authors and propagandists from abroad will come to the United States for the purpose of assisting in this foreign propaganda campaign."

The Munich conference settled the immediate crisis. But there is little question that other crises will come. We do not want the United States propagandized into pulling anybody's chestnuts out of the fire in Europe. In helping to prevent such a possibility Congressman Dies will be performing a distinct patriotic service. More power to him!

A nation has quit growing if it can't provide a living for one group without taking it away from another.—Buffalo News.

A WEAK COMEBACK

The general outcry that was raised in certain circles over the plain speaking of Major General George Van Horn Moseley, on the occasion of his honorable retirement as commandant of the Fourth Corps Area and the Third Army, indicates that the warnings of the Army official must have found some thin spots in somebody's armor.

The replies given to General Moseley's warning were not attempts to answer his charges, rather to accuse him of being dissappointed because he was not named cheif of staff of the American armies. This form of defense is well known in our modern political warfare. When the charges of the other fellow cannot be answered the best defense available is to throw mur at him and attempt to discredit his motives. Many of the statements General Moseley made require more answer than has yet been given to them. It will not be sufficient merely to accuse him of being a disappointed official. General Moseley said:

"In addition to a lack of understanding leadership, our government has recently suffered from an indigestible mass of untried theories and ideas upon which we have lavished the greatest peace-time appropriations in our nation's history." He warned:

"We do not have to vote for a dictatorship to have one in America. We have merely to vote increased governmental responsibility for our individual lives, increased government authority over our daily habits, and the resultant federal paternalism will inevitably become dictatorship." He continued.

"Throughout the years that we have been increasing our relief rolls and enlarging the national debt—a debt that cannot be paid in your life-time or mine —we have been passing laws and establishing measures intended to raise the standard of living by redistributing the wealth, while at the same time shortening the hours and restricting the output of the individual worker. We forget that wealth must be produced before it can be distributed. We cannot work less and produce more."

American democracy is headed for destruction, he said, if Americans "simply drift along the eaiest way."

Warnings of the kind issued by General Moseley have been broadcast in the past by men of all political parties and various shades of political belief — enlightened liberals as well as conservatives. They cannot be explaned away by the mere retort that the men who issue them are "dissappointed" in one way or another. Up to this time there has been no convincing reply to General Moseley. Just a little mild mudslinging—nothing more.

NEW WRINKLE IN CAMPAIGNING

This is certainly a day of new methods, new things and novel ways of doing things old and new. Keeping thoroughly in pace with the times is the way, reports have it, that one nominee is doing his campaigning for office in Chilton county. Voters whom this particular candidate has called on say that he carries candy and chewing gum with him, which dispenses among the children. For the women folks he carries a supply of Bruton's and Scotch snuff; and if the ladies seem to be more of the stream-lined models, he has cigarettes for them. We did not learn what this nominee was offering the men voters to attract their admiration, but we venture that he carries a plug or two of Star Navy, which he divides with the gentlemen.

Well, funny things are happening; before this campaign is over we would not be surprised at hearing of some candidate carrying around a sack of cow feed or seed oats to hand out to get on the good side of the men folks.

RELIEF WAGES

The position taken by Harry L. Hopkins regarding the plan of the Workers Alliance to raise $50,000 among workers for the WPA in New York for use in political campaigns would be more impressive if his attitude in the past had been above reproach. No doubt Mr. Hopkins is right when he says that men on relief ought to spend their wages for the necessities of life rather than for political contributions. Certainly the people who supply the money did not intend that it should go for politcal expenditures, least of all be used to elect men to Congress who are pledged to increase the appropriations for relief.

Yet the protest of Mr. Hopkins is not likely to have much effect, for the reason that he plainly has not been unwilling that men on relief should organize to further their political objectives. Not only did he virtually advise the voters on relief in Iowa to support Mr. Wearin against Mr. Gillette in the senatorial primary there; he did not raise his voice when his assistant, Aubrey Williams, urged a meeting of reliefers to make sure that their friends, meaning the New Dealers, were kept in power. The difference between urging a man to organize politically and asking him to contribute financially to the same end is not great.—Hartford Courant.

ANNUAL HOME COMING AT TROY STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

Annual Home Coming at Troy State Teachers College has been set for Saturday, October 29. A program to include the entire day has been planned.

Starting with an address of welcome at 9 o'clock by President, Charles B. Smith in Kilby auditorium, the series of events will be highlighted by a barbecue to which all alumni and guests are invited, a business meeting of the Alumni Association, a tea-dance, and football game at 8 o'clock.

An added feautre of home coming this year will be a meeting of the Association of principals of Southeast Alabama, headed by Mr. Adolphus Jones of Tallapoosa County. Many of the principals are former students of this institution. Their business meetings are scheduled for the morning hours.

PLANNED FARMIING PAYS ALABAMA FARMER

Talladega, Ala. — T. J. Watson, test demonstration farmer of Lincoln, Talladega County, Alabama, is doing an almost perfect job of soil building on hs farm. Mr. Watson has 460 acres in cultivation and last wnter all of t except 15 acres was in some kind of winter cover crop, either vetch, crimson clover, or oats. Before he started using winter crops, Mr. Watson used to make about 30 bales of cotton on 150 acres, while last year, after building his soil for several years with these crops, he made 98 bales of cotton on 112 acres. Six bushels of corn used t obe about the average production for Mr. Watson. Now he is making from 35 to 40 bushels every year.

Last winter Mr. Watson had in 75 acres of oats and weighed into his warehouse 4,500 bushels, or an average of 60 bushels to the acre. This Spring he saved 70 acres of crimson clover for seed and thrashed an average of 275 pounds of clean seed to the acre from this area. He sold 10,000 pounds of crimson clover seed to one man, and smaller amounts to other buyers. Mr. Watson feels that crimson clover seed production is a good money crop for him. He does not believe in having all his eggs in one basket, as he had ten seurces of income from his farm last year, selling oats, corn, cotton, cotton seed, crimson clover seed, beans and peas, fat hogs, beef cattle, milk cows and hay.

Mr. Watson keeps a very accurate record of all his farm enterprises and states that he has averaged over a $1.00 a bushel for all the corn that he has fed to hogs in the last year, which is a great deal more than the market price during that period.

Last year out-of-State concerns found a market in Alabama for 2,602,789.00 worth of corn and oats to the value of $777,816.00.

There are five broom factories in Alabama that manufactured brooms valued at $166,436.00 in 1935.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The editor read recently a very interesting tract telling the difference between religion and salvation. Here is an outline. First, religion is what man does to and for his god. Salvation is what God does for man. Second, religion is "do," salvation is "done." Third, religion consists of forms, ceremonies, precepts, doctrines, laws, and commandments. Salvation consists of the impartation of a new life. "You ought to be religious," Christian workers sometimes tell people. Of course, these Christian workers mean people should be Christians. However, we should remember if a man's religion is to be the right kind of religion he has to be saved first. We are not to work for God to be saved. We are supposed to work for God because we are saved. A saved man will have a religion, but every man has a religion of some kind whether he is saved or not. It is not religion that the world needs. There is plenty of religion in the world already. The world needs Christ. The devil offers a substitute. He is even willing for people to accept a church program instead of Jesus. Recently there was a series of revival services carried on in an orthodox church. The pastor and the visiting evangelist spent a big part of their time appealing to church pride and church loyalty. The appeal should always be in the name of Christ, for His sake. A program is all right if Jesus Christ has the pre-eminence. A church is a good thing when the supreme place in the church is held by Jesus Christ. A program or a church becomes an idol when either one is given a place above Jesus Christ.

In the tenth chapter of John, Jesus made some remarkable claims concerning Himself. He said that He was the door into the sheepfold. In other words, He is the entrance to safety. He is the way to heaven. He said that He was the Shepherd, the good Shepherd. He was not an hireling. He said that He laid down His life for the sheep. He said that He had power to lay it down and power to take it again, and that no man could take it from Him. Such claims have never been made by anybody else. What He said naturally reacted on His audiences. Some of them said, "He has a devil and is mad." Others said His words were not those of one who had a devil, for a devil could not open the eyes of the blind. In the ninth chapter of John we have the story of Jesus opening the eyes of a man who was born blind. Jesus claimed to be God. His credentials were His miracles. "Never man spake like this man," and no other man ever wrought such miracles. He balanced all of His words with His deeds. That cannot be said of anyone except Jesus. No one else was ever as good as he talked at times. Men are not always as bad as they talk. If another person should appear in this world who could do the deeds that Jesus did, such as open the eyes of the blind, unstop deaf ears, cure leprosy with a touch, call the dead back from the tomb, and after performing all such miracles should declare himself to be God, I would have no trouble believing in the deity of that person. There has never been but one Jesus Christ. There never will be but one Jesus Christ. There have been counterfeits. But the devil's miracles are counterfeits, they are not genuine. Jesus was God manifested in the flesh. Only God could have done what He did. He is all the God this poor, sincursed, troubled world needs. He is the solution for every human problem.

Senator John H. Bankhead, Jasper, who has led the fight in Washington for farm legislation, says if farmers abandon the present farm program to adopt unlimited cotton production under the so-called "domestic allotment plan" they will be putting themselves in competition with Chinese coolies, Mexican peons, and Russian slaves.

A. C. Hartley, Mathews, Montgomery, County, has one of the best herds of purebred cattle in the South. He has over 100 he al of registered bulls, heifers, calves, brood cows on which records go back as far as the sixth foundation bulls and brood cows for generation. He hopes to supply the building up the beef cattle industry in Alabama.

FARM NOTES

AGRICULTURE ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMA

(By A. W. Jones)

The small amount of land available per person in Alabama which forces farmers to try to produce intensively cultivated cash crops that deplete the soil, the rolling typography of the land which makes it subject to severe erosion and the tariff and freight rate discrimination against the South affects our schools, our health, our financial condition and our very living standards. Last week I pointed briefly to the effect these problems of the South had on our financial conditions, home conveniences and improvements, and our living standards.

Today, I will attempt to show you further effects of these soil-depleting, soil-robbing, income-decreasing problems facing us in Alabama today. I am going to quote some challenging figures and facts that you and I and every other Southern farmer and business man should do all in our power to correct.

In Alabama such diseases as pellegra, typhoid fever, malaria, hookworm, and tuberculosis are much more prevalent than in other sections of the country. Due t olow income, inefficient diet, and lack of facilities, the control of these common diseases is difficult.

Alabama has far fewer doctors, nurses, and hospital beds per unit of population than any other section of the country. Many rural communities of the South are practically isolated from well trained medical personnel and the people are therefore the greater sufferes from all health hazards.

What about the schools in the South? Have these problems made themselves felt there too? Most decidedly so. The South of which Alabama is a typical state, is attempting to educate one-third of the nation's children with one-sixth of the nation's school revenue. An annual expenditure of 250 millions of dollars would be required to bring the average expenditure per pupil up to the national average. This lack of funds has resulted in shorter terms, fewer grades, less school property and equipment and underpaid teachers.

Next week I will point out other problems and factors that are working against the South's agriculture. It is only through an understanding of our conditions that we can make any progress in improvement.

USE OF CRIMSON CLOVER INCREASES

Auburn, Ala. — Emmett Sizemore, district extension supervisor, announced here today that 686 crimson clover farm demonstrations are expected to be established in 20 Southeast Alabama counties this fall to show farmers the value of the legume in conserving and improving farm land.

These demonstrations are farms on which the owners and the county agents are planting crimson clover to show other farmers the value of the crop in this section. From time to time the county agents will hold meetings at these farm demonstrations to allow other farmers to learn planting methods and harvesting. In addition, farmers will be shown crops that follow the crimson clover to see the effect it had in improving the crop yields.

More than 300 demonstrations have already been arranged by the county agents and the total is expected to reach 686 before planting season is over, according to Mr. Sizemore. Leaders in the number of demonstrations anticipated are Tallapoosa with 200; Elmore and Randolph with 75 each; Clay and Coosa with 50 each; and Bullock with 40. Every county shows an increased number of demonstrations over former years, according to Sizemore.

NEW VARIETIES OF SUGARCANE FOUND

Two new sugarcane varieties that combine disseae resistance with many qualities for syrup making—C. P. 29-116 and Co., 290—may largely replace other disease-tolerant varieties now grown in Alabama, says M. D. Harman, extension specialist in syrup crops at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Produced by plant breeders of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the two new varieties are especially adapted to syrup-producing areas, although they are grown in sugar-producing areas as well.

Tests at Cairo, Ga., Meridan and Poplarville, Miss., show that both varieties frow straight and erect stalks which ordinarily are longer and larger in diameter than those varieties commonly grown in this section. Both varieties strip easily, and this advantage, combined with the fact that they have a smaller number of stalks per ton of cane, makes harvesting much cheaper.

The Co. 290 has yielded good stands consistently on first stubble, usually good stands as a second stubble, and in some instances a good stand on the third stubble, Mr. Harman reports. The C. P. 29-116 has not been tested so widely but preliminary tests show its ratooning qualities will equal, if not exceed, those of Co. 290.

A lower percentage of fiber and relative softness of stalk make possible a greater recovery of juice on low-power mills commonly used in the syrup-producing states.

Although neither of the two new varieties is entirely immune from mosiac and red-rot—two of the principal diseases prevalent in all areas where sugarcane is grown—they withstand the effects of the diseases reasonably well.

Mr. W. A. Wright of Stanton brought in a funny pebble last Saturday. It resembles a person's face.

AAA PASTURE PAY GIVEN BY LOWERY

Auburn, Ala. — John X. Farmer of Alabama is rapidly turning to the production of more livestock on his farm. For best returns from the livestock he needs more and better pasture. J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, says that by concentratng on a small acreage at first and by utilizing the AAA soil-building payments farmers can establish a good pasture without very much expense.

He gives the following pasture payments which can be earned under the AAA program:

$1.50 for application of 1,500 pounds of ground limestone or its equivalent.

$1.50 for each application of 300 pounds superphosphate.

$1.50 for each application of 500 pounds of basic slag.

$3.00 for a full seeding of legumes and grasses.

WOODLAND MANAGEMENT

The correct use of axe and saw is the key to the problem of growing timber profitably as a farm crop, according to Mr. James H. Wood, of the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Alabama.

By removing diseased, misshapen, slow-growing, and other undesirable trees for fuel wood this fall, farmers can improve their woodland, increase the rate of growth of remaining trees, and still maintain a complete forest cover for water storage and erosion control, Mr. Wood pointed out.

On the other hand, clear cutting of a portion of the woodland to obtain fuel wood not only exposes the land to erosion, but also destroys vlauable trees that should be saved for a future timber crop.

CLARKE FARMER IS USING HOME FEED

Grove Hill, Ala. — W. E. Robinson, test demonstration farmer here, has utilized home-grown feed and pasture to good advantage. Last year he raised 15 hogs for sale and this year he will market 125 hogs that are in good condition from grazing crops.

Mr. Robinson has a fine fertilized pasture on which he allows his sows to run. During the summer he grazed his pigs on corn and cowpeas and this fall s fattening them on Otootan soybeans and peanuts.

To take care of his pigs next Spring he had planted several acres of cats on which the pigs will be grazed after they finsh gleaning the peanut field.

COLLINS CHAPEL

There will be special meeting at this place Thursday night, October 20, beginning at 7 o'clock. All members are urgently requested to be there. The singers are also invited to come. We will have singing using the Showalter books.

All members are urged to be present.

Under the crop tree method of woodland management which is being demonstrated on cooperating farms in the local area, the straightest and most vigorous trees, properly spaced, are marked to designate that they are to be left as crop trees. Other trees can then be cut as they chowd the crop trees and as needed for fuel, farm lumber, or other wood products.

By periodic thinnings the rate of growth of the remaining trees and the quality of timber can be improved, giving the farmer a greater return from his wood products and a greater incentive to protect his forest cover from damage by fire and grazing.

WINGS OVER JORDON

A musical program entitled "Wings Over Jordan" will be presented at the Union Baptist church Friday, October 21 at 8 P. M.

A co:rse of 25 voices will render the program, featuring negro spirituals and jubilees. The ccurse is under the direction of M. E. Fews, Principal School.

Special seats for white people have been reserved. Admission 10 cent

The bread of chickens to use on the farm depends on the use. When the sale of eggs is the object, Single Comb White Leghorns should be used. For general use as food for the family or for fryers, Rhode Island Reds, New Hampshire Reds, Barred Rocks, or White Rocks are among the best breeds, says the Alabama Polytechnic Institute poultry department.

CLANTON QUARTET ON AIR HOP TO NEW ORLEANS

Leaving Clanton at 5:50 a. m., Sunday morning, October 16th, four of Clanton's native sons fared forth on a never to be forgotten air jaunt to the southern convention city, New Orleans. The four aeronautical aces (to be) are: Mr. Leo Thompson and Mr. Hubert Farley traveling in Mr. Thompson's Porterfield, and Mr. Charles Wade and Mr. Joe Ben Downs traveling in Charles Wade's Monocoupe.

These four made an uneventful run of one hour and 45 minutes in the air to Mobile, Ala. A 25-minute stopover was called for here for re-fueling and checking over of the planes. This portion of the trip was slightly "bumpy", the planes traveling with a cross-quarter tail wind.

Leaving Mobile at 8 a. m., there was a strong easterly tail wind the entire distance into New Orleans; the run was consummated in exactly one hour. A 15-minute tour of the city was enjoyed by the party before setting down at Shushan Airport.

At Shushan the pilots of each plane were required to register and after having the planes checked over, the party enjoyed a few minutes rest in the capacious lobby of the airport terminal and depot. Souveniers were purchased and cards mailed to friends and relatives.

At this point the party was taken in charge by Mr. E. C. Guderian, representing the H. Kohnstamm & Company, nationally known dealers in laundry supplies. Mr. Guderian and his two young sons, who accompanied him took the party in his automobile for a more detailed inspection of the city. The time being limited, however, this was held down to only two hours. In this time many interesting sights were viewed including the beautiful parks, the unique cemeteries and an extended drive through the old French Quarter. The streets were being decorated with flags and bunting for the Eucharistic celebration, which is being held there this week.

Lunch was enjoyed by all at a very quaint cafe in the old French Quarter, after which as the time was short a hasty trip was made back to Shushan.

The trip was begun at 1:10, which was to be made via Meridian, Miss., and on to Clanton. The strong easterly tail wind, which was enjoyed going down there in, was still much in evidence. Now it has turned into a quarter head-wind, which made the going rather rough, generally, and held the planes down to a maximum of 80 miles per hour on the lap into Meridian.

After taking two hours and 15 minutes of air time at Key Field, Meridian, the planes were again re-fueled. Leaving Meridian at 3:45 p. m., the trip was made on into Clanton bucking a strong easterly head-wind. The planes were held down to a bare 75 miles per hour.

We arrived at Gragg Field at exactly 5:30 p. m. or practically dark.

An altitude of 1500 feet was held practically the entire trip. The speed averaged 100 miles per hour, returning 75 to 80 miles per hour. Mr. Thompson assumed the position of navigator and took the lead, Mr. Wade following in the van.

A good trip was enjoyed by all the party going and coming; nothing whatever went amiss in the least, both plane motors functioned in top trim the entire distance. Although, cloudy weather was had all day and an occasional rain was run into, and generally the air was somewhat "bumpy". It was after all a very enjoyable journey to all concerned.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. — Barring world champion prizefighters, Thomas E. Dewey probably has received more publicity than any other American of his years. He is only 36, but almost everything about him is old news. However, as the New York Republicans nominated him for governor, the whole country seems hungry for information about the cock of his eyebrow, his gold fillings, if any, the set of his suspenders and whether he runs down the heels of his shoes. Friends from the West and Far West have told me, and some have written, that there is more talk about Thomas E. Dewey for President than about all the other possibilities put together. These informants say the talk is not partisan — that New York's young racket-buster is becoming the national symbol of a "happy issue out of all our afflictions."

Dewey Lulled Bossy With 'Il Traviata'

This reporter hereby hands him the agrarian vote: on the banks of the Shiawasse, near Owosso, in the state of Michigan, he was a demon cow milker. People would come for miles to see and hear him milk a cow. Musically gifted, he could make the powerful milk stream ring a tune in the pail as he sang "La Boheme," or "Il Traviata." His father ran a country newspaper.

As to the industrial East, he is a cagey bridge player who never takes his partner out of a business double. He is a squash player in winter, and a tennis player in summer. He sings baritone, a safe vocal as well as political range, and was trained as an opera singer, first in New York on a musical scholarship. There's nothing showy about him and he never makes a play to the press coop.

He appears to be, to this observer, the answer to Stuart Chase's plea for a new kind of politician. In a magazine article printed about a year ago, Mr. Chase tore all political dogmas to tatters and said we would get nowhere until we began to isolate and attack given problems and settle them according to their immediate requirements, without regard to their political or philosophical context. Big town racketeering is one of those "given problems" and then some. It is interesting to note that, in his acceptance speech, Mr. Dewey renounced "political dogma."

On most of the specific political issues of the day, Mr. Dewey's opinion has not been revealed. He has been slated as "liberal" and "progressive," but, in the days of "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too," the country esteemed fighting men and apparently still does.

GREECE has had several associations to get the Elgin marbles from England. They're still there.

Kerwood Out To Bring Back Wright Plane

The Association of Men With Wings seems to have better prospects of reclaiming for America the original Wright brothers' airplane. Orville Wright, who, for quite human and understandable reasons, let the plane go to England, now joins the association in its effort to bring it back to this country.

When and if they succeed, it will be another feather in the flying helmet of Col. Charles Wayne Kerwood. Ever since he stopped daredeviling as one of America's most spectacular and adventurous aviators, he has been plotting to get that plane, even if he has to kidnap it. That was why he formed the above association, of which he is president.

He flew and fought with the French in the World war, with the Greeks against the Turks in 1922, was wounded and grounded more than once, turned to barnstorming and sensational knockabout flying, and became president of the International League of Aviators. He is a native of Chicago, big, bronzed, moustachioed, once a flying and fighting buddy of General Franco, against the Riffs.

Herbert Hoover Warns Voters To Be On Guard

Former President Asks Independent-Minded Men Be Elected

Hartford, Conn., October 17.—Herbert Hoover called on the American electorate in a speach Monday night to elect "independnt-minded" men to Congress to halt what he termed New Deal "assaults" on representative government.

With that plea, the former president coupled a suggestion that the voters experiment for the next two years with a "stop, look and listen" policy.

The Republican chieftian warning that "subservience in the legislative halls is the spot where liberty and political morals commit suicide," accused his Democratic successor," President Roosevelt, with attempting "to control elections."

"That alone," he asserted, "should make the election of independent-minded men to Congress the first task of men who would be free."

Hoover Addresses Rally

Hoover, who prepared the speech for delivery to a rally sponsored by the Connecticut Council of Republican Women as a follow-up to one he gave last month at Kansas City, Mo., charged the "New Deal and its yes-yes men in Congress" had experimented "with the American way of life for six years at dreadful cost in human misery and dispair."

The speaker listed the "malignant growth of personal power" among "evil products" which he charged had grown from the "New Deal corruption of liberalism."

"Under a screen of fair-sounding pharases," he said, "we have seen the President of the Unted States steadily driving for more and more power over the daily lives of the people. We have seen him attempt to control the Supreme Court. We have seen his domination of Congress. We have seen personal control of expenditures. We have seen the attempt through the power of government expenditures to pollute the ballot. We have seen the attempt to mix in a system of free enterprise a system of creeping collectivism. We have seen a vindictive campaign to array class against class and group against group.

"All this is the destruction of freedom and prosperity."

Asserting that the people alone "can make Congress the sword and buckler of their liberties," Hoover said an "independent, courageous Congress" would furnish "A start at the solution of our ills."

"Therefore my first recommendation to you tonight is: Elect to Congress independent-minded men," he urged. "Elect men who will stand on their own feet. Elect men of character and capacity."

"Second: defeat every man of the kind who says he is a follower of any precident 100 per cent, or 50 per cent or any other per cent. Such a man is not fit to serve. Members of the Congress of the United States, if they are men, do not take orders from anybody."

Hoover, who said he would discuss the "economic consequences" of the New Deal in his final campaign speech at Spokane, Washington on November 5, three days before the election, accused Mr. Roosevelt of massing a "praetorian army of political appointees to purge those men of his own party who have shown sparks of manhood, of independence and obedience of their oath."

"Mr. Stalin was the founder of the political purge," he said. Or was it Mr. Hitler?"

Hoover also accused the New Deal with substituting "compulsory economy" for planned economy.

"Productivity Is Limited"

"This shackled economy limits the productivity of men," he said. "When it diminishes confidence it destroys the jobs of men.

"The new economic sum after six years of abandonment of the sure road to recovery is 11,000,000 unemployed, a destressed agriculture, a demoralized industry and 40 billion of debt. But worse than this, the number of ill-fed, the ill-clothed and the ill-housed has steadily increased."

Hoover contended constant reform to prevent business abuses was a necessity.

"Whatever the New Deal has constructively accomplished in that direction is right. But we do not need to pull down the temple of liberty to catch a few cockroaches in the basement," he asserted.

Nor was it necessary, he said, "to have personal government" to remedy social ills.

In proposing the stop look and listen experiment, the former president said:

"Such an action, by dmonstrating changed its present direction, that this is still a self governing republic of free men, would restore hope and confidence to a weary people. It would restore productive jobs to millions of men. It would enable them to buy the farmer's products.

"It might drove the experiment that saved the freedom of men and women of a great nation."

FROM BILLY SMITH

The Union-Banner has received No. one release of news itmes from the new director of information service for W. P. A., Mr. Billy Smith, formerly publisher of Chilton County News. Besides sending his pers nal regards to all the fellows,, Billy adds: "This truly is good fireside reading."

The material is too voluminous to publish, but we must say that we appreciate the courtesy extended lhe Union-Banner by the brand new dlrector of information of this gov ernment department.

BACK TO COOLIDGE DAYS

To the Editor The News:

The height of inconsistency was reached in this country a few days ago when the president called upon labor and industry to quit calling each other names and pull together for recovery. Such a statement seems strange, coming from a source which has done more to foment class hatred and create ill-feeling among the people than all the other forces in this country combined.

I do not suppose the president thinks his own name-calling has done anything to retard recovery. I suppose he considers such phrases as "copperheads," "economic royalists," "selfish few" (there were 17,000,000 of them), "entrenched greed," "Tories," "Southern feudalists," and other names, as endearing pet names.

The president, by his own stubbornness and his own hatred for honest business, has left this country in a state of confusion where no one can tell what to expect from him tomorrow. His farm program has failed, and farm prices have collapsed. His jitterbug ideas about industry are keeping 13,000,000 men out of jobs.

It would be splendid if we could trade off the New Deal with all its hair-brained ideas for a few years of good old Coolidge prosperity. We will have to return of the honesty, the thrift and the hard work of the Coolidge era before we can ever have prosperity again.

73 ARRESTED IN WPA FRAUD INVESTIGATION

Arrest of seventy-three persons, many prominent in politics and government, was ordered by U. S. Circuit Judge Colin Neblett, of Santa Fe, New Mexico, Saturday, following Grand Jury indictments on charges of diversion of WPA funds and labor, and conspiracy to violate the WPA appropriations code. Judge Neblett's comment: "It was common rumor that graft had been going on for some time."

HOME BOY MAKES GOOD AT HOWARD

Durwood Williamson, Of Cane Creek, Starred In Game Saturday

A Chilton county boy, freshman at Howard College in the person of Durwood Williamson, is making headlines in the sport sections of the daily papers. The brilliant running of this young man contributed to the defeat by Howard of Birmingham-Southern at Legion Field last Saturday, and the same brought forth prominent mention in Sunday's Birmingham News by Walter Lowry, sports writer. Regarding this Chilton county lad. Mr. Lowry said.

"Zabrosky called on Williamson and he responded with a 15-yard sprint off his own right tackle for first down on the Baby Cat 15. Williamson plowed through right tackle on the next play for nine yards to the Southern six-yard stripe. Williamson, taking the ball for the third consecutive time, crashed through the line and was finally dropped hard on the Southern two-yard stripe. Zabrosky slammed over the center of the line for the score.

"Woodrow Taylor, Durwood Williamson, Dan Zarbrosky, Lewis Norris and Dwight Stone were standouts for the Bullpups, while Wilson Elliott, "Red" Russell, Eugene Pierce, Ed Neill and Cecil Cochrane played well for the Baby Cats."

Durwood Williamson is the son of Andrew (Bud) Williamson, of Cane Creek community, and is spending his first year at Howard this year, after finishing at C. C. H. S. last year. He has a promising future in football as well as collegiate work.

SOUTHERN PLANTS CLOSE IN PROTEST TO WAGE-HOUR ACT

2,000 Workers Thrown Out Of Jobs; Employers Claim They Cannot Meet Pay Provisions; Three Alabama Sawmills Closed

Three sawmills in Alabama with 1,500 employees, and four in Arkansas, employing a total of 265, announced they were suspending operations for an "indefinite" period because of "increased production costs under the wage-hour law."

The Scotch Lumber Co., of Fulton, Ala., and the S. B. Adams Lumber Co., of Mobile, shut down Friday and the Mobile River Sawmill Co. planned to cease operations at noon Saturday.

"Uncertain conditions" resulting from the wage-hour law and the Government subsidy for cotton bagging to compete with jute were given as reasons for closing the Charleston S. C., bagging plant of the American Manufacturing Co., employing 400.

Mayor W. B. Nettles of Lake City, S. C. feared two tobacco re-drying plants and three lumber mills would shut down because of the wage-hour law, which goes into effect Monday. The five plants employ 1,500, half of Lake City's population.

Nettles said he had requested Federal assistance in case of the shutdowns through Senators James F. Byrnes and E. D. Smith and Burnett Maybank, governor-designate of South Carolina.

BUSINESS LICENSE MUST BE TAKEN NOT LATER THAN MONDAY, OCT. 31

Notice is given out by the probate office that Monday, October 31st, is the last day on which State and County business licenses may be taken out without a fifteen per cent penalty.

Monday, November 14, is the last day on which automobile tags may be purchased without a fifteen per cent penalty; this same date is the deadline on taking out drivers license without being subject to a fine.

Among the letters in this week's Union-Banner which you will want to read is one on an inside page from Hon. E. E. Calloway, of Lakeland, Fla. Mr. Calloway tells things on the New Deal in no uncertain terms.

Also read clippings from State papers commending the ability and acheivements of Percy M. Pitts while he was in the Legislature. These will probably open somebody's eyes who are going around saying that Mr. Pitts can't do anything in the State Legislature. What he has done he can and will do again.

Note the facsimile ballot and the instructions about voting.

DOES CROOKED POLITICS PAY ?

And If So, Who Gets The Pay? and Who Pays?

The general election is one week nearer, and party organizations, nominees and friends of nominees are getting busier and busier, talking and working.

The Union-Banner does not wish to cast any insinuation against any party organization, candidate or candidate's friends; but the voters of Chilton county are aware of what has happened in the past; and we should not have a repetition of these things. Such things as fraudulent practices at the polls, the buying of votes, votes marked not in accordance with the wishes of the voters, and the changing of ballots after they are voted, all can be prevented if the citizens of the county want it prevented.

There will be attempts at vote buying; somebody will try to get by with something crooked at the polls in almost every beat; between now and the election there will be night-riders going over the beats and communities trying to pull this crooked scheme and that; but they cannot pull any crooked schemes unless the voters fall for the alluring bait and permit such schemes to be worked.

So, we come to the question above—Does trick politics pay, and if so, who gets the pay and who pays the bill? Trick politics does not pay,—except if and when a trickster happens to get elected to office and draws a big salary out of the tax payers for four years. Then it is the trickster who benefits, and at the expense of the poor unsuspecting voter who stooped to the low depth of selling his suffrage for a few dollars. Before the term of office of that grafter is out, that poor voter will have paid out ten times a much in increased taxation as he received for his vote—something that cannot be valued in dollars and cents. Then, who pays the bill when trick politics is worked? The answer is evident. The poor voter who is not able to buy bread and clothing for his hungry and naked family has to pay the bill every time in the long run. A man loses if he sells his vote for $1.00, likewise he loses if he sells it for $10,000.

Voters, let us appeal to your reasoning. You have tried electing men to public office and public trust who came to you or permitted their friends to come to you and offer this or that illegal inducement, or promise you a job that you knew in reason you would never get. We ask you, has the result been wholesome? Are you getting good county government, or are conditions getting worse and worse every month? Has the national administration played fair with you and given you what you had a right to expect from your cotton and other farm products? Has unemployment been reduced?

The answer is NO! And the only way to remedy the situation is for the good, honest citizens of Chilton county to put their foot down on currupt politics, and vote for men and principles higher and nobler than either the Republican or Democratic party. Are the people of Chilton county ready to about-face and vote their honest convictions? If they are, then we can have better times. You will tell the tale on November 8th, and let us hope that the part of wisdom will be acted by the voters of the county who know best and have the fortitude to DO it, regardless of whether he or she is a Democratic or Republican.

THE PEOPLE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

Elsewhere in this issue of The Union-Banner, Mr. Henley Moore, of Verbena Route 2, is propounding some pertinent questions to two candidates in the coming general election. The Union-Banner, for its own benefit as well as for the benefit of the tax payers of the county, wishes a little matter or two explained to the public by the Probate Judge and Commissioners Court, if they will be so kind as to make a reply in next week's papers. Also, we have a few questions to ask the two nominees on the ballot for Representative from Chilton county, Mr. Pitts and Mr. Walker.

It has been noticed that about two months ago there was brought into the county a shipment of new road machinery from Pittman Tractor Company, those machines being a tractor, a grader and a patrol, aggregating a cost of several thousand dollars. What The Union-Banner and the tax payers of the county would like to know is if bids on these machines were advertised for according to the local law requiring all purchases of $150 and over to be advertised. Have these machines already been paid for by Chilton county? If so, what was the consideration; and if not, under what terms and conditions is the county now getting the use of the machinery which still belongs to Pittman Tractor Company?

General rumor has had it, and it has been published in the papers, that during the past Democratic primaries Pittman Tractor Company contributed rather large sums of money to the campaign fund of certain candidates. Can it be that Pittman Tractor Company has such a generous feeling toward Chilton county that they have donated a batch of this costly road machinery to us?

And further, in the report of the county treasurer for the period October 1, 1937 through March 31, 1938, published in The Chilton County News of May 5th, 1938, appears the following under the heading of Cash paid out—road and bridge fund: "March 25—1 Caterpillar R. D. No. 7, Tractor No. 9 G. 855W, J. D. Pittman Tractor Co., ... $5,869.75.

We wish to ask the Probate Judge and Commissioners Court if the invoice on the above purchase was not $4,800; and if so, why the raise in price of $1,069.75? This is money belonging to the tax payers, and we feel that a full explanation to the people should be forthcoming.

And what The Union-Banner and the voters of the county would like for Mr. Walker and Mr. Pitts to enlighten us on is: If you are elected as Chilton county's Representative, will you advocate the repeal of the present local law requiring the Commissioners Court to advertise for bids on all purchases amounting to $150 or over?

The candidates for Representative and the Commissioners Court will have ample time to inform the tax payers of the county upon these important matters through the papers between now and the election, and we believe the people have a right to know how their candidates and their Court stand on these matters.

CHILTON'S SUPERINTENDENT ACCORDED STATE PROMINENCE

Presided At A. E. A. Meeting In Birmingham Saturday

Chilton county's superintendent of education, Prof. Luther E. Little, commanded prominent mention among the State's educational highlights Saturday, when he presided over a meeting of District Five of the Alabama Educational Association in Birmingham. This district is composed of nine counties, including Chilton.

A number of Chilton county teachers attended the meeting, which was an annual affair. Besides presiding over the meeting, Prof. Little discussed the retirement plans. The legislation hopes to increase teacher efficiency by retiring aged instructors, who in turn may expect some economic security, Little said. Under the proposed plan each teacher who becomes a member of the retirement system contributes 4 per cent of his salary to the retirement fund. The state matches these contributions at retirement age.

Officers who will serve in District Five next year, elected Friday afternoon, are: James A. Davis, Bessemer High School principal, president; F. L. Harwell, Taladega City Schools superintendent, vice-president, and Miss Margaret Lee, elementary supervisor of Jefferson County schools, secretary and treasurer.

CELEBRATE SECOND ANNIVERSARY WITH SALE

Levine Brothers Are Putting On Big Bargain Sale

Below we are reproducing likenesses of Dock Levine and Sol Levine, who compose the firm of Levine Bro. This institution s this week celebrating its second anniversary in Clanton, and is spiking the event by offering some of the greatest bargains in dry goods ever heard of in the city.

As the trading public already knows by now, Dock and Sol Levine are the kind of fellows one enjoys trading with and associating with. If they ever feel bad or blue, they have a way of keeping it mighty well concealed.

On another page of this paper will be found a large adv. of Levine Brothers, and if you do not peruse the same and visit their sale, we feel sure that you will be the loser. And if you fail to see ther show windows, you will miss a real treat for the eyes; they always have something novel arranged for the vision of the window shoppers.

CITY OFFICIALS THANK PEOPLE

Mayor C. Fenn Jones informs The Union-Banner that the people of Clanton have responded nobly to the appeal of the Mayor and other city officials to use water sparingly while the supply from the well is limited. Special mention should be made that the garages and filling stations have manifested a most co-operative spirit toward the appeal; all of which meets with an expression of thanks from the Mayor and other city officials. A continuation of this splendid co-operation is urged until the ground becomes filled with warter and the wells can supply the needs for all uses and emergencies.

TWO FIRES IN CITY THIS WEEK

Monday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock the fire truck was called to extinguish a fire at George Smith's Street Car Sandwitch Shop down below Alabama Power Company office. The truck had to circle around town to find it, but it was extinguished before much damage was done. Some said probably the fire fighters though the street car had taken off down the highway when it caught on fire, and others said probably the fire truck had to go to the creek to get water since the tank and reservior are running low. Anyway, it all worked out successfully.

Then Tuesday just after noon the fighters were called to the home of rs. George Polk, where a wood house was endangered. This was extinquished with little effort.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Connell, of Clanton, Sunday night a new baby girl, weighing 7½ pounds. She has been named Betty Maryland.

Chilton County Legislature Race

It has been called to the attention fo the editor of the Union-Banner that those who are actively supporting Mr. G. C. Walker, Democratic nominee for Representative, are using for their argument at speakings and elsewhere in behalf of Mr. Walker and against the Republican nominee, Mr. Pitts, that by reason of the Republican candidate's party affiliation, he, if elected, cannot accomplish as much for the county as the Democratic nominee, and cannot have the influence that the Democratic nominee will have. For this reason and in answer to this argument this paper is reproducing and copying clippings from Democratic State newspapers, which portray the respect and admiration that Mr. Pitts's, former Democratic colleagues, had for him while he was representing this county in the past at Montgomery. A few of such statements follows:

"This column has more than one time had something to say about Representative Percy Pitts of Chilton county. Mr. Pitts is a Republican and on this sense is very lonesome in the house, having only two other representatives of like faith to "caucus" with. But Mr. Pitts is taking a strong part in legislative affairs at the present session as he did at the first session.

"During the grinding legislative battles in the house caucus Thursday, Mr. Pitts stood loyally to his guns and cemented the friendship of the men who are leading the battle in the house for measures which are calculated to make for the progress of Alabama. And those house leaders appreciate the stand of Representative Pitts.

"The people of Chilton county, according to leaders of the Alabama house, are to be congratulated on their acumen in selecting Mr. Pitts as their representative.—Montgomery Advertiser—1927. Taken from "The Passing Throng," by Atticus Mullin.

"Percy Pitts and Lawrence Gerald, lawyers of Chilton county, were Montgomery visitors Friday. Mr. Pitts is a member of the legislature in addition to being a lawyer. And Mr. Pitts is a Republican member of the legislature but he is just as popular with the Democrats as he is with his two or three Republican Colleagues. In fact, there is no more popular member of the Alabama Legislature than Percy Pitts..—Montgomery Advertiser—1931. Taken from "The Passing Throng," by Atticus Mullin.

"Mr. Pitts is a lawyer of Chilton County. He is one of the best known of the younger members of the bar of Alabama, though he is no "baby" member. He has already made his mark as a lawyer. He has hundreds of friends all over Alabama and many of his classmates at the University of Alabama will be members of the same legislature with him. Mr. Pitts will take a prominent part in legislative proceedings because his advice and counsel will be sought."—Montgomrey Alvertiser—September 1, 1927. From "The Passing Throng," by Atticus Mullin.

"We have always said that Percy Pitts ought to be a Democrat. He is without doubt one of the most popular men on the floor of the house and he is also one of the ablest. Percy is not a long-winded floor gabber. He does not indulge in rhetorical nothings and hardly ever speaks, but when he does, he has hearers because he has something to say. He has an uncle in the house, Fluger McGraw, of Shelby, a Democrat, who sits right beside him on the floor. Fluger says Percy is his uncle and Percy says Fluger is his uncle, but we know something about Shelby and Fluger is really Percy's uncle." — Montgomery Advertiser—September 1, 1932. From "The Passing Throng," by Atticus Mullin.

"It is seldom that Democrats care anything about Republicans, but Percy Pitts, Republican from Chilton county, has changed this so far as the Alabama Legislature is concerned. Percy is a real influence in the Democratic house and it is because he usually votes honestly on every bill.

"If every legislator could be as honest as Percy it would not be a bad thing for Alabama to have a Republican Legislature.—Birmingham Post—1927.

K. R. ABBOTT WRITES ON FARM QUESTION

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to say a few words in regard to farming. They say at the County Agent's office to plant vetch and peas, use lots of fertilizer per acre, increase production, enrich your land. Why is it so much profitable to pay a big family in the county and at Auburn to teach us farming folks how to increase our yield of crops, then when we make a pretty good crop they will hollow out, "Over Production?" I call it nonsense. When I hear a preacher preach and he preaches bible about half way of his sermon, then turns around with the other half and contradicts what he has already preached, I drive on.

Some folks say its a free country, but what freedom do we have? My opinion is that everybody does well, but the poor working man's nose is held to the grind stone. I believe if we had more workers and less bosses it would help lots.

Education is fine. Most folks think, get an education — the working man owes them a big, easy high-paying job. I believe that folks wll find out some day that education and cotton farming won't carry them to Heaven. Things should be run to save everybody money; but it seems to be a money-making piece of business of the taxpayers.

I like to read Mr. Sanders's letters. So write on Mr. Sanders, and tell the pie-crust boys.

I work for every dollar I get and pay taxes, and I believe in honesty and the right thing. Folks said vote whiskey for tax so we could have school money —I don't want my child educated on whiskey money, if church members did vote it in lots of counties. Our God is in Heaven, not in Capitols.—K. R. Abbott, Billingsley, Ala.

POPLAR SPRINGS

The crowd was small at the prayer service last Thursday night, but we still had services.

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. did very well. There's still room for improvement, however, and we want each member to pray for our church to grow stronger in the Spirit of the Lord.

Mr. Reedie Patterson will conduct prayer service next Thursday night. Everybody come who can. If your hearts are warm enough with the love of God, you won't get cold, so don't stay away on account of cold weather. We are collecting funds for a new heater and hope to have it up right away.

Our reporter has been visiting in Clanton for a week and enjoyed two wonderful services Sunday and Sunday night at the Second Baptist church of Clanton. Liberty Hill church put on a splendid B. Y. P. U. program there Sunday night. Our B. Y. P. U. lacks a little being up with them, but it is on the way up and we hope it continues.

Everybody is welcome to our services at any time.—Reporter.

WALNUT CREEK

Rev. Thomas of Birmingham will preach at Walnut Creek church Saturday night, October 29th, at 7:30.

VOTERS, STUDY THIS BALLOT

Below is an exact reproduction, except as to size, of the official ballot to be used in the election in Chilton county on Tuesday, November 8th; The ballot you will be handed by the election officials will be exactly like the one in the paper except a little larger. For the benefit of those who do not know exactly how to vote, we give a few pointers below:

What a voter can do: Vote a straight Republican ticket—that is vote for every candidate in the Republican column including County and State nominees—by merely placing a cross (x) mark in the circle or "O" immediately underneath the Republican emblem or elephant.

To vote a straight ticket of any other party, a similiar mark should be made in the circle or "O" underneath that party's emblem. Vote for any number of nominees on the Republican ticket by marking a cross mark (x) before names of each and every one which you desire to vote for; you may then vote for any nominee in any of the other parties or columns running for an office which you did not vote in the Republican column. You may leave any office entirely blank which you do not want to vote.

What a voter cannot do: Do not make a cross under any emblem and then vote for any nominee in any other column. That will invalidate your entire ticket. Do not leave one place blank for county board member where it reads "vote for two." That would invalidate your vote for anybody for that particular office. After you have voted for a nominee for any particular office, do not go directly to the right or left and vote for another nominee for that same office. That would invalidate your entire ticket.

The enrollment is heavy this year. The grammar school has registered 234 pupils, while the Junior High department has enrolled 50.

School was dismissed last Friday noon, so the faculty members might attend the State-wide P.-T. A. Convention in Birmingham.

During the Hallowe'en program next Saturday night, some lucky boy and girl will be crowned as king and queen for the school. A king and queen has been selected by each of the nine grades, and elimination will be made at the above time. The various candidates aie now canvassing for votes, hoping to leap far out in front, thus giving them an added advantage over their opponents the night of crowning. Select your candidate team and do your best to promote their chance to land the top berth. Nine teams are in the contest. A fine group of youngsters to offer competition against each. Give your favorite loyal support. It works towards the advancement of your school and your child's welfare.

Our P.-T. A. organiation is having extention pipes installed which will carry drinking water out to the building where the first three grades are located.

Prof. Weldon made a business trip to Clanton last Monday evening.

Mr. Jack Jones, a member of the U. S. Navy, gave an interesting talk in chapel exercise last Monday. He carried the group through an imaginary journey across to the Hawaiian Islands, then up into Alaska, following down the Pacific Coast, through the Panama Canal, out through the West Indies and Virgin Islands, and then into several of our large cities —New York, Boston, Washington, any points of educational value were given.

Prof. Robert B. Johnson attended the funeral of his uncle. Mr. D. Martin at Mulberry Baptist church last Tuesday afternoon.

Hot-dogs, hot coffee, candy, peanuts, popcorn and cold drinks will be sold at the Hallowe'en jamboree next Saturday night. Boost your school by making liberal purchases of these items.

Several parents have already made visits to our school. We hope that many more are planning to acquaint themselves with the things their children are doing in school activities this year.

A reception, honoring the faculty, was held recently. A large group of enthusiastic parents and teachers assembled for joyous occasion of good fellowship and wholesome enjoyment. It was reported that this was the largest number ever assembled for this annual event.

FLORIDA CITIZEN AGAINST NEW DEAL

Editor Union-Banner:

The "more abundant" frauds of the New Deal have brought this country and the South, to the worst plight since Cleveland's day. We now have 13,000,000 unemployed, or two thirds of the unemployed of the civilized world; $50,000,000,000.00 Federal debt to ensalve our grand-children; 40,000,000 Americans direct or indirect beneficiaries of government checks; 27 per cent of our national income now taken in taxes; cotton selling for 7.50 cents payable in an adulterated dollar worth only 59c, which makes cotton lowest in the history of the country; political guards bossing our poor people like they were convicts while they scratch the roads; Socialistic theorists and bureaucrats dominating our whole social, agricultural and economic life, while they force the WPA workers to vote like sheep in order to vote at all; filled the land with class hates; placed a dictator over labor and industry; robbed the bank account of the baby to feed politicians in luxury; tried to destroy the power companies who have brought industry and employment to the South and paid taxes to build roads and educate our children.

We are even trying to sell our oranges for 25c per box payable in 59c dollars and can't sell them at that. The moral integrity of the present national administration is lower than that of any since Democracy was established by our revolutionary fathers. Fifty-seven cents out of every dollar our country has spent in its entire history was spent by Wilson and Roosevelt. Wilson made the world safe for dictators and militarism, while Roosevelt has made it safe for boodlers, bunksters and frauds in this country. Sincerely.—E. E. Calloway.

"THE WAGES OF SIN IS DEATH"

Editor Union-Banner:

When I read Mr. W. L. Sanders's piece in last week's Banner, it made me think seriously, and say to myself, How much longer can the cotton farmer live, and endure the hardships of the heavy yoke of the New Deal? It is time for us to wake up from our sleep and be alert to the discharge of our duty. There will be hundreds of innocent children and wives in Chilton county that will go hungry, barefooted and half naked this winter. Why? Because we have sold our rights to the government for a very small price.

Friends, it is time to act. Are we going to? Are we going to do it, or are we going to play the fool of ignorance again, and cut our own throats? We are at the very bottom now, and if we go down the hill further, we will surely go through the bottom, then we will be in eternal hell forever. Are we going on and on and let our little children and wives go without clothing, schooling and sufficient food on account of our ignorance? Friends, remember back a few years will you, when your money crop cotton was not allowenced and the price was good? We could see happy, smiling faces everwhere—everyone wore a satisfied appearance.

What do we see today? Long frowning faces, of course. The farmers are simply scrambling over a little WAP work to try to get a few supplies for their needy families.

There is a remedy for the condition of our country, and that is Jesus Christ. Can we solve the problem ourselves, or are we trusting in Him? Please think seriously.—I. L. Smith, Route 1, Verbena, Ala.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

The Highway from Harpersville, ten miles north on Alabama 91, is now open to all trafic, thereby affording a new all-paved route between Birmingham and Columbus, Georgia, with the exception of sixteen miles beeween Sylacauga and Goodwater. This particular stretch is expected to be completed not later than early spring.

ALABAMA'S BIRTH RATE

Alabama's provisional infant mortality rate for 1937 was approximately five per cent lower than the 1936 rate, according to announcement today by the State Department of Health.

The provisional 1937 rate was 63.4 per 1,000 live births, as compared with the 1936 rate of 66.6 per 1,000 live births.

Provisional vital statistics figures show that fewer Alabama babies died before reaching their first birthday last year than in 1936, in spite of an estimated increase of 32,037 in the State's population.

'74,, tre total income to$160, 742.59.

L. N. Allen, seed analyst, State Department of Agriculture, advises that Balboa Rye and Columbia Oats are being offered for sale in Alabama. Farmers are advised that no experimental data are available on these varieties in Alabama and that they should think seriously about buying these in preference to standard varieties that have been tested under Alabama conditions and on Alabama soils. Columbia oats were misbrander as Winter Turf Oats and sold in the state last year.

When you export your soil fertility you are exporting part of your farm's capital. Can you afford to send your soil and labor abroad for practically nothing? Can you afford to plow up your hillsides and sell your labor for five cents an hour when the ultimate end is destruction? That is what Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace asks farmers regarding the domestic allotment plan that provides for unlimited cotton exportes at whatever price the staple will bring.

PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED IN ALABAMA

There are 1,730 manufacturing plants in Alabama according to the Federal census, 1935.

These establishments employed 97,710 wage earners to whom htey paid $64,884,088. The cost of the raw material used and the cost of fuels and electric power used amounted to $211,500,231. The value of the products of these plants is given as $364,309,737.

In these figures are included only plants that produced products that amounted in value to $5,000.00 or more.

The industries listed are producing 57 different products.

The lumber industry has the largest number of plants, 490. This industry employed 12,747 wage earners to whom it paid $5,482,143. The material used amounted to $8,879,846, and the total value of their products was given as $20,963,117. These figures are for 1935 and do not include concerns producing less than $5,000 of these products. There is evidently a big increase in the production of forest products since 1935 as figures recently compiled show that $43,362,225 worth of lumber, shingles and lath were shipped out of Alabama in 1937.

There are 117 ice manufacturing plants in the State and they employed 458 wage earners to whom they paid $33,506. Their products were sold for $2,055,399. This does not include ice cream products which sold for $1,723,840.

The cotton manufacturing industry employed the largest number of wage earners. There are 75 of these plants and they employed 31,431 wage earners in 1935. These wage earners were paid $18,338,817 in that year. The materials used were valued at $57,506,263 and the products at $84,814,946. The cotton seed products for that year were valued at $14,936,644.

Alabama produces more cast iron pipe and fittings than any other State in the Union. There are 22 of these establishments in the State and they employed 6,181 wage earners who received for their labor 54,284,898. They produced products valued at $17,218,673.

There are 15 railroad repair shops that employ 3,343 people who were paid $4,222,767.

Eight-three concerns were engaged in the manufacture of bread and other bakery products. They employed 1,540 people who earned $1,344,191. These bakery products were valued at $7,476,710.

There are 11 wholesale meat packing concerns in Alabama and their products were valued at $5,113,759, but this was not enough to supply the needs of the people of the State as figures recently compiled show that during 1937 there was shipped into Alabama fresh meat valued at $4,840,168 and cured meats valued at $3,378,565. However during this same year there were shipped out of Alabama cattle, calves and hogs at $1,666,248.

These are only a few of the 57 products listed as being manufactured in Alabama.

PERSONAL RIGHTS AND WHERE THEY END

LESSON TEXT—Ecclesiastes 2:1-3, 10, 11; Romans 6:17-23; 14:21.

GOLDEN TEXT—What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?—Romans 6:15.

"Personal liberty"—what endless misuse was made of that expression in the days when men seeking the right to again flood this country with intoxicating liquors were attacking prohibition. One would think that some of our political leaders and our newspaper editors would blush for shame when they see what has now been accomplished in the name of personal liberty.

My liberty ends, as someone has well said, where yours begins. I have the personal liberty to swing my arms as far as the tip of your nose, but there my liberty ends. All of life is, and necessarily must be built on that principle. For the Christian there is an even higher measure of responsibility—his relationship to God and his consequent heart interest in the welfare of his fellow men.

Our Scripture portions for today present a sharp contrast. Man without God, but with every earthly advantage is pictured in Ecclesiastes in his fruitless search for real joy. Then man as the glad bondslave of Jesus Christ is spoken of in Romans as truly free and joyful.

I. The Way of Emptiness and Disappointment (Eccles. 2:1-3, 10, 11).

1. Physical pleasures do not satisfy (Eccles. 2:1-3). Men who have tasted the distress and disappointment of life are prone to think that if they only had all the money they wanted, and an opportunity to partake of life's "thrills" they would be happy. Solomon had everything. He deliberately set himself to prove the pleasures of this world. He planned to "enjoy" intoxicants—doing it "with wisdom"—that is, not in a drunken debauch that would bring remorse. Note it, you who advocate the moderate use of alcohol (whatever that may be) Solomon found it to be only vain emptiness. (See Prov. 23:31, 32.)

What is true of wine is also true of the attempt to satisfy oneself by the gratification of any physical appetite. Those who live for the pleasures of the flesh can reap only corruption (Gal. 6:8). The hectic search for such satisfaction by countless men and women today reveals that they, like Solomon, cannot find it. If they did, they would cease their wild searching. It just is not there.

2. Pleasures of the mind do not satisfy (Eccles. 2:10, 11). Solomon sought real joy in labor, in accomplishing worthy ends. There is a satisfaction in work well done, but that joy is only lasting when the doing of the work is for the glory of God. Work for its own sake—yes, even wisdom for its own sake (Eccles. 1:12-18)—is not enough to satisfy the soul of man. The great poet Goethe, who set himself to enjoy the higher pleasures of life—art, science, and literature—came to his seventy-fifth year to testify that he had "never had four weeks of genuine pleasure." Satisfaction is not in the pleasures of the aesthetic nature.

II. The Way of Victory, Peace, and True Joy (Rom. 6:17-23; 14:21).

We say with Paul "God be thanked" that there is a way for men to find freedom from the sin and disappointment of life. It comes by

1. Personal allegiance to God (Rom. 6:17-23). Clear thinking on spiritual matters recognizes that the man who boasts of his personal liberty, his freedom from God's control over his life is in reality the slave of sin (vv. 17-19; Titus 3:3). On the other hand, the one who is a willing bondslave of Jesus Christ is free. The way of victory and peace is to yield to God, even as the way of defeat and disappointment is to yield to sin. The first way leads to joy in this life and eternal fellowship with God. The other way results in ultimate ghastly disillusionment in this life and eternal spiritual death and separation from God.

2. Recognized responsibility for others (Rom. 14:21). It should not take two minutes of intelligent consideration for any man to understand that "none of us liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself" (Rom. 14:7). Yet that is the obvious assumption under which men live, leaving behind them not only their own wrecked lives, but carrying along in the stream of their personal influence their acquaintances, friends and members of their families.

The principle stated in Romans 14:21 should govern all of our actions. Paul was speaking of meat offered to idols, which he could have eaten with a clear conscience. But if he ate it someone else would be caused to stumble, and he was rather willing to do without it as long as he lived. One wonders what would happen in the Christian world if every professed follower of Christ would thus evaluate not only the use of intoxicants but also his every personal habit.

15. Why does the Lord call the Sabbath His day?

"For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and ahlowed it."—Ex. 20:11.

16. Though whom did God create the world?

"God hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son, by whom also made the worlds."

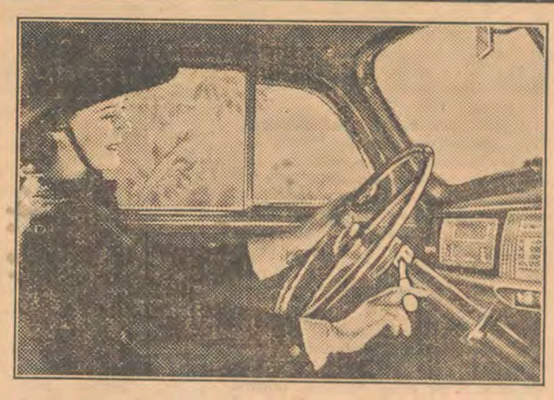
Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling germ-laden phlegm.



The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a good dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and may be taken frequently by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles due to common colds hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund your money. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

6 THERE ARE SIX IMPORTANT REASONS-- 6

Why

MODERN LAUNDRY SERVICE IS THE SENSIBLE ANSWER

The Magic of modern science has taken out of the home a drab and disagreeable task and transformed it into a specialized professional service. With the kerosene lamp, the wood stove, and the weekly baking, home washing has happily become a thing of the past for economy-minded home managers of today. Our laundry is proud to be a part of the industry which has made possible this modern freedom for American women. And we are proud to be able to point out these important advantages which have made modern laundry service the logical answer to the family washing problem.

Consider these Facts:

1 PROFESSIONAL SERVICE COSTS NO MORE—Professional laundry washing not only frees the modern woman of work and worry, but also provides a better product at no greater cost. Test after test has shown that when all costs are figure dfairly, you pay no premium for the professional efficiency that our modern service affords.

2 DOCTORS RECOMMEND IT—Modern dommercial laundry service, as a guardian of public health, has earned the highest regard among doctors and public health officials everywhere. A recent survey revealed that, on the average, there are 6,000 times more bacteria remaining in the final rinse water in home washing than in the final rinse in the laundry. Reason enough for doctors to recommend the laundry's pasteurized washing.

3 PROTECTS FABRIC LIFE—Contrary to an old notion, it is now a proved fact that clothes washed in the modern laundry do not wear out faster than clothes washed at home. A scientific study made by the American Institute of Laundering actually showed a slightly lower fabric strength loss in clothes washed in the laundry than in the clothes washed by regular home methods.

4 SAFEGCARDS COLORS—In our modern laundry service, complete protection of even the daintiest colors is assured. Every article in your family washing is accurately classified according to color, type of fabric, and type of article, when it comes into our laundry—and is washed according to its own particular requirements

5 KEEPS WHITE THINGS WHITE—Laboratory tests have repeatedly proved that modern laundry washing keeps linens cleaner and whiter than even the most careful home washing. Our scientific washing process employs only "zero soft" water and the purest soaps, and uses ten to twelve complete changes of water during each single washing. No water is ever re-used in our laundry.

6 SCIENCE PERFECTS EQUIPMENT AND METHODS—The Modern laundry is not simply a mass production version of home washing. It is a scientifically designed and equipped "factory" which produces a highly perfected professional "product". Constant scientific research keeps the laundry abreast of each step in the progress of modern industry.

THE LIFE HISTORY OF J. H. JACKSON AND WIFE

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please grant me a small space to give a little history of part of me and my wife's married life?

I was born October 31, 1868, in Chambers County. My wife also of Chambers County, was born September 14, 1866. We were married October 3, 1888, by Elder Salahan, a Methodist preacher. We had nine children born to us—three boys and six girls. we have seven living—Mrs. Ethel Pilcher, Ola Scott, Bertha Traywick, Jessie Mancher, Hattie Hawkins, Able and Willie Jackson.

Well friends, I believe it takes a pretty good women to put up with a man 50 years, don't you? Of course, we have our ups and downs, but more downs than ups. Our greatest ambition was to have a home of our own, so we succeeded the third year and we have been blessed with one every since.

Listen, young people, to consider to own your own home is the greatest freedom that you can process here on earth. I know that I would be very miserable not knowing where I would abide the next year. You know I believe the garden of Eden was Adam's home. You don't see where Eve left. I think she stayed to keep and to dress the garden of Eden, to beautify it for the pleasure of her husband, Adam. Of course, necessity drove Adam out to toil for food.

It appears to me that the young people are not interested in securing them a home. You will find great pleasure in improving your own home and your wife will enjoy keeping it and dressing it for your pleasure. If you and her live in peace, joy righteousness in the Holy Spirit, you are in the kingdom of Heaven, as much as you will ever be here on earth. Now I want to say to you, that the opportunity right here in Chilton County is much greater than it was where I was when I was a young man. There are thousands of acres of land between here and the river that is much better land than where I was raised and three times as cheap.

But cars, gas and too much strong drink have robbed you of your home and of your salvation; I mean a great many of you. There are very few young people making any effort to secure them a home of their own. Its within your reach. I had only $40 to buy my household goods, and $200 in debt. But I meant to pay it, and did, and have always paid my debts. I enjoyed paying what I honestly owed. Its true that I don't process much, but thank God the other fellow can't say to me, "I want my place, you must move."

Just a few more words to you young people, and I will let you loose: I attribute my old age to obedience to my parents. God says to honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be prolonged and that it may go well with thee. I feel like I have done that. I know of many that come up with me that was very disobedient to their parents, and they have passed out many years ago.

Boys, my last words to you is to try and get you a home of your own.—J. H. Jackson.

SHELLFISH SANITATION PROGRAM EXPLAINED

The value of the State Health Department's program of supervsion of oyster beds and shucking plants was pointed out today by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer in a weekly bulletin. Since contaminated oysters have been known to be responsible for epidemics of typhoid fever, he stated, the supervision of oyster production consist of important phase of the departments's typhoid control program. As far back as 1880 Sir Charles Cameron of England showed that oysters might be responsible for the spread of typhoid, but according to the local health officer, it was not until an epedimic occurred in 1924 in Chicago that this question was brought to the head in the United States.

The present program in Alabama as in other costal states consist of sanitary surveys of oyster beds to determine the possibility of pollution and effort to divert sewerage from the beds, bacteriological examinations of the water from the bed and the oyster themselves, and inspection of the sanitation of the shucking plants. Each oyster shucker whose plant and method of operation meets the requirements of the department is given a certificate bearing a serial number which must be shown on the can in which the oysters are shipped either stamped or imbossed. Truckers who bring the oysters from the cost must also have certificates.

The local health department cooperatea in the program as Dr. Sturkie pointed out, by checking oysters sold in Clanton and in the county to see if the cans bear the serial number of a certified dealer.

The many friends in Clanton and Chilton county of Evangelist L. J. Cooper will be pleased to learn that he is scheduled to be in the city again this year with his big tent and broadcasting car, beginning Sunday, November 6th, the frist service to be that afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All the local pastors are co-operating in the meeting in Newton."

Grand Rapids, Michigan is the home of Evangelist Cooper, and he is a minister of the Northern Baptist Church. Although born an American, his encestry traces directly to Holland. He is thirty-seven years old and never heard a service rendered in the English language until he was nearly grown. He now speaks fluently in English.

The president accuses Sen. Tydings of running on Republican money. Well, the New Deal candidates are running on the taxpayers' money — four and a half billions of it.

According to political experts, most people register a negative rather than a positive vote when they go to the polls. That is because it is so much more fun to be against somebody.

SELF INDEPENDENCE

One of the greatest dangers of autocratic government is the tendency which it inculcates in the people to rely on a dictator rather than their efforts in making a living for themsevles. The tendency along this line in Europe has been notable. The first great step cae in Russia where the red dictators came to power with the promise that they would seize the entire wealth of the country, socialize it, and distribute it for the benefit of the people at large. It would be no longer necessary that the average citizen look out for himself—the government would do it for him. That the Moscow plan has failed of its objectives is now generally admitted. Many of the simon-pure eommunists of the early revolution have themselves broken off from the Lenin government which, they claim is becoming fascist. Gradually the older theories of communism are breaking down because of the inherent defects of the theory which would substitute paternalism for individual enterprise.

In other dictorial governments we see the same tendency. It is far too much the custom to depend on the dictator to do the thinking and acting of the people. While there has been no outright socialization of private property, the way the property is used and the ends to which it has been put, are entirely up to the state.

It may be said with a show of reason that it is none of our business what kind of government the people of Europe possess, that the concern is purely their own. This is doubtless true. But it is our business what kind of government we keep for ourselves and we may well profit by a study of the European system.

Here in America there has been entirely too much of a tendency to let George do it. The old ideas of American thrift, American enterprise and American self reliance seem to be going by the boards.

When the government was formed, the average American looked to his own efforts to bring him a living and advance his fortunes. The crossing of the Alleghenies, the clearing of the forests, the settling of the pairies, the building of great cities and the creation of fertile farms, was a work entirely of private enterprise—of capitalism of you please. But nowadays, instead of relying on our own tbility to get things done we are too apt to look to Washington for help. If something new is needed in the way of a public improvement, the belief seems to be that it would be easier and better to let Harold Ickes do it. Private enterprise and self-reliance seem to be giving way to the WPA and the PWA.

In the words of the editor of Nation's Business, "We elect security rather than success; we glorify political charity as a newly discovered virture and, in the name of a more abundant life, we mock the frugal and plunder the thrifty."

Let us take a lesson from the dictator ridden people of Europe. We do not want to become a nation of rubber stamps or dependents on a national daddy.

The 13,000,000th automobile crossed the Henry Hudson bridge over the Harlem River the other day. Henry would'nt recognize the old place if he were to see it now.

TOO MUCH JUGGLING

In this era of demagoguery there is entirely too much juggling of figures just to make the record look better For despite the glowing promises of making America prosperous through spending there is a growing belief that sooner or later we will have to get back to economy and budget balancing. That accounts for the present tendency on the part of public officials and those who want to be officials, to claim that their records and aims —in spite of mounting relief and public largess— are entirely along the line of economy and tax reduction.

A few weeks ago the Democratic voters chose former Governor Curley as their standard bearer for governor of the Bay State this year. Commenting on Mr. Curley's claims that he is a champion of economy and retrenchment the New Bedford Standard-Times said recently.

"He told a Boston audience that in the two years he was governor he succeeded in giving the state a state tax that was $7,000,000 less than the state tax of the present year, which is $17,000,000. He did not say that his state tax of $10,000,000 in his first year as governor was made possible chiefly by applying $9,500-000 of gasoline tax money to the general expenses of the state. This year no gasoline tax money has been used for that purpose, and if it had not been used in the first Curley year the state tax would have been $19,-500,000. The Curley defict of 1935 was larger than the 1938 deficit."

It may be taken for granted that the Standard-Times is impartial in its summing up owing to the fact that both deficits mentioned are the deficits of Democratic governors. It may be added that this juggling of figures is not fashionable only in Massachusetts and it may be found elsewhere, even at times, we fear, in Washington.

Deficits cannot be cured merely by shifting funds from one account to another nor by juggling figures. Even the turning of social security tax money into the general fund, does not lessen Uncle Sam's obligations.

There are other remedies which are neither reactionary nor full of toryism. Six suggestions were made recently by a Democratic statesman—although not a Roosevelt Democratic statesman—Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. The six suggestions were: providing economy and efficiency; deterring the upward trend of taxes; applying the brakes to the mounting federal debt; expediting and simplifying the dealing with governmental agencies; strengthening the auditing and accounting of governmental fiscal affairs and preserving the three branches of the government.

These suggestions would not provide more federal money for relief in campaign years but htey might be more effective for curing what ails us than shifting the gasoline tax from one pocket to another.

OLD TIMER'S VIEWS

From Washington it is reported that one distinguished old-time Republican whose experience as a party leader extends back over many campaigns predicts a Republican gain of 60 seats in the House in November. This is about twice as optimistic as the forecasts of younger men around party headquarters. But this Republican—who chooses to remain anonymous—is known for his hard-headedness. Moreover, he bases his prophecy on an interesting theory.

The best index to the swing of congressional votes, he argues, is the price of wheat. When wheat prices are low, he says, you can count on a marked trend, all through the middle West, away from any party which happens to be in power, regardless of what that party may have done for the farmer in the past or what it may be attempting to do for him in the present. Farmers are now more interested in prices than in programs, he points out.

Wheat reached an all-time low in 1931 and 1932. And, he reminds us, no amount of pointing to world economic conditions could save the Republicans from agrarian retribution. By 1935 and 1936, wheat prices had gone up appreciably. The Democrats reaped the harvest. Just as inevitably, this prognosticator insists, the Democrats will reap the whirlwind in November. Wheat prices just now are down to tragic levels. The farmers don't care why, this Republican contends, and will take it out on the Democrats.

We hope he's right about the 60-seat gain —even if it isn't caused by low wheat prices. —Greenwich, Conn., Time.

VIEWED WITH COMPLACENCE

It is a sad day for America which finds its government regarding communistic activities with complacence.

How else can be viewed the dilatory tactics of Secretary of Labor Perkins and the administration she represents in regard ot the operations of Harry Bridges on the West coast? American working men have been forced to take matters into their own hands. It is only one instance.

The leaders of four powerful unions on the Pacific slope have determined to withdraw from the ndustrial council formed by Bridges. They charge bluntly that Bridges works closely with communist elements to the detriment of American labor.

This disclosure, coming on the heels of disruption of the CIO automobile union with charges freely circulated of communistic influence in the union leadership, and with disclosure that at least one of the union leaders in the Newton, Iowa, strike is a communist, is evidence enough that communism has worked itself into CIO organization. — Syracuse Post-Standard.

NOT WISE

Mr. Roosevelt has appointed his cousin, Preston Delano, to be Comptroller of the Currency at a salary of $10,000 a year. This is the fifth or possibly the sixth appointment. Mr. Roosevelt has made from the long list of his relations, by blood or by marriage. Other connections have been given appointments which carry no salaries.

It would be easy to overemphasize the importance of this sort of nepotism, and we do not propose to overemphasize it. But there are, nevertheless, some elements in the situation which are less than reassuring. Chief of these elements is that such adherence to nepotism makes it possible to doubt that Mr. Roosevelt has that fineness of feeling which theoretically, at least, should be the sure possession of a man holding so high an office. In such matters meticulous men take care to lean backward.—Baltimore Sun.

UNFAIR COMPETITION

A persistently disturbing feature of the work relief system, along with the high cost represented, is the disposition to make it an agency of competition with private industry in building, manufacturing and other lines. Apparently Washington officials are still wedded to the project of resettling farmers and others having trouble to make ends meet, and with this goes the endeavor to provide extra employment areas through projects that compete with regular industrial establishments.

Subsistence homestead developments afford a current example. Up to this time silk throwing and knitting plants have been established by the government at seven of the forty-eight bases chosen for such resettlement operations. This has been protested by commercial organizations, on the score of competition already in evidence and more especially the greater departures believed in contemplation.

Such governmental operations are costly, but being run by taxpayers' money they can be made injurious to private industry and so throw additional persons on relief. Thus in various ways the work relief system tends to undermine the structure of industry and the spirit of self-reliance steering the nation away from the principles that have guided it, toward a collectivist model, with control over votes as a means of its fulfillment.—Springfield Union.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

This is being dictated at a hotel in Parkersburg, West Virginia, where the writer is engaged in a week's evangelistic services, conducted under the auspices of the Union Mission Committe, which is composed of a group of representative laymen from all parts of America. There are groups, such as the Businses Men's Evangelistic Clubs. These men are putting on a great tabernacle meeting in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and other sections of our country. Jimmie Johnson and Maurice Bamberg, two graduates of the Bob Jones College, have played a big part in this movement, especially in N. C., where they have conducted some of the greatest tabernacle meetings of our day. Mr. W. G. Haymaker, the field secretary of the business men's Evangelistic Clubs, is doing a great work in lining up laymen and pastors and interested them in special evangelistic efforts. Mr. Haymaker in the old days organized many of my large tabernacle campaigns throughout America. He knows his business. In Chicago there has been going on for several years a big laymen's program of tent meetings, radio services and noon day evangelistic services in a down town theatre. This has been going on in spite of much opposition on the part of some preachers who do not seem to want any program which they themselves do not direct. Out in San Francisco and in Seattle the laymen are "on the job" in a big way and are not leading many to Christ. This year the writer was in New York City for a noon day pre-Easter service in a theatre just off Broadway. On New York committee, he found what he had previously found in Chicago, San Francisco, Seattle and other cities—a group of influential and consecrated business men who feel that the need of our country is a definite evangelistic testimony and a sincere effort to win the unsaved to Jesus Christ. God has a strange way of doing things. Often in the Old Testament days, when the priests seemed to forget their real work of representing God, He would call a layman into service. He sometimes called a plowman or a sheep herder to be a prophet. In this day so many of the preachers feel that the day of the day of the evangelist is past and that education is a substitute for evangelism, it would be a "big joke" on these preachers if God should raise up Christian laymen to "head up" toe greatest evangelistic movement the nation ever knew. Priests and preachers come and go, but God marches on.

"Motorists argument is ended in slaying". "Confesses kidnaping tot from Dayton home".. "Vatican plans firm protest against Naxi demonstrations". Nevada officers to head off CIO invasion." "Recapture thugs freed by girl." These are headlines from the Parkersburg Sentinel, an afternoon paper. What a world! Religious leaders tell us at least they told us a few years ago that the world is getting better and better. The Bible teaches that in the last few days, "perilous times shall come, for men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, that sounds like current literature unthankful, unholy, without natural affections, truce breakers. It would be a good idea to underscore that word, in view of the recent Munich conference of the big four, false glimps of Mussolini's and Hitler's faces, despisers of those who are good there is a growing hatred of God and Christians in all parts of the world traitors, heady, highminded, how men are strutting intellectually and without any reason for so doing, lovers of pleasure more he lovers of God, the highest paid people in America are the motion picture stars whom we pay to keep us from thinking. The poorest paid people are those who sincerly try to make us think. Still we strut about being intellectually, having a form of godliness but denying the power thereof." I do not say that we are actually in the last days, though everything in the world seems to indicate that this church age will soon end. There is one thing sure—the world wide conditions that prevail now will prevail in the close of the age. The only thing that can save the world from chaos is a revival of old-time Bible Christianity. Now is the time for Christians to look up. "Our salvation draweth nigh". Now is our opportunity to demonstrate before men that Christian faith works in the midst of a wolrd of unrest and uncertianty. Nothing can hurt God's own people. If the earth should be removed, we who are saved need not fear. God is aur Father. He made this earth. According to His word He is going to make a new Heaven and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness.

National Forest Hunt

Dates for the annual deer hunt in the Black Warrior National Forest in north Alabama have been announced by Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the State Conservation Department, co-sponsor of the event with the U. S. Forest Service. Hunters will be permitted to take stands in groups of 500, the first group going into the forest on December 5-6. They will be wthdrawn and the second group will go in on December 9-10. Permits will be issued by U. S. Forest Ranger, Thomas A. Wilson at Decatur, and a small fee will be charged by the forest service for the permit. An applicant also must have a state hunting license before the permt will be issued. Last year nearly 1,000 hunters flocked to the fores for the annual hunt and it is expected that applicants will increase this year. Commissioner Quinn said his department and the forest service had just completed a census of deer which indicated ample game for the nimrods this year. The forest covers approximately 150,000 acres in five north Alabama counties, and the acrerage is being increased each year.

Places To Hunt

The Alabama season will be in full swing in a few weeks. Most of the nimrods wll hunt on their own lands o ron the lands of friends, but there are many who will wish to go away from their immediate vicinity in search of more and larger game. The Department of Conservation has a list of places to hunt in Alabama—private lands on which hunting is permitted and where dogs, horses, guides and other accommodations are available. This list is free to all who write for it. Address Department of Conservation, State Capitol, Montgomery, Ala.

FARM NOTES

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama

(By A. W. Jones)

This week we are beginning the first of a series tf seven articles on the "domestic allotment" plan which Alabama farmers are hearing much about. Week by week we will take up various phases of tre plan and discuss them. To obtain full information on this subject, each article should be read. it might be worthy to cut each installment out of the paper and keep them all.

One of the fundamental traits of human nature is the desire for changes; the restness wish for soffetime we do not have and the readiness with which we forsake the present way of doing things for something that holds promise of being better.

This in itself is not a vicious trait, as indeed all our progress can be traced to a sound, intelligent and constructive use of a desire for improvement. Likewise, most of the worlds tragedies have come as a result of fault or faulty thinking, selfineshness, or a lack of attention to facts in our exercises of this instinctive wish for something different.

Farmers in the South have never had a more solemn nor farther reaching responsibility than the one they will have to assume this fall when they make up their minds as to what they desire in the way of an agricultural adjustment program. Shall we with out further thought and trial throw overdoard vital parts of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1739 many of the principles of which we have been striving for for the last fifty years, or shall we recognize its flaws and attempt to work these ouf with care and patience? Shall we assume that all our thoughts and effects at farm production adjustment for a generatitn have been wrong about faces and accept another fundamentally different plan, without through analysis, that has as its central feature the elements of increased production oversupply, x and lower prices, from which we have tried so long to free ourselves.

Let's analyze the plan we have, the one that is being advocated most to replace the one we have, consider the strong and week points of each, find if we can the individuals who are activtly promoting or sponsoring ing each, and what will be the probable outcome of either plan if followed.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1939 provides the legislative basis for the program that is being administered by and for southern farmers this year. The principles of this Act provides for the widely expressed thought and desire of farmers themselves on cotton production control at profitable price levels, the percent of tilled land method of making acreage allotment, unrestricted marketing of the production on the alloted acreage for each farm, a penalty on the excess acres of those producers who overplant their alloted acreage and their attempt to profit by their neighbors' sacrifice. benefit payments to farmers who cooperate, protection for small farmers through minimum acreage allotments and marketing quota provisions, encouragement of production of full supplies of food and feed for home use, soil conservation, commodity loans to protect farmers from disastrous droph in prices, and democratic determinations by farmers themselves as to whether the penalty provisions shall apply or not.

The so-called domestic allotment plan is one that is at this time being most widely advocated and promoted most intensively by its proponents to replace the present Act. This plan differs radically on most points with the one now in force. Under it there would be no attempt o adjust production to bring about and maintain a profitable price level, no protection to small farmers from the large scale machine operators who would plant all of his acres in cotton, no penalty for any amount of overproduction and no loans. Soil conservation and the present encouragement to produce ample supplies of food and feed crops at home would be minimized or practically abandoned in the mad race of every farmer to produce more and more cotton in order to have a few more pounds of the total amount going into consumption in this country on which he could get the increased price for domestic allotment. The major part of the crop under this plan would be dumped on the world market if such market would take it for payment under this proposal would not be greater than we now have or could get in connection with a continuance of the present program.

FARMERS TO VOTE ON MARKETING QUOTAS

Auburn, Alabama. — Farmers will vote December 10th on whether they favor the continuation of cotton marketing quotas but in this referendum they will already have their acreage allotments before they vote, according to announcement by A. W. Jones, administrative officer of the AAA in Alabama.

Mr. Jones says that allotments are expected to be in the hands of farmers at least a week prior to December 10 so that they will know exactly how many acres they will be permitted to market cottan from under the 1939 program. Last spring the delay by congress in passing the 1938 farm act made it impossiable to get quotas in the hands of the farmers and therefore they did not know what their allotments would be when they voted last March.

By having his allotment before the referendum a farmer will know just how many acres he will be able to plant and he will also be in position to plan his farming operations next year, Jones said.

The present supply of American cotton (over 25,000,000 bales) is one of the largest of all times. The favorable price of 14 cents in 1836 come afeer three years adjustment effort and will require about the same time and effort to adjust the huge supply of sotton left over from the 1936 and 1937 crops. Those who believed the present prgram would bring the cotton prices back up to 12 or 14 cents in one year's time had not checked on the carryover which made it impossible to adjust the srpply in one year, according to Jones.

If the marketing quota is opposed by more than one taird of the growers voting in the roferendum the loan program will not be in effect next tar and it is logical to expect increased planting and production of cotton will result in extremely low prices Jones predicted.

RESULTS OF TEST OF LEGUMES GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Dry weather has nampered winter legumes planting in Alabama but there is still time to plant, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in advising farmers that numerous requests have come to him regarding the fertilizer to be applied.

Tests for nine years by the Alabama Experimental Station in all sections of the state have shown that basic slag rock phosphate, superphosphate, and triple superphasphate have been best sources of phosphourus and best legume fertlizers. Basic slag gave an average increase of 4,017 pounds of vetch over check plot; superphosphate gave 3,952; triple superphosphate gave 3,937; and rock phosphate gave 2,978. Colloidal phospate gave the least increase of all over no phosphate 2,075. Experimental have proved that most Alabama soil need phosphorus for good crop production, including legumes, he said.

HEREFORD BREEDERS FORM ASSOCIATION

Auburn, Ala.—U. C. Jenkins, Faunsdale was elected president, A. C. Hartley, Mathews, vice-president, and Edward Wadsworth, Prattville, secretary treasurer, of the newly-formed Alabama Hereford Breeders Association at a meeting held at the farm of Mr. Hartley on October 11th.

Directors chosen at the meeting were R. O. Atkins, Herflin, Earnest Lambert, Darlington, and Lee Alley, Midway. This association will assist breeders of Hereford cattle to find a market for their stock and will also assist in building up purebred Hereford cattle industry in the state. As a first objective the association members voted to hold a Hereford cattle sale in April at which only the top cattle in the herds of the state will be offered for sale.

HOMEMADE BROODING PLANS AVAILABLE

Auburn, Ala.,—Alabama farmers who have heretofore been unsuccessful in brooding and raising a flock of chickens can now take care of from 50 to 75 chicks in any kind of weather with an easily constructed, inexpensive and ectnomically-operated home made brooder, states D. F. King, associate professor of poultry husbandry at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

This brooder, which can be consructed for around $5.00 and is heated by a common kerosene lamp, has been in Louisiana for a number of years and has proved successful in brooding the small unmber of chicks which are found on the average farm It eliminates buying expensive brooder equipment and does away with all heating duties except filling the lamp with kerosene.

Mr. King. One more of these simple many farms for a brooder to take care brooders which can be constructed in a few hours by the farmer will make it possible to secure chicks early and eliminates excessive losses due to disease. parasites, varments, and cold weather. It is built of ordinary lumber, tin, hardware cloth and poultry wire. Most of these materials can be pickd up around most farms and the construction cost futher reduced.

The bottom, top and sides of the brooder are made in sections which makes the brooder easy to clean or move to other locations. It contains a brooder four feet long and a wire-coverd poarch six feet long to allowe the chicks plenty of sunshine.

Mr. King has just issued a bulletin that gives the bill of material and the methods of construction for this brooder which will serve in helping farmers raise more poultry on the farm. Those interested in obtaining this bulletin shuold write to D. F. King, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Alabama.

LESPEDEZA FOR EROSIAN CONTROL

Annual lespedeza left on the land two years gives much better control of erosian than one year's growth, according to Mr. James H. Wood of the Soil Conservation Service area Clanton, Alabama.

Many farmers in the area have mowed hay and others are harvesting seed this fall from two-year strips of lespedeza established as part of the regular strip rotation system on treir farms, Mr. Wood said.

In many cases farmers are producing enough hay form perennial strips of kudzu and lespedeza series to provide their winter feed requirements and are leaving the annual lespedeza on the land to control erosion and be turned under in the spring for soil improvement.

Even when a two year old growth of lespedeza is mowed, the stubble left on the land provides considerable protection against erosion. A new practice that is gaining favor is the sowing of rye grass or small grain on lespedeza stubbles, which will give added protection to he soil, utilize the available nitrogen and may provide winter grazing.

Farmers who are following approved strip crop rotation are planing next spring to sow annual lespedeza on grain strips planted on row crop land this fall. The lespedeza strips sown on grain will provide protection against erosion as the old strips of lespedeza are followed with row crops in the spring. This is a three-year strip rotation of row crop, small grain, and lespedeza two years.

TOURIST CONVENTION AT FAIRHOPE, ALA.

They're planning a tourist convention down at Fairhope on Mobile Bay early in November. Tourists from all over the country will assemble.

Alabama has some mighty fine roads now. That State was the home of the good road improvement. Did you know that? True they started there. And Aabama has always managed to sort of keep up too.

And of course, there are no toll bridges in Alabama. Fairhope is the home of the Singletax Colony.

Everybody is invited to come. Remember the date and place for some good entertainment.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

When we were in school we hated for our teachers to look over our work and say, "Now, you can do better than this." Now we wonder if our Teacher over all is looking at our work for our church and wishing He could tell us that we could do better work for Him, because our Sunday school records show that we had three more in attendance a year ago than we had last Sunday. Next Sunday is Orphanage Day at our Sunday school, and let's do our very best to have a record attendance for our Sunday school and a record-breaking offering for our children of the Orphanage. You know, "Inasmuch as ye do it unto the least of these, ye do it unto Christ."

BETHSALEM

Our singing was called off on account of the convention at Clanton last Sunday, but we will meet next Sunday instead of the regular 4th Sunday evening meetings. Hereafter, we will meet on the 4th Sunday evening.

We are expecting to have with us the Tabernacle quartet of Prattville and the Cooper quartet, and others.

The singing will begin at two o'clock.

HAYES SHOWED NEW CHEVROLETS SATURDAY

Sleek new aero stream bodies suggesting fleetness and luxury combine with numerous meshanical advancements, at least two of which are major in character, to assure keen public interest in the new 1939 Chevrolet, which made its formal bow Saturday in 10,000 dealer's showrooms from coast to coast, says Hayes Chevrolet Company of Clanton.

The two new series, designate as the Master DeLuxe and the Master 85, are offered as embodying not only distinctive style but an even finer aggregate of performance, safety and comfort characteristics than that which made their predecessors sales leaders in 1938. Two new models, a Master DeLuxe four passenger coupe with many distinctive features, and a Master 85 business coupe available on both chassis, are added for 1939 the sport coupe and cabriolet being discontinued.

The major mechanical improvements for 1939 are the new vacum gearshift with steering column control, optional on both series at nominal extra cost, and the new perfect-Knee-Action riding system on the Master DeLuxe. This improvement includes an entirely new Knee Action mechanism, triple tested, precision-built, and tailored as a unit to the car, to assure maximum riding comfort over all roads.

The power plant in both series is the time-proven Chevrolet 85-horsepower high-compression six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, in which refinement introduced in 1938 are continued, and additional refinement resulting in greater economy, durability, and ease of servicing, incorporated for 1939. Improvements have been made in the ignition and oiling system, the carburetor, the intake manifold thermostatic control, the harmonic balancer, which is now floated in rubber, and the cooling system, which is now has a self-adjusting permanently lubricated ball bearing warter pump. The diaphragm-type Tiptoe-matic Cluch introduced for the 1938 is continued with improvements chief of which is new provision for ventilation.

Outwardly, the new Chevrolet is longer and lower in appearence. This is accomplished by the new design of fenders, wheels, running boards, and hood, as well as by a new window treatment. The lower corners of the latter appears practically square, thus effecting a continuous straight-line appearance at the bottom of the side windows.

Citizens Want Mr. Hardy To Explain

Want To Know Why Neither Sheriff Force Nor Grand Jury Took Any Action

Editor Union-Banner:

Shortly after the second Democratic primary in June, Mr. J. R. Hardy, sheriff of Chilton County and Democratic nominee for tax collector, wrote a piece to both papers attempting to explain why no arrests had been made regarding the snatching of the absentee ballot box. Mr. Hardy stated in substance that the reason no one had been arrested was that neither he nor any of his deputies saw anyone take the absentee box from the room at the courthouse.

Mr. Hardy also stated in the same letter that the Grand Jury would come together some time in the near future, and that that body would doubtless make investigations of the case and take some action upon it.

Well, there are several citizens of my community who would like to know why it is that nothing as yet has been done about this matter. We understand that the Grand Jury has met since that time, and that Judge Glover in his able charge to that body turned to both Mr. G. C. Walker, the county solicitor, and to Mr. Hardy, the sheriff, and asked them if they knew of any matters that should be brought especially to the attention of the Grand Jury, whereupon both these gentlemen replied that they did not know of anything.

Is it not the business of the Sheriff and county solicitor to assist the Grand Jury and the courts in getting behind all violations of the law that they know about or have knowledge of? Did neither of these gentlemen hear of the ballot box being stolen and of the alleged wholesale crookedness practiced in the absentee voting in that Democratic run-off?

I believe we citizens here in Beat 10 and all over Chilton county have a right to a detailed explanation from either or both Mr. Hardy or Mr. Walker as to why nothing has been done about this matter.—H. H. Moore, Verbena, Route 2.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL BEGINS SOON

Work Being Pushed In Anticipation Of Successful Drive

The organization of the local chapter of American Red Cross preparatory to the opening of the roll call drive on November 11th is getting well under way, according to the roll call chairman, Mr. J. Mell Martin.

All communities will be worked, especially the urban parts of the county, and ample opportunity will be given all to join again this year and thus aid in the most worthy work of the organization.

It must be understood by now that half of the money paid into the Red Cross remains in Chilton county to be used in all worthy causes by the local chapter committee. Mr. Martin is preparing a list of the contributions made from this local fund the past year, and same will be published when completed.

It is hoped that those people who are asked to do different jobs for the Red Cross will respond by doing their part to the best of their abilities. Let's get organized and do the job better this time that we ever have before.

Prof. W. M. Devaughn, of Dalton, Ga., spent the week end in Clanton with relatives and friends.

PETITION BEING CIRCULATED REGARDING COUNTY AGENT

Following is a copy of petition being circulated over the county during the past week:

To the Hon. Judge of Probate and Members of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

Whereas, there was passed at the extra session of the 1936 Legislature a local bill for Chilton County, requesting the Court of County Commissioners to pay a minimum sum of $4,300.00 per annum for the expenses of a county agricultural agent, home demonstration agent, assistant county agricultural agent and other clerical assistants, which Local Act is found in General and Local Acts of Alabama, Extra-session of 1936, at page 21, and whereas, it is the opinion of the undersigned qualified voters of Chilton County that the question of salary as well as personnel and general supervision over the county agent's office should be under the jurisdiction of the Commissioners Court of the County, and that said Local Act should be repealed.

Therefore, we, the undersigned voters of Chilton County, hereby petition your body to call and make necessary provisions for a Referundum Election to be held at the General Election on November 8, 1938, at the usual voting places in the county by the same election officials to determine the question of the repeal of said Local Act in order that the Commissioners Court may have jurisdiction over the salary and personnel of county agent's office as the Commissioners Court had prior to the passage of said Local Bill.

We, the undersigned, petition your body, therefore, to call this Referundum Election in order that the sentiment of the people may be registered upon this question for the benefit of the State Senator and member of the Legslature:

The first teacher of violin when instruction in string instruments was introduced into the schools of Birmingham in 1915, Mr. Chamblee is one of those who is responsible for the foundation laid for the present music department of the city.

A student of the late Ovide Musin, founder of he Belgian Conservatory of Music, who was a pupil of Heinberg in the Conservatory of Liege, Mr. Chamblee has made a name for himself in the concert world and has been associated with some of the finest instructors of string instruments in the country.

BANNER TO HAVE NEW FARM SECTION

When a leading Alabamian stated recently that three-fourths of the people of the state live in the country and the other fourth live off the country he might have added more to it. He might have said that the progress of industry, of business, in fact, of all of us in the state depends upon the progress and well being of the Alabama farmers.

We need not point out the relation of industry or of business, including the business of putting out a newspaper, to the income of the farmers. We all know that when they succeed we succeed—when they don't have income for purchasing power we feel it immediately.

Therefore we are glad to announce that next week and once each month thereafter readers of the Union-Banner will obtain folded in their regular copy of this paper a tabloid farm supplement giving detailed farm, economic and home improvement information. This addition to the Union-Banner is not just for farmers—its for the housewife, the garden club, the business man and all people living in the town or country. We believe the city folks should and do want to see what the farmers are doing and to learn something about their work, their problems and their triumphs. This addition to the Union-Banner will give them that and more. The primary objective of this agricultural section, to be known as "This Month in Rural Alabama", is to assist farmers in increasing their income and that will be the policy that will guide it.

With better farms there is bound to be a better Alabama and we believe "This Month in Rural Alabama" will point the way to better farming and a greater income for our farmers. In addition, it will bring valuable information to all readers about cooking, food preserving, home improvement, gardening and clothing.

The Union-Banner is glad to bring to you next month something new in newspaper information — a detailed agricultural newspaper along with your regular copy of this paper. Look it over, read it, then give us your opinion of this new step in newspaper work. If you like it we would like to know it and if you don't — well we'ed like to know why.

What? A Hallowe'en party. Where? Basement of Clanton Methodist church. When? Friday night, October 28th. Time? Six to nine. Who? Everybody, of course.

COMMUNIST CHARGE MADE IN ALABAMA DPW

For the past several days there has been Senatorial investigations of alledged Communistic activities in the State government of Michigan, conducted by Senator Dyes of that State.

This week, something similiar has transpired right here in Alabama. It was charged Monday night in Birmingham by T. P. Williams, past president of the Pratt City Eagles, that the Public Welfare Department in Birmingham and over Alabama was dominated by Communists and other radical groups. Mr. Williams said that relief workers are being organized by the thousands into unions, adding that "very few in government relief work remain neutral, while others range from pink to red."

CITY TO GET WATER FROM YELLOWLEAF

All Attempts At Drilling A Well In City Have Been In Vain

Several attemps having failed to get sufficient water from wells, the City of Clanton this week definitely concluded to go to Yellow Leaf Creek and pump water here for the City's supply

Tests have been made on that stream a short distance below Double Bridges, and it is found that there is flowing there now, during as long a drowth as we usually have, 1,784 gallons per minute. This is much more than will be needed by Clanton in a number of years under normal growth.

The proposition is to build an electric pumping outfit at the above point on Yellow Leaf Creek, and extend an 8-inch supply pipe to the city, a distance of about four miles. A 400,000 gallon tank will be built near the present water works plant for storing the raw water coming directly from the stream. Improvements and additions will be made to the present filter plant and a 100,000 gallon tank will be erected in some part of the city for supplementing the present 60,000 gallon tank in holding the filtered water. The present 120,000 gallon reservoir will continue to be used, Mayor C. Fenn Jones says, all of which will give plenty of storage capacity for the city's needs.

All these improvements, which have been approved and the government's part of the money alloted, will cost in the aggregate, as estimated, $77,271.27. The federal government will grant 45 per cent of this amount and the city has already voted bonds for the part of its portion. Mayor Jones explains that the city will issue revenue bonds for the balance of its part.

Work will begin on the improvement within a few weeks, and the same pushed as rapidly as possible to completion.

At the present time there is a necessity of about 200 gallons of water per minute for the city. Plans in this project are to bring into the tanks and reservoirs 400 gallons per minute, and the 8-inch pipe to be installed could be made to bring in 1,000 gallons per minute with a pump of sufficient pressure.

This arrangement will set the City of Clanton pretty, so far as water is concerned, for many years to come. There is enough water flowing in Yellow Leaf Creek to supply a city nearly ten times as large as Clanton, and we will not likely grow that much in several years yet.

But it is necessary for something to be done about our water supply. Dry spells like the present run us too close for comfort, when it is dangerous about fires. Our city officials are looking to the future as well as the present need in bringing about this improvement and extension.

Goal Of 350 Set For Baptist S.S. Attendance

Effort Is Being Put Forth This Week To Swell Attendance

It is hoped and expected that the attendance at Clanton Baptist Sunday school next Sunday morning will reach the high mark of 350, and much personal work is being done this week to bring the attendance up to hat figure. A religious census of ehe city was taken last Sunday afternoon, which was intended as the nuclous for the attendance boost. A study course is in progress at the church every night this week, which it is also hoped will increase the attendance Sunday.

Everyone who is not attached to some other Sunday school is urgently requested to attend Clanton Baptist Sunday School next Sunday morning. If the number goes above three hundred fifty, so much the better; but let's see to it that it is not less

PRAY, SAY, HAVE WE HAD IT?

The Chilton County News, Democratic organ of Chilton county, in its issue of June 23, 1938, said editorially: "All Chilton county Democrats, which will include members of the county Democratic Executive Committee, law enforcement officers and county solicitor, have a problem facing them that they cannot ignore; and if these persons believe in fair play and a strict adherance to the rules, should call for an investigation of the kidnapped and missing absentee ballot box of the primary election of last June 14th. . . . . .

"Although continual reports of fraud, malconduct, vote buying and other flagrant violations, have been made and heard by this newspaper, it may be possible that the abduction of that absentee ballot box by six prominent citizens could have been an effort to call attention to this reported fraud; this newspaper cannot endorse such drastic steps as were taken by these six men. There must be a reason, and not only the Democrats of Chilton county but every citizen of the county has a right to know why this happened. We deserve a thorough investigation of this matter."

The Union-Banner openly and editorially commended our neighbor, The Chilton County News, for its bold stand against the abuses of the absentee voting privileges in Chilton county. We again wish to renew this commendation not only of The News, but of any citizen and all citizens—Democrats and Republicans alike—who have always stood four-square against corruption in any form in voting. There are hundreds upon hundreds of citizens in Chilton county who will never compromise on such matters.

But The Union-Banner must take this opportunity to ask this pertinent and important question right at this time: "Pray, have we had this much needed and thorough investigation, which responsibility, according to the above named Democratic newspaper, was incumbent upon the "law enforcement officers and county solicitor." The voters of Chilton county know who the law enforcement of Chilton county is in charge of, and they know who the county solicitor is. Is this not a rather stinging indictment upon these two officials of Chilton county?

Yes, by all means, we should have had this investigation; but have we had it? Not that this humble scribe has heard of.

Questions Asked By Voters Ignored By Officials

It seems that the questions propounded the Probate Judge and Commssioners Court by The Union-Banner last week, for the benefit and enlightenment of the tax-payers of Chilton county, have been ignored by the above named officials. Also those asked by Mr. Henly Moore for the Sheriff and County Solicitor to answer have gone by unnoticed.

Well, these county officials may ignore these questions, but this paper believes they are important to the tax payers of the county, and that the public has a right to a full explanation of the same. But if those in authority refuse an explanation, then the voters and tax payers of the county will just have to make up their own minds about the matters. There is an old adage that "silence gives consent."

Or maybe these county officials construe these things as matters that concern only themselves and not the business of the mere tax payers.

CHOOSE YE THIS DAY WHOM YOU WILL HAVE TO SERVE YOU

The next issue of The Union-Banner will tell you who has been elected to the various offices to be filled in Chilton county; there are only four more days to go before Tuesday, November 8th.

No new arguments are in this week's paper; rather we wish to remind the voters of a few things that have been said heretofore in this column. We hope that the voters of the county realize that whatever they vote upon themselves next Tuesday will determine the kind of government they will have in the county for the next four years.

The issues have been clearly defined, and the voters of the county know what there is at stake. We have tried both crowds, and we know first hand what both have done. That is not guess work; but rather we are going forward with our eyes wide open. Will we make our beds soft, or will we leave them hard?

Voters, please permit The Union-Banner to urge you to use your best judgement and vote your honest convictions in this election. Do not listen to this one or that one, who may have an axe to grind, but vote for your own interest and that of the county in general.

So, with these few lines of friendly admonition, we leave the matter in the hands of the voters of Chilton county, hoping that we will wisely and judiciously choose those whom we will have to serve us for the next four years.

OH, FOR THOSE GOOD OLD PROSPEROUS TIMES!

A good Republican friend of The Union-Banner showed us some old cotton and gin receipts which were received by a Chilton county farmer back thirty years ago. A gin receipt issued September 22, 1904, read: Ginning, $1.46; bagging, $.50; ties, $.25; total, $2.21. This bale was ginned by Joe Maddox; it was sold to W. I. Mullins, bringing 10.75; weight, 516; amount $53.28. This same farmer sold another bale to J. C. Jones on October 10, 1910 at 14.25; weight 452; amount $64.15.

Wouldn't some of this kind of cotton business feel fine in 1938?

FARM NOTES

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMMA

(By A. W. Jones)

Last week we began a discussion of the present farm program and a comparson of this program with the domestic allotment plan being advocated by certain interests to replace this present program. Today, I want to go further into this plan and try to show some of the weak points of this plan and what effect it will have on the Alabama farmers.

What are some of the arguments made in favor of the domestic allotment plan? Advocates of the so-called domestic allotment plan state that it would (1) assure "parity on the domestic consumption." That is parity price on that portion of the crop consumed in the United States and (2) regain our foreign markets.

It is claimed that the loss of our cotton exports is due to acreage control programs attempted in the South since 1933 and that the way to win back these exports is with unlimited cotton production and cheap prices. What is the truth with regard to this? There is very little, if any, evidence to show that productino control has caused any reduction in our exports of cotton. Cotton loans at levels above the world price have very likely resulted in some curtailment of our exports of cotton. The reduction in our exports of farm crops, which began in a big way prior to AAA, was one of the big reasons why Congress provided for production control in the AAA Act of 1933 and the AAA Act of 1938.

American agricultural exports have decreased since 1930 for several reasons:

(1) American tariff policies as set forth in the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act of 1930 have made it difficult for foreign countries to sell their products in this country and thus obtain money or credit with which to buy American goods, either agricultural or industrial.

(2) Foreign countries have sought to become agriculturally self-sufficient because of their fears of war, and therefore have erected trade barriers against the importation of American farm products. These barriers have taken the form of tariffs, embargoes, exchange control, and other measures.

(3) The United States is now a creditor, no longer a debtor nation, and foreign countries can pay their debts to this country only in the form of goods and services.

Because of the American and foreign restrictions on trade and the fact that the United States is now a creditor nation, foreign countries can buy American products only by (1) sending their own products to this country, selling them, and using the dollars received to buy American goods, (2) by sending gold to the United States, who already has more than one-half of all the gold in the world.

Only about six to seven million bales of our cotton are used each year in the United States. If we are to sell more, it must be sold to foreign mills. If we sell to other countries, we must buy their goods. Before 1930, the tariff restricted our foreign trade but the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act that year literally destroyed it. By passage of the Smoot-Hawley Act, we limited sales of foreign goods to consumers in the United States. Since foreign buyers could not sell us goods, they could not obtain dollars for use in buying our cotton. About the time the 1930 tariff act was passed, another thing happened which made a decline in our exports certain. After the World War, we lent huge sums of money to foreign borrowers and this money was used to buy our cotton and other exports. Foreign indebtedness to the United States, exclusive of war debts, increased from $4,500,000,000 in 1920 to $9,600,000,000 in 1930. Then we quit lending money abroad. Twa sources of American dollars to foreign buyers were thus entailed. We closed the gate and nailed a bar across it. The certainty resulted—foreign buyers took less of our cotton and other commodities. Our total exports shrank from $5,157,000,000 in 1929 to $1,647,000,000 in 1933.

The foreign trade, financial, debt, and credit policies of the United States is today one of the most vital factors in the welfare or Southern farmers and a subject on which they should be thoroughly familiar so that they would not be misled by advocates of a proposed farm plan that violates all sound thought with regard to foreign cotton sales, and betterment of living standards at home.

RESULTS OF LITTER CONTEST SUMMARIZED

Auburn, Ala. — Results of the ton litter hog feeding work in the State, a project climaxed by the recent Ton Litter Show at Montgomery, reveal some interesting facts about hog raising, says F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman, who is in charge of the project.

Here's the summary of the results: Number of litters qualified for show—28; Average number of pigs per litter—9.4; average age of hogs sold—189 days; average weight of hogs sold—199 pounds; average feed cost per 100 pounds pork (including feed for sow during suckling period—$4.18; average selling price for all hogs—$8.60.

Meat canning time is here again and the housewife will be interested in adding a variety of canned meats for winter meals, says Lavada Curtis, food preservation specilaist of the Alabama Extension Service, who offers Alabama housewives bulletins which give instructions for different kinds of meat canning. Interested persons are advised to write Miss Curtis at Auburn.

DOMESTIC ALLOTMENT WOULD HURT SOUTH

Auburn, Ala. — A. W. Jones, Alabama's AAA administative officer, said today that cotton farmers under a domestic allotment plan of growing cotton would be at a distinct disadvanage with other farmers of the United States. He based his staement on the export figures of the three main crops—wheat, corn and cotton.

The domestic allotment plan has been advocated by some to replace the present AAA program. Under this plan farmers would receive a subsidy payment on that cotton consumed here in the United States and would export cotton for whatever price it would bring in an attempt to compete with the low-priced cotton of other countries.

"For the past ten years about 43 per cent of our cotton has been consumed in the United States," Jones said. "For the same perod 99 per cent of the corn and 87 per cent of the wheat produced in this country has been consumed here. Therefore, it is easy to see that under a plan subsidy on domestically consumed products that corn and wheat farmers whose products are not exported to a great extent receive a great deal more in subsidy payments than would cotton farmers who consume less than half of the crop."

The argument made most frequently in favor of the domestic allotment plan is that it would give farmers parity prices for their domestically cotton, according to Jones, who said that Alabama farmers are already getting better than parity for their 1938 domestically consumed cotton under the present program.

"If the government benefit payments made to farmers for 1938 are added to the price of the cotton used in this country, the income on the 5,615,000 bales consumed in the United States is 17.9 cents per pound or 1.7 cents above the present parity price."

Less than one-third of the area of Alabama is being devoted to agriculture.

BERRIES WORTH $17,000,000 ARE MARKETED THRU CO-OPS

Cooperative packing and marketing associations owned and controlled by American berry growers sell fresh, canned and frozen berries of some dozen different varieties worth more than $17,000,000 a year. Such is the extent of this thriving phase of agricultural cooperation, as revealed by the nationwide survey of farmers' co-operatives conducted by the Farm Credit Administration's 12 district Banks for Cooperatives, in conjunction with 30 state colleges and universities.

There are 34 berry cooperatives in 29 states, handling principally strawberries and cranberries. Massachusetts, although one of the smallest of the berry states(handles by far the greatest volume of co-op berries, virtually all of which are that state's famous Cape Cod cranberries. The Bay State's cooperative berry output in 1936, the last year studied by the survey, totalled $4,259,000.

Louisiana, the nation's top-ranking cooperative strawberry state, is second in cooperative production, with a $1,503,000 volume of berries. Louisiana has ten berry co-ops joined in a federation, the Central Strawberry Cooperation Association, located at Hammond.

Other state production figures show New Jersey likewise over the million mark, with a $1,402,000 output, a large porportion of which is in cranberries which are marketed by cooperatives based in Pennsylvania.

Oregon's co-op output aggregated $995,000; Wisconsin shows a $747,000 production; Kentucky, $615,000; Washington, $496,000; California, $427,000; Arkansas, $424,000; Maryland, $416,000; and so on down through the 29 states having berry associations.

All but three of these 29 states have co-ops marketing the nation's No. 1 berry, the strawberry. In fact, strawberries aggregate a greater dollar volume than any other fruit, or any vegetable cooperatively handled in nine states — Louisiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois, Arkansas, and Connecticut. The strawberry co-ops may be found from Massachusetts to California, and from Washington to Florida. In all there are 125 cooperatives marketing strawberries fresh or processing them, handling a yearly volume of $7,607,000.

Cranberries are not far behind in the running, with a $6,154,000 volume, although throughout the country there are but ten associations marketing these berries so familiar on the Thanksgiving and Christmas festive boards. Yet these ten co-ops handle around two-thirds of the nation's total cranberry production. Over a 15-year period, the cooperatives' proportion of the total crop has fluctuated from around 60 per cent to as high as 75 per cent. Massachusetts accounts for about two-thirds of all the co-op cranberries, with Wisconsin and New Jersey producing the major portion of the remaining third. Oregon and Washington also have cranberry co-ops active.

Blueberries run a low third to strawberries and cranberries, with a production of close to $400,000. New Jersey handles cooperative blueberries worth $222,000, Maine puts out a $121,000 volume, and North Carolina and Massachusetts divide the remainder.

Of unusual interest in recent years, the freezing of a sizeable portion of the berry crop has found the berry cooperatives well up in the front ranks in frozen production. There are eight co-ops in Oregon, Washington and Michigan, freezing many million pounds annually of strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, youngberries, dewberries, loganberries, boysenberries, huckleberries, and gooseberries. The most active of the berry freezing co-ops are the Gresham Berry Growers, Inc., Gresham, Ore., and Washington Packers, Inc., Sumner. Wash.

Although its total production is modest in comparison with the leading states, Missouri has the greatest number of berry co-ops, 21 handling an annual output worth $376,000, all in strawberries. Massachusetts, despite its formidable lead in volume, has only five cooperative berry associations.

The country's berry co-ops have a net worth of $1,673,000. Their memberships total 22,545. Previous to 1,900 there were 11 berry associations active which are still operating, but the principal growth in the number of berry co-ops has been since 1920.

DAVIS NAMES NEW DEPARTMENT HEAD

Auburn, Ala. — Llye Brown, for the last eight years forester of Alabama Extension Service, has been appointcommercial horticulture specialist, effective November 1, announces P. O. Davis, director. Mr. Brown will work with agricultural workers and farmers in a movement to develop the commercial horticultural possibilities of the state.

He will make a study of all truck and fruit crops which might be adapted to sale and shipment and will advise and work with farmers in a program to plant, grow grade and pack sucessfully these products for state and outside markets. In other words, according to Mr. Davis, Brown will not devote hs time to the fere growing of the crops but will work equally as much in the marketing of them.

Brown was born and reared in Choctaw county. A graduate of Auburn in 1920 where he specialized in horticulture, he has served for two years as assistant horticulturist of the Alabama Extension Servce and the Alabama Experiment Station and for eight years was horticultural specialist of the Mississippi Extension Service. His successor as extension forester has not been named.

W. A. Ruffin, present horticulture and entomology specialist of the Extension Service, will continue to work on home gardens and orchards and insect control, according to Mr. Davis who says that the appointment of a commercial horticulture specialist is the inauguration of a four-point program for Alabama agriculture. The four points which the Extension Service will push are (1) production of more food to make farms self-sustaining; (2) increase the poultry and livestock side of farming; (3) additional cash crops should be grown where growing and marketing conditions are favorable; and (4) truck crops should be further developed in those sections adapted to this type of farming.

FOREST FIRE CONTROL AIDED BY LOCAL EFFORTS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 1. — Nearly all of the forest fires springing up at various points throughout the State during the current drought could be controlled easily if attacked after they start, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, State Forester. Practically all fires have their beginnings in the flame from a single match. Any landowner, or his employee or tenant, that sees a blaze start can extinguish it if prompt action is taken. If it is allowed to develop into a serious blaze, however, during the excessively dry season, it becomes a very serious matter. Watchfulness and agressive suppression work, of course, should be the rule about every farm and in every community during the present emergency.

The great majority of fires that have been causing so much recent trouble have been set illegally. The starting of a fire on one's own land without giving adjoining owners five days' written notice in davance is a misdemeanor in Alabama as is also negligence in permitting a fire to escape to the land of others. Wilful setting of fire to other people's land is a felony.

The Fords Tell Their Plans for 1939

IF WE KNEW anything better we could do for the country than make good motor cars, we would do it.

By every one doing his best in the job he thinks most useful, this country is going to regain its momentum. We have tried to do our best in our job.

When business was suddenly halted in its recovery more than a year ago, we determined that we should keep going anyway, if not at full-volume motor car production, then at getting ready for greater motor car values that would help future production.

EXPANDING FOR THE FUTURE

We began to build 34 million dollars' worth of new plants and equipment. We felt that if we could not employ all our men building motor cars, we would employ as many as we could building better production facilities.

We were told, of course, that this was no time for expansion, that a wiser business policy would be to "hold everything"—which means, stop everything. But no one ever got anywhere standing still.

Besides, we are not defeatists. We do not believe this country has seen its best days. We believe this country is yet in the infancy of its growth. We believe that every atom of faith invested in our Country and our People will be amply justified by the future. We believe America is just beginning. Never yet have our People seen real Prosperity. Never yet have we seen adequate Production. But we shall see it! That is the assurance in which we have built.

Business is not just coming back. It will have to be brought back. That is now becoming well understood in this country; for that reason 1939 will be a co-operative year. Manufacturers, sellers and buyers will co-operate to bring back the business that is waiting to be brought back.

This construction program is almost completed. It has increased activity and payrolls in a number of related industries. It has given us better facilities for building better cars and trucks, and eventually our new tractor which is being perfected.

THIS MEANS MORE VALUE

The current program has provided a new tire plant, which will turn out a part of our tire requirements . . . a new tool and die plant that will help us cut the cost of dies . . . and a steel-press plant that will enable us to make more of our own automobile bodies. These are in addition to the plants we already had for producing glass, iron, steel, plastics, and many other things.

We don't supply all our own needs, of course, and never expect to. The Ford engine is one thing that no one's hand touches but ours. Of nearly everything else we use we build some quantity ourselves, to find, if possible, better and more economical ways of doing it. The experience and knowledge we gain are freely shared with our suppliers, and with other industries.

We take no profit on anything we make for ourselves and sell to ourselves. Every operation, from the Ford ships which first bring iron ore to the Rouge, is figured at accurate cost. The only profit is on the finished result—the car or truck as it comes off the line. Some years, there is no profit for us. But we see to it that our customers always profit. A basic article of our business creed is that no sale is economically constructive unless it profits the buyer as much as or more than the seller.

Our new plants have helped us build more value into all our cars for 1939. That means more profit on the purchase to the purchaser.

We have not cut quality to reduce costs.

We simply will not build anything inferior.

NEW TESTING EQUIPMENT

While we were putting up new plants to produce cars, we constructed new equipment to test them. The first weather tunnel of its kind ever built for automobile research went into operation at our laboratories this year.

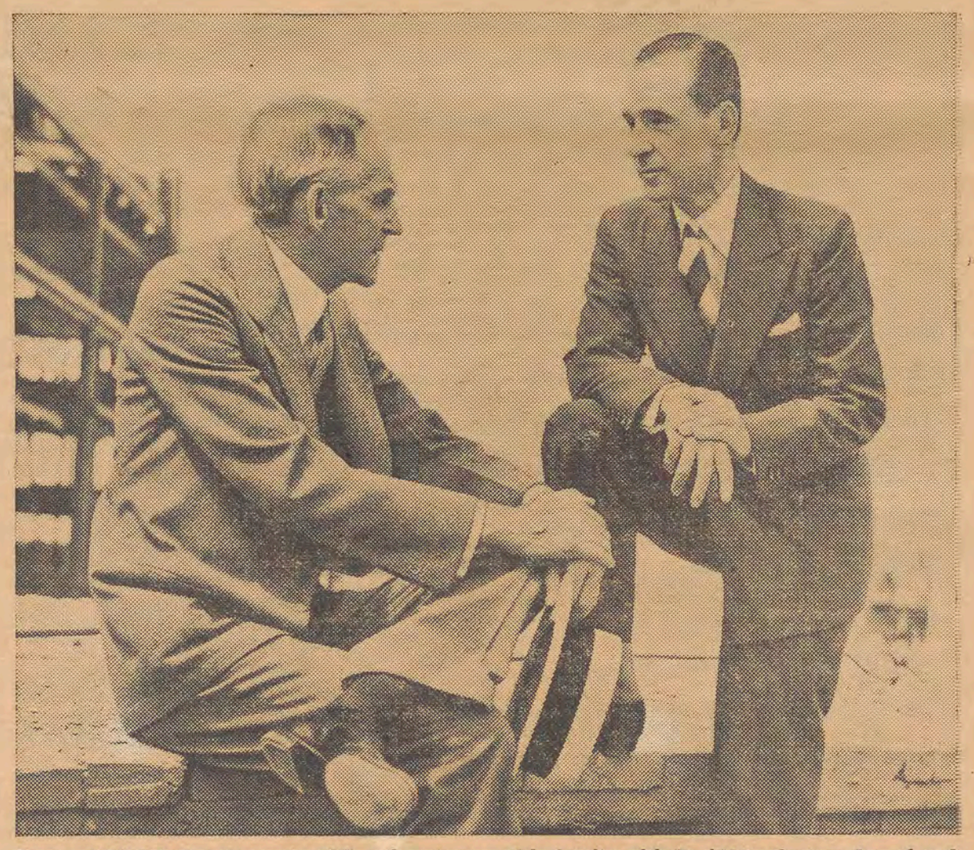
It makes any kind of weather to order. The weather it delivers every day would take months to find in Nature. Our cars are weather-tested to give you good service in any climate anywhere.

In other tests, every part of the car is punished unmercifully. Then our engineers tear it down to see if they can find abnormal wear or any sign of weakness.

The money we spend on tests saves you money on repairs. And your family car is safer and more dependable when we put it in your hands.

THE NEW CARS

We have two new Ford cars for 1939—better cars and better looking—but we also have an entirely new car.



It's called the Mercury 8. It fits into our line between the De Luxe Ford and the Lincoln-Zephyr. It is larger than the Ford, with 116-inch wheelbase, hydraulic brakes, and a new 95-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine.

We know that our 1939 cars are cars of good quality. We think they're fine values in their price classes.

With new cars, new plants, new equipment, the whole Ford organization is geared to go forward.

CITIZEN WRITES FROM BEAT 13

Editor Union-Banner:

Please permit me space in your paper for a few words. I really enjoyed reading the letters in the paper of Mr. Sanders and Mr. Abbott. I say hurrah for them and the ticket that the old elephant stepped on the top of. I will be 80 years old next Friday—have been here through two wars, but have never seen such hard times for all the farmers in general as we are now having. I sold one bale of cotton in 1937; they said take the bill to the county agent's office and I would get three cents more on the pound. I did what they told me, but I have not heard anything of the other three cents yet.

We read in Rev. 21:8 that all liars have their part in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone. This is the second death. So I say if there ever was a time we need straight, truthful men in office it is now.

Brother, sister, friend or foe, stop, look and listen to the signal whistle blowing. Do not be fooled, but go to the polls and make one cross mark under the G. O. P. and get on the big elephant; he is able to carry the load. The little bantam rooster is just not able to take it,he is like the Irishman's owl, all fuzzed up and nothing but feathers. Yours for an honest election.—A. E. Glasscock, Route 1, Calera, Ala.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our relatives and friends for their deeds of kindness and love, words of sympathy and for the beautiful floral offerings; also to the Liberty Hill quartet, in our recent great sorrow and the loss of our loved one, Carl M. Culpepper.

May God's richest blessings rest on each one of you.—The Family.

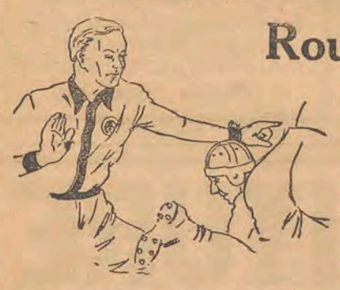
MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE



No. 7 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

Rough Stuff

IN A football game, it's the referee's job to keep the game going smoothly and to prevent, so far as possible, "rough stuff" from developing.

In the operation of a dependable electric light and power system, such as that of Alabama Power Company, it's impossible to have a referee who can prevent Nature's "rough stuff," but the referee can prevent the "rough stuff" from causing more than a temporary interference with the smooth and dependable flow of electric service.

In this business we call that referee the "oil circuit breaker," one of which you see in the picture. The oil circuit breaker is the aristocrat of the same family to which the ordinary fuse in your home belongs. Should "rough stuff" develop in your household wiring from some cause, the fuse "blows out" and thus warns you that an abnormal condition exists and prevents damage from that condition. When Nature starts her "rough stuff," the oil circuit breaker—whose mechanism automatically opens connections submerged in oil—cuts off the circuit and "stops the game" until the abnormal condition can be eliminated.

The oil circuit breaker in the picture is capable of stopping 2 million horsepower of "rough stuff" in about 1/6 of a second! On Alabama Power Company lines are thousands of oil circuit breakers of various sizes to help keep your electric service dependable. They are among the many other marvels which private industry has developed to make electric service cheap and dependable without the aid of extravagant tax-eating "emergency" governmental grants and subsidies.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Lesson for November 6

HONORING OUR PARENTS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:12; Luke 2: 46-52; John 19:26, 27; Ephesians 6:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.—Exodus 20:12.

The splendid obedience of parents to their children has been pointed out as one of the remarkable developments of modern life. No, we have not made a mistake in writing or in typesetting. We mean just what we say—the obedience of parents to their children. In all too many homes God's order has been reversed and instead of honoring and obeying their parents, children (both young and old) have taken the place of "boss," and mother and father must obey if they want peace and rest.

The need for our lesson of today is both great and acute. The future happiness of hundreds of thousands of children (Eph. 6:3) and the present welfare of thousands of neglected and boss-ridden parents will depend on the intelligence and faithfulness with which this lesson is taught in our churches, and the honesty of heart with which men and women study and receive its truth.

I. The Command of God (Exod. 20:12).

The first and most important consideration to come before us is—what is the mind and will of the Maker of us all regarding this matter of the relation between parents and children? His words are plain—we are to "honor" our fathers and our mothers.

The word "honor" carries with it a great many things, but perhaps the three outstanding elements are respect, obedience, and affection. We should look up to them with high regard, obey them as long as they have the authority over us, and show true affection for them.

II. The Example of Jesus (Luke 2:46-52).

The fact that Jesus was God manifest in the flesh only enhances the glory of His conduct. He who is divine presents an example of obedience and consideration both as boy and man which we do well to emulate.

1. As a boy (Luke 2:46-52). The boy Jesus, increasing "in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," (v. 52) had come to His twelfth year and with His parents had gone up to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover. There moved in His heart the conviction that He must now be about His Father's business—an altogether proper and commendable purpose but one which resulted for the moment in separation from His parents. This was far more serious than a physical separation, for we read that they did not understand Him (v. 50). Tragic indeed are the consequences of our failure to understand our children. Notice, however, that Jesus did not withdraw Himself from their watch care, nor refuse to obey them even though they failed to understand Him. Equally tragic are the results of hasty and bitter separations brought about by the disobedience of children.

2. As a man (John 19:26, 27). The value of our lesson will be greatly reduced if we see only the responsibility of children while they are young. We are the children of our parents as long as we and they live. Being grown up and having a family of one's own does not relieve one of the precious responsibility of care for one's parents. Jesus was dying on the cross, His brethren apparently still regarded Him in unbelief, and His mother now needed a son to care for her. Even in His dying agony Jesus remembers to commit her to the care of His beloved disciple, John. One marvels at the carelessness and hardness of heart that will permit men and women who have time and money for everything else and yet will neglect their aged parents and even shunt them off into a public institution for care. Notice the promise that accompanies the command of God (Exod. 20:12; Eph. 6:3). If that is the reward of those who do right, what do you think will be the punishment of those who disobey God?

III. The Admonition of Paul (Eph. 6:1-4).

This matter of honoring and obeying parents "is right," says Paul. It is the Lord's way. Only if parents command their children to do wickedness would there be ground for disobedience to parents. Apart from such circumstances every parent has the right to expect the child's obedience.

There is tremendously important truth on the other side of the picture. Parents are not to provoke their children to anger, to disrespect or disobedience. How much we need God's grace at that point. It is so easy to say and do things that needlessly irritate our children. It is so convenient to nag at a careless child. Often we expect more of them than their age will justify. We are apt to punish them in a spirit of anger or revenge and thus to destroy the value of discipline. May God help us, who are parents, that we may take to heart this part of our lesson. Our children are our most valuable possession.

J. E. COBB WRITES ON THE COMING ELECTION

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me to express through your paper my sincere thanks and appreciation to the voters for all they have done for me in the past, and to say a few words in regard to the coming election.

I feel that this is one of the most important elections in regard to the county that has ever been held. We are either going to the polls and elect stalwart Republicans, which I believe will make our county government much better, or continue in the same old rut that we have been in for the past four years.

When I announced for Commissioner for the 1st district, I realized the responsibility a commissioner has, but with former experience I feel that I will be competent to serve the people in a manner which will build up our county. If elected I will do all I can to bring about changes which will benefit our taxpayers.

The future destiny of our county, financially rests on the shoulder of the commissioners to be elected now and later. We should consider this point very seriously, because as we all know they have the authority to spend and handle the people's money. They, alone, are the ones responsible for the financial standing of our county, and it is my purpose to spend the county's money in such a way as to receive full value for every dollar spent, and to divide it as much so as possible among all people of the county. I realize that the county funds are paid in by citizens from all parts of the county and I think that so far as possible they should receive the benefits, even when they live in out-of-the-way places, and that their roads should be made passable at all times.

I feel that the Republican ballot is made up of men quite capable of the position they are asking for, and if elected will be an honor to Chilton county; so let me insist that every Republican do all that is possible to elect every man under the Big Elephant.

I am taking this means to thank every one for their support and interest in the general election, because it has been impossible for me to see all the voters of the county. If elected I will do my best to serve the citizens of Chilton county in a manner that will be a credit to the Republican Party.

Thanking you for all past favors, I am yours for a bigger and better county, and a square deal to all tax payers.—Joe E. Cobb.

I leave my case in your hands for your honest and conscientious disposition in next Tuesday,

Sincerely,

RASCOE MADDOX WRITES TO VOTERS OF CHILTON

To The Voters of Chilton County:

During the past few weeks I have been conducting my campaign by trying to become better acquainted with you. I have not exerted any pressure to get you to vote for me. My idea has been that you voters, after seeing and hearing a candidate, ought to be free to make your choice.

In an effort to influence your choice I have not made any promises of special favors to any individuals or communities. I have made no deals with anyone. I have told you that I do not propose to employ relatives. I have promised to use the training and experience I have gained over a period of thirty years as a student and teacher to promote the educational interests of this county.

While I shall try to be progressive and efficient if elected, I believe every good movement to be effective must come from the people up and not from the top down. The first practice is democracy; the other dictatorship. So long as the people concerned desire it they should have a choice in the selection of bus drivers and teachers. I am in favor of retaining the local school trustees. There should be no discrimination against teachers because of their state of matrimony or because they did not vote for the winner. Neither should there be any reprisals upon bus drivers for voting as they please.

Much needs to be done in this county in the way of better buildings, busses, equipment and salaries. I believe that regardless of who is elected superintendent, this county will get all the money it is entitled to. I guarantee that if I am your superintendent I will see that the money is spent for the best interests of all the children of all the people and not one cent for the advancement of the political fortunes of myself and my friends.

I stand for honest, fair, efficient, and progressive administration of Chilton County's school affairs. I shall appreciate your vote and influence.

To The Voters of Chilton County:

As a Republican candidate for the office of Tax Collector, I desire to take this method of thanking my many friends in Chilton county for their loyal support in my race for the office of Tax Collector. To you and those whom I have been unable to see personally, I desire to state, if you see fit to cast your vote and influence for me, that it will be greatly appreciated and I will endeavor to make you one of the best Tax Collectors you have ever had in Chilton county. We all realize the importance of this official trust and at all times during my term of office, the tax payers of Chilton county will receive efficient and courteous treatment.

I was born and reared in Chilton county and know most of its citizenship personally, and I am, indeed, grateful for the loyal support and encouragement that I have received at your hands in this, my first political undertaking.

CRIPPLE CHILDREN CLINIC PLANNED

A diagnostic clinic to serve Chilton and several of the neighboring counties has been scheduled for Clanton on November 11th by the crippled Children Association, according to an announcement made by the local health department early this week. The approval was given to the clinic by the County Medical Society at its meeting in September, it was revealed by the county health officer. Quarters for the clinic are being furnished by the local department of Education, which has been arranged for the use of the vocational building of the Chilton County High School for this purpose. About 26 crippled children from Chilton County are scheduled to attend the clinic either to receive check-ups following treatment or to be admitted for diagnosis. Dr. Marcus Skinner of Selma, Alabama, Orthopedic surgeon, will serve clinician. A special effort is being made according to local health offiials to have local practitioners visit the clinic and participate more actively in the crippled children's program.

Included in this week's health department news bulletin was a report of a tuberculosis x-ray held last week in the office of the local health department at which 44 Chilton countians suspected of having tubercu'osis received free Chest x-rays. The chest clinic, visiting Chilton County every six months, is held solely for the purpose of discovering cases of tuberculosis and constitutes a formidable weapon in the local fight against tuberculosis. An effort is being made to strengthen the local enti-tuberculosis program by the health department which is bringing this problem to the attention of the County Commissioners and requesting a local appropriation to assist Chilton countians who lack the funds to gain entrance to neighboring County sanatoria for treatment.

CLANTON MTHODIST CHURCH

Last week checking our Sunday School record, we were afraid Our Lord was frowning on the results of our work for our church, but this week we feel that he is looking kindly on us with one of his Heavenly smiles saying, well done, because some one has, and some ones have been busy about our Lord's work in our church and Sunday School. We had a high mark to reach last Sunday in order to match in numbers the Suday just a year ago. Not only did we reach the high mark, but we wtnt over the top of that mark with a total of twenty four more in attendance last Sunday that of the same Sunday a year ago. A number of our regular members were absent, and now we pust urge that every one who came last Sunday return next Sunday with others, and we shall in that way soon have reached the goal we wish th reach. God calls us to work in His Kingdom, and with all His Great Heart He wants to say to us the words of Mathew 25: 21, 23, and 24. Right now he begs us to be about His business. May we continue the worn of those workers who brought our attendance last Sunday. and thus build our good church and all its services up to the ideal ask-for by our God.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 AM, preaching services at 11:00 AM, and 7:00 PM. Let's attend, worship, bring others and receive blessings, while building Our Lord's Kingdom.

Dewey Rockett Writes To Chilton County Voters

To The Voters of Chilton County:

In my appeal to the voters before the primary, I told the Republican voters of the County that if I was nominated that I would do all I honorably could to get elected and would stay on the firing line until the last vote was counted. I have interviewed every voter in the county which time would permit and to those of you whom I have not seen personally, please take this letter as my personal appeal to you, and I have tried to keep my campaign free from mud slinging or engaging in personalities, but strictly in an honorable manner both to myself and to the Republican party.

To all the voters of Chilton county, regardless of your party affiliations, I want to say that I have had considerable experience under my father in the office of Tax Collector and this has given me a fair knowledge of the duties of the Tax Assessor's office and I have had considerable business experience otherwise which I submit to you, qualifies me for this office and if elected I believe can go into the office, giving you good service for the next four years and treat you fairly and courteousely with every consideration and right under the law which you are entitled to regardless of what your past or present party affiliations may be.

I invite any voter who is not personally acquainted with me to investigaqte my past business and personal life. I intend to give every minute of my time from now until the election polls close, but my success at the polls in the end depends upon the voters, and let me urge every voter to put all the time possible on the election and I believe if we will all do our part that we will roll up a big majority for our ticket on next Tuesday.

Respectfully,
DEWEY ROCKETT.

G. O. P. IN STATE PUSHES CAMPAIGN

Republican Party's Program Moves Into High Gear For Election

With less than three weeks to go before election day, the Alabama Republican Party's revitalization program is moving into high gear, according to J. G. Bass, former Birmingham postmaster and chairman of the state campaign.

The big Republican drive is being launched in normally Democratc counties, although the state's Republican strongholds are not being overlooked, Mr. Bass declared. In every section of the state pleas that the way to establish economic recovery is to elect Republicians are being sounded.

Oratorical fireworks of the final period will be set off next week when some prominent Republican chosen by the campaign committee will make a state broadcast.

Predicting that the party will poll nearly 60,000 votes, Mr. Bass said it appeared likely that more Republicans would be elected to county offices over the state than ever before. Some counties—like Winston—will go completely Republican, Mr. Bass predicted.

The Jefferson county Republican campaign has been especially active under the direction of Homer A. Jackson, county campaign manager. A full slate of candidates will appear on the general election ballots for the first time in a number of years. Mr. Bass is opposing Democrat-incumbent Luther Patrick for Congress.

Election actvity was placed in high tempo by the visit here this year of two nationally noted Republicans. The first visitor was John D. M. Hamilton, national G. O. P. chieftian, and the second Representative Dewey Short, of Missouri.

NOTHING GAINED

Bureau of Agricultureal Economics announces the purchasing power of the farm dollar is six per cent greater this year than last. Probably the first excepiton noted will take form of a complaint that it takes more of the farmer's dollars to pay his taxes in 1938 than it did in 1937. — New Orleans Times-Picayune.

TWO PRICES

The motto of Secretary Wallace of the Agriculture Department at Washington seems to be "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." It will be admitted by even the most ardent proponents of the AAA that Mr. Wallace's trials up to this time have not been crowned with an overwhelming amount of success. Slaughtering and plowing under brought a national shortage and a tremendous increase in foreign production and imports. And the prices of wheat and corn now are at distressing levels. Senator Wheeler, returning from Montana, reports that it cost a farmer out there a bushel of wheat to get two leaves of bread—the wheat brought him only 30 cents a bushel and the bread cost him 15 cents a loaf.

But Mr. Wallace, being a true visionary, is not discouraged. The latest scheme is the "two price" plan. Instead of dumping our grain abroad, to upset the world prices and bring about retaliation from foreign nations we are going to dump our surplus commodities at home. Those on relief and those unable to buy enough to eat to get provisions from the surplus crops at reduced prices and the government will make up the difference in cost. It sounds good—but so does the story of the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

The two price scheme will be beset with many difficulties. It is scarcely necessary to point them out to the thinking man. First comes the problem of manufacturing the raw materials from surplus commodities and passing them on to the submerged one-third at a fair price. Again comes a more difficult problem—that of seeing to it that only those who are entitled to bargain prices will get the bargain prices. How is Mr. Wallace going to keep up the man who has a few dollars more than the required minimum from helping himself to the surplus commodities if he has the money to buy? Are we going to have a nation-wide card index system with an army of income inspectors traveling out of Washington, searching the highways and by-ways and finding out who is entitled to the benefits of the lower price? Of course this system might provide jobs for a few more thousand willing New Deal admirers, but even at that, whether it would work satisfactorily is doubtful. Then, of course, there is the question of maintaining two separate and distinct prices, one for those able to buy on their own and those only able to buy with government help. The whole problem looks like an intricate one. It will take all of Mr. Wallace's ingenuity to solve it. And let us hope that the solution will be more satisfactory than it has been with the case of agricultural problems in the past.

COMING ELECTIONS VITAL

The election this year will be one of the most vital in the history of the nation, despite the fact that an off-year election generally is not regarded as very important.

It will be vital because it will determine to a major extent, whether one of the great principles of the Constitution is to be maintained. The one great issue is the separation of powers. — Syracuse Post-Standard.

The financial experts disagree on how big a debt burden the country can stand before there is a collapse. But they generally agree that no matter what the size may be we are going to get it.

PASSING THE BUCK

Settlement of the war debts owed by European nations to the United States may be passed o nto the next generation, just as our problems of taxation and finance are being passed to the future, according to ideas now being advanced by some of our statesmen. One suggestion, recently made by Senator Lewis, of Illinois, according to the press, is that a long term funding plan be adopted. Under the plan, bonds of small term denominations would be issued by the European governments, turned over to our government, and the bonds then sold by Washington to the small investors in the United States at a discount. The bonds could then be held by the purchasers as an investment for their heirs.

The plan may sound ingenious on first thought but it is not without holes. In the first place our people who bought the bonds would be raising the money through which Europe would pay its war devts. In other words, we would be furnishing the money to pay ourselves. The problem of collecting this new loan would be put up to our children and their children, just as we are now putting up to them our rapidly groying national debt.

It is difficult to see how we would bain much by such a transaction. On the other hand the European governments who "settled" their debts by turning more bonds over to us, would benefit a great deal. Having apparently wiped out their debt to Uncle Sam they would be in position to borrow more money from us for powder and shot in future wars. It would be a nice way to get around the Johnson Act which now forbids our lending money to defaulting nations.

It is said to be impractical now that the debtor nations pay us with gold. Maybe this is true, but we have a right to be suspicious. European nations seem to have plenty of money for war preparations. France some time ago loaned to the Czechs several million francs to erect fortifications along the border to keep th eGermans out of the Sudeten land. Hitler has gained possession of these valuable fortifications intact without firing a single shot. If the joke is on anybody in this particular case it may be on us, because France was too poor to pay Uncle Sam anything on account while spending these millions in Central Europe. The joke will probably be on us again if we permit Europe to "pay" its obligations with baby bonds to be passed on ti our own people, and thus clear the way for more war loans abroad.

PRICE OF PEACE

Let no man say that too high a price has been paid for peace in Europe until he has searched his soul and found himself willing to risk in war the lives of those who are nearest and dearest to him. Let no man say that it would have been better to resist, and to fight it out, "now rather than later," unless he himself yould have given the order that would have sent young men marching into the dreary hell of war. Let no man say that the statesmen of Britain and France were outtraded in the bargain they have struck, until he has attempted to add the total of the price they might have had to pay for any other settlement than the one which they have taken —the price in death and destruction spread across the face of Europe; in whole cities laid waste by high explosives and seared with poison gas; in broken and mangled bodies of women and their children; in the unleashing of passion which modern war imposes on the resources of all nations, vistors as well as vanquished; in the risks it holds for the kind of civilization we enjoy; perhaps in the complete collapse of that civilization over a large part of Europe. — New York Times.

FORGOTTEN PROMISE

In January of this year, in his budget message to the Congress, President Roosevelt said that as a result of such treasury operations as investing in special security issues somewhat more than a billion dollars representing old age, government and railroad retirement and unemployment compensation funds, "the treasury financing for the fiscal year 1939 would be confined to refunding maturing obligations." In June, at the President's behest, the Congress passed a multi-billion pump-priming and work-relief appropriation measure. In September, the treasury announces, as of yesterday, the borrowing of $700,000,000 in "new money."

Such is the difference that a little more than eight months makes in the "planned economy" at just one angle. The treasury secretary's explanation suggests that the sum now to be borrowed may represent about one-third of such operations to finance the year's deficit. As a result of the borrowing now announced, the visible federal debt will amount to approximately $38,328,000,000, the newest of high peaks. — New Haven Register.

TO CONTINUE PURGE

Those Washington newspapermen who are closest to the White House and New Deal report that, despite Jim Farley's efforts to ring down the curtain on the purge episode, President Roosevelt has neither forgiven nor forgotten, but will continue his efforts to drive from public life all Democrats who disagree with him.

Jay Franklin, the columnist, who is regarded as the mouthpiece for the New Deal, after the recent primaries asserted that "the 'purge' is not confined to 1938 and does not represent Mr. Roosevelt's personal dislike of individual tory politicians. It is the contiuation of the liberalizing process which began in 1932 and will continue in 1940, 1942 and even beyond."

Robert S. Allen and Drew Pearson, authors of the Washington Merry-go-around column, have this to say:

"There is a big shock in store for Democratic politicos in all purge states.

"They have been impatiently looking forward to the completion of the primaries in September as the end of the White House's purging operations. Once the primaries were out of the way the boys figured all would be forgiven and forgotten and they would be welcomed back as good Democrats once more.

"Well, they are mistaken.

"The finish of the primaries will not finish the purge. It will be the start of a new and much tougher one. From then on the President intends to move in on the patronage office-holders who, as one White House intimate expresses it, have been 'biting the hand that feeds them."—Ansonia Sentinel.

Advertiser Moves Into New Laboratory

The picture shown above was sent to us a few days ago and interested us so much that we are passing it on to our readers, who have been seeing advertisements of Dr. Miles Products in our paper for many years.

This new building is the last word in modern construction. It is three stories high, of reinforced concrete, pressed brick and glass brick construction. Each floor contains nearly 100,000 sbuare feet of space. Natural light is admitted by the glass brick of which there are more than 15,000, each 8 inches square in the outside walls. Artifical light is indirect and as nearly as possiable like natural daylight.

The new building is air conditioned throughtout, air conditioning having proved much value in improving the quality of Dr. Miles Products. Indeed, without air conditioning, controlled to the first degree, it would be impossiable to manufacture some of Dr. Miles medicines.

The laboratories are the last word in scientific equipment and are in charge of specialists who devote their entire time to analyzing the ingredients used in Dr. Miles remedies and the finished remedies. Much space in this building is devoted to throughly modern experimenaal ladoratories in which renowned chemists constantely strive to perfect methods of improving Dr. Miles' remedies.

Weekly Newspapers Have Been An Important Factor In Our Growth

A letter received from the Advertising Manager of Miles Laboratories, Inc., says: Your paper and a thousand more weekly newspapers have been an impartant part in the growth of our company. Weekly newspapers were one of the first mediums we used to tell the public about Miles Remedies. We have been using them consistently for more than 50 years.

When our readers see Alka-Seltzer, Nervine, or Anti-Pain Pills advertised in these columns, we are sure they will be glad to know that these products are made in such a modern laboratory and under such rigid sanitary conditions.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

I think it is true those charged with the enforcement of the law and the preservation of human life and the avoidance of accidents realize the extreme necessity for careful and intellgent driving of motor propelled vehicles whether automobiles, trucks or buses, along and across our public roads and city streets and especially our paved highways.

Judging from the mounting casualties resulting in death or serious permanent injury those who have charge of the wheel of the automobile, truck or bus are not giving to their important position the care and caution suggested by safety for themselves and those who are walking or riding n horse-drawn vehicles.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Reading a tar a certian age diverts the mind too much from its creative pursuits. Any man who reads too much and uses his own brain too little falls into lazy habits of thinking." That was said by Einstein. The writer believes in borrowing brain whenever possiable. I would not go to Einstein for Christian or theological information. I tell the boys and girls in the Bob Jones College to go to the proper source for advice. I would not ask a man who has never been out of New York City, and who says "opossum", how to catch one of them. I would ask a man in the country who owns a cur dog and who says possum. When Einstein says something about thinking, I listen because I know that he knows something about that subject. He is probably the greatest "natural" (not spiritual) thinker of the day. In my observations as I have gone into many parts of the world I have noted that very few people ever think. This is the day of crowded schools, colleges and universites. It is a day of books, magazines, and newspapers. Daily information of all kinds is given to millions of people over the radios. It is a time of much knowlege and much information. The average man has a better idea of what is going on in the world than he has had at any other time in the history of the race But men are not thinking. Why? In the first place they have so little time to think. It is the day of the doer. People are spending their time running hither and yon. They are driving themselves to their graves, by way of heart trouble. in an efforts to keep up with a rapid moving world. If they would stop to think they would know that should they cach up with the world and get on top of it, it would be moving so fast toward ruin that they would not even dare to think of their peril. Maybe that is the rub. Men do not think because they are a fraid o do it. It occurs to the whiter that all this wild modern excitement is an effort of men to drown their fears in a sea of forgetfulness. I really haven't the heart to advise men who are not Christians and who have firmly resolved to never become Chdistians to sit down each day and think quietly for an hour. To do this. if a man is determined to live and die without accepting Christ as a personal savior, would drive him to despair. To you who are Christians, let me suggest that you get alone with God for quiet fellowship daily Think His thoughts after Him. Think over His promises given to you as Christians. Think of the conditions of the world as it moves rapidly into its night of uncertainty and gloom. Think of God's prophecy which is history prewritten.. Of course, you will wish to take time for quiet and private prayer and Bible reading. That must not be neglected. But I am not talking about a daily time of just quiet thinking. Just relax. Just let go. Just sit and think. Very few of us have ever digested what we have heard & read. That is one thing the matter with American youth. They are stuffed with a lo of information and half baked facts which they have never assimilated. Christians may stuffed with a lot of information until they have become "religious gout". God help us to think. Remember the Bible says. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Well that is what I am talking about. We need to take time to think in our hearts.

WEST CHILTON

The people over here are ready to vote on November 8th, and we believe are ready to vote for better government.

The trend of our time is toward lawlessness. So one of the best things we can do is to place in office honest law abiding, and order loving men.

The question to be settled on November 8th has a moral side to it, and all the good people of our county are interested in good morals. Then see to it that our votes are cast for moral men. To vote otherwise would be aiding the cause of immorality which includes vote selling, vote buying, intemperance, trickery, and on occount of financial conditions, forcing men to vote against their wishes or lose a job; changing of votes after they are cast, fraudulent absentee voting, last minute injurious reports against candidates.

Let us stand unted against all such un-American, undemocratic immoral practices, and eliminate all such old time "Black Belt" methods from our county so the people may again rule. We can do this if we want to—it is up to us.

Consider all the candidates, and we think you will find the Republican nominees as fine a set of men as has ever been presented to the voters of this county; real gentlemen, sober men, men who stand for good morals, well qualified to do our work, loyal to the party of Lincoln.

Support such men, and thus aid in eliminating vote buying and vote selling.

We appreciate all good people to join us in this worthy effort to have better government.

Percy M. Pitts Gives Final Appeal To Voters Of County

To The Voters of Chilton County:

As Republican candidate, I would like for the voters of Chilton County to know my position with reference some of the vital issues that will apparently, confront Chilton county's Representative in the next Legislature.

Local Legislation

(1) In reply to The Union-Banner editorial, I will not advocate the repeal of the present local law requiring the Commissioners Court to advertise for bids on purchases amounting to $150.00 or over. Further I will oppose any attempt to abolish this law. Both the Federal Government, and State Government and practically all major corporations have adopted this method of buying supplies and I believe that it is a protection to the tax-payers and it is sound economy, not only in this county but elsewhere.

I will introduce a bill to Repeal the Road Supervisor Law, and place our roads back into the hands of our Commissioners Court who in return are directly responsible to the voters.

I will oppose any local legislation designed to abolish any office, and creating another similiar office to be filled by appointment. I believe, as is evidenced by my past record as your Representative in the past Legislature, that all officers who serve the public in Chilton County, should be elected at the polls by those whom they are to serve. The conduct and actions of our officials should be accountable to the electors of this county, and not to some appointive power, either at our State or National Capitol. My first real local fight during the 1927 legislature was to defeat a bill passed in our State by our Senator Ellis, to abolish our Commissioners Court during the Administration of Judge L. H. Reynolds, and to have the members of this Board appointed by the Governor. With the assistance of my Democratic friends in the House this bill was defeated in the House by a vote fo three to one.

Taxation

(2) According to The Birmingham News of October 30, 1938, the flow of taxes into the State's coffers during the fiscal year ending September 30, reached the unprecedented total of $90,819,759.37, but even so, gross disbursement for the year exceeded that amount by nearly $4,000,000. The State income has been doubled in the last few years and yet many are saying the states revenue is insufficient. Our pepole are over taxed. What we need is some practical economy, and our revenue will be more than sufficient to carry on the functions of our State.

Prohibition

(3) The voters of Chilton county have spoken in a recent election and have voted approximately two to one in favor of Prohibition and a dry county. If elected as your representative I will govern myself accordingly, as my past Legislative record shows—dry.

Education

(4) I am for the proposed bill giving the teachers a retirement pay after having given the best that is in them for a number of years to instructing our youth. The railroads and other like corporations use this method of rewarding their aged and faithful and I know of no reason why the great State of Alabama should not likewise reward those who have been faithful in spite of the small compensation that they have received for instructing our youth. I will vote and work for a full term school for every boy and girl in this County and State.

Elections

(5) Conditions which have existed, particularly in the past few monhts, in Chilton county pertaining to election frauds, convinces me that our election laws should be amended and the people be given an opportunity to get a fair, equitable election. With the Asbentee Ballot Law on the statute books, very likely, this is impossible, especially when those in authority handling the absentee ballots are interested in any party or parties seeking nomination or election. I do not believe that there is any loyal Chilton county citizen who does not regret the recent unfavorable publicity that our county received in past months. Much public sentiment over the state is for repealing the Absentee Ballot and, I, personally will work for the repealing of this law, together with other ammendments to the election laws, making it possible to cast a secret ballot, and ohterwise strengthening our election laws.

I am grateful to my many friends who have given me their encouragement in this race, and I trust that they will continue to assist me with their vote and influence. Never before have the voters of Chilton county had more cause to support the Republican ticket. Our Democratic friends have spent most of the past four years of their administration in Chilton county dealing with inter-party differences among themselves, at the expense of the over-taxed citizenship. I realize the importance of the office that I am seeking at the hands of the voters; however if I am your choice on November 8th, I will go to the State Capitol as one who is anxious to be a true representative of all the people and not any special interests.

Again thanking you for your continued support and regretting that I have been unable to see all the voters personally, I am,

Gratefully yours,
PERCY M. PITTS.

Farm families selling at 15 curb markets operating in Alabama during September received $29,799.46 for their products. This brings the total amount received for products sold on the markets thus far in 1938 to $280,936.06, says Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent.

PRESSING IMPORTANT IN CLOTHING CARE

Auburn, Ala. — Many garments can be revived by pressing with care, Catherine Haynes, Extension clothing specialist, advises.

The shine from a garment can often be removed by following these simple steps: steam and brush garments, sponge with alcohol, sponge with ammonia, then with alcohol. Alcohol sponge brightens black or other dark-colored silks. Mix two tablespoonsful of alcohol in one cup of boiling water. Allow to cool. Sponge garment and press.

When pressing wool turn on wrong side, dampen cloth, squeeze, place damp cloth on material, gently rest iron on wet cloth, moving as steam rises. Never rest full weight of iron on material because it will leave slick spots and imprints of the iron.

Silk garments should be turned on wrong side. Wet cloth, squeeze out, and hang on line until almost dry. Place on material and proceed as in pressing wool.

When steaming with hot iron place iron on edn, then place a wet towel over the iron, place wrong side of the pile fabric on wet cloth; move fabric and cloth about, steaming necessary parts. Pile fabrics such as velvet, plush, and coating material should be steamed. Garments may be steamed over teakettle, open tub, or with iron.

The county's marriage certificates for the entire year totaled 349.

What Becomes Of My "Red Cross" Dollar

Explanation Is Made By Local Official How Money Is Spent

Fifty cents of every membership goes to National Headquarters, and is used for disaster, nursing, first aid, service to ex-service men, Junior Red Cross, general service to chapters, roll call supplies, general management and other services, the American National Red Cross having expanded during last year approximately $10,212,000 for above causes.

Your other fifty cents is placed in local banks and is drawn out on regular requisiton sheets, the checks being signed by the Chapter Treasurer and countersigned by the Chapter Chairman. The following being a report of expenditures during the last 12 months by the Chilton County Chapter:

Supplies for production, two cases—$10.50; disaster relief, five cases—$137.50; home service, two cases—$10.00; home hygiene and care of the sick, 12 cases—$15.50; other health activities, two cases—$2.00; nutrition, 27 cases—$57.50; transportation for transients, four cases—$9.60; total expenditures—$244.60; one-half receipts from 1937 roll call, 334 members—$167.00; amount paid out in excess of receipts—$77.60.

I would not begin to try to tell you what National Red Cross has done for the people of this county in the past years for every one who happened to be in the path of cyclones. But now, allow me to beg you to contact your roll call representative and enter your membership or send $1.00 to me and I will enroll you.

Our county chapter moved up to 28th place on the State out of a total of 78 chapters last year, still our total membership in the county was less than 1½ per cent of population of the county.

Did you know that our own State of Alabama is the only State in the Union with a membership of less than two per cent; the highest rating of any State in membership is 18 per cent.

We have some splendid roll call workers who are giving their time to the cause and you are urged to contact them and not wait for them to call to see you. This is just as much your obligation as theirs, and I do want to see Chilton county and Alabama move up nearer their proper place in this worthy cause. Let's all join.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HAD BANQUET ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The men's class of Clanton Baptist Sunday school enjoyed its annual banquet in the basement of the church last Friday night. The ladies of one of the circles prepared the supper, consisting of turkey and the accessories that usually accompany it.

A total of about sixty men enjoyed the occasion all being members of the class with the exception of a few visitors, among whom was Rev. J. W. Truett, of Clanton Methodist church. A most pleasant half hour was consumed in the eating—or probably we should say, those nine turkeys were consumed over the period of half an hour. After this many short talks were made by visitors and members of the class. Several male quartets were rendered by a group of local vocalizers, which were enjoyed by the gathering.

During the past week the Ideal Barber Shop, formerly owned by Mr. John M. Robinson and operated by Mr. Dewey Eubanks and Mr. J. D. Wesson, has been purchased by Mr. Wesson; the same will be operated by Mr. Wesson in the future, with the assintance of two other operators.

At about the same time, Mr. Eubanks took charge of a chair at Mr. T. J. Posey's shop.

Both shops would like for their customers to take not of this change and be governed accordingly.

W. H. GILLESPIE NOT IN CHICKEN THIEF CHASE

Since the report came out in the paper about two weeks ago, we have learned that the part relative to Mr. Walter Gillespie was a bit misleading and incorrect. Mr. Gillespie was not in the chase of the thieves, although it was his chickens that were stolen Mr. Gillespie states that he heard cars running and some commotion during the night, but did not know what it was all about until some young men came to his house about daylight that morning and brought his chickens back which they had found in the car of the two thieves.

Mr. Gillespie then went with the boys up near Calera, and they found the young man that had been shot. An ambulance was called to bring the injured man to the hospital.

EVERYONE BUY A FLOWER ON POPPY - DAY

Because our poppy is an emblem of sacrifice, those who love it are making every effort to teach the public all over the country the true meaning of the flower. The world in general has forgotten the war, and if, in the season of Memorial Day or Armistic Day, the poppy can make the indifferent public remember the sacrifice which have been made for it by the men who gave their lives that our country might be saved, then, indeed, the first and greatest mission of the poppy sale has been fulfilled.

It is also well for the public to be reminded that the war is not over for thousands of former fighting men who are now in the hospitals, nor is it over for the wife and little children who need assistance as the results of the inability of some man to care for them.

The second mission of the poppy sale, is to recall to the public the debt we owe these men in the hospitals.

The American Legion and the Auxiliary, have "taken up the torch" and are keeping faith with those who gave their all, by pushing the poppy sale each year. The funds from this annual sale of Memorial Poppys is for financing the Units Rehabilitation and child welfare. Such as caring for the world war disabled, who still are to be found by the thousands in government hospitals, while other thousands are still struggling to regain a place in civic life. Nearly a million dollars are expended each year by the auxiliary in hospital and welfare work for the benefit of the disabled, as well as an inestimately amount of personal attention, which is often the most valuable thing that can be given a suffering man in a hospital far from home.

For the children of world war veterans, the auxiliary is doing a very important work. It is aiding thousands of children every year to receive the necessities of life. Believing that the children of men who lost their lives in the war or results of the war, are entitled to equal educational advantage with other American children. The Legion and Auxiliary are continuing a joint effort to bring opportunities for higher education to all war orphans.

The people of Chilton county will have an opportunity to show their interest in this great work and help carry on this memorial poppy sale, so this great sacrifice will be made easier for those who suffered most.

"Poppy Day" will be November 5th. Poppy girls will be stationed at different places down town Saturday.

CHILTON COUNTY, THE HEART OF ALABAMA

VOLUME 46.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY NOVEMBER 10. 1938 NUMBER 30

ANOTHER ODDITY HERE

November 8th was an oddity in more ways than one. Of course, the outstanding thing was the election; but something happened at The Banner office that was unusual for the particular hour that it occurred. A good Republican dropped in the office and casually paid up his subscription at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, just as if it had been the same hour in the day time. But this Republican was from Beat 9, and it is supposed that he felt muchly elated over the way his Beat went. Anyway, he had a right to be elated over it, as well as the other Republicans of the county. And we thank you, George, for the frog skin.

MAN KILLED WHILE REPAIRING TRUCK

Angles Chambers Died When Loaded Truck Rolled Over Body

Angles Chambers, age 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Chambers, of near Maplesville, was killed almost instantly last Thursday afternoon, when the front wheel of his loaded truck rolled over his shoulder and chest. No one was with the young man when the accident happened, but he had left some other men with whom he had been working, and had driven only about half a mile. The condition of his truck bore the evidence that his gas line had given trouble, and he had taken the line off. He was evidently underneath his truck, when the skotch slipped and the front wheel of the heavily loaded vehicle passed over his shoulder and upper chest. The young man evidently scrambled around and pulled himself several feet from the truck before he died. The body was found apparently two hours after the man had died.

Funeral services were held at Sardis Saturday, Revs. J. D. Hopper and J. M. Stillwell officiating. Martin & Sons directed.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Chambers; grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Chambers; five sisters—Mrs. Houston Lenoir, Mrs. Lester Lenoir, Mrs. Hymen Atchison, Misses Willie L. and Louise Chambers, all of Maplesville; eight brothers — Union, Malcolm, Basco, Plato, Calvin, Curtis and Robert Chambers, all of Maplesville; Moody Chambers of Clanton and numerous relatives and close friends. He and Miss Kathleen Perry of Maplesville and Tuscaloosa were to be married Christmas of this year.

Flower girls were: Misses Evelyn Wilson, Geraldine Ratliff, Johnnie Middlebrooks, Majorie Wallace, Louise Bone and Lottie Dee Seamore.

Pallbearers were: A. G. Atchison, Sharp Atchison, Newman Abrams, Paul Smith, J. E. Wallace and Auther Johnson.

Mrs. Henry Stanley, guest of the club, graciously sang a beautiful solo.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served delicious refreshments.

NEW LAND BOUGHT BY CITY OFFCIALS

Lot Bought By City From J. T. Ellis Near The Present Plant

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announces that the City of Clanton procured from Mr. John T. Ellis a lot 75 by 150 feet, at the rear of Mr. Ellis's home and also at the rear of J. Hance Alred's home, on which the two new tanks will be situated in the water works extension project. The 400,000 gallon tank for the storage of raw water will be built on this lot, as well as the new 100,000 gallon elevated tank for the storage of filtered water.

The lot cost the city $400.00, and Mayor Jones figures that considering the natural elevation of the lot, in comparison with some other lots that had been considered, the city saved a total of $1,200.00. These two new tanks, together with the old 60,000 gallon tank and the 120,000 gallon reservior will give the city a storage capacity of 680,000 gallons, which ought to be enough to amply cover the needs of our nearly 4,000 population.

FOOTBALL GAME FRIDAY AT 2:30

The local football team will meet the strong high school team from Holtville high school Friday afternoon at 2:30 on the local field. A good game is assured as Holtville has a strong team this year, having lost only one game this year, and that to Selma high by the score of 7 to 0. Last year the local team went down to defeat at their hands by the score of 52 to 7. This year the "Tigers" should be out to wipe out the sting of that defeat.

The Chilton County boys played a fine game all the way this year, winning six games and losing one; Sylacauga defeated them by the score of 20 to 14. There remains only two more games on the schedule of the local team. Holtville here Friday and Columbiana here Friday, November 18th.

Remember the kick-off promptly at 2:30.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND REVIVAL

Famous Preacher's Second Engagement Here Meeting With Approval

The first service in the big tent of Evangelist L. J. Cooper was held last Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with practically every seat in the spaceous tent taken. Large crowds have attended every night this week, and the interest in the services are encouraging indeed.

This evangelist held a three-weeks meeting here a little earlier than this last year, and hundreds of people were anxious for his return this year. Also there are lots of people attending who did not live in Clanton when he was here before.

Rev. Ray Walker, singer for the meeting, arrived in the city Monday, and took charge of his part of the services. Rev. Walker is proving himself to be a most talented singer as well as lecturer and preacher.

Services will continue each night throughout the following week at 7:30 o'clock and at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. Both Evangelist Cooper and Rev. Walker extend a cordial welcome to all who will attend. When the weather is sufficiently cool, the tent will be comfortably heated.

Charlie Reynolds Died In Birmingh'm Tuesday

Will Be Buried Here Thursday At 10:30 A. M.

Word was received in Clanton Tuesday night of the death at 7:30 of Charlie Reynolds, age 63, at St. Vincent's Hospital, Birmingham. Mr. Reynolds had been there for about a week suffering with a heart ailment. The body was prepared by Luquire and sent here on No. 3 Wednesday afternoon, where it was taken in charge by Martin.

Funeral services will be at Clanton Methodist church Thursday at 10:30, conducted by Dr. J. W. Truett; Martin directing.

Surviving are the wife, Mrs. Carrie Slaton Reynolds; one daughter, Mrs. Warrene Hobson, of Attalla; three grand children and two great grand children. There are four brothers—Judge L. H. and W. A. Reynolds, of Clanton, Sam and Frank Reynolds. There are some half brothers.

CHILTON TIGERS WIN OVER WETUMPKA

The local high school team won its fifth victory Friday of ast week in six starts when it took the strong Wetumpka High School team over the hurdles to the tune of 14 to 0.

Reports of the game state that the Tigers got one of their best games out of their systems on that occasion. It would be unfair to mention one of the boys without giving all credit for the victory, however one of the best plays of the game came in the first play in the second half when Melton ran sixty-five yards for a touchdown behind perfect interference.

The team plays at home this week and a good crowd should see this game between them and Holtville High School.

VIOLIN NUMBERS AT METHODIST CHURCH

Mr. Cecil Jones, a pupil of Prof. I. F. Chamblee, will give two numbers on the violin, in connection with the morning services, at Clanton Methodist church. "The Holy City" and another number to be selected will be given by this soloist.

M. Jones has played for services in Birmingham for a number of years. All are invited to hear him.

Public drunkenness, five whites and two negroes; reckless driving, one white; driving motor vehicle while intoxicated, one white; assault and battery, two whites; false pretense, one white; assault, one white; improper lights and brakes, one negro; vagrancy.

FREE MERCHANDISE AT PIGGLY WIGGLY

Clanton's Piggly Wiggly Store is this week instituting a novel scheme of advertising and attracting attention of their many friends and customers. In order to bring this about this modern grocery store is placing in their adv. every week a small coupon bearing the name of some lady of the county and asking her to come to that store at a certain time and certain amount of merchandise free.

Read Piggly Willy's adv. this week as well as the weeks to follow, and see if you name appears for free merchandise.

THE ORPHANAGE CAR

The produce car for the Orphan's Home will be loaded by the churches of Chilton and Unity Associations jointly at Clanton and Thorsby on the 15th and 16th of November, instead of 14th and 15th, as formerly announced.

The churches will please take notice of this correction.—M. Lockhart, J. Watts Moore, Official Representatives.

FARM NOTES

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMA

(By A. W. Jones)

It is certain that we can drive foreigners out of the cotton market, that is, "regain our foreign market," and cut foreign cotton acreage with big crops and low prices as advocated in the domestic allotment plan? Not if we judge the future by the past. Increase in foreign cotton is not a new thing under the sun. From 1870 to 1920 the price of cotton ranged from 6 cents 40 cents. For the samee period the increase in production of foreign cotton was about 44 per cent for each 10-year period. The war reduced foreign production for a short while. After the war the increase started again and has continued.

Since 1870, we have nad 19 record cotton crops, each bigger than any previous crop. In all except of these instances, foreign acreage was actually increased instead of being cut following our big crop. This sets the chances at 15 to 6—nearly 4 to 1—in favor of the conclusion that a big volume of American cotton is by no means certain insurance against an increase i nforeign cotton acreage.

In 1925, foreign cotton acreage was 43 million; in 1937, it was 58 million. Ninety per cent of this increase occured in four countries—Brazil, China, Russia, and Uganda. Causes of the increase in these four countries have little relation to the cotton policy in the United States.

The increase from 1925 to 1937 in Brazil was about 5 million acres. During most of this time the price of Brazilian cotton has been high in comparison with the price of coffee. In the 1935-1929 period the price of a pound of cotton in Sao Paulo, Brazil, averaged only about 10 per cent more than the price of a pound of coffee. The margin in favor of cotton expanded greatly after 1929.

As coffee became cheaper the spread between cotton and coffee widened. In addition, by devaluing its money, Brazil has kept the price of cotton to Brazilian producers at or above pre-depression price while the price of cotton to farmers in the United States has ranged from one-third to two-thirds of pre-depression prices. The price of cotton in New Orleans in 1936 was more than 30 per cent below the 1928 price. Held up by currency exchange manipulation, the price of cotton in Brazil was 8 per cent higher in 1936 than in 1928.

For these reasons, farmers in Brazil have shifted from coffee to cotton just as farmers in Oklahoma often shift from wheat to cotton or from cotton to wheat or the farmers in southeast Alabama and Georgia shift from peanuts to cotton or cotton to peanuts or peanuts for hogs to peanuts for market. With the price of coffee low and the advantage in favor of cotton, a bg cut in coffee acreage and a big gain in cotton acreage in Brazil was inevitable. It would have taken place regardless of the cotton policy of the United States.

It is generally admitted that the increase in Russia cotton has little if any relation to our policy. Russia wants to and will produce for her own needs. Regardless of what we do, Russia will determine its wn cotton acreage for some tme to come.

China is governed slightly more by our own course than Russia, but our policies have very little influence on Chinese cotton acreage. Most Chinese cotton is used in China and Chna's expansion traces back to the rise of the textile industry in China and Japan.

The increase in Uganda is the result o fa British colonial effort begun soon after the turn of the century, and cotton production in that East African country has been encouraged regardless of price. What we do in America has practically no effect on Uganda's course.

The increase in foreign cotton acreage and production and the cut in our exports are related. Sales of American cotton to Germany have been reduced from a normal of more than 1,500,000 bales to about 600,000 bales. This cut in sales of cotton to German mills accounts for more than one-third of the total cut in our cotton exports.

We don't buy much from Germany and Germany doesn't buy our cotton. Cause: the Smoot-Hawley tariff and similiar restrictions. But Germany has increased her purchases of cotton from Brazil. She did this for the simple reason that she could not obtain dollar exchange to buy our cotton. She could work out a barter arrangement with Brazil, one of the reasons being that Brazil found it much better to ship cotton out of the country to buy industrial products than to try to buy these products with depreciated currency.

The loss of exports to France and Italy and other countries also is due in the main to tariff barriers—to our refusal to admit foreign products. They cannot get dollar exchange for use in buying our cotton.

Thus we see by examination of the essential facts that the chief argument for the so-called domestic allotment plan—that unlimited production would recapture our world markets—is not supported by experience or economic justification.

Durng a ten year period, 1927 to 1937, United States Internal Revenue collection increased from $2,865,683,130 to $4,653,195,315. The collections in Alabama increased from $6,364,860,80 in 1936 to $16,886,444.05 in 1938. These figues are for the fiscal year ending on June 30.

There are 470 Masonic lodges in Alabama with a total membership of 28,184. The total membership in the United States is given at 2,634,867.

KUDZU FOR ERODED LAND AND HAY

Many farmers in the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Alabama, are planing to retire eroded areas in their cultivated fields to kud zu before the next planting season, according to Mr. James H. Wood Superintendent.

With proper planting, proper land preparation, fertilization, and first-year cultivation, kudzu will provide permanent protection to severely eroded areas and will afford additional hay for feed. Lespedeza sericea is another perennial yell adapted for grosion control and hay production in perennial field strips.

When kudzu is used in field plantings, rows of kudzu may be interplanted with a row crop the first year. This will insure cultivation for the kudzu and provide a return from the row crop on the land the first year. By the second year the kudzu will spread over the intervening spaces.

Farmers in the area who had kudzu in the third growing season this year harvested excellent yields of hay in addition to the protection the kudzu afforded their land. Some of the farmers who harvested or grazed kudzu this year were: C. C. Coffer, J. N. Dennis, R. M. Foshee, J. D. Haggard, I. H. Lawrence, and Dr. H. M. Nix.

The referendum to be held on December 10 will be very similar to the one held last March 12. Voting places will be selected by the county AAA committee and all farmers who grew cotton this year are eligible to vote on whether they want marketing quotas in 1939.

CURB MARKETS SELL ALABAMA PRODUCTS

Here's what Alabama, home demonstration women and farmers brought to the curb market in September and early October: Butter, eggs, buttermilk peas, butter beans. egg plant, okra, turnips and turnip greens, sweet potatoes, p ars, apples, pomegranates, peppers, flowers. sprup, pepper sauce, honey, candy, cottage cheese, cakes, doughnuts. cookies, jellies, pickles, relishes, pear, mincemeat. meal, cushaws, smocks, aprons, sunsuits, orgrndy flowers, corn, tomatoes. snapbeams spinach, onions. collards, fryers, dressed hens, home-cured meat. hominy, sugarcane, rutabagas, scuppernongs, Irish potatoes, potted plants, and other products.

The channel of the Nichols terrace, now the common type of terrace being built in Alabama, should be plowed out at least twice a year, in the fall after crops are gathered and again in the spring when the land is being prepared for planting, says J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer at Auburn.

Walk water off a field rather than let it run because when it runs it carries valuable plant food and top soil. That's a good rule for soil-conscious farmers.

SUGG WILL WORK ON HOG PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala.—P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service this week announced reorganization of live stock work in the department to make the livestock work with farmers in the state more effective.

To balance the organization setup and to make the work more effective, Dr. R. S. Suggs, extension livestock specialist has been placed in charge of all the hog work in addition to beef cattle and sheep. F. W. Burns, who has been working on the dairy cattle and hogs will devote his time to dairying alone, the importance of which requires the full time of a specialist.

In announcing the shift in responsibilities, Mr. Davis said that it divides the work between milk and meat animals and will result in more hogs which are dutitled, he added to a "much bigger place on Alabama farms."

Taking the state as a whole, hogs offer, as Mr. Davis sees them, a major opportunity for adding cash to cotton monep. In every county farmer are being told by county agents how to grow hogs profitably. The profitable method is based upon better use of land not in cotton bp making pastures and feed crop for hogs to graze and eat.

Dr. Sugg is widely known as an authority on hog raising, as well as beef cattle and sheep. He has had experience as county agent as well as extension epecialist. He will work with county agents and farmers throughtout the state in developing and improving livestock porgrams.

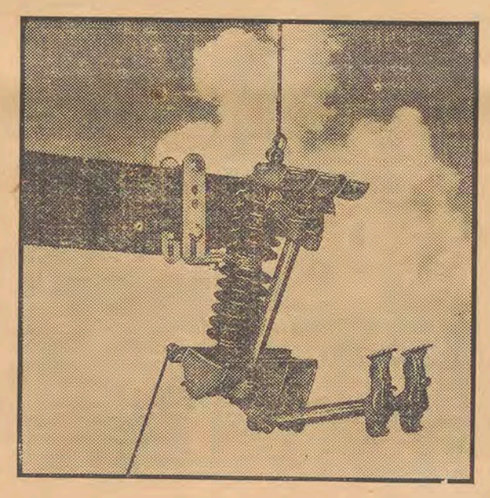
4-H CLUBS HELP PRESERVE FORESTS

Auburn, Ala.—One of the most important moves yet taken by conservation forces in Alabama is the project of county agents and 4-H club leaders who are attacking the wood fire problem by securing community agreements against this destructive practice.

Beginning this month a large number of counties are sponsoring this activity through 4-H clubs and club leaders who are organizing to secure as neary as possible 100 per cent pledges of local landowners and tenants to help fight fires to the finish. This is placed on a community basis as this is the unit on which such matters must eventually be thrashed out.

Growers of improved pecans are urged to contact the county agents regarding a pecan diversion purchase program under which the Pecan Stadilization Association will bup pecans all through the season to reduce surplus and bolster prices.

The love for an old-fashioned open fireplace is as old as mankind, yet an open fireplace is almost as inefficient heating unit as the first fire by which man warmed himself, says H. W. Dearing, assistant agricultural eugineer of the Alabama Extention Service.



MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

No. 8 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This serics, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

STAR ATTRACTION

See the Hero Foil the Villain!

IF YOU reside in a thinly-settled suburban or rural neighborhood, and are one of the persons whose spines tingle with a thrill when the hero saves "Little Nell" from the clutches of the villain, you'll get a "kick" from learning about the "hero" of this advertisement.

Your hero's name is Repeater Fuse, a southern-born gentleman with three lives, employed by Alabama Power Company engineers and one of the many items of electrical equipment "made in Alabama."

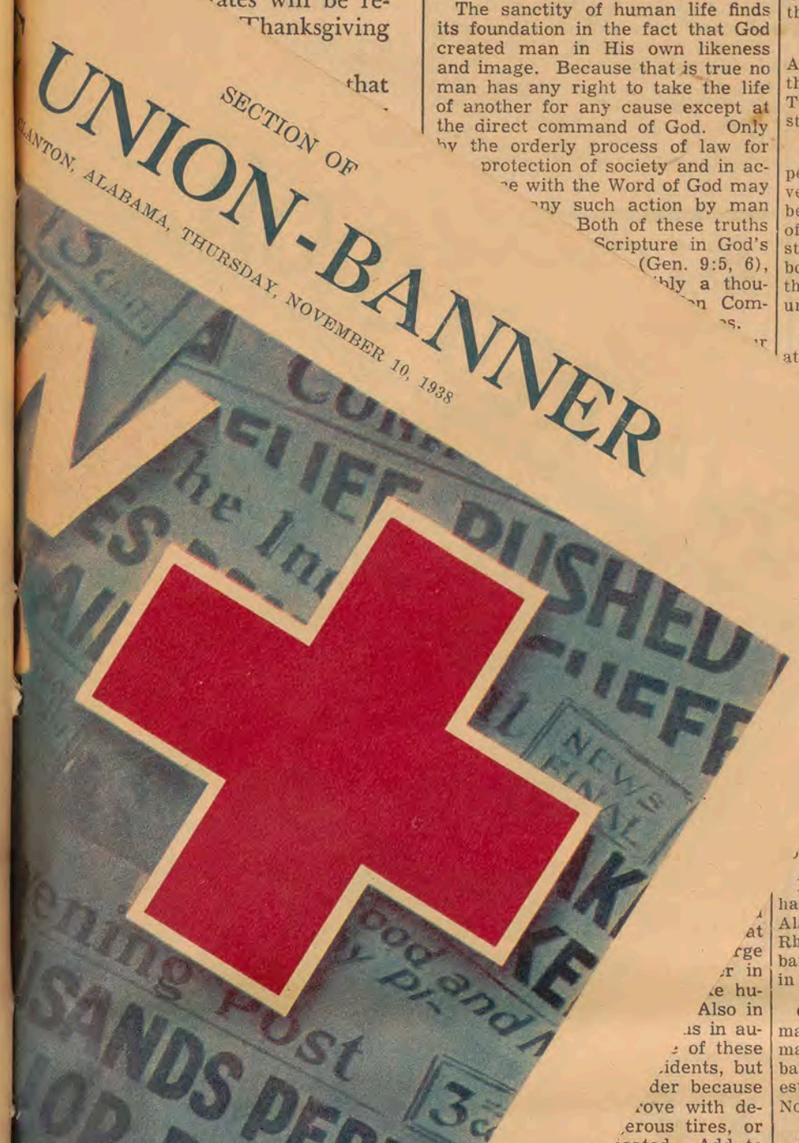
For the villain of our little melodrama we have Nature, transformed into a witch, who, in occasional whimsical mood, fleetingly flicks at some of the rural lines of Electra, the heroine, striving to put her handyman, Reddy Kilowatt, out of commission and annoy you (and us) with an unnecessary interruption to your dependable electric service.

That's when your hero, Repeater Fuse, steps into the play to foil the villain, giving all three of his lives to do so, if necessary. Here's how Repeater Fuse plays his part:

The villain causes a momentary abnormal surge of power over the wires, along which Repeater Fuse is stationed as sentry. This surge is intercepted by one of the fingers you see in the picture holding one of your hero's lives, technically known as cartridge fuses. There is a report, as of a gunshot, and one of Repeater Fuse's lives is no more. But instantly this happens, another of the fingers places another "life" in the breach. If the trouble is still on the line, Repeater Fuse loses another of his lives, and possibly a third. When, in rare instances, the elements of all three cartridge fuses are exploded, that means that Nature or accident has caused more than momentary trouble. Then real-life heroes—the members of our capable repair crews—go out on the line and speedily restore service, and renew the elements in the repeater fuse, so that it may again play its part when necessary.

Interruptions to your electric service are rare, because most electrical disturbances are only momentary, and repeater fuses and other ingenious equipment such as you've been reading about in these advertisements, handle them automatically and so swiftly that, except for a brief flicker of your lights, you do not know there has been a disturbance.

It takes more than merely poles, wires and "free money" to supply dependable electric service.



Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Lesson for November 13

THE SACREDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-26, 38-42.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not kill.—Exodus 20:13. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer.—I John 3:15.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

The sanctity of human life finds its foundation in the fact that God created man in His own likeness and image. Because that is true no man has any right to take the life of another for any cause except at the direct command of God. Only by the orderly process of law for protection of society and in accord with the Word of God may any such action by man be taken. Both of these truths are found in Scripture in God's commandment (Gen. 9:5, 6), clearly a thou- ...on Com- ...ers.

Cause of Murder (Matt. ...).

Sermon on the Mount, from ...n the rest of our lesson is taken, ...e it "describes the character the citizens of the earthly king- ...om which the Messiah came to set up" and "assumes a class of people already saved, regenerated, and in fellowship with their King" (James M. Gray), does provide fundamental principles for the guidance of the Christian.

In this matter of murder, Jesus cuts right through the outward aspects of the matter and points out that an angry hatred in the heart is the root of all murder. If we hate, we have murder in our hearts. Circumstances may hinder its fulfillment, but the danger is always there until we remove the cause. Just being angry—calling our brother "Raca" (the modern equivalent of which is "nobody there"), and calling him "thou fool," which classifies him as "morally worthless"—these are the three dreadful downward steps to murder. And they begin in anger. May God help those of us who have strong feelings that we may not yield them to the devil in such anger against our brother!

III. The Prevention of Murder (Matt. 5:23-26, 38-42).

Prevention with God means more than putting up a barrier to keep us from killing. He deals with the heart, and thus puts the whole life right. It is not even a question of how we may feel against our brother. If he has aught against us we are to do all we can to win him. He may be unreasonable, grasping, and unfair. However, the spirit that will win him is not that of retaliation or sullen submission to the inevitable, but rather a free and willing going even beyond what is required.

The full interpretation of this passage is not possible in our limited space. It is clear from other scriptures that it does not mean that wicked and unscrupulous men are to be permitted to defraud and destroy God's people. At the same time, we must not explain away the heart of our Lord's interpretation of this great commandment. Let us seek His grace that we may, like Him, silence by our loving deeds and words even the bitter gainsayers of the gospel.

NEW MERCURY 8 IS ANNOUNCED

The newest car in motordom—the Mercury 8—was announced today by the Ford Motor Company as its representative in the lower medium-price field. It fills a place in the Ford-Lincoln line between the DeLuxe Ford V-8 and the Lincoln-Zephyr.

The Mercury 8 is a big car. It measures more than 16 feet from bumper to bumper. Its wheelbase is 116 inches. It is a powerful car, able to crawl smoothly or accelerate quickly in traffic, and with high road speed when desired. Its V-type 8-cylinder engine develops 95 horsepower. It is also an easy car to handle. Hydraulic brakes enable the driver to slow down or stop quickly with light pedal pressure.

In its modern streamlined styling the Mercury 8 bears a family resemblance to the Lincoln-Zephyr, acknowledged style leader of the motor world. Despite this resemblance the new car has a distinct styling of its own, both in flowing body contours and in interior appointments.

TWO NEW FORDS FOR 1939 SHOWN

The two finest Ford cars in the 35 years of the company's history will be given their first public showing tomorrow, Friday, November 4th, in dealerships throughout the country. The cars are the 1939 Ford V-8 and the 1939 DeLuxe Ford V-8. They are individually styled. Both are of compelling beauty. Both have hydraulic brakes.

Introduction of the new Fords climaxes a year of activity which saw the company embark on its current plant expansion program, bring out its entirely new Mercury 8, and establish the Lincoln-Zephyr still more firmly as the acknowledge style leader in the automobile industry.

The DeLuxe Ford V-8, with wholly new streamlines, has a distinctive appearance of its own. At the same time, both it and the Ford V-8 share a family likeness with the Lincoln-Zephyr and the new Mercury 8.

The DeLuxe has a deep hood with long lines unbroken by louvres, low radiator grille in bright metal, and wide-spaced headlamps set into the fenders. The words Ford DeLuxe, in script letters of chrome, are divided at the front of the hood. The hood handle is concealed in a vertical extension of the radiator ornament.

FIDDLER'S CONVENTION

There will be a fiddler's convention held at Calera High school Friday night, November 11th, at 7:30 (Armistic Day). The convention is sponsored by Ware-Crim Post No. 56, American Legion, to raise funds to buy Santa Claus for needy children.

Cash prizes, also prizes by local merchants. Refrsehments will be served by the Legion Auxiliary. Admission 10c and 20c.

Musicians are expected all over the country. Tap and buck dancing and most every kind of entainment. First prize, a double-barrel shotgun; Second prize, $4.00 in cash. Also prizes will be given away by local merchants.

COLORED MAN FROM MT. CREEK WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

There has been so many of the white citizens of Chilton County who ask me to write on some of my early experiences about Clanton. It was first known as a sawmill or Gulahorn's Switch, used only for loading cars with lumber. The old Commissary stood where the city hall now stands, and the sawmill stood back of the Big Four Hardware Company.

The road from the Commissary to the railroad was nothing more nor less than a real rough route, with stumps, treetops, logs and holes. Near the depot was a box car, where tickets were sold. This was in the '79 and '80's.

Clanton or Gulahorn's Switch was made up of a log Courthouse and a big log jail, that was all there was to Clanat that time.

While I was working for the Sloss Mineral Company, I was robbed of $85. The high sheriff of Clanton, whose name was Homer Lowe, and the Judge, whose name was Callens, landed the theif in that big log jail. Now looking at Clanton with its rapid growth and its modern buildings and the great changes made by the railroad, it looks impossible that it is the same place.

In conclusion I want to speak praises to some of the articles which the Union-Banner has printed and to the Editor. — Rev. Peter DeJarnette, Mt. Creek, Ala., Colored.

The channel of the Nichols terrace, now the common type of terrace being built in Alabama, should be plowed out at least twice a year, in the fall after crops are gathered and again in the spring when the land is being prepared for planting, says J. Walk water off a field rather than let it run because when it runs it carries valuable plant food and top soil. That's a good rule for soil-conscious farmers.

SUGG WILL WORK ON HOG PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala.—P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service this week announced reorganization of live stock work in the department to make the livestock work with farmers in the state more effective.

To balance the organization setup and to make the work more effective, Dr. R. S. Suggs, extension livestock specialist has been placed in charge of all the hog work in addition to beef cattle and sheep. F. W. Burns, who has been working on the dairy cattle and hogs will devote his time to dairying alone, the importance of which requires the full time of a specialist.

In announcing the shift in responsibilities, Mr. Davis said that it divides the work between milk and meat animals and will result in more hogs which are dutitled, he added to a "much bigger place on Alabama farms."

Taking the state as a whole, hogs offer, as Mr. Davis sees them, a major opportunity for adding cash to cotton monep. In every county farmer are being told by county agents how to grow hogs profitably. The profitable method is based upon better use of land not in cotton bp making pastures and feed crop for hogs to graze and eat.

Dr. Sugg is widely known as an authority on hog raising, as well as beef cattle and sheep. He has had experience as county agent as well as extension epecialist. He will work with county agents and farmers throughtout the state in developing and improving livestock porgrams.

4-H CLUBS HELP PRESERVE FORESTS

Auburn, Ala.—One of the most important moves yet taken by conservation forces in Alabama is the project of county agents and 4-H club leaders who are attacking the wood fire problem by securing community agreements against this destructive practice.

Beginning this month a large number of counties are sponsoring this activity through 4-H clubs and club leaders who are organizing to secure as neary as possible 100 per cent pledges of local landowners and tenants to help fight fires to the finish. This is placed on a community basis as this is the unit on which such matters must eventually be thrashed out.

Growers of improved pecans are urged to contact the county agents regarding a pecan diversion purchase program under which the Pecan Stadilization Association will bup pecans all through the season to reduce surplus and bolster prices.

The love for an old-fashioned open fireplace is as old as mankind, yet an open fireplace is almost as inefficient heating unit as the first fire by which man warmed himself, says H. W. Dearing, assistant agricultural eugineer of the Alabama Extention Service.

FARM NOTES

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMA

(By A. W. Jones)

It is certain that we can drive foreigners out of the cotton market, that is, "regain our foreign market," and cut foreign cotton acreage with big crops and low prices as advocated in the domestic allotment plan? Not if we judge the future by the past. Increase in foreign cotton is not a new thing under the sun. From 1870 to 1920 the price of cotton ranged from 6 cents 40 cents. For the samee period the increase in production of foreign cotton was about 44 per cent for each 10-year period. The war reduced foreign production for a short while. After the war the increase started again and has continued.

Since 1870, we have nad 19 record cotton crops, each bigger than any previous crop. In all except of these instances, foreign acreage was actually increased instead of being cut following our big crop. This sets the chances at 15 to 6—nearly 4 to 1—in favor of the conclusion that a big volume of American cotton is by no means certain insurance against an increase i nforeign cotton acreage.

In 1925, foreign cotton acreage was 43 million; in 1937, it was 58 million. Ninety per cent of this increase occured in four countries—Brazil, China, Russia, and Uganda. Causes of the increase in these four countries have little relation to the cotton policy in the United States.

The increase from 1925 to 1937 in Brazil was about 5 million acres. During most of this time the price of Brazilian cotton has been high in comparison with the price of coffee. In the 1935-1929 period the price of a pound of cotton in Sao Paulo, Brazil, averaged only about 10 per cent more than the price of a pound of coffee. The margin in favor of cotton expanded greatly after 1929.

As coffee became cheaper the spread between cotton and coffee widened. In addition, by devaluing its money, Brazil has kept the price of cotton to Brazilian producers at or above pre-depression price while the price of cotton to farmers in the United States has ranged from one-third to two-thirds of pre-depression prices. The price of cotton in New Orleans in 1936 was more than 30 per cent below the 1928 price. Held up by currency exchange manipulation, the price of cotton in Brazil was 8 per cent higher in 1936 than in 1928.

For these reasons, farmers in Brazil have shifted from coffee to cotton just as farmers in Oklahoma often shift from wheat to cotton or from cotton to wheat or the farmers in southeast Alabama and Georgia shift from peanuts to cotton or cotton to peanuts or peanuts for hogs to peanuts for market. With the price of coffee low and the advantage in favor of cotton, a bg cut in coffee acreage and a big gain in cotton acreage in Brazil was inevitable. It would have taken place regardless of the cotton policy of the United States.

It is generally admitted that the increase in Russia cotton has little if any relation to our policy. Russia wants to and will produce for her own needs. Regardless of what we do, Russia will determine its wn cotton acreage for some tme to come.

China is governed slightly more by our own course than Russia, but our policies have very little influence on Chinese cotton acreage. Most Chinese cotton is used in China and Chna's expansion traces back to the rise of the textile industry in China and Japan.

The increase in Uganda is the result o fa British colonial effort begun soon after the turn of the century, and cotton production in that East African country has been encouraged regardless of price. What we do in America has practically no effect on Uganda's course.

The increase in foreign cotton acreage and production and the cut in our exports are related. Sales of American cotton to Germany have been reduced from a normal of more than 1,500,000 bales to about 600,000 bales. This cut in sales of cotton to German mills accounts for more than one-third of the total cut in our cotton exports.

We don't buy much from Germany and Germany doesn't buy our cotton. Cause: the Smoot-Hawley tariff and similiar restrictions. But Germany has increased her purchases of cotton from Brazil. She did this for the simple reason that she could not obtain dollar exchange to buy our cotton. She could work out a barter arrangement with Brazil, one of the reasons being that Brazil found it much better to ship cotton out of the country to buy industrial products than to try to buy these products with depreciated currency.

The loss of exports to France and Italy and other countries also is due in the main to tariff barriers—to our refusal to admit foreign products. They cannot get dollar exchange for use in buying our cotton.

Thus we see by examination of the essential facts that the chief argument for the so-called domestic allotment plan—that unlimited production would recapture our world markets—is not supported by experience or economic justification.

Durng a ten year period, 1927 to 1937, United States Internal Revenue collection increased from $2,865,683,130 to $4,653,195,315. The collections in Alabama increased from $6,364,860,80 in 1936 to $16,886,444.05 in 1938. These figues are for the fiscal year ending on June 30.

There are 470 Masonic lodges in Alabama with a total membership of 28,184. The total membership in the United States is given at 2,634,867.

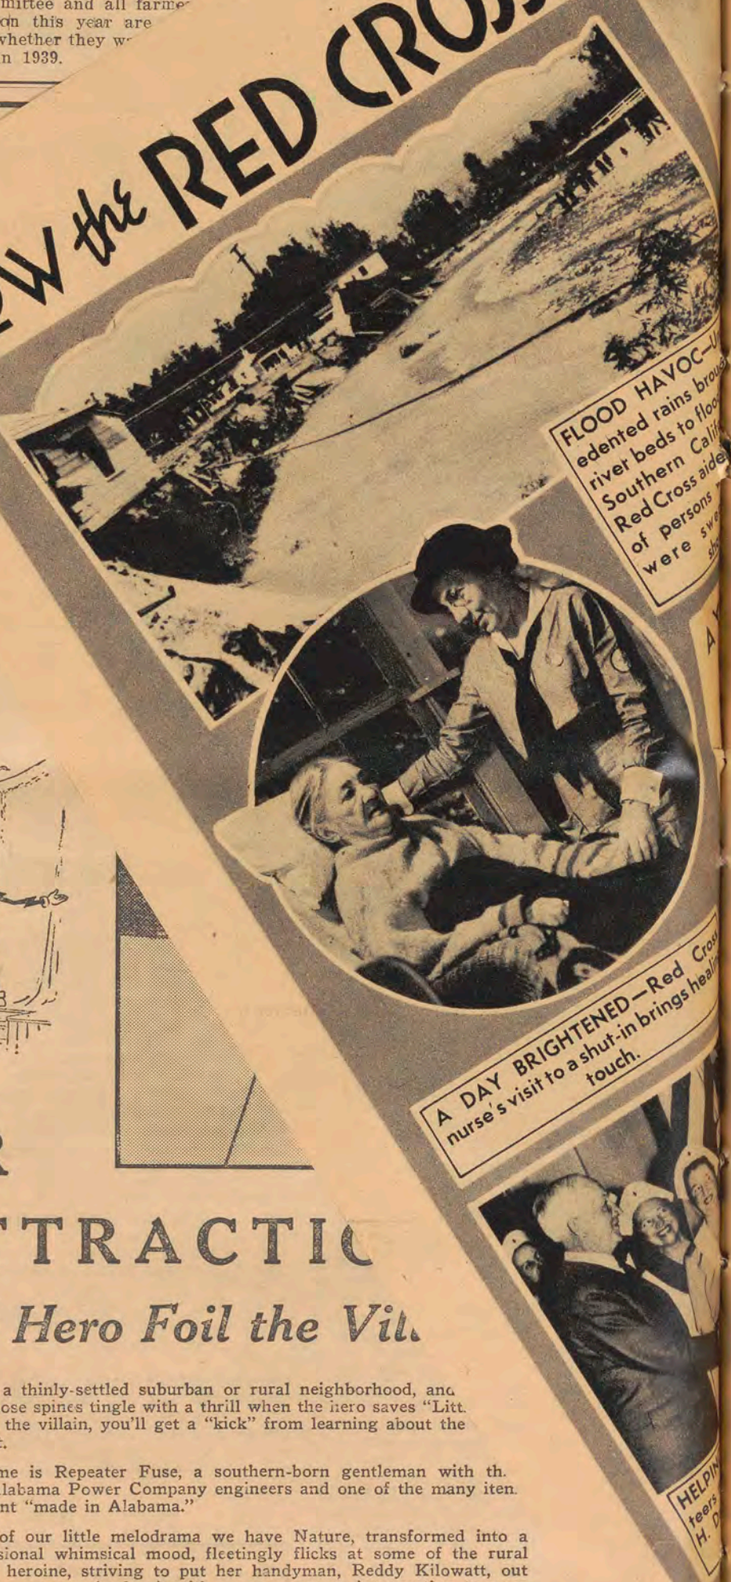
KUDZU FOR ERODED LAND AND HAY

Many farmers in the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Alabama, are planing to retire eroded areas in their cultivated fields to kudzu before the next planting season, according to Mr. James H. Wood Superintendent.

With proper planting, proper land preparation, fertilization, and first-year cultivation, kudzu will provide permanent protection to severely eroded areas and will afford additional hay for feed. Lespedeza sericea is another perennial yell adapted for erosion control and hay production in perennial field strips.

When kudzu is used in field plantings, rows of kudzu may be interplanted with a row crop the first year. This will insure cultivation for the kudzu and provide a return from the row crop on the land the first year. By the second year the kudzu will spread over the intervening spaces.

Farmers in the area who had kudzu in the third growing season this year harvested excellent yields of hay in addition to the protection the kudzu afforded their land. Some of the farmers who harvested or grazed kudzu this year were: C. C. Coffer, J. N. Dennis, R. M. Foshee, J. D. Haggard, I. H. Lawrence, and Dr. H. M. Nix.



The referendum to be held on December 10 will be very similar to one held last March 12. Voting will be selected by the co committee and all farme cotton this year are on whether they w as in 1939.

CURB MARKETS SELL ALABAMA PRODUCTS

Alabama's curb market located in key towns over the state, which did business amounting to $280,936.46 during the first nine months of 1938 provided a market for practically every farm and home product in Alabama, says Helen Johnson, state home demonstration agent. Here's what Alabama, home demonstration women and farmers brought to the curb market in September and early October: Butter, eggs, buttermilk peas, butter beans, egg plant, okra, turnips and turnip greens, sweet potatoes, p ars, apples, pomegranates, peppers, flowers, sprup, pepper sauce, honey, candy, cottage cheese, cakes, doughnuts, cookies, jellies, pickles, relishes, pear, mincemeat, meal, cushaws, smocks, aprons, sunsuits, orgrndy flowers, corn, tomatoes, snapbeams spinach, onions, collards, fryers, dressed hens, home-cured meat, hominy, sugarcane, rutabagas, scuppernongs, Irish potatoes, potted plan and other products.

STAR ATTRACTIO

See the Hero Foil the Vil.

IF YOU reside in a thinly-settled suburban or rural neighborhood, and of the persons whose spines tingle with a thrill when the hero saves "Litt from the clutches of the villain, you'll get a "kick" from learning about the of this advertisement.

Your hero's name is Repeater Fuse, a southern-born gentleman with th lives, employed by Alabama Power Company engineers and one of the many iten of electrical equipment "made in Alabama."

For the villain of our little melodrama we have Nature, transformed into a witch, who, in occasional whimsical mood, fleetingly flicks at some of the rural lines of Electra, the heroine, striving to put her handyman, Reddy Kilowatt, out of commission and annoy you (and us) with an unnecessary interruption to your dependable electric service.

That's when your hero, Repeater Fuse, steps into the play to foil the villain, giving all three of his lives to do so, if necessary. Here's how Repeater Fuse plays his part:

The villain causes a momentary abnormal surge of power over the wires, along which Repeater Fuse is stationed as sentry. This surge is intercepted by one of the fingers you see in the picture holding one of your hero's lives, technically known as cartridge fuses. There is a report, as of a gunshot, and one of Repeater Fuse's lives is no more. But instantly this happens, another of the fingers places another "life" in the breach. If the trouble is still on the line, Repeater Fuse loses another of his lives, and possibly a third. When, in rare instances, the elements of all three cartridge fuses are exploded, that means that Nature or accident has caused more than momentary trouble. Then real-life heroes—the members of our capable repair crews—go out on the line and speedily restore service, and renew the elements in the repeater fuse, so that it may again play its part when necessary.

Interruptions to your electric service are rare, because most electrical disturbances are only momentary, and repeater fuses and other ingenious equipment such as you've been reading about in these advertisements, handle them automatically and so swiftly that, except for a brief flicker of your lights, you do not know there has been a disturbance.

It takes more than merely poles, wires and "free money" to supply dependable electric service.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Lesson for November 13

THE SACREDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5:21-26, 38-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not kill.—Exodus 20:13. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer.—I John 3:15.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

The sanctity of human life finds its foundation in the fact that God created man in His own likeness and image. Because that is true no man has any right to take the life of another for any cause except at the direct command of God. Only by the orderly process of law for the protection of society and in accordance with the Word of God may there be any such action by man toward man. Both of these truths are declared in Scripture in God's covenant with Noah (Gen. 9:5, 6), which was made possibly a thousand years before the Ten Commandments were given to Moses.

Life is held rather cheaply in our day. Nations count their boys and girls as only so much "war material." Life is destroyed on the highway, in the shop, or in the home. Let us declare again the solemn command of God, "Thou shalt not kill."

I. The Prohibition of Murder (Exod. 20:13).

The word "kill" in this commandment is one which means a violent and unauthorized taking of life, and is therefore more properly translated "murder." Not all killing is murder. A man may kill another entirely accidentally, or he may be the duly constituted legal officer carrying out the law of the land in taking the life of one who has forfeited his right to live because he has slain another. There is also the right of self-defense, be it individual or collective. But these are the only exceptions; let us not attempt to justify any other.

Murder is too prevalent in our land. In 1936 there were 13,242 outright killings—a murder every 40 minutes. The head of the United States secret service estimates that there are 200,000 persons at large in our land who "have murder in their hearts and who will take human life before they die." Also in 1936 there were 37,800 deaths in automobile accidents. Some of these were by unavoidable accidents, but many were really murder because the one responsible drove with defective brakes, dangerous tires, or while he was intoxicated. Add to these the deaths in industry caused by failure to provide proper safeguards or healthy working conditions, and by the exploitation of child labor, and we say again, that we should cry aloud, "Thou shalt do no murder."

II. The Cause of Murder (Matt. 5:21, 22).

The Sermon on the Mount, from which the rest of our lesson is taken, while it "describes the character of the citizens of the earthly kingdom which the Messiah came to set up" and "assumes a class of people already saved, regenerated, and in fellowship with their King" (James M. Gray), does provide fundamental principles for the guidance of the Christian.

In this matter of murder, Jesus cuts right through the outward aspects of the matter and points out that an angry hatred in the heart is the root of all murder. If we hate, we have murder in our hearts. Circumstances may hinder its fulfillment, but the danger is always there until we remove the cause. Just being angry—calling our brother "Raca" (the modern equivalent of which is "nobody there"), and calling him "thou fool," which classifies him as "morally worthless"—these are the three dreadful downward steps to murder. And they begin in anger. May God help those of us who have strong feelings that we may not yield them to the devil in such anger against our brother!

III. The Prevention of Murder (Matt. 5:23-26, 38-42).

Prevention with God means more than putting up a barrier to keep us from killing. He deals with the heart, and thus puts the whole life right. It is not even a question of how we may feel against our brother. If he has aught against us we are to do all we can to win him. He may be unreasonable, grasping, and unfair. However, the spirit that will win him is not that of retaliation or sullen submission to the inevitable, but rather a free and willing going even beyond what is required.

The full interpretation of this passage is not possible in our limited space. It is clear from other scriptures that it does not mean that wicked and unscrupulous men are to be permitted to defraud and destroy God's people. At the same time, we must not explain away the heart of our Lord's interpretation of this great commandment. Let us seek His grace that we may, like Him, silence by our loving deeds and words even the bitter gainsayers of the gospel.

NEW MERCURY 8 IS ANNOUNCED

The newest car in motordom—the Mercury 8—was announced today by the Ford Motor Company as its representative in the lower medium-price field. It fills a place in the Ford-Lincoln line between the DeLuxe Ford V-8 and the Lincoln-Zephyr.

The Mercury 8 is a big car. It measures more than 16 feet from bumper to bumper. Its wheelbase is 116 inches. It is a powerful car, able to crawl smoothly or accelerate quickly in traffic, and with high road speed when desired. Its V-type 8-cylinder engine develops 95 horsepower. It is also an easy car to handle. Hydraulic brakes enable the driver to slow down or stop quickly with light pedal pressure.

In its modern streamlined styling the Mercury 8 bears a family resemblance to the Lincoln-Zephyr, acknowledged style leader of the motor world. Despite this resemblance the new car has a distinct styling of its own, both in flowing body contours and in interior appointments.

TWO NEW FORDS FOR 1939 SHOWN

The two finest Ford cars in the 35 years of the company's history will be given their first public showing tomorrow, Friday, November 4th, in dealerships throughout the country. The cars are the 1939 Ford V-8 and the 1939 DeLuxe Ford V-8. They are individually styled. Both are of compelling beauty. Both have hydraulic brakes.

Introduction of the new Fords climaxes a year of activity which saw the company embark on its current plant expansion program, bring out its entirely new Mercury 8, and establish the Lincoln-Zephyr still more firmly as the acknowledge style leader in the automobile industry.

The DeLuxe Ford V-8, with wholly new streamlines, has a distinctive appearance of its own. At the same time, both it and the Ford V-8 share a family likeness with the Lincoln-Zephyr and the new Mercury 8.

The DeLuxe has a deep hood with long lines unbroken by louvres, low radiator grille in bright metal, and wide-spaced headlamps set into the fenders. The words Ford DeLuxe, in script letters of chrome, are divided at the front of the hood. The hood handle is concealed in a vertical extension of the radiator ornament.

COLORED MAN FROM MT. CREEK WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

There has been so many of the white citizens of Chilton County who ask me to write on some of my early experiences about Clanton. It was first known as a sawmill or Gulahorn's Switch, used only for loading cars with lumber. The old Commissary stood where the city hall now stands, and the sawmill stood back of the Big Four Hardware Company.

The road from the Commissary to the railroad was nothing more nor less than a real rough route, with stumps, treetops, logs and holes. Near the depot was a box car, where tickets were sold. This was in the '79 and '80's.

Clanton or Gulahorn's Switch was made up of a log Courthouse and a big log jail, that was all there was to Clan- at that time.

While I was working for the Sloss Mineral Company, I was robbed of $85. The high sheriff of Clanton, whose name was Homer Lowe, and the Judge, whose name was Callens, landed the theif in that big log jail. Now looking at Clanton with its rapid growth and its modern buildings and the great changes made by the railroad, it looks impossible that it is the same place.

In conclusion I want to speak praises to some of the articles which the Union-Banner has printed and to the Editor. — Rev. Peter DeJarnette, Mt. Creek, Ala., Colored.

SCHOOLHOUSE FIRES

Fire damaged or destroyed 60 school buildings in Alabama during the fiscal year just closed, according to a report made to the Governor by C. B. Rogers, Chairman of the State Board of Administration.

Thirty-one of these buildings were totally destroyed.

These fires occurred in 33 of Alabama's 67 counties. Four of them were in Butler, four in Cullman, four in Marshall, four in Morgan, three each in Coffee and Lauderdale, two each in Baldwin, Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, Crenshaw, DeKalb, Henry, Pike and Walker and one each in Autauga, Bibb, Blount, Calhoun, Chambers, Choctaw, Clark, Escambia, Jefferson, Madison, Mobile, Randolph, Tallapoosa and Winston.

Fire losses on these buildings amounted to $263,558.60 A part of this loss fell upon the State Insurance Fund while a portion of it was recovered by re-insurance. These losses ranged from a few dollars where the fire was discovered early and extinguisher to $37,500 where a total loss was sustained. Every time one of these fires occurs the State loses money. The property is insured for only 75 per cent of its value and it must lose the other 25 per cent in case of fire.

Checking over the records it is found that these losses increase from year to year. The taxpayer naturally wants to know why. How can these losses be checked?

It has been suggested that frequent inspections be made of each school building by the custodian of the building or some member of the teaching staff. Inflamable materials should be kept away from the building as much as possible.

The loss of property is not the only reason for safeguarding these school buildings against fire—statistics show that in recent years more than 800 school children have lost their lives in schoolhouse fires in the United States. Fortunately none of these have occurred in Alabama so far as the writer has been able to ascertain.

There are 3,119 of these school buildings in Alabama and everyone of them should be made as safe and secure as is humanly possible for those who must occupy them.

HAD PREACHING AT HOME OF O. P. HENSON SUNDAY

On Sunday afternoon, November 6, at 2:30. A wonderful meeting was held at the home of Mr. O. P. Henson who has been sick in bed so long. Preaching was by Rev. J. R. Cost, pastor of Robinson Springs church.

He used as his text, "Be Prepared to Meet God." That is not only a warning to the one who s sick, but a warning to others as well. We never know when our time is coming. I am sure everyone enjoyed the sermon.

We thank you all and invite you back again.—Sybil Ray.

CRIPPLE CHILDREN CLINIC PLANNED

A diagnostic clinic to serve Chilton and several of the neighboring counties has been scheduled for Clanton on November 11th by the crippled Children Association, according to an announcement made by the local health department early this week. The approval was given to the clinic by the County Medical Society at its meeting in September, it was revealed by the county health officer. Quarters for the clinic are being furnished by the local department of Education, which has been arranged for the use of the vocational building of the Chilton County High School for this purpose. About 26 crippled children from Chilton County are scheduled to attend the clinic either to receive check-ups following treatment or to be admitted for diagnosis. Dr. Marcus Skinner of Selma, Alabama, Orthopedic surgeon, will serve clinician. A special effort is being made according to local health offiials to have local practitioners visit the clinic and participate more actively in the crippled children's program.

Included in this week's health department news bulletin was a report of a tuberculosis x-ray held last week in the office of the local health department at which 44 Chilton countians suspected of having tuberculosis received free Chest x-rays. The chest clinic, visiting Chilton County every six months, is held solely for the purpose of discovering cases of tuberculosis and constitutes a formidable weapon in the local fight against tuberculosis. An effort is being made to strengthen the local enti-tuberculosis program by the health department which is bringing this problem to the attention of the County Commissioners and requesting a local appropriation to assist Chilton countians who lack the funds to gain entrance to neighboring County sanatoria for treatment.

Thorsby Institute News

This week wil be National Education Week and visitors are invited to visit any classes they would like to visit at Thorsby Institute.

Mr. Morris Sims, clerk at the government nursery at Thorsby, who is also fourth in the list of lightweight lifting champoins in his class in the South, gave a very interesting talk on chapel at Thorsby Institute, last Thursday, on weight-lifting and demonstrated different ways of doing this, much to the interests of all who watched him. These exercises help to build up the muscles and thus build up the entire body.

On Wednesday morning at chapel, Miss Elverne Jones explained about verse choirs and had the entire school and faculty participate in one poem. Miss Jones is history and public speaking teacher at the Institute this year.

School will be in session on Saturday of this week, November 12th.

There will be regular services at the Congregational church next Sunday and regular mid-week prayer meeting on Wednesday night at 7:00 o'clock.

Eleven more hymn books have been purchased for the Congregational church, ten of which are given by the truth seekers class and one by the willing helpers class of the Congregational Sunday school.

The Christian Life Conference for young people met in Thorsby last week end under the direction of Miss Marguerite Davison. There was a good delegation of out-of-town visitors to the conference. About 140 sat down to the banquet on Saturday. Much inspiration and good was gotten from the conference by those who attended.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

At this season of the year when we celebrate Armistice Day, the day 20 years ago peace settled temporarily on the face of the earth, may we look deep into our hearts and learn whether or not we are at peace with our God. Do we have that "Wonderful, Wonderful Peace, Sweet Peace, the Gift of God's Love?" Can we truthfully sing, "It is well, it is well with my soul?" Blessed are we if we can, and our works will prove it. If we cannot, does it not behoove us to seek God with our whole hearts and continue seeking until we have learned the lesson our God teaches and then continue seeking until we have that peace which passeth all description and surpasseth all other pleasures of life. Then when we obtain that peace may we seek to get others to search for and receive the same blessing.

I guess we must have buried our talents for last Sunday and just brought the same ones back to the feet of our Master, because last Sunday we just met the record of the same Sunday a year ago We had the same number present in our church school as we had the same Sunday a year ago. We want to say that was good and we are proud of that, but let's do better and increase our average attendance, not only just for a Sunday or two, but for all the time.

Next Sunday, at the 11 o'clock preaching hour, we hope to have a large attendance. In addition to the sermon by our pastor, we are expecting Mr. Cecil Jones of Birmingham, who is a pupil of Prof. I. F. Chamblee, to be present and give two numbers on the violin, one of which will be "The Holy City." Let's come hear him while we worship at the 11 o'clock service, and may we be found at the place God wants us, for all the other church services.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith of Plantersville, a ten-pound baby girl November 7th, whom they have named Mildred Faye.

Domestic Allotment Plan "Five Bales To Each Family"

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to explain the domestic allotment plan, "Five Bales To Each Family", written by Vester Burkett, Townley, Ala., State president of Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America.

For years the government has seen to it that industry is protected on the American consumed part of their products. By means of the tariff, the farmers of America have been made to pay much higher prices for farming tools, wagons, mowing machines, threshing machines, tractors, and clothing than farmers of other countries who are shipping farm products into this country in competition with the American Farmer pay for the same identical make or brand.

Let the government be fair. Give the farmers the same chance to make money that the manufacturers have. Join the Five Bale Parity Plan Club and make a demand upon your congressman and senators that they enact a new farm bill guaranteeing parity or 16 cents on five bales of cotton for each farm family, thereby placing a floor of $400 under the income of each cotton growing family whether owner, renter, or sharecropper. "What is good for the goose is good for the gander." If you will fight like men by organizing and sending a lobby to Washington next winter, congress will give us what we must have to continue in the cotton growing business.

For once it seems the cotton farmers of the South are determined to make a fight in the next Congress for their rights. The Five Bale Parity Plan is receiving favor among cotton growers everywhere as being the most sensible and the fairest plan offered to the cotton growers.

Dr. M. F. Dickinson, is traveling from state to state getting organization work going. In Oklahoma, officials of the State Farmers Union received him with open arms on this proposition. They are spreading the gospel in that state from one end to the other. This last week he was in Alabama coming back across the state of Mississippi. Alabama is just as strong for the movement as are Arkansas and Oklahoma. Already organization work is under way in that state.

Wednesday, he is going to Louisiana to attend a State farm organziation meeting to present the plan more fully to the farmers of that state. However, the plan is pretty well known in the State of Louisiana already and the farmers are fighting for it. Brother Ed. Roger, of Oklahoma City, National Organizer of the Farmers Union is spreading the gospel in Mississippi and Louisiana. Next week we hope to go into Texas and then back into Mississippi and on into Georgia and South Carolina.

The farmers of other cotton growing states are doing their part. It is up to the Alabama farmers now to keep the fight going and to finish organizing all the cotton growing counties in this state. Remember the proposed Five Bale Parity Plan would repeal that section of the present law which applies to cotton. It would put a stop to government control for crop acreage on cotton farms.

Every cotton farmer would be free to run his farm as he chose, free from the dictation of political committees, with its ever-present favoritism in the fixing of allotments, average yield and other things which determine the amount the farmer receives from the government.

There would be only one requirement along this line: Each cotton farmer would be required to plant every year, one-third of his cultivated acres to soil-conserving or soil-building crops.

The farmer would produce as much cotton as he wishes or he did before government control was ever of. The government would not fix prices or buy cotton.

After selling his cotton, the farmer would turn in his sales slips, which he would receive from the buyer and the warehouse, to some authorized government agent.

If the farmer rasied and sold only five bales of cotton, and received a price of only eight cents a pound, he would not later than December 31 of the year in which the cotton is grown receive a government check for the difference between his selling price, and parity which at present is around 16 cents a pound.

No farmer would receive the adjusted parity payment on more than five bales of his crop. If he produced ten to twenty or thirty bales, he would have to be satisfied with the world price on all above five bales. This would take care of so-called "overproduction" in the natural way.

This plan would automatically take care of land owner whose land is worked by sharecroppers or tenant farmers, as he would collect, in his one-fourth rentals, his share of the adjusted parity payments made to all families on his farms. This means that thousands of families now on WPA or other government relief agencies, whi cannot get land to farm because of acreage reduction that have been made, would return to the farms of the South.

Because every farmer would have enough cash for his actual needs, he could afford to build up his land to adopt balanced farming practices which would enable him to supplement his cash income from cotton with income from live stock and other crops.

This would mean security on every southern farm, and eventual solution of the tenancy problem, since the tenant with a reputation as a worker and a manager would be assured a sufficient income to enable him to meet interest and principal payments on a farm of his own and to get credit for the purchase.

No more red tape, actual security, freedom as our forefathers fought for it and enjoyed it, prosperity for all classes of the South—these are a few of the benefits that will be realized if cotton farmers and business and professional men throughout the South will join hands in the movement to force Congress to enact the proposed bill of the Cotton Framers' Minimum Income Assiciation as soon as possible after it meets next January 1.

Whether we are to get this bill depends upon us. Everybody admits it is fair and but two objections have been raised against it. One is, the five bales to the family would run above the American consumed cotton. Our answer to that is that President Roosevelt has said, that it is the duty of the Government to see that the income of each family is raised to a point where it can enjoy a decent standard living. So what if it does go above the American consumption if the Government is taking care of the family size farmer. Then too, the President said "one-third of the population is 'ill fed, ill clothed, ill housed." He said also that the South is the No. 1 economic problem of the nation. So let the Government give us this guarantee on five bales for each family growing cotton, thereby, placing this floor of $400 under their income and lifting the outh out of the position of being the economic problem No. 1.

However, if Congress is disturbed about the cost they can reduce the number of bales per family to get within the romestic consumption. We have heard no one complaining about the costs or where the money is coming from on our more than one billion dollar Army and Navy program. We haven't heard much said where the money is to come from to maintain other agencies as the WPA which has cost us more than six billion dollars during the past three years.

The other objection is that it would encourage a larger production of cotton in the United States. Well, what if it does? The control program has gotten us nowhere except to bankrupt the southern cotton growers causing man to lose homes, and to destroy world market cotton. Every one now knows that if we reduce our production the foreign countries increase theirs more than we reduce, thus, giving us more cotton for the spinners to buy from than we had before control. So by reducing we are only giving room for the foreign growers to produce more cotton. At the same time we are selling them wagons, tractors, cultivators and other farming implements together with clothing at a less price than we are selling to our own farmers. It would seem that it is about time Congress was giving real consideration to the American farmers instead of favoring the foreign cotton growers.

A CAKE OF SOAP

At last the loaf of bread, loaded with fifty-two seperate and distinct taxes, has been outdone as the classic example of New Deal tax burdens. The Emergency Consumers Tax Counci of New Jersey has now estimated that an ordinary cake of facial soap bears 104 hidden taxes which amount to 10.3 per cent of the purchase price.

The council has figured out that the swarm of hidden taxes on the cake of soap result from levies on the tallow producer, perfume maker, chemicals manufacturer, wrapper factory, soap company, transportation agency, soap wholesaler and the retail store.

If the outlandish taxes on one cake of soap are impressive, what about the hidden levies on other essentials, including almost everything we buy? The taxes are all there, on the soap, on the bread, on all food and household supplies whether we realize it or not.

Heavy taxation reduces buying power. It is doing so right now. We won't have permanent recovery so long as the government dips into everybody's pocket at the rate it is now doing.—Philadelphia Inquirer

AIN'T IT SO?

Then there is a story going the rounds in Marysville about a farmer who bought a radio from a local dealer only on the provision that it wouldn't get political speeches. Not long afterwards a hot letter came to the dealer, complaining that all the farmer could get on it was political speeches. When the dealer investigated, he quickly found the reason. The aerial had been strung between a windmill and the bullpen.—Marysville Advocate-Democrat.

FUNDAMENTALS REMAIN

How times do change. Years ago the candidates had to kiss the babies. Now candidates of both parties are busy kissing those over 60.—Manhattan News.

New York City, according to the newspapers, in preparation for the 1939 World's Fair, is having its "face lifted" by the WPA. And at the same time, of course, the taxpayers will have their rates lifted.

ANOTHER NEW LAW

The new wages and hours law is now in effect. Administrator Andrews declares that its reception has been generally satisfactory and he estimates that hours of work will be shortened for 1,500,000 laborers and wages raised for 750,000. These figures, of course, are merely estimates and nothing more. The real test of the law will come when employers have completed their efforts to adjust their conditions to the new law.

It was expected that there would be a favorable reaction when the law was put into effect. Most of the people greeted it with renewed hope. Just how long this reaction will last remains to be seen. Most commentators see mto have overlooked the fact that Congress planned to put the law into effect just two weeks before the Congressional elections. It is anybody's guess as to how much political significance there is in this.

Yet, even at that, the law was not put into application without some hitches. The unfavorable reaction was especially noticeable in the pecan growing section of the South where thousands of men lost their jobs because the employers said they couldn't pay the minimum wage and remain in busness.

No expert now, not even Mr. Andrews, can estimate just how many men are going to lose their jobs ultimately because of the new law, and what the final effect will be on real wages, if the cost of living is raised by the new schedules.

One thing is certain: the minimum wage and the maximum hour provision are of relatively little importance to the 11,000,000 men out of jobs. What they need first of all is work. Now if the new wage and hour law provides more jobs for the jobless, all well and good. But if, by raising the cost of production it curtails buing and the demand for goods then we are apt to have not more jobs, but fewer.

We are inaugurating the wages and hour law, just as France, another New Deal country, through an enforced dictatorship, is getting rid of the same kind of legislation. New Deal France put the maximum hour schedules into force some time ago. But the result was not prosperity but the shutting off of some French markets because of competition from other countries where men worked longer and for less wages. So the French have now suspended this important bit of New Deal legislation. It could not meet German and other alien competition.

Here is a point for Americans to consider. Secretary Hull is now arranging the easier admission of foreign commodities to America—goods made by aliens who work long hours at cheaper wages than do Americans. If we are to raise our costs further by higher wages and shorter hours, then what is the sense of destroying the good effect by admitting the produce of alien labor which can only undersell us further because of our latest legal enactments?

It is said that a ten per cent increase in income taxes may be employed by Congress to meet the cost of proposed new defensive armaments. Of course, it wouldn't do to use any of the money now being employed to finance public works. There is no political angle to that.

It is a good bet that gasoline is going up in price some of these days. The government is thinking about regulating the refining industry.

HE MAY "HAVE" TO RUN

Quite a great deal of comment was caused recently by the statement of Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, to the effect that Roosevelt may "have" to run for president in 1940. The statement was made while Mr. Ickes was on a political tour in California. When asked his views as to a possible Democratic candidate for president in 1940, Secretary, Ickes is purported to have said:

"It's in the lap of the gods. I think President Roosevelt would carry the United States if he ran again and he might have to run. But for his sake I hope he doesn't."

Mr. Ickes naturally declined to explain more fully his statement that the president might "have" to run. But it is this statement which has given rise to much speculation. Just why might things work out so that Mr. Roosevelt would "have" to run again? There are perhaps several reasons. It is possible that in view of the Roosevelt purge tactics in the recent primaries the independents in the Roosevelt camp such as Mr. Ickes believe that it will be impossible for them to control the Democratic roganization and get a candidate to their liking unless Mr. Roosevelt takes up the burden in 1940. In this respect it is interesting to note that conservative or Jeffersonian Democrats are already beginning to look to Missouri for their next candidate. Senator Champ Clark is very popular down there and it is predicted that he will be re-elected to the United States Senate by a big majority. In event of this, there is little question that he will immediately become a possibility for the Democratic nomination in 1940. Now, Senator Clark is not the kind of candidate which Mr. Ickes and his friends want. He is far too conservative for their liking. He refuses to believe that Santa Claus can cure the depression and he has some "strange" ideas to the effect that we ought to balance the national budget and start paying off our national debt as soon as possible. He is even opposed to such New Deal ideals as packing the Supreme Court and reorganizing the national government to throw all power possible into the hands of the chief executive and provide bigger and better rubber stamps for the Senators and Congressmen.

If it develops, therefore, that a presidential boom for Senator Clark, or a man if his size and principles, is becoming dangerous, there is little doubt that men like Messrs. Ickes, Cohen, Corcoran and Jackson will find that President Roosevelt will "have" to run again.

Of course much depends on how things develop when Congress meets. But it is a good bet that if the Jeffersoian Democrats begin to loom strongly in the 1940 limelight there will be a clarion call on the part of the ardent New Dealers for a Rooseveltian third term.

INVITING TROUBLE

The federal government is spending every year money that not only has not been earned, but money that is not now in existence. All history shows that this sort of spending, if long persisted in, brings trouble to individuals as well as nations. With this difference: when the individual goes bust the consequences are largely local, but when the government gets beyond its depth in the financial mire it may rip the civic order to smithereens. In other nations the clique that has control of the army usually ends up with the reins of government.—Story City, Iowa Herald.

CHURCHILL SPEAKS TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

A few day ago, the Hon. Winston Churchill, former first lord of the British admiralty and severe critic of the present British government, broadcast a lengthy address, on a short wave length that made it obvious he was appealing directly and wholly to the American people for support by the United States of Britain in the event of further troubles in Europe. The address was not broadcast in Great Britain by the British Broadcasting company, and was not repeated in translation in any other language than English. The implications are obvious.

With some of Mr. Churchill's observations the average American will agree. He asserts that his country's desertion of Czechoslovakia greatly weakened the world's liberal forces and lessened the might of the democracies. British rearmament, he said, is the sole guarantee of peace on the continent. He warned that America must be on the watch for fascist penetration, not only in this nation itself, but in other nations in the western hemisphere. So far, so good.

But the British statesman's principal point seemed to be that he was issuing a warning to America that it must unite with Britain in stopping Hitler and his kind in Europe else, they will, he asserted, become our problem alone, to be handled alone after they have crushed the freer nations of the old world. He spoke of the solidarity of "the English-speaking peoples", of their might if they would unite; and he implied that unless the United States joined immediately with Britain in an aggressive campaign against the totalitarian states, then we might as well prepare to fight them alone.

Somehow, this has strangely the ring of the initial propaganda that got us into the World War. If we did not join Britain then, said the expert British propagandists . . . and they made us believe it . . . it would only be a matter of time until New York and Chicago and Kansas City and Enid and other American cities would be under the Kaiser's heel. Were they to be conquered, we would be next, and alone in the fray. We listened then . . . but will be taken again? — Enid, Okla., News.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"No good thing will I withold from him that walketh uprightly." That is God's promise. "Heaven and earth may pass away but my words shall not pass away." God keeps his promise. "If it were not so, I would have told you," said Jesus. In other words, He said, "You can depend on Me." Do we believe it? If we really believed God, none of us Christians would worry about what happens to us. God is our Father. A normal mother is more interested in the welfare of her child than he is in himself. God is interested in His children. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him." God never said He would not let sorrow come to us. Sorrow overtaking a consecrated child of God is one of God's good things which He has not withheld from the one who walks uprightly. Tears on the cheeks of surrendered saints are jewels that some day will deck their brows. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

The sheep were chased by wolves and other animals. The wild animals sent by satan to "hound the path" of a consecrated saint are somehow changed by God's miraculous power into "goodness and mercy" to keep the saint in "paths of righteousness." Out yonder in the ages to come, I imagine I see a group of redeemed ones on a street corner in Heaven. "My name is Daniel," says one. "I read about you in the Bible when I was a child," a saint wearing a crown of glory says. "Daniel, were you very nervous when you were thrown into the lions' den," the saint inquires. "Yes, I was naturally a little disturbed, but it was so foolish as I look back now. That lions' den was one of the many good things God sent me along life's way. I thank him for it now." Another speaks: "I know how you feel. My name is Paul. I was beaten and left by the roadside for dead. I was in prison, while I suffered with a bloody back and my feet were in stocks. It seemed a little hard sometimes, but wasn't God good to us? How I praise Him for all of those good things, for the beatings, the prisons, and the perils an land and sea." A throng crowds the street corner. Many of them "came up through great tribulation." They are there from "kindreds and tongues and tribes and nations." What a host of the redeemed! They "praise God from Whom all blessings flow." They rejoice that they were counted worthy to suffer for the "Lamb that was slain and redeemed them to God by His blood." They know now that the sufferings of the world through which they traveled were not to be compared with the glory of their heavenly state. Cheer up, you troubled and sorrowing Christians. Never mind the satanic persecution and the hatred and opposition of a Godless world. God is your Father. He is on the throne. He has not given up His Fatherly responsibility to take care of His children. Even when earthly parents throw us down, He takes us up. It is true that He sends His angels to encamp around and about us with swords in hand so nothing can harm us. BUT, HE HIMSELF IN THE PERSON OF THE HOLY SPIRIT DWELLS IN OUR MORTAL BODIES. God in us. Angels wth drawn swords about us. Come on, sorrows and persecutions. Come on, disappointments and troubles. Come on, wicked men and angry demons. Before you can harm us who belongs to God you will have to overthrow and destroy the angelic army encamping about us. Can you do that? If you can, you are still defeated, for omnipotence is held in reserve for your defeat, for in our bodies dwells the Holy Ghost. It is a sin for Christians to fret and worry. Do we believe God? Then let's show our faith by a Christian composure and restful spirit.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — Two of the total of 317 cases of typhoid reported last year to the State Department of Health were reported from Chilton County, according to a compilation prepared by the State Health Department's Bureau of Preventable Diseases for inclusion in the Health Department's annual report.

These figures show that 0.8 persons out of every 10,000 living in the county had typhoid at some time during the year.

In the State as a whole, these figures show one white person out of every 10,000 and 1.2 colored persons out of every 10,000 had this disease during the year. Fifty-two 1937 typhoid deaths were reported to the State Health Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics, of which 21 were of white persons and 31 of negroes. The 1937 typhoid death rates were 1.1 per 100,000 population for white people, 3.0 per 100,000 population for negroes, and 1.8 per 100,000 population for the entire State.

THE "JUDAS GOATS" OF REPEAL

In Chicago's stockyards, where animals are slaughtered for the nation's food, visitors may see the killing of squealing pigs that have their throats cut, and of heavy oxen destroyed painlessly by men who swing heavy, blunt sledge hammers on the skulls of the animals passing below them.

The killing of sheep, however, visitors are not allowed to see, the sight is too pitiful. A big goat wearing a bell walks out and starts up an inclining chute, the silly sheep start following after him. As they go bleating along unsuspectingly, men slit their throats and they bleed to death.

The goat with the bell around his neck walks ahead of them as they climb the incline and walk along one behind the other toward the men who stand ready with sharp knives to cut their throats—nobody harms the goat. He walks on, goes back and brings in another lot of sheep, bleating to their doom. He is trained thus to walk ahead of sheep that are to be slaughtered.

Chicago reporters have named this big goat with a bell on, "Judas" because it is his business to betray. He is called "the Judas goat", because he leads innocent, bleating sheep to their bloody doom.

In 1932, America was in the slaughter pens of a tragic depression. National forces were whirling around in a dazed confusion. Out walked the big repealist; they were wearing bells and stepping proudly. Like bleating sheep, American voters fell in line and followed after them. We have been betrayed and led to the slaughter by these "Judas goats". They said repeal would reduce taxes. Whose taxes have been reduced? They said repeal would reduce the national debt. It has more than doubled. They said it would produce revenue enough to balance the national budget, but in 1936 the national budget lacked $2,800,000,000 being balanced. In other words, legalization of liquor has not produced enough revenue in four years to balance the national budget the one single year of 1936 by over $800,000. In the four years of repeal, it has produced less than $2,000,000,000.

They said repeal would stop bootlegging, but the government apprehends an average of 300 bootlegger stills a week and in addition to bootlegger stills, we now have those who bootleg liquor bottles, counterfeit revenue stamps and sell bootleg liquor in licensed places of business.

They said repeal would reduce crime, but despite the fact that liquor law violators were released and court dockets cleaned of liquor cases upon the advent of repeal, the Federal prison population increased twenty-five per cent the frist year of repeal, and ...cording to information given out by ... Federal Bureau of Investigation, ... average increase over the whole ...l area has been 47 per cent per ... In less than three years ...l Bates, head of the Federal ...ystem, went before Congress ...aled for appropriations to ...l new federal prison sys- ...e the influx of prsoners ...al; in 1936 fifty-two per ... prisoners were there ...or laws.

...nich for ten years ...eal of national prohi- ...ged 26,000 annually have ... to mount in defiance of the ...st safety campaigns ever con- ...cted, until they now reach approximately 50,000 or nearly double what they were under prohibition. Latest records reveal the facts that traffic deaths due to the mixture of alcohol and gasoline, range from forty to sixty per cent in the various states.

These facts must be faced. They cannot be obliterated. They cannot be ignored. They must be accounted with. They show the utter folly of repeal. It has failed as a revenue move, it has failed to reduce crime, it has failed to regulate the liquor traffic, it has failed to reduce drinking or promote temperance, it has failed to eliminate the bootlegger, but it has increased the problem of alcohol patients in our hospitals. It has strewn our highways and streets with wrecks, devastation, death and suffering.

It has demonstrated that the liquor traffic is the most corrupt, the most heartless, and the most degrading business ever devised by man or devil, and most especially to be endorsed by a civilized people. It is a traffic that blights and damns, that starves and debauches, that degrades and prostitutes, that corrupts and kills; it is the enemy of every home, every man, every woman, every girl, every little child and everybody in the land.

It has caused more murder, more misery, more divorces, more wasted lives more prodical boys more disgraceful girls than any other cause operating in human society.

America, as she follows, bleating along behind these big "Judas goats of repeal" is being slaughtered and bled to death. Four billion dollars annually flows out of the pockets of constructive trades, and is wasted on alcohol. The highways and streets are being baptized in the blood of citizens whose lives have been killed by drinking drivers; mothers are weeping over wayward children, wives are having their hearts bled white by drinking husbands who forget their marriage vows; little children shiver in the cold, starve in hovels, and die in want as the liquor traffic cashes the WPA checks of their drinking daddies, mothers, brother and sisters.

America's throat has been cut and she is being slowly bled to death as she blindly follows on after these "Judas goats of repeal."

Let's quit following the "Judas goats," let's quit going blindly into the slaughter house, let's quit having our throats cut, let's wake the nation up, let's make a desperate effort to elect dry men to fill the offices of our country.

Respectively submitted,
M. LOCKHART.

RUFFIN EXPLAINS PECAN TROLBLE

Auburn, Ala.—Pecan aphids and scab, and insects and a disease, were blamed by L. A. Ruffin, extension entomologlist of the Alabama Polptechnic Institute, for the large number of pecan trees over all the states becoming completlp difoliated so ear ly his fall.

Ruffin said it is very likelp that these were also responsible for the low pield of pecans this pear and the dropping of immature nuts. There has been a steady decrease in pecan prospects since August.

Some trees in the state completely lost their leaves early in the summer and have practically a complete new crop of foliage at the present time. Due to favorable weather conditions for the development of the aphid as well as the scabs these two enemies have caused numerous damage this year.

The aphid when feeding on leaves causes them to turn black and fall prematurely. The scab also attacts the leaves but is more likely to attack the nuts, causing the shuck to turn black and fall off before maturing. according to Ruffin.

Recent experiments of the U. S. Department of Agricu ure indicate t a pecan scab san be controld by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Ruffin says that the spraying eequipment for covering large trees is very expensive and it is not practical for a farmer with a few trees to attempt this schedule of spraping. Commercial growers or small grove owners who wish to work cboperntivelp may obtain details of this spraying work by writing to Ruffin at the Alabama Polytecnic Institute at Auburn.

NATIONAL PEANUT FESTIVAL

Wooden nickels and beautiful girls are making headlines for Dothan, Ala., today. People are spending wooden money in Dothan and the merchants say it is all right, all of which goes to show what a really industrious peanut can do. Bathing beauties attired in the latest close fitting peanut suits will hold a competition for First Gueen of the National Peanut Festival the night of November 11. In fact, so much good has been found in the peanut by Dr. George W. Carver, famous negro scientist, that governors, senators, consressmen and other personages are gathering at the festival to attend this illustrated lecture on peanuts. A real celebration is occuring in the heart of the Wiregrass sponsored by Dothan with a pageant, parade, beautiful girls, wooden nickels and, of course, lots and lots of peanuts.

COTTON SITUATION DEMANDS ADJUSTMENT FOR BETTER PRICES

Auburn, Ala.—The present carryover of cotton, the amount that is going into the loan this year, and the decreased foreign and domestic consumption present a dark picture for southern cotton farmers unless continued effort is made to bring the supply and demand more in line, believes P. O. Davis, diretor of the Alabama Extention Service.

A large supply naturally means a low price and the supply this year made up of a carryover of 13.7 million bales and the current crop of 12 bales makes the hopes for a better price any time soon very dark, he stated. The carryover is the largest on record and is larger than the world consumption of cotton last year. This does not even consider the present crop now almost gathered.

"To really see the effects of low consumption following a year when there was no production control and a record cotton crop one only needs to look at the August 1, 1938, carryover, which because of these things was more than seven million bales larger than the previous year."

In 1936, the director said, after three years of cotton adjustment effort, the supply had been adjusted from 13,000,000 bales to 6,000,000 bales and the price had risen from five cents in 1932 to 13 cents in 1936. With no acloitment and no quotas on cotton production and with a large crop in 1937 we again have a huge surplus of cotton that only loans have prevented from going to 1932 prices. Since it took three years to reach the position we were in during 1936 it seems safe to assume that it will take more than one year of adjustment efforts to bring the surplus down and the price up to a fair level.

A CAKE OF SOAP

At last the loaf of bread, loaded with fifty-two seperate and distinct taxes, has been outdone as the classic example of New Deal tax burdens. The Emergency Consumers Tax Counci of New Jersey has now estimated that an ordinary cake of facial soap bears 104 hidden taxes which amount to 10.3 per cent of the purchase price.

The council has figured out that the swarm of hidden taxes on the cake of soap result from levies on the tallow producer, perfume maker, chemicals manufacturer, wrapper factory, soap company, transportation agency, soap wholesaler and the retail store.

If the outlandish taxes on one cake of soap are impressive, what about the hidden levies on other essentials, including almost everything we buy? The taxes are all there, on the soap, on the bread, on all food and household supplies whether we realize it or not.

Heavy taxation reduces buying power. It is doing so right now. We won't have permanent recovery so long as the government dips into everybody's pocket at the rate it is now doing.—Philadelphia Inquirer

AIN'T IT SO?

Then there is a story going the rounds in Marysville about a farmer who bought a radio from a local dealer only on the provision that it wouldn't get political speeches. Not long afterwards a hot letter came to the dealer, complaining that all the farmer could get on it was political speeches. When the dealer investigated, he quickly found the reason. The aerial had been strung between a windmill and the bullpen.—Marysville Advocate-Democrat.

FUNDAMENTALS REMAIN

How times do change. Years ago the candidates had to kiss the babies. Now candidates of both parties are busy kissing those over 60.—Manhattan News.

New York City, according to the newspapers, in preparation for the 1939 World's Fair, is having its "face lifted" by the WPA. And at the same time, of course, the taxpayers will have their rates lifted.

ANOTHER NEW LAW

The new wages and hours law is now in effect. Administrator Andrews declares that its reception has been generally satisfactory and he estimates that hours of work will be shortened for 1,500,000 laborers and wages raised for 750,000. These figures, of course, are merely estimates and nothing more. The real test of the law will come when employers have completed their efforts to adjust their conditions to the new law.

It was expected that there would be a favorable reaction when the law was put into effect. Most of the people greeted it with renewed hope. Just how long this reaction will last remains to be seen. Most commentators see mto have overlooked the fact that Congress planned to put the law into effect just two weeks before the Congressional elections. It is anybody's guess as to how much political significance there is in this.

Yet, even at that, the law was not put into application without some hitches. The unfavorable reaction was especially noticeable in the pecan growing section of the South where thousands of men lost their jobs because the employers said they couldn't pay the minimum wage and remain in busness.

No expert now, not even Mr. Andrews, can estimate just how many men are going to lose their jobs ultimately because of the new law, and what the final effect will be on real wages, if the cost of living is raised by the new schedules.

One thing is certain: the minimum wage and the maximum hour provision are of relatively little importance to the 11,000,000 men out of jobs. What they need first of all is work. Now if the new wage and hour law provides more jobs for the jobless, all well and good. But if, by raising the cost of production it curtails buing and the demand for goods then we are apt to have not more jobs, but fewer.

We are inaugurating the wages and hour law, just as France, another New Deal country, through an enforced dictatorship, is getting rid of the same kind of legislation. New Deal France put the maximum hour schedules into force some time ago. But the result was not prosperity but the shutting off of some French markets because of competition from other countries where men worked longer and for less wages. So the French have now suspended this important bit of New Deal legislation. It could not meet German and other alien competition.

Here is a point for Americans to consider. Secretary Hull is now arranging the easier admission of foreign commodities to America—goods made by aliens who work long hours at cheaper wages than do Americans. If we are to raise our costs further by higher wages and shorter hours, then what is the sense of destroying the good effect by admitting the produce of alien labor which can only undersell us further because of our latest legal enactments?

It is said that a ten per cent increase in income taxes may be employed by Congress to meet the cost of proposed new defensive armaments. Of course, it wouldn't do to use any of the money now being employed to finance public works. There is no political angle to that.

It is a good bet that gasoline is going up in price some of these days. The government is thinking about regulating the refining industry.

HE MAY "HAVE" TO RUN

Quite a great deal of comment was caused recently by the statement of Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, to the effect that Roosevelt may "have" to run for president in 1940. The statement was made while Mr. Ickes was on a political tour in California. When asked his views as to a possible Democratic candidate for president in 1940, Secretary, Ickes is purported to have said:

"It's in the lap of the gods. I think President Roosevelt would carry the United States if he ran again and he might have to run. But for his sake I hope he doesn't."

Mr. Ickes naturally declined to explain more fully his statement that the president might "have" to run. But it is this statement which has given rise to much speculation. Just why might things work out so that Mr. Roosevelt would "have" to run again? There are perhaps several reasons. It is possible that in view of the Roosevelt purge tactics in the recent primaries the independents in the Roosevelt camp such as Mr. Ickes believe that it will be impossible for them to control the Democratic roganization and get a candidate to their liking unless Mr. Roosevelt takes up the burden in 1940. In this respect it is interesting to note that conservative or Jeffersonian Democrats are already beginning to look to Missouri for their next candidate. Senator Champ Clark is very popular down there and it is predicted that he will be re-elected to the United States Senate by a big majority. In event of this, there is little question that he will immediately become a possibility for the Democratic nomination in 1940. Now, Senator Clark is not the kind of candidate which Mr. Ickes and his friends want. He is far too conservative for their liking. He refuses to believe that Santa Claus can cure the depression and he has some "strange" ideas to the effect that we ought to balance the national budget and start paying off our national debt as soon as possible. He is even opposed to such New Deal ideals as packing the Supreme Court and reorganizing the national government to throw all power possible into the hands of the chief executive and provide bigger and better rubber stamps for the Senators and Congressmen.

If it develops, therefore, that a presidential boom for Senator Clark, or a man if his size and principles, is becoming dangerous, there is little doubt that men like Messrs. Ickes, Cohen, Corcoran and Jackson will find that President Roosevelt will "have" to run again.

Of course much depends on how things develop when Congress meets. But it is a good bet that if the Jeffersoian Democrats begi to loom strongly in the 1940 limelight the will be a clarion call on the part of the arc New Dealers for a Rooseveltian third

A few day ago, the Hon. Winston Churchill, former first lord of the British admiralty and severe critic of the present British government, broadcast a lengthy address, on a short wave length that made it obvious he was appealing directly and wholly to the American people for support by the United States of Britain in the event of further troubles in Europe. The address was not broadcast in Great Britain by the British Broadcasting company, and was not repeated in translation in any other language than English. The implications are obvious.

With some of Mr. Churchill's observations the average American will agree. He asserts that his country's desertion of Czechoslovakia greatly weakened the world's liberal forces and lessened the might of the democracies. British rearmament, he said, is the sole guarantee of peace on the continent. He warned that America must be on the watch for fascist penetration, not only in this nation itself, bu in other nations in the western hemispher So far, so good.

But the British statesman's principal seemed to be that he was issuing a wa to America that it must unite with Br stopping Hitler and his kind in Euro they will, he asserted, become our alone, to be handled alone after crushed the freer nations of the He spoke of the solidarity of speaking peoples", of their would unite; and he implied United States joined immedi in an aggressive campaign tarian states, then we mi to fight them alone.

The sheep were chased by wolves and other animals. The wild animals sent by satan to "hound the path" of a consecrated saint are somehow changed by God's miraculous power into "goodness and mercy" to keep the saint in "paths of righteousness." Out yonder in the ages to come, I imagine I see a group of redeemed ones on a street corner in Heaven. "My name is Daniel," says one. "I read about you in the Bible when I was a child," a saint wearing a crown of glory says. "Daniel, were you very nervous when you were thrown into the lions' den," the saint inquires. "Yes, I was naturally a little disturbed, but it was so foolish as I look back now. That lions' den was one of the many good things God sent me along life's way. I thank him for it now." Another speaks: "I know how you feel. My name is Paul. I was beaten and left by the roadside for dead. I was in prison, while I suffered with a bloody back and my feet were in stocks. It seemed a little hard sometimes, but wasn't God good to us? How I praise Him for all of those good things, for the beatings, the prisons, and the perils an land and sea." A throng crowds the street corner. Many of them "came up through great tribulation." They are there from "kindreds and tongues and tribes and nations." What a host of the redeemed! They "praise God from Whom all blessings flow." They rejoice that they were counted worthy to suffer for the "Lamb that was slain and redeemed them to God by His blood." They know now that the sufpea ing Christians. Never mind the satanic persecution and the hatred and opposition of a Godless world. God is your Father. He is on the throne. He has not given up His Fatherly responsibility to take care of His children. Even when earthly parents throw us down, He takes us up. It is true that He sends His angels to encamp around and about us with swords in hand so nothing can harm us. BUT, HE HIMSELF IN THE PERSON OF THE HOLY SPIRIT DWELLS IN OUR MORTAL BODIES. God in us. Angels wth drawn swords about us. Come on, sorrows and persecutions. Come on, disappointments and troubles. Come on, wicked men and angry demons. Before you can harm us who belongs to God you will have to overthrow and destroy the angelic army encamping about us. Can you do that? If you can, you are still defeated, for omnipotence is held in reserve for your defeat, for in our bodies dwells the Holy Ghost. It is a sin for Christians to fret and worry. Do we believe God? Then let's show our faith by a Christian composure and restful spirit.

TO THE SUBSCRIBERS OF THE UNION-BANNER

Some weeks ago we carried a message to our subscribers regarding the status of their subscriptions. We again wish to call your attention to this matter.

Quite a few subscriptions expire at this season of the year, and it has been the custom of this paper to stop subscriptions when they are out. This practice will be continued.

It is our desire that all names be retained on our mailing list; but there is a right way to do business and wrong ways. We find it most generally satisfactory to notify our subscribers in advance of their expiration date, then if they do not pay up, stop them.

As stated in our previous message, we believe that a dollar cannot be spent more advantageously and to bring more genuine satisfaction to the spender than to invest it in a year's subscription to The Union-Banner. Think it over, and if you see our way and if your subscription has expired, or is about out let us have that dollar and keep the paper coming. If your paper stops, you will know what is the matter.

THE "JUDAS GOATS" OF REPEAL

In Chicago's stockyards, where animals are slaughtered for the nation's food, visitors may see the killing of squealing pigs that have their throats cut, and of heavy oxen destroyed painlessly by men who swing heavy, blunt sledge hammers on the skulls of the animals passing below them.

The killing of sheep, however, visitors are not allowed to see, the sight is too pitiful. A big goat wearing a bell walks out and starts up an inclining chute, the silly sheep start following after him. As they go bleating along unsuspectingly, men slit their throats and they bleed to death.

The goat with the bell around his neck walks ahead of them as they climb the incline and walk along one behind the other toward the men who stand ready with sharp knives to cut their throats—nobody harms the goat. He walks on, goes back and brings in another lot of sheep, bleating to their doom. He is trained thus to walk ahead of sheep that are to be slaughtered.

Chicago reporters have named this big goat with a bell on, "Judas" because it is his business to betray. He is called "the Judas goat", because he leads innocent, bleating sheep to their bloody doom.

In 1932, America was in the slaughter pens of a tragic depression. National forces were whirling around in a dazed confusion. Out walked the big repealist; they were wearing bells and stepping proudly. Like bleating sheep, American voters fell in line and followed after them. We have been betrayed and led to the slaughter by these "Judas goats". They said repeal would reduce taxes. Whose taxes have been reduced? They said repeal would reduce the national debt. It has more than doubled. They said it would produce revenue enough to balance the national budget, but in 1936 the national budget lacked $2,800,000,000 being balanced. In other words, legalization of liquor has not produced enough revenue in four years to balance the national budget the one single year of 1936 by over $800,000. In the four years of repeal, it has produced less than $2,000,000,000.

They said repeal would stop bootlegging, but the government apprehends an average of 300 bootlegger stills a week and in addition to bootlegger stills, we now have those who bootleg liquor bottles, counterfeit revenue stamps and sell bootleg liquor in licensed places of business.

They said repeal would reduce crime, but despite the fact that liquor law violators were released and court dockets cleaned of liquor cases upon the advent of repeal, the Federal prison population increased twenty-five per cent the frist year of repeal, and according to information given out by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the average increase over the whole repeal area has been 47 per cent per 100,000. In less than three years Stanford Bates, head of the Federal Prison System, went before Congress and appealed for appropriations to build several new federal prison systems to house the influx of prsoners following repeal; in 1936 fifty-two per cent of federal prisoners were there for violating liquor laws.

They promised that dry territory would be protected, but the federal alcohol tax unit has every year issued thousands of liquor licenses in dry states, and thereby, cooperated with the bootleggers and law-breakers to violate State regulations with an iniquity that would shame the devil.

They said repeal would end kidnapping, but the nation continues to be shocked and rocked repeadedly by kidnapping of some man, woman or little child.

They said repeal would create respect for law and promote temperance among the youth of the land. Crime has steadily climed until it has reached the annual toll of fifteen billion and youth leads the procession, and young men and women today fondle each other in the orgies of debauchery amid the dim shadows and secluded corners of the beer joints and liquor dives of this country in a moral madness that mocks all decency and disgusts Satan himself.

They said repeal would regulate and control the liquor traffic, but according to J. Edgar Hoover, there were more violations of liquor laws in America in 1936 than there were in the hectic year of 1932.

Traffic deaths, which for ten years prior to the repeal of national prohibition averaged 26,000 annually have continued to mount in defiance of the greatest safety campaigns ever conducted, until they now reach approximately 50,000 or nearly double what they were under prohibition. Latest records reveal the facts that traffic deaths due to the mixture of alcohol and gasoline, range from forty to sixty per cent in the various states.

These facts must be faced. They cannot be obliterated. They cannot be ignored. They must be accounted with. They show the utter folly of repeal. It has failed as a revenue move, it has failed to reduce crime, it has failed to regulate the liquor traffic, it has failed to reduce drinking or promote temperance, it has failed to eliminate the bootlegger, but it has increased the problem of alcohol patients in our hospitals. It has strewn our highways and streets with wrecks, devastation, death and suffering.

It has demonstrated that the liquor traffic is the most corrupt, the most heartless, and the most degrading business ever devised by man or devil, and most especially to be endorsed by a civilized people. It is a traffic that blights and damns, that starves and debauches, that degrades and prostitutes, that corrupts and kills; it is the enemy of every home, every man, every woman, every girl, every little child and everybody in the land.

It has caused more murder, more misery, more divorces, more wasted lives more prodical boys more disgraceful girls than any other cause operating in human society.

America, as she follows, bleating along behind these big "Judas goats of repeal" is being slaughtered and bled to death. Four billion dollars annually flows out of the pockets of constructive trades, and is wasted on alcohol. The highways and streets are being baptized in the blood of citizens whose lives have been killed by drinking drivers; mothers are weepng over wayward children, wives are having their hearts bled white by drinking husbands who forget their marriage vows; little children shiver in the cold, starve in hovels, and die in want as the liquor traffic cashes the WPA checks of their drinking daddies, mothers, brother and sisters.

America's throat has been cut and she is being slowly bled to death as she blindly follows on after these "Judas goats of repeal."

Let's quit following the "Judas goats," let's quit going blindly into the slaughter house, let's quit having our throats cut, let's wake the nation up, let's make a desperate effort to elect dry men to fill the offices of our country.

Respectively submitted,
M. LOCKHART.

RUFFIN EXPLAINS PECAN TROLBLE

Auburn. Ala.—Pecan aphids and scab, and insects and a disease, were blamed by L. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist of the Alabama Polptechnic Institute, for the large number of pecan trees over all the states becoming completlp difoliated so early his fall.

Ruffin said it is very likelp that these were also responsible for the low pield of pecans this pear and the dropping of immature nuts. There has been a steady decrease in pecan prospects since August.

Some trees in the state completely lost their leaves early in the summer and have practically a complete new crop of foliage at the present time. Due to favorable weather conditions for the development of the aphid as well as the scabs these two enemies have caused numerous damage this year.

The aphid when feeding on leaves causes them to turn black and fall prematurely. The scab also attacts the leaves but is more likely to attack the nuts, causing the shuck to turn black and fall off before maturing, according to Ruffin.

Recent experiments of the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate that pecan scab san be controlled by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Ruffin says that the spraying eequipment for covering large trees is very expensive and it is not practical for a farmer with a few trees to attempt this schedule of spraping. Commercial growers or small grove owners who wish to work cooperativelp may obtain details of this spraying work by writing to Ruffin at the Alabama Polytecnic Institute at Auburn.

NATIONAL PEANUT FESTIVAL

Wooden nickels and beautiful girls are making headlines for Dothan, Ala., today. People are spending wooden money in Dothan and the merchants say it is all right, all of which goes to show what a really industrious peanut can do. Bathing beauties attired in the latest close fitting peanut suits will hold a competition for First Gueen of the National Peanut Festival the night of November 11. In fact, so much good has been found in the peanut by Dr. George W. Carver, famous negro scientist, that governors, senators, consressmen and other personages are gathering at the festival to attend this illustrated lecture on peanuts. A real celebration is occuring in the heart of the Wiregrass sponsored by Dothan with a pageant, parade, beautiful girls, wooden nickels and, of course, lots and lots of peanuts.

COTTON SITUATION DEMANDS ADJUSTMENT FOR BETTER PRICES

Auburn, Ala.—The present carryover of cotton, the amount that is going into the loan this year, and the decreased foreign and domestic consumption present a dark picture for southern cotton farmers unless cotinued effort is made to bring the supply and demand more in line, believes P. O. Davis, diretor of the Alabama Extention Service.

A large supply naturally means a low price and the supply this year made up of a carryover of 13.7 million bales and the current crop of 12 bales makes the hopes for a better price any time soon very dark, he stated. The carryover is the largest on record and is larger than the world consumption of cotton last year. This does not even consider the present crop now almost gathered.

"To really see the effects of low consumption following a year when there was no production control and a record cotton crop one only needs to look at the August 1, 1938, carryover, which, because of these things was more than seven million bales larger than the previous year."

In 1936, the director said, after three years of cotton adjustment effort, the supply had been adjusted from 13,000,000 bales to 6,000,000 bales and the price had risen from five cents in 1932 to 13 cents in 1936. With no allotment and no quotas on cotton production and with a large crop in 1937 we again have a huge surplus of cotton that only loans have prevented from going to 1932 prices. Since it took three years to reach the position we were in during 1936 it seems safe to assume that it will take more than one year of adjustment efforts to bring the surplus down and the price up to a fair level.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HAD BANQUET ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The men's class of Clanton Baptist Sunday school enjoyed its annual banquet in the basement of the church last Friday night. The ladies of one of the circles prepared the supper, consisting of turkey and the accessories that usually accompany it.

A total of about sixty men enjoyed the occasion all being members of the class with the exception of a few visitors, among whom was Rev. J. W. Truett, of Clanton Methodist church. A most pleasant half hour was consumed in the eating—or probably we should say, those nine turkeys were consumed over the period of half an hour. After this many short talks were made by visitors and members of the class. Several male quartets were rendered by a group of local vocalizers, which were enjoyed by the gathering.

Red Cross Seeks Cut In Accident Toll

1,725,406 First Aiders Trained Since 1910

Cognizant of tremendous losses in human lives and of permanent injuries resulting from accidents in homes, on farms and highways, and around industrial plants as well as in the basement workshop, officials of the American Red Cross have been directing a systematic fight against what they term "this economic waste."

As part of this nation-wide effort to reduce deaths and permanent injuries from accidents, a recent statement from Red Cross headquarters in Washington reports that during the past 12 months certificates have been granted to 295,028 persons completing courses in the administration of Red Cross first aid.

Holders of these certificates have followed detailed courses of study and have been taught how to splint fractured limbs, stop flow of blood, treat poison sufferers, care for victims of heat, electric shock, and handle other common emergency situations. The courses emphasize methods of caring for patients until professional medical aid can be summoned to scenes of accidents.

Since 1910, the report reveals, 1,725,406 persons have received this training from qualified Red Cross instructors, and at the present time 20,429 persons are qualified to give such instruction.

Bringing help nearer scenes of possible accident, 2,454 emergency first aid stations have been established in strategic locations on principal highways throughout the nation, operators of the stations receiving the prescribed Red Cross instructions and maintaining full first aid equipment on the spot.

Conveniently placed, they also maintain up-to-date lists of available doctors and ambulance services pledged in advance to cooperate with Red Cross first aiders in preventing deaths and permanent injuries that so frequently result from automobile accidents.

Mobile first aid units also have been established in cooperation with state highway and police departments, operators of public utility vehicles and others frequenting highways, operators of such units also receiving the prescribed Red Cross courses in first aid

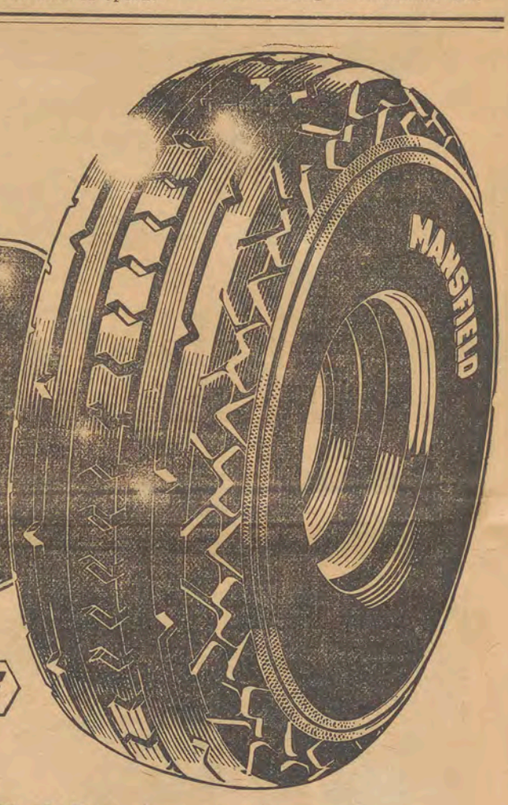
CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL P.-T. A. MEETS

The Clanton Grammar school P.-T. A. met on Tuesday afternoon, November 1, at 2:30 o'clock. In the absence of Mrs. H. K. Christiansen, the president, Mrs. Omar Reynolds presided over the business meeting.

A well planned program was given with Mrs. J. W. Fant serving as leadre. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. L. J. Stewart, who read the 27th Psalm.



The financial situation of the schools of Chilton county was for the subject for study. Mrs. Fant introduced Mrs. Napoleon S. Johnson, president of the County Council of P.-T. A's., who spoke on the cost of operating the schools in Chilton county.

Mrs. T. J. Searcy talked on the importance of the county and district school taxes, and emphasized the fact that these taxes expire before September, and must be renewed by a vote of the people. Mrs. Fant expressed the hope that all P.-T. A.'s. in the county would enter upon an active program to inform the public of the necessity for the continuation of local school taxes.

The attendance was splendid. Sixty-nine votes were cast in deciding the winner of the half-holiday. For the second time the room of Mrs. T. J. Searcy's was acclaimed winner.

All are most cordially invited to attend the meeting of December 6th.

THREE WAYS SAFER

Mansfield Tires are three ways safer because they are built three ways differently from other tires. For instance, Cord-Lock construction puts 31% more full weight cord fabric into the sidewalls, reinforcing the tire against flexing strains. The high tensile, steel piano wire beads are seven times as strong as actually needed. Mansfield treads are made of tougher Duro-mix rubber, today still more resistant to high speed wear and pavement "burn" from fast starts and quick stops. Every Mansfield Tire gives you more mileage than you pay for

WPA AND THE RECENT ELECTION RESULTS

Judge J. Lee Smith explains away the Democratic defeat in Chilton county last Tuesday by saying: "It was the WPA that beat us." The Mobile Times read Judge Smith's explanation and replied: "That reason seems a little far-fetched."

Maybe Judge Smith meant it like Major Squirm, of Alabama Magazine, puts it: "I have figured out a perfect alibi for the New Dealers: their WPA boys were too lazy to go to the polls last Tuesday."

REPUBLICANS LEAD IN TWO SECTIONS

G. O. P. Again Has Margin In North and West Sections Of Nation

New York, Nov 15. — The Republican Party is again the largest party in the North and West, a compilation of votes cast in the general election revealed.

The compliation was based upon the party vote for congressional candidates except in a few instances where the vote for governor or senator was substituted because that count was more complete.

It included the border states of Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Oklahoma, but excluded the Democratic Southern states.

Votes Listed

The compilation (exclusive of Aalbama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia) showed:

Democratic vote: 15,334,159.
Republican vote: 15,512,702.

Sectional Gains

Most notable gains scored by Republicans were in the large states of the industrial East and of the Midwest farm belt. Conversely it was in these states that Democratic balloting was farthest off from the huge 1936 margins polled by President Roosevelt.

In Ohio, for example, Republicans bettered their 1936 total of 1,127,709 by 82,000 while the Democrats skidded 620,000 votes to 1,127,304. In Pennsylvania, Republicans got 1,658,123 votes, only 32,000 below their 1936 total. But the Democrats poll dropped 725,000 to 1,624,780.

Even in New York where the Democrats retained control, it was by a skimpy margin. The Democrat total dropped 900,000 votes to 2,123,689. The Republican total was off only 162,000.

EDUCATIONAL WEEK TO BE OBSERVED BY KIWANIANS

COTTON REPORT

Census report shows that there were 9,788 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton county from the crop of 1938 prior to November 1, as compared with 18,214 bales ginned to November 1st, crop of 1937.

Mr. Leo C. Turner, with the State Chamber of Commerce, was in Clanton the first of this week working in the interest of that organization. While here about eighteen members were added to the membership of the chamber in Clanton. Ready response to the cause was manifested by the business and professional men of the city. Mr. V. J. Elmore signed up for membership for all thirty-one of his stores over the State.

BIDS ON WATER TANKS TO BE OPENED DECEMBER 6TH

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announces that all arrangements have been made for the bids on building the two new water tanks for the city to be in and opened on December 6, 1938. One of these is a 400,000 gallon tank for the raw water directly from the creek; the other is a 100,000 gallon tank for the storing of filtered water. Both tanks will be erected on the lot recently acquired by the city from Mr. John T. Ellis.

Mr. Jones states that analyses have been made of the water in Yellow Leaf Creek, and the same will be much better water than that which we have been getting from the wells here. The water from the wells is extremely hard, while that from the creek analyzes soft. The filtering process will be different and not so difficult as the filtering required of the hard water we are now using.

THE BANNER WILL BE DAY EARLY NEXT WEEK

Next Thursday, November 24th, being Thanksgiving, and there being no rural mail delivery, The Union-Banner will come out to you on Wednesday of next week. Therefore, all correspondents and advertisers will please get their copy in not later than Monday; any that can be gotten in Saturday will be greatly appreciated.

Membership Climbing In Red Cross Here

Many Firms Of Clanton Become One Hundred Per Cent Members

The Red Cross roll call drive for memberships opened last Friday morning, November 11th, with you might say a bang. Since that time the workers have called upon a number of firms and individuals in the county, and have met with ready response from the people generally.

Special mention should be made of the firms in Clanton that have become 100 per cent members of the Red Cross, which means that all the employees at these places have responded to the roll call by paying the membership fee of one dollar or more. Following are the firms constituting this Honor Roll:

Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., Jones Seed & Feed Co., The Union-Banner, Bean & Taylor Grocery Co., Dr. C. O. Lawrence, J. Mell Martin & Sons, Central Alabama Hospital, Chilton County News, Superintendent of Education office.

Those who have not paid their membership fee, are urged to be ready when the workers call on you. The work will continue up to and including Thanksgiving day, which is next Thursday, November 24th. Let us all strive to make a still better showing for Chilton County.

Middleton Received Thanks From G.O.P.

Judge J. Osmond Middleton has recently received from Hon. A. K. Barta, Director of the Speakers Bureau of the National Republican Committee, a communication thanking Judge Middleton for the splendid service rendered by him during the recent campaign. Mr. Barta further advises that he has placed Judge Middleton's name on the permanent list of the Bureau's campaign speakers.

The people of Chilton county are glad to have such recognition accorded us and our own fellow citizen, jurist and elequent lecturer. This coming as it does from the head of this national Republican organization means much to Chilton county and to Alabama, as well as to Judge Middleton.

John H. Bankhead To Speak In Clanton

Senator John H. Bankhead, conducting one of the most extensive nonpolitical campaigns in the history of the state in the interest of better farmer knowledge of the farm legislation situation will address farmers and business men at Clanton courthouse, Friday, November 18, at 10:30 o'clock. The address will be given at the courtand will begin promptly at 10:30 in the morning.

Senator Bankhead has appeared in every section of the state since he began a speaking tour several weeks ago. He is attempting to inform farmers and others interested in farm legislation just what they are faced with and what chances they will have under new farm legislation which Congress might pass.

The Senator, considered one of the best cotton authorities in Washington and, who, as a member of the Senate Agricultural Committee has been instrumental in the farm legislation passed in recent years, will discuss the cotton situation from before the World War up to the present. He will also explain the domestic allotment plan as a substitute for the present AAA program and will tell farmers what they can expect unless they take an active part in the December 10 referendum when cotton marketing quotas for 1939 will be approved or disapproved by the cotton farmers.

CAR BURNED AT STRASBURG

A car belonging to Mr. R. A. Hicks, of Thorsby, was mysteriously burned last Monday morning between 1:30 and 3 o'clock—a Chevrolet coach. Mr. Hicks reports that he was driving at that point about 1:30 Monday morning when a tire blew out and the car ran off a small embankment. In the impact, Mr. Hicks sustained a broken nose and some fractured ribs. He, although somewhat dazed, walked to his home at Thorsby. Dr. Franklin dressed his wounds, and members of the family went to see about the car, finding it in flames and almost consumed. Mr. Hicks states that he left the car undamaged except a blownout tire and one door open. The origin of the fire is unexplainable.

Prof. and Mrs. L. C. Warr and son, of Luverne, were in Clanton Tuesday of last week.

COLLECTOR AND ASSESSOR AT COOPER DECEMBER 1ST

It has been published and advertised that the Tax collector and Tax assessor will be at Coopers, in their regular round, on November 24th. LAST TUESDAY'S ELECTION RESULTS

Last Tuesday's general election in Chilton county was a victory for the citizens of the county who believe in fairness in elections, efficiency in government and faithful performance of duty by the elected officials of the people. This summary of the situation is undisputable.

The organization that was behind the victorious candidates recognize the support of those citizens of the county who hold honesty and uprightness above partisan allegiance, and this organization extends its thanks and appreciation to this element of voters for their assistance. Let them be Republicans or Democrats, they fought a noble fight in this campaign, and their efforts will not go by unnoticed.

Much praise is due the members of the Republican campaign committee in the various Beats and communities of the county. Very faithful and intelligent service was rendered by them throughout the campaign.

We thank the lovable and kindly Judge John B. Weaver, of Double Springs, for the fine service which he rendered at the speakings over the county. Judge Weaver spent a week in our county, and made a fine and lasting impression upon our citizenship.

The service of that able and impressive orator, Hon. C. O. Vardaman of Birmingham, was inestimable in the campaign. He rendered much unselfish and splendid service to the committee in its work. Mr. Vardaman became a favorite in Chilton county two years ago when he spoke here and at Thorsby in the campaign of 1936. His fine speeches this year at Oak Grove and the courthouse were greatly appreciated by our people.

And then our own Judge J. Osmond Middleton comes in for a few pats on the back and some hearty hand-shakes. For more than thirty years now he has ably defended the principles of the Republican party. He has never wavered in his loyalty, and when our party's fortunes were at their lowest he fought on with grim determination. The writer considers "loyalty" the sublimest word in the English language, and to our mind, Judge Middleton is the embodiment of all that the word implies. He has rendered more unselfish service than any man in the county. During the 1936 campaign, when the Republican ticket was being attacked from within and from without the party, Judge Middleton said to the writer: "We haven't a chance to elect the ticket in this campaign, but we must and will save the Republican party in Chilton county." The result of the election on November 8th told with what prophetic wisdom he spoke.

The organization thanks the various Republican candidates for the clean campaign which they conducted. We have received a mandate from the people with clean hands, and when these gentlemen take office we know that they will perform their duties with these same clean and lofty ideals foremost in their minds and hearts. The people of Chilton county have spoken, Republican candidates; it is now your turn, and may each of you do your parts to the complete satisfaction of your constituents—remembering that you are now servants of all the people, those who voted against you as well as those who so loyally supported you in your fight for election.

NEW JANITOR AT COURTHOUSE

On last Wednesday, the next day after the election, Manuel Littlefield was discharged from the job as janitor at the courthouse, after serving in that capacity for about eight years. The minutes of the Commissioners Court show that two members of the Court were present when this business was transacted—J. Monroe Parrish and Howard R. Oden. Mr. Oden made the motion to discharge Mr. Littlefield, and it was seconded by Mr. Parrish. Judge J. Lee Smith concurred in the vote.

In Littlefield's place was named J. R. (Bob) Owens, of Fairview community. Mr. Owens immediately took charge of the job.

Grand Jury In Session The First Of This Week

The Grand Jury of Chilton county is in special session at the courthouse this week. The body went into deliberations under the guidance of Judge Arthur Glover and Solicitor Winston Huddleston Tuesday morning, and were not expected to finish their work until probably some time Thursday.

MOVED TO STANTON

Rev. Wm. Robinson, Baptist Minister and pastor, this week moved to Stanton, Ala. He is pastoring some churches in that vicinity, and he wanted to get nearer his field of labor.

IMMEDIATE EFFECT FELT

Within 24 hours after it was announced that Chilton county had gone Republican last Tuesday, cotton jumped two and three dollars a bale, and wall street stock markets began to hum and soar with new life and alacrity. This is nothing new, however, because it is generally known that the Republican party and prosperity always go hand in hand. It happens every time.

SHERIFF AND FORCE CAPTURE FIFTEEN GALLONS MOONSHINE

Sheriff J. R. Hardy reports a rather unusual finding of moonshine liquor one day last week. Three five-gallon jugs full of it were found by the officers locked up in a smokehouse in Temple community. It is thought that some three or four men owned the liquor and frequently visited that particular smokehouse. Two arrests were made; their names were withheld, however, since apparently the whiskey belonged to others.

A total of twenty-three arrests constitute the additions to the jail register during the past week, they being for the following charges: Rape and carnal knowledge—bastardy, 1 white; assault, 3 whites; shooting in dwelling, 1 white; assault and battery, 1 white; public drunkenness, 9 whites and two negroes; driving while intoxicated, 1 white; speeding, 1 negro; reckless driving, 1 white and 1 negro; carrying pistol without license, two negroes.

PROF. W. L. HICKS REPORTED DIED LAST WEEK

The report has reached Clanton of the death last Friday of Prof. W. L. Hicks, principal of Clanton High School in 1912, the report could not be definitely verified, however.

Prof. Hicks was a native of Andalusia, and it is supposed that he was buried there.

G. O. P. RECORD IN SENATE PERFECT

Washington. — Republican forces in Congress came through Tuesday's election without the loss of a seat.

Veteran officials at the capitol said today, as far as they were able to determine, the record was unique for a major party.

Republicans took eight seats from Democrats in the Senate. In the House they won 72 from Democrats, five from Progressives, and four from Farmer-Laborites.

Of former representatives and senators who tried comebacks, 14 succeeded. They were former Senator W. Warren Barbour (R., N. J.) and the following one time House members: William W. Blackney (R. Mich.), Chester C. Bolton (R., Ohio), Colgate W. Darden (D., Va.), George P. Darrow (R., Pa.), Butler B. Hare (D., S. C.), William E. Hess (R., Ohio.), Noble W. Johnson (R., Ind.), Clarence J. McLeod (R., Mich.), Vito Marcantonio (R., N. Y.), Charles F. Risk (R., R. I.), John C. Shafer (R., Wis.), Arthur B. Jenks (R., N. H.), and William A. Pittenger (R., Minn.)

KELLY GENTRY HERE

Mr. Kelly Gentry, of Montgomery, was in Clanton Wednesday helping his fellow Republicans celebrate over the victory the day before. Mr. Gentry, a former Chilton county citizen, now an L. & N. railroad official, said that the first man he saw when he stepped off the train was his fellow railroad worker, H. T. Pipes; they wallowed each other with friendly political gestures and phrases for a while, Mr. Gentry said. The Union-Banner is always glad to have Kelly Gentry come to see us.

DR. GRAGG BACK ON JOB

The Union-Banner was very glad to see Dr. V. J. Gragg able to walk around over the city Monday of this week, and to learn that his condition is much improved. He informed The Union-Banner that by the time our readers get their papers Thursday he expects to be back at his office and ready for general practice again.

Dr. Gragg has been rather sick for the past two months, and he had us somewhat anxious about him for a while; but we are all glad that he is able to be up and about his business.

STOCKS SOAR ON G. O. P. VICTORIES

New York.—Republican successes at the polls last week brought quick response from Wall Street today and the stock market advanced sharply in one of the broadest buying waves of the year.

All groups shared in the gains as the financial district interpreted the election returns as a trend toward a more conservative relationship between government and business.

Large blocks of stocks changed hands. United States steel sold $1.62½ a share higher in a block of 8,000 shares. There were 7,000 shares of General Motors, up $1 a share and 5,000 Chrysler, up$1.25. Utilities and railroad were also in good demand.

The heavy buying put the ticker tape behind five minutes or so most of the first hour of trading.

Commodities likewise were stronger. Cotton was 45 to 50 cents a bale higher in early trading, helped by the lower goverment crop estimate published yesterday. There was a brisk demand for copper in the foreign market and the domestic price for scrap copper advanced.

While the reverse given to the New Deal at the polls was cited as the precipiating factor for the sharp and wide advance today, market analysts also pointed out that the business outlook has been brighter for some time with steel and other heavy industries espesially forging ahead.

FOURTH CROP APPLES

There was brought in last week a bunch of apples said to be the fourth crop of June apples from a tree this season. Three crops are said to have already been gathered, and the tree is literally filled with fruit now as big as the end of your thumb.

The sample was brought in by Mr. J. W. Kelly of Highland community.

COOPER-WALKER TENT MEETING CONTINUES TO GROW IN INTEREST

The tent meeting being conducted in Clanton by Evangelist L. J. Cooper and his singer-helper, Rev. Ray Walker, continues to grow both in attendance and interest. These gentlemen are filling a long-felt want in Clanton and Chilton county for the fearless preaching of the old-time gospel to all people in all walks of life. They do not knock any church or denomination, and although they are Baptists, yet their preaching is a great boon to all the churches of the city and surrounding communities. They deserve and are receiving fine and unselfish support from most of the churches in this vicinity.

The service Friday night will be an old fashioned candle and lantern service, conducted as services were fifty and seventy-five years ago. Old songs will be used in this service, and the older people will be especially interested. The younger ones will be interested in learning how meetings were conducted by our grandfathers and grandmothers.

Martin's ambulance carried Mr. Ruben Lowe to St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery last Saturday. This is the second time Mr. Lowe has been in the hsopital for the past few months.

FARM NOTES

PECAN PURCHASE PROGRAM LAUNCHED

Auburn, Ala. — A pecan stabilization purchase program, similiar to the program inaugurated last year with peanuts, offers a market this year to growers of improved pecans, W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist, announced this week. The agreement was signed by Secretary of Agriculture, Wallace, on October 25.

The agreement contemplates purchase by the Pecan Stabilization Association, a grower-controlled organization set up under the laws of Alabama, of up to four million pounds of improved varieties of pecans from growers during the harvest season at prices approved by the Secretary.

Receiving stations are expected to be set up at Eufaula, Dothan, Montgomery, and Mobile in Alabama. Other stations near Alabama are Columbus, Albany, Cairo, and Dawson, Ga. For U. S. No. 1 extra large and up the association will pay 12.30 cents per pound; for U. S. No. 2 extra large and up 10.30 cents per pound. Large U. S. No. 1 grade will bring 10.80 per pound and No. 2 grade of the same size will bring 8.8-. For medium No. 1 grade pecans the price will be 8.80 and for No. 2 grade medium size the Associtaion will pay 7.80. Ungraded and orchard-run pecans will also be purchased but the schedule of prices has not et been announced, Ruffin advised.

Ruffin said the Pecan Stabilization Association was adequately financed by the Commodity Credit Corporation and all purchases will be made for cash. Pecans purchased through the Association will be disposed of by export to countries other than Canada or be diverted to such by-products as may be approved by Secretary Wallace. The object of the entire program is to provide all growers an opportunity to sell their pecans for at least the above named prices all during the season.

MAKE YOUR MONEY COUNT IN A COAT

Auburn, Ala. — Buying a winter coat? Then study the personal needs before choosing the kind of coat which your money will buy, Catherine Haynes, clothing and handicraft specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, advises Alabama housewives.

Each lady who spends money for a coat desires satisfaction for the money which she has made herself or by some means "wrangled" from "friend husband." Points she should consider are occasions when coat will be worn, type needed, number of years coat will be worn, price that can be paid, and color which must be adapted to long-time needs.

Women should look also with discernment toward the all-purpose coat which has simple and conservative lines, a semi-tailored garment. A dressy coat belongs only in the wardrobe of the woman who has more than one coat to wear. Miss Haynes says to look for a coat with a high neck to keep out cold, a close fitting sleeve at the wrist, a wide front lap, ample walking room, comfortable shoulders, long sleeves, ample sitting room, and a good hem.

Other points for one to search for in the winter coat are pre-shrunk, color fast fabric, high percentage of wool, and a label with a fabric guarantee, coat cut accurately on correct grain of material, armholes and seams reinforced with pre-shrunk tape, interlining of muslin in front and beak shoulders to preserve fit, sleeve lining put in by hand to give fullness, coat and lining hemmed separately, and facing finished separately.

Judgement and study will mean money well spent on the winter coat and more serviceable wear after it is bought, Miss Haynes says.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Ala. — Chilton County's 1937 antityphoid campaign was centered largely upon the administration by the County Health Department of typhoid vaccine to a total of 229 persons during the year, the annual report of Dr. Douglas L. Cannon, Director of County Organization of the State Department of Health, reveals.

This report, included in the complete published report of the State Health Department, shows that 176,438 typhoid immunizations were administered last year by the county health departments of the 64 counties having local health units during the major part of the year. The three counties not covered by this total are Autauga and St. Clair, which were not organized until near end the of the year, and Bibb, which did not have a county health department in 1937, although such a department has been functioning there since last January 1.

The records of cotton production being kept by ginners and the promptness with which the ginners report this to the county AAA committee is important to each cotton producer, since these reports are used as the basis in determining normal yield per acre, according to AAA workers.

COTTON EXPORTS TO CHILE INCREASE

September Shipments Show Considerable Gain Over Same Month Year Ago

Exports of American cotton to Chile amounted to 1,481 bales in September, which is nearly twice the amount exported in August and considerably larger than the amount exported to Chile a year ago.

This continues the trend in Chile toward an increasingly large consumption of American cotton. For the year ended by July 31, 1938, Chile purchesed 11,510 bales of American cotton valued at $1,025,000 as compared with 5,202 bales in the corresponding period of the previous year.

CLUB LADY FINDS SEWING

Gadsden, Ala. — The sewing art can accomplish a lot of things, according to Diana B. Williams, home demonstration agent in Etowah County, who believes that Mrs. Nell Davis, of the Webb-Whitesboro club in that county, deserves a prize.

Mrs. Davis made over two coats, one for a child and one for a woman. Neither cost anything and she saved $30 in the operation since the woman's coat is valued at $25 and the child's at $5.

Mrs. Davis also made two suits for herself from discarded men's suits. With nothing paid for the original suits she saved $40, the value she placed on the two completed suits for herself. Then she took a man's coat, made a short one from it worth $10. Then to make the sewing job complete she bought new material for $5, made a $20 spring coat, and saved $15 in the operation.

Mrs. Davis' score: 100 dollars worth of clothes with expense of $5 and a worn out thimble.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—To administer the wages and hours law, which recently went into effect, Elmer F. Andrews left a job which gave him shorter hours and more wages. As New York state industrial commissioner, his salary was $12,000, and he could get by nicely with a seven or eight-hour day. This job pays $10,000, and, considering its volume of detail, its complications, its novelty and its controversial entanglements, it looks like a 24-hour shift for Mr. Andrews.

E. F. Andrews Has Taken on Full-Time Job

He is a professional engineer, born in New York, earnest and diligent, a glutton for detail, living moderately in Flushing with his wife and three children until his removal to Washington. In addition to his five years as state industrial commissioner, having succeeded his former chief, Miss Frances Perkins, in that office, his experience in wage and hour adjustments has been with industrial concerns and chambers of commerce.

After his graduation from Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, he was pilot in the U. S. army air service in the World war. He built railroads and factories in Cuba and engaged in construction work in New York City, planning civic improvements for the Queensboro Chamber of Commerce, among other large-scale enterprises. In these years he engaged in compensation studies for various industrial groups. He was labor adviser for the National Labor board in the coal mining regions of Kentucky, Alabama and Pennsylvania.

Never belligerent, Mr. Andrews has been more of an arbiter than a fighter, although he did take on certain employment agencies for a battle when he was industrial commissioner. He swings no nightstick, and tells the employers this isn't going to hurt them in the least. He is a New Dealer, but goes to Washington with perhaps more political detachment than any similarly placed official down there. Mr. Andrews is 48 years old.

THE late Newton D. Baker liked to discourse on the importance of "keeping intellectually liquid," and free from embarrassing alliances and commitments. John Harlan Amen, runner - up for Thomas E. Dewey in the national racket-busting tournament, is that way, too. Assigned to the sensational crime and graft clean-up in Brooklyn, he allows the reporters to drag out of him the admission that he "never belonged to anything."

J. H. Amen Distinguished Non-Joiner

As an assistant United States attorney, he has been netting racketeers steadily since the United States put teeth in the Sherman act in 1934. In view of J. Edgar Hoover's revelations as to the overlapping of crime and venal politics, Mr. Amen's political detachment is interesting. It is also interesting in our new realization that federalization of our government has been in part due to the failure of the states really to govern. Mr. Amen, like Mr. Dewey, has made his name in this overlapping zone of state and federal authority.

He is a grave, aloof aristocrat, with an academic background of Phillips-Exeter, Princeton and Harvard. He is a son-in-law of President Cleveland, with a residence in Park avenue, great intellectual and social reserve.

THIS writer happened to be in Italy when the fascist regime was emerging and saw underprivileged youth joyously engaged in beating up holdouts and laggards and slashing up the library of an old professor who had indiscreetly affirmed his faith in democracy. James Marshall, president of the New York board of education, is alarmed about our jobless youth, aged from 18 to 24. He says it was this condition which made fascism in other countries and we had better watch our step. He proposes a drastic national solution.

Jas. Marshall Alarmed Over Jobless Youth

Mr. Marshall is a lawyer by profession, the son of the late Louis Marshall, one of the most eminent lawyers in New York's history. He was appointed to the board of education in 1935 and became president of the board last June. He is a genial, philosophical pipe-smoker, an alumnus of the Columbia school of journalism, and the author of a novel, "Ordeal by Glory."

S. J. M. WEBB OFFERS THANKS TO VOTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow a small space in the columns of your paper this week to say a few words to the voters of the county.

First, I wish to say that I most sincerely appreciate the splendid vote which I received; also the fine backing and the most generous and loyal support given me in the race for Board Member. Although I was defeated by only a small margin and that in the absentee vote—myself getting 44 votes and my opponent 167. Had there not been an absentee vote, if you will count, you will see my vote without the absentees is 2,024, and my opponent without the absentee vote is 1,957, this being the unofficial returns.

So may I say, with all that is being said, also, with the recent happenings concerning absentee voting, I am not able to commend words or terms that will even begin to express my appreciation to you.

In conclusion, I wish to say that the year, 1938, will be long remembered and never forgotten by me, because of the many kind words said; also the untiring and most loyal support given. I shall ever look back to these days with the greatest of pleasure. My earnest and sincere desire is that our educational wrok will go forward.

Again, thanking you for any and all favors.—S. J. M. Webb.

COUNTY FARMERS ELIGIBLE TO VOTE

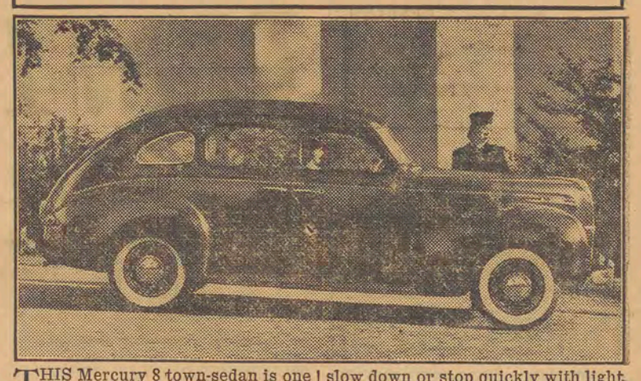
All farmers who, in 1938, produced cotton with a staple less than 1⅛ inches in length will be eligible to vote in the referendum on cotton marketing quotas for 1939, states an announcement by A. W. Jones, State AAA administrative officer in Alabama.

Under the farm act, marketing quotas are not applicable to cotton with a staple of 1⅛ inches or longer—such as sea-island cotton. Therefore, a farmer who produced such cotton their year is not eligible to vote in the referendum unless he also produced cotton with a staple less than 1⅛ inches in length. No cotton producer will be entitled to more than one vote whether an individual, a partnership, corporation, association, or firm.

Other main facts about the referendum are as follows:

The referendum will be held on December 10, 1938.

Voting places will be provided for all counties and communities where cotton is produced. County committees will be in charge of the arrangements and the voting will be conducted like any regular election. Three local farmers will be named by the county committee to serve as election officers in each community. The county committee will also designate the voting place in each community and see that a ballot box is provided at the voting place.



A secret ballot will be used. This means that each farmer will mark his ballot privately and cast it in the customary way, as in any other elections.

The question to be decided is whether or not marketing quotas are to apply to next year's crop.

If two-thirds of the farmers voting in the referendum give their approval, quotas will be effective in 1939. Quotas will apply to all States, counties, and communities of approved.

There are three National Forests in Alabama. They are the Black Warrior National Forest which includes part of Franklin, Winston and Lawrence Counties; the Talladega National Forest in Clay, Calhoun, Cleburne, Talladega, Bibb, Perry, Chilton and Dallas Counties, and the Conecuh National Forest in Covington and Escambia Counties. The Black Warrior Forest which was established in 1914 contains 560,000 acres. All the lands in this forest are connected, which is not the case in the other two forests. There are eleven natural bridges in this forest.

HOME COMING

On Saturday morning, November 5, out at the old home place of the Rev. W. J. Bone, deceased, relatives began to gether from various parts of Alabama and other states. The gathering continued to increase the crowd until well after the noon hour. There were relatives from Auburn, Montgomery, Prattville, Aliceville Sylacauga, Independence, and Washington, D. C., and other points. Then were many honored guests, neighbors and life-long friends of the family.

The weather conditions were ideal and after about two hours of greeting and hand shaking, Etc., a short program was rendered. Words of welcome was brought by J. F. Bone then a song and prayer were offered. At this time Rev. W. S. Cox spoke briefly of his acquaintance with the Bone family in very touching words He then introduced Rev. Marion Dopson, who preached a very impressive sermon stressing the thought of an eternal home gathering. Services ended about 1 o'clock; at this time a very delightful barbecue dinner was spread. Brother W. P. Lowery of Thorsby thanked the dear Lord for the occasion as well as the lunch.

The afternoon was spent talking of by gone days long ago and the present-day problem of life. It was indeen a very delightful occasion although mingled with tears and sadness.

Disasters Strike 41 States During Year

Red Cross Aids 420,000 Persons Following Catastrophes

That the past year has not been an easy one for the American Red Cross is shown in a recent report listing disasters necessitating Red Cross relief throughout the United States during the past twelve months.

The report reveals that 129 domestic disasters called for Red Cross aid in 247 counties of 41 states, and that assistance was given to 420,000 persons who were disaster victims.

"That this has been a very active year is obvious when one compares this year's operations with the average of 92 disasters requiring Red Cross aid annually for the past 15 years," Chairman Norman H. Davis said in commenting on the Red Cross Disaster Relief Service report.

These catastrophes included cloudbursts, cyclones, epidemics, fires, floods, forest fires, hailstorms, mine explosions, a school bus accident, a shipwreck, tornadoes, typhoons, and wind storms.

"Disaster relief was the first humanitarian work of the American Red Cross after its organization in 1881," Mr Davis said. "In the ensuing 57 years the flag of the Red Cross has flown upon every scene of major disaster in the United States. The Red Cross has carried relief—food, clothing, shelter medical aid, rehabilitation of homes and families—to more than 2,200 scenes of disaster at home and abroad, and has expended over $140,000,000 contributed by the American public in this work of mercy."

The Red Cross policies of relief, the national chairman pointed out, have been established over a period of years through actual experience of its workers in the field. Relief is given on the basis of need of sufferers—not of losses. Loans, he pointed out, are never made, but relief is a gift from the Red Cross in the name of its members and contributors to its work.

"It would not be possible for the Red Cross to carry out such widespread relief activities without the help of thousands of volunteer workers," Mr Davis said. "Volunteers are the mainstay of the organization, and in the past year's work assistance from many cooperating agencies has made it possible for us to answer the many calls for help."

While relief was being given to victims of natural catastrophes, the Red Cross was not unmindful of the necessity for preparedness plans to meet emergencies that may arise in any American community. Red Cross chapters in hundreds of counties have organized disaster preparedness committees charged with responsibility to map relief plans in advance of need, and to organize resources of communities to prevent duplication of effort and waste of materials when calls for help are received.

These plans are proving especially advantageous in localities subject to frequent floods, tornadoes, or hurricanes, and actual tests of such planning have demonstrated the necessity for such measures.

"The administration of such relief for disaster victims is made possible by annual memberships of millions of Americans in all walks of life," Mr. Davis pointed out. "The extent of Red Cross aid to such sufferers is entirely dependent upon unselfish sharing on the part of all of us."

Red Cross Nurses Aid Million Sick

Red Cross public health nurses made more than one million visits to or on behalf of the sick during the fiscal year 1937-38.

The patients live in mountain communities, on islands off the coast, in isolated swamp regions, and in crowded industrial sections. During the same period the nurses inspected 559,187 school children for health defects in cooperation with local physicians, and gave instructions in home hygiene and care of the sick to 58,754 mothers and young girls.

Red Cross Volunteers Assist War Veterans

Red Cross workers in chapters, in hospitals and on posts of the Army Navy, Coast Guard, and Marine Corps, assisted 122,355 active service men or veterans or their families during the past 12 months.

Red Cross service to these men included such personal help as letter-writing, shopping and recreational leadership, but it also included financial assistance to their dependents, help in locating missing members of their families, and assistance in filing necessary applications for pensions, disability pay, hospitalization, or for discharge from active service because of home needs.

The average number of men assisted by Red Cross workers each month was 18,790, according to a recent report.

Lesson for November 20

THE SACREDNESS OF THE HOME

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27, 28; Mark 10:2-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—Keep thyself pure.—I Timothy 5:22.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

The importance of the home as the divinely appointed center of all human life has always made it a special target of Satan. That onslaught of the power of hell is apparently redoubled in our day. Books, plays, movies, magazines, all contribute their filthy efforts to break down all sense of moral responsibility. Sex is magnified, and not in any useful or normal sense, but rather for the stimulating of unholy desires and purposes, the breaking down of Christian standards of living and the ultimate prostitution of the most sacred of all human relationships to a level of which animals might well be ashamed.

The lesson of today should be taught with care and tact, but also with a holy boldness and a plainness that will make it effective for God and for our homes. We begin with a word which is little spoken, while far too often the sin for which it stands is practiced and tolerated.

1. Adultery — a Grievous Sin (Exod. 20:14; Matt. 5:27, 28).

First, let us note that any violation of the divine plan for the marriage of one man and one woman, in loving communion for the founding and maintenance of the home, is a direct violation of the law of God. It is also a violation of the law of man. It brings serious results in the destruction of the home, and in the ruin of individual life—physical, moral, and spiritual.

The words of Jesus broaden the interpretation of the commandment to cover all sexual impurity in thought, word, or deed. While we recognize that the outward act of immorality carries with it consequences both in the life of the individual and those with and against whom he sins, which do not follow upon the thought of evil without the act, yet it is true that essentially he is guilty who had it in his heart to do the wicked thing even though a sense of prudence or circumstances hindered its execution. We need clean hearts and minds if there are to be clean lives.

II. Marriage—a Divine Institution (Mark 10:6-8).

As the proper background for a discussion of divorce our Lord makes clear that marriage was ordained by God, and that it involves a holy union of two individuals which makes them one. All those who look forward to marriage should realize that it is not a casual thing, or a merely temporary legal contract. It is a union for life—be it for better or worse, in sickness or health, in prosperity or adversity. All who are married should therefore highly regard their sacred vows.

III. Divorce Limited and Remarriage Forbidden (Mark 10:2-4, 10-12).

This passage, and other scriptures, teach that divorce is not permitted except on the ground of adultery (Matt. 5:32), and that any remarriage involves the parties in the guilt of adultery. Aware as we are of the laxness of some branches of the church in such matters, and the almost entire lack of standards in the world, we cannot but present the plain teachings of our Lord and urge every reader to follow the commandment of God's Word.

There can be no question that divorce is a major evil in our day. The writer has been astonished to find one family after another in his own respectable neighborhood where the children bear one name and their mothers another, or there are two "sets" of children in one family with different surnames because of divorce and remarriage. In some cases he knows of the fathers of children coming to see their offspring at the home of the second husband. What utter confusion such situations must create in the minds and hearts of the boys and girls!

IV. Children—the Gift of God to the Home (Mark 10:13-16).

How relieved we are to leave the consideration of such sordid, even though vitally important, matters as moral impurity and divorce, and turn to the beautiful picture of Christ blessing the little children. It would appear that Jesus desired to turn the thought of His hearers from the negative "thou shalt not" to the positive solution of the home problem.

Children make the home. They are God's benediction upon the marriage of man and woman. Sad and disillusioned will be the men and women who make themselves childless, hoping thus for more comfort and pleasure. The road to happiness does not go that way. The soft and tender baby hand has led many a couple to full happiness, and the joy of watching our children grow into manhood and womanhood cannot be evaluated in the mint of gold or earthly pleasures.

SMALL LANDOWNER GREATEST BENEFICIARY OF STATE FORESTRY

Montgomery.—Approximately six-sevenths of the nearly nine million acres of land under forest fire protection by the State Commission of Forestry is owned by farmers and other small holders, according to the title maps, fire statistic and other data complied by the State and Federal Governments. Only one-seventh is owned by large concerns. That the effectiveness of the forest fire protection on the small holdings is uniformly greater than in the case of the large areas is shown by the much smaller percentage burned in the former class of ownerships.

The forestry laws of Alabama were drawn with special reference to the promotion of forestry among the farmers and other owners of small timber tracts. It is especially provided that the aid of the Commission of forestry be extended to the public generally and that its work shall be carried on among all clasces of land ownerships in the state. Particular consideration is given small owners in the establishment of Auxiliary State Forestry. In this connection, it is provided that for tracts of 160 acres or less the land itself shall be exempted from taxaition, a condition not obtaining in the case of large holdings.

VERBENA 4-H CLUB BOYS MEETING HELD

The Verbena High School boys met at 1:10 p.m., on November 3rd, for their regular 4-H club meeting. As the president was absent, the vice-president, Bill Barrett, called the meeting to order.

We sang some songs, and the minutes of the last meeting were then read to the club. As there was no other business the program committee took charge. A good program was given, under the direction of G. B. Sharp. The program was on dairy management, which was a very interesting program.

We then talked about our last year's rojects and plans for winter cover crops. After htis discussion we repeated the 4-H club pledge and were adjourned to meet again next month.

ISABELLA LOST TO MONTEVALLO

The Isabella Mustangs lost a hard fought battle to the powerful Montevallo eleven last Friday by the score of 2 to 6.

Isabella meets Maplesville next Friday on the later's field for the last game of the season.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Henry L. Stoddard, one of the best of all American political reporters, friend of more Presidents and cabinet officers than any other living man, is the author of "It Costs to Be President," just published. Its mine of previously untold stories quickly transferred it from the book page to the news page. Having enjoyed a long acquaintance with Mr. Stoddard, I dropped in at his office, overlooking the Old Park Row which "formed his genius."

Stoddard on Shirt-Sleeve Newspapering

Close in nearly all his life with wing-collar statesmanship, he wanted to talk about shirt-sleeve newspapering. The latter allusion had to do with Hitchcock's Beanery, where shirt-sleeved waiters served ham and beans to printers, stereotypers, reporters, editors, and politicians, who mingled in a shirt-sleeve forum which Mr. Stoddard thinks helped to galvanize the New York newspapers of that day—from 40 to 50 years ago.

Sixty-two years in newspapering, Mr. Stoddard is "up from the case," a printer on the New York Tribune, an ace political reporter and for 25 years owner and publisher of the New York Mail.

"It seems to me that every reporter ought to know the smell of printer's ink," he said. "The great newspaper of today, with all its marvelous efficiency, has lost something stimulating and vital in no longer having this mingling of the crafts. I remember that, at Hitchcock's, a slovenly reporter might be called down by one of those omniscient old-time printers, or perhaps it would be the other way about, with one of the newsmen berating the press room foreman, and asking him why he couldn't manage a decent make-ready.

"Theodore Roosevelt used to go to Hitchcock's frequently, perhaps with Jake Riis or Eddie Riggs of the New York Sun, and I remember James Creelman, Julian Ralph and a score of then famous politicians and newspaper men, mingling with the men from the mechanical departments, arguing over the world war scare, local and national politics—everything under the sun. It was something like the free speech common in early colonial America, where you could step into the enclosure and say what you thought about the king or anybody or anything else.

"The gusto with which T. R. would dump a bottle of catsup and a slather of mustard on a plate of ham and beans, or corned beef and beans, was something worth seeing and remembering.

"Frequently, these sessions at Hitchcock's were a post-mortem on the paper, just after press time, in which any story of unusual distinction or a clean-cut news beat was sure to get a cheer, and quite as certainly any of us who had stubbed his toe was in for a raking over. My work has made me an observer of our efforts to establish true democracy in America. I have never attempted an exact definition of democracy, but, whatever it is, I am sure it was exemplified in this craft ideal of the old-time newspaper. The spirit seems lost in the highly departmentalized, mechanized and specialized character of modern large-scale enterprise, not only of newspapers, but of business in general."

Stoddard's family newspaper tradition goes way back into the flatbed days. His great-grandfather established the Hudson, N. Y., Register, in 1787. He learned the printer's trade in his grandfather's printing office at Hudson. A proofreader on the Tribune at 15, he read proof on the famous Tilden Ciper dispatches, a reporter soon thereafter, on the Tribune and the Philadelphia Press. He wrote the first daily telegraph letter ever sent out from New York city.

Tiny Feminist Sets One Goal For Suffrage

I ALWAYS thought the reason Alice Paul never stayed in jail long was that she was just a wraith and floated through the bars. The wan, fragile little feminist, locked up many times in days past, now fans up her National Woman's party to the World Woman's party, of which she becomes temporary chairman. Its objective is the abolition of all legal distinctions between men and women, to which goal she narrowed triumphant suffrage and to which she has held it ever since. A tiny wisp of a woman, she is the living refutation of Schopenhauer's contention that will and intelligence never go together.

THE REPUBLICANS IN ALABAMA

We see by the election returns that the Republicans went to town in Chilton County, but lost out in Winston.

The other day we remarked that Roy Mayhall, Democratic candidate for the Legislature in Winston, had told us he hadn't the slightest idea in the world of winning from J. A. Posey, the Republican House candidate. But the Republicans of winston, who had been carrying the county since the Civil War, had a party split, and the Democrats, though a thousand in the minority, won out.

No one has explained to us at this writing why and how the Republicans returned to power in Chilton. That was once a G. O. P. stronghold, but the Democrats had gotten control in 1932. Now the Republicans are back, and Percy Pitts, a Republican, has been elected to the House. One politician" cry is that the WPA beat the Democrats in Chilton. Someway that seems farfetched, but, of course, we do not know. Nevertheless, the Alabama house keeps one Republican, and it may be hearsay, but we often wish the Republicans were a mile stronger in the South,—the Republicans, or some second party. We do not hold a brief for the Republicans, but a one-party system is not conducive to a healthful condition.

We've heard this same idea expressed by dozens and dozens of good Democrats. They point out that when the Democrats are in office at Washington they do not have to give any favors to the South, because the South is a sure bet. And when the Republicans are in, the South continues to be a stepchild because the Republicans know it is useless to spend money on us. But, if they just had some hope.—Mobile Press.

Editor Union-Banner:

I think that the fine vote I received in last Tuesday's election calls for an expression of my deepest thanks and appreciation. I had never run for a public office before, however, I received the nice total of 2,291. The least I can say is that I duly appreciate the confidence you have placed in me, and I assure each and every one of you that I shall do everything in my power to merit this confidence and to keep you from regretting having supported me.

When my services are needed for the cause of the Republican party, please remember that I always stand ready to do anything that is reasonable and honorable and within my power.

In connection with my duties as tax collector, let me assure you that party lines, past or present, will have no bearing. I realize that I shall be a servant of all the people, and I shall at all times extend the same courtesy and attention to one as to the other, trying at all times to conserve the county's tax money wherever possible. Yours for a better Chilton county.—Tom Taylor.

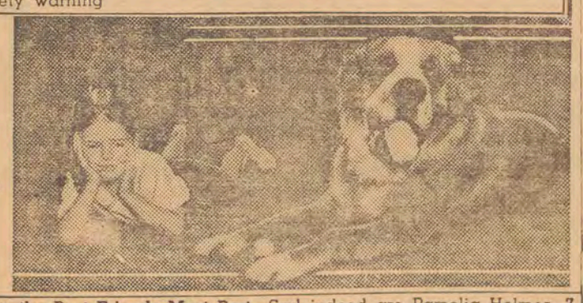
WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Mrs. John Armstrong was hostess to Circle No. 2 of the Woman's Missionary Society Monday afternoon, November 14th.

Mrs. O. D. Deloach read the Scripture—Matt. 5-9; John 14:27; poem peace, by Mrs. Truett.

After the business session the hostess served refreshments to the 13 members present, and one visitor, Mrs. O. R. Roper. The members were: Mesdames: B. L. Jones, Jim Broadhead, M. Truett, Glennie Evans, O. M. Carter, L. H. Reynolds, G. T. Wilbanks, M. A. Gore, S. A. Prince, Robert Jones, O. D. Deloach, Tucker and hostess, John Armstrong.

The HEADLINES Say:



New Protection for Defensive Players—(Right) Bill Moore models the new protective pads for players to wear over their regular football pants during scrimmage invented by Coach Clyde Crabtree of Miami Beach High School. Thickly padded with felt, it gives the player's stomach, thigh, knee and ankle protection without hampering his movements.

Most Perfect Legs—(Left) And we think you will agree with us that Jan Holm, pretty starlet, has the most perfect legs in the movie capitol.

Aid to Motorists — The 1939 Plymouth instrument group is dominated by this ingenious "safety signal" speedometer that automatically flashes a warning for three different driving speed zones. A bright colored light swings with the indicator needle and changes from green to amber at 30 miles an hour. Between 30 and 50 amber continues to show, beyond 50 it turns red as a safety warning

Even the Best Friends Must Part—Sad indeed are Pamelia Holmes, 7, and "Barry," a St. Bernard. Ordered to be exiled by Justice of Peace of Bellport, L. I., Barry, who has never bitten anyone, had been accused of keeping three small children in a boat for several hours.

RASCOE MADDOX THANKS VOTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me to express through your columns my appreciation of the support given me in my race for County Superintendent of Education. I deeply appreciate the consideration and kindness shown me by all with whom I came in contact. I feel that what the people of this county expect of me is honest, fair, efficient, and progressive administration of its school affairs. I have promised that and that alone. I reaffirm that promise now.

When I enter the Superintendent's office I wish to enter with the backing of all the people of the county, for it is all the people whom I wish to serve. I want to cooperate with them, and I wish their cooperation and friendly criticism.

The many friends I have made, I wish to keep. There are many people whom I have not met, whom I desire to number among my friends. I hope that we may all work together for our County and our County's children.—Rascoe Maddox.

JOHN H. McCLURE DIED IN MONTGOMERY

John H. McClure, age about 65, died in a Montgomery hospital last Thursday. The body was taken in charge by Leek; funeral services were held in the Leek parlors in Montgomery Saturday, conducted by Rev. Oscar A. Davis of Clanton. Burial was in Clanton cemetery.

Surviving are the wife, one son and one daughter at home; one son, a minister in New York, and another son in Silver Springs, Colorado.

Mr. McClure, a native of the vicinity of Marbury, for the past few years has been living with his family on his stock farm on Yellow Leaf Creek in the old Mullins settlement. He was a telegraph operator here and at Calera some forty years ago, following which he went out west and became supervisor of a railroad in Phoenix, Arizona. GEORGIA ANECDOTE

Among those not entirely satisfied with the results of the Georgia primary is the man platform was recorded in a Post-Dispatch article published prior to the primary.

This Georgian said he was for Eugene Talmadge (who was defeated), Governor Rivers (who was re-nominated) and President Roosevelt. He explained: "Gene Talmadge will give me 40 acres of land; Ed Rivers will exempt it from taxes, and the President will pay me not to farm it. That's my ticket."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PROMISE OF INDEPENDENCE

Senator Burton K. Wheeler's prediction that at the next session of Congress the Senate will be more independent than it has been for six years is a welcome one. Particularly encouraging was the senator's remark that "there ought to be a housecleaning in WPA." The exploitation of the WPA in the primaries in several states and in the political campaign now going on has persuaded many others besides Senator Wheeler that the system is wrong.

One thing needs to be remembered about the coming session of Congress. Senators who borrow courage from the success of the unpurged senators will lose it again if the elections frighten them. The best sort of independence cannot be frightened or cajoled. Senator Wheeler's prediction yould not be encouraging in itself if it did not remind the American public of men who were courageous enough to show their independence in the senate when that independence seemed likely to be costly in a political sense. — New York Sun.

WHY GIRLS STAY THIN

A girl or woman receiving $18 a week pays $116 a year in hidden taxes. Six weeks of her work out of each fifty-two go to tax collectors. She pays for government spending at the rate of thirty-two cents a day—more than she can afford to pay for her lunch. — Commentator Magazine.

THE TENT MEETING HERE

The more we hear Evangelists L. J. Cooper and Ray Walker at the tent meeting in Clanton, the more we become convinced that our original opinion was right when we thought that the coming of these Christian men to Clanton wsa a God-send to our little city and to Chilton county. These men are preaching the sound, old-time Bible gospel, if we are any judge of what constitutes this kind of gospel. They are doing a great and unselfish service to the cause of religion and consequently to all the duly constituted churches of Clanton and Chilton county.

These gentlemen conduct their services upon a very high plane, and so far as we have been able to see, the most fastidious could offer no criticism of their activities and programs.

It is most commendable of those religious forces of Clanton and adjoining communities that have seen fit to lend their undivided help and assistance to Evangelist Cooper in making the meetings the success that they have been. The impartial support and unstinted assistance accorded these men of God by our Methodist pastor, Dr. J. W. Truett, and several of his congregation stand out as beacon lights, exemplifying the broad and unstinted love and devotion of this splendid pastor and his people for the impartial love of God's Kingdom on earth and needy humanity. The meetings have enjoyed the fine support from other near-by churches of different denominations.

It is regrettable and pitiful, however, that more of the fine Baptist brethren and sisters of Clanton cannot condescend from their imaginary high pedestal and join with the splendid forces of this tent meeting, which are so unselfishly and persistently working for the everlasting betterment of Christian living and the moral and religious uplift of our people in all walks of life, which is so timely and so badly needed.

Clanton Baptist church is composed of a thousand of as fine people as can be found anywhere in the country. Any Baptist church in Alabama, big or little, might justly be proud of claiming as its own our devoted pastor and his fine wife; and it would be a shame for this splendid organization to permit a little false pride and style to cripple or maybe defeat the very purpose for which all churches everywhere function and exist, namely—the saving of souls and the spiritual elevation of humanity generally. This is something which we should think over, and pray over, brethren and sisters.

This paper, with all the power and influence at its command, wishes to commend the splendid and unselfish efforts being put forth by Messrs. Cooper and Walker in this evangelistic campaign. We firmly believe they are sent here under divine direction from on high, and that they are doing work for Clanton that calls for all the aid that all Christian people in reach are able to render them. We say to you, attend some of these meetings, and you will never regret it.

Mexico is now making a deal with Italy to Mussolini the oil expropriated from wells developed and owned by citizens of the United States. Good work, good neighbor!

It is reported that the Nazis have erected tank traps in their fortifications along the Rhine. One of our neighbors says she is going to put one behind the front door to catch her husband when he comes home late on Saturday night.

PATIENT JOHN BULL

While our own internationalists are sitting up nights worrying about our loss of trade with China which, they say, will be complete when the Japanese come to the point of controlling the Celestial Empire, it is a noteworthy fact that our British cousins, who are pretty hard-headed when it comes to financial matters, are doing no such worrying. In his address to Parliament not long ago Prime Minister Chamberlain pointed out the fact that when the Sino-Japanese war is over and the period of reconstruction is ushered in, China is going to need a lot of funds for the purpose of rebuilding. Japan is now spending most of her money for the purpose of destroying China. When the time comes for rebuilding China will have to get the money elsewhere. And if we are to believe news-reel scenes of war in China then it is evident there will have to be a lot of rebuilding.

Mr. Chamberlain believes that if Japan and China haven't the money for rebuilding on the continent they will, of necessity get the funds from Great Britain. Certainly Hitler and Mussolini won't have it. When that time comes the British traders, and financiers, assisted by their government, will come forward with some fine ideas for new concessions in China. And doubtless they will get these concessons from the Japs. It will be impossible for Japan to reap all the benefits of her conquest.

What is true of China is true of Spain. That is why Great Britain isn't so worried about a Franco victory on the Iberian Peninsula. She knows that when and if Franco wins, he will need a lot of money, and he can't get this from his friends Mussolini and Hitler. John Bull will be on the job then and can get some choice trade concessions in Spain.

So while our own internationalists are tearing their hair and denouncing everybody abroad who doesn't agree with them, Great Britain is patiently waiting for the time when British banking and finance will permit her to step in and pick up the pieces once more. That may not be exactly ethical, but it works.

THE CLASS SYSTEM

If we Americans set up a permanent two-price schedule in this country, one price for the poor, we still have two kinds of people, one definitely well-to-do, another definitely poor. A poor man's price sets a poor man in a class-conscious isolation. Whatever physical benefits he has, if he buys on the "poor" price he has paid in self-respect for his material gains. A poor man's price makes a poor man's spirit.

The two-price scheme is a part of the general levelling-down process of the New Deal. It is un-American. The New Deal for all its noble experiments is unfair to the man endowed with initiative, organizing talent and exceptional energy. The New Deal is also eating out the guts of the common man.

And God help our America if this class-conscious policy of our government continues for another four years. — Emporia Gazette.

A poll shows that the majority of the British people would rather fight than give Germany back any of the colonies taken from the Reich during the World War But John Bull is no doubt willing to sacrifice some of Portugal's and France's colonies to Hitler in the interest of peace.

A SLIGHT ERROR

E. J. Kle, dean of the School of Agriculture of the Texas Agriculture and Mechanical College, issued a warning the other day before the National Foreign Trade Convention, meeting in New York City, that the United States is in danger of losing its entire cotton export trade within a few years unless canditions change. There is no question about the truth of this prediction. But Prof. Kyle muffed the ball badly when he declared, so the newspapers state, that the history of distress in cotton production has been the history of high protective tariffs.

This is a protective tariff country and has been since the days of George Washington. Yet the cotton export trade didn't begin really to suffer until the New Deal blossomed into full flower. The foreign demand, of course, fell off with the world-wide depression, but it was the good Wallace control program which really put the skids under old King Cotton.

For some years, of course, there has been an increase in cotton production abroad—in Brazil, in Russia and in other countries. This was due to the fact that production was cheaper abroad. Then came along the half baked and woozy scheme to make the cotton farmers rich by raising less cotton, then pegging the price through government loans.

The publication of this scheme acted like a real tonic on cotton growers abroad. If Uncle Sam were foolish enough to restrict his cotton crop and peg the price of cotton at artificially high levels, then the producer in Brazil saw that he could make a real killing by raising the cotton which the American farmer failed to raise, and under-selling him on his crop in the world markets. As a result, the cotton crop raised outside the United States is growing steadily, our foreign cotton trade is falling off and the situation in the United States has grown correspondingly worse.

The protective tariff has had nothing to do with it. If it is the fault of our present tariff rates—they haven't been changed since the Hoover administration—then all Mr. Hull and his international minded friends have to do is to write a free trade bill, send it down to Congress and have the New Deal majority down there rubber stamp it. But of course they haven't done this because they know such a move would be unpopular and ineffective.

It wouldn't make any difference whether we had any tariff at all or not, so far as our cotton market abroad is concerned, if our farmers restrict production and our economists at Washington peg the price so high that other nations producing cotton will grow more and more of the staple each year, and continue to undersell us in the markets of the world.

What we need is some sound economics at Washington.

According to the military experts Washington is to remain the least fortified capital in the world. Maybe we ought to keep Congress n continuous session so that in case of an aerial attack it will be possible to raise an impenetrable fog.

One thing which makes the criticism of Prime Minister Chamberlain sound a bit far fetched is that none of his critics while urging Chamberlain to keep a stiff upper lip, offered to go over personally and fight for the Czechs.

FEASIBLE AND JUST

The plan sponsored by the Social Security Board to include, among others, domestic servants and farm workers among those eligible for old-age pensions ought to find no lack of Congressional support. Beyond the mechanical difficulties attendant in collecting payments on account of these more or less casual workers there was no reason for excluding them from the provisions of the law. No class of workers is more vulnerable to the hazards of indigence in old age than these two. If they can be brought under the terms of the Social Security law, at least one of the defects in that statute will have been remedied. — Baltimore Sun.

Now that we have a minimum wage and a maximum hour law, all that we need is 11,000,000 more jobs.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

We read in the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians that men may do a great many things without profit to themselves. They may even give their bodies to be burned, but if they have not love, it profiteth them nothing. Note how carefully the Holy Spirit uses words in the Bible. He does not say that men cannot by their generous giving profit any one. He says if a man's heart is not right, no amount of giving, even to the pouring out of his life, will profit him who does the giving anything. Men, who know nothing experimentally about the love of God in their own hearts may give money to good causes and the money may be spent in a way to profit many lives, but it profits the givers nothing. God is interested in what we are. He is concerned about our motives. Christians with the love of God in their hearts will give. They will give naturally and spontaneously. They do not have to be driven to give. Men who love their wives and are able to do things for them do not have to wait for "the drvie to be put on" to buy their wives the clothes they need. Normal mothers with mothers's hearts beating in their bosoms do not have to be urged to give their hungry babies food. It is the writer's opinion that while the financial drives which are so often put on for different causes have done much good in relieving human suffering, they have done much harm in causing people to believe that the are perfectly safe spiritually because they are known as generous citizens. Such people seem to have forgotten that Jesus meant what He said when He told Nicodemus, who by the way was a very high type man, that it was necessary for him to be born again if he wished to see the Kingdom of God. The also seem to have forgotten that the Bible means it when it says that man who give without Christian love in their hearts will themselves be profited nothing.

EATING ESTABLISHMENTS ARE IMPROVED

Efforts of the local health department to promote improvement of the equipment of Chilton county's eating establishments in accordance with the new health permit system have been very successful according to a weekly health department bulletin. Of Chilton county's 67 eating establishments, soda fountains, meat markets, etc., 59 have been issued permits, having qualified by making the necessary improvements in their equipment. Only eight remain which are yet without permits and these operators, the health department reports, have been given citations by the license inspector for operating without a privilege license. Under the health permit system now in force, a permit issued by the local health officer, must first be obtained by an operator before he can purchase a license.

In summarizing the improvements made throughout the county Dr. Sturkie, county health officer, stated that there were 17 establishments which installed hot water under pressure, 8 which installed sanitary privies, three which protected their water supply, 24 which painted or made improvements in the walls or floors, etc.

Warning was issued from the health office this week that certain milk dealers who have not yet qualified as Grade A producers are selling milk in Clanton with Grade A caps. "This, declared Dr. Sturkie, is a violation of local health regulations and I am anxious that milk consumers in Clanton realize that at the present there is only one dairy serving Clanton qualified to produce Grade A milk, the dairy of Miller Brothers. I will take any steps necessary to prevent any further violation of this regulation."

Bacteriological examinations, temperature readings, sanitary inspecting of Miller's Dairy to date have all shown the dairy to be satisfactory from a health standpoint in meeting Grade A requirements. Steam sterilization of utensils and equipment, cooling of the milk to 50 degrees, etc., which are very essential in the safeguarding of milk are being carried out at the local Grade A Dairy.

TIGERS SHOULDER SECOND DEFEAT

The Chilton County Tigers lost a most exciting game to the much sronger Holtville team last Friday.

Clanton kicked off to Holtville in the first period and they never got a paw around the ball untill the unexpected happened and Holtville scored in the first few minutes of the game The ball was placed on the five yard line, Holtville attempted to kick the extra point but the kick was wide.

Holtville kicked to the Tigers, but the Tigers were unable to gain the required yardage for first down. The Tigers punted and with beautiful blocking the punt was brought back a considerable distance, but there the Tigers held them for downs and took the ball on their own thirty-five again they were unable to make first down. The exciting play happened Buckey attempted to punt and the kick was blocked by Holtville's left end. This downing the ball on Clanton's 30 yard line. The Holtville team then made a foward march for the last white line, the kick was good for the extra point.

As the third period began the Tigers seemed to have a new spirit and Holtville was unable to make any progress, each team exchanged punts. During this period Snowy Melton made a spectacular run for about thirty five yards, as he was going into the clear he stumbled; had it not been for him stumbling this would have been a sure touchdown for the Tigers.

For the first half of the last period neither team was able to get into pay dirt. As the end was drawing near the Togers took to the air, this air rade made the Holtville team stan up and take notice. As Holtville was expecting a pass Snowy Melton dashed around right end, as he was being pulled down Buckey Armstrong was there to relieve him of the pig-skin and went across standing up. This being as perfectly timed lateral as Georgia Tech might have displayed The point was made good with a pass from Armstrong to Johnson.

During the last few minutes to play Clanton lost their chance to win or tie the score when Holtville intercepted a pass this leaving the score 13 to 7 in favor of Holtville.

It would be unfair to pick a star of the game without picking each of the players as each did their duty in top notch preformance.

Most cotton farmers in Choctaw are saving seed of D. P. L., Stoneville, Cook's 144, and Clevewilt for planting purposes, says A. G. Harrell, county agent. Seed are very carefully handled to prevent heating in storage since many poor stands this year were due to the fact that seed were not properly dried before they were stored.

IN MEMORY

Many hearts were saddened a few weeks ago, October 18th, when Jesus saw fit to take our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Pierce, away. She was 78 years old, and was loved by everyone who knew her. She was always ready to serve her Lord. She bore her suffering in vain. Our dear mother was laid ot rest in Bethsalem cemetery, with the Revs. Grady Williams, Joe Moore and Rev. E. L. Manning conducting; Spigener directing.

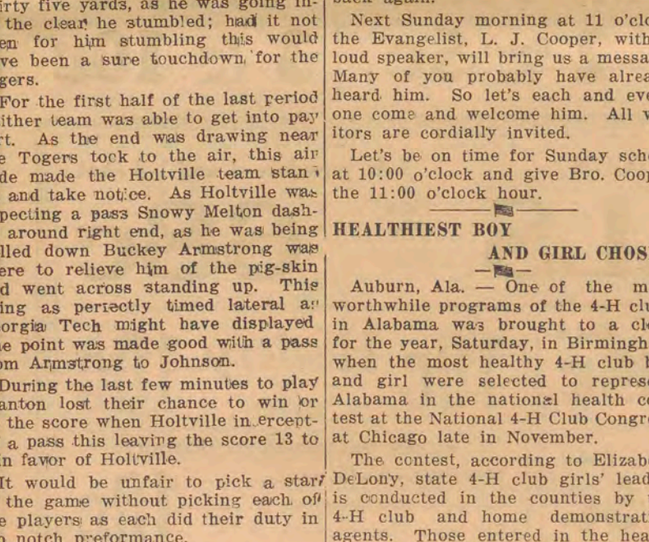
She leaves to mourn her death seven children—Mrs. C. W. Gray, Mrs. C. C. Gray, Mr. Reynolds Pierce, all of Verbena; Mrs. Wade Friday, Mr. Jim Pierce, of Billingsley, Ala.; Mr. J. G. Pierce of Cardova, Ala.; Mr. Shirley Pierce of Summerville, Ala. Two brothers—John Silas of Montgomery, and Gaines Silas of Clanton, and a host of grandchildren and great grand children.

SARDIS

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Bro. A. E. Trice filled his regular appointment, delivering two wonderful sermons.

We had a number of visitors Sunday from Antioch, and we invite them back again.

Next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the Evangelist, L. J. Cooper, with a loud speaker, will bring us a message. Many of you probably have already heard him. So let's each and every one come and welcome him. All visitors are cordially invited.



Let's be on time for Sunday school at 10:00 o'clock and give Bro. Cooper the 11:00 o'clock hour.

HEALTHIEST BOY AND GIRL CHOSEN

Auburn, Ala. — One of the most worthwhile programs of the 4-H clubs in Alabama was brought to a close for the year, Saturday, in Birmingham when the most healthy 4-H club boy and girl were selected to represent Alabama in the national health contest at the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago late in November.

The contest, according to Elizabeth DeLony, state 4-H club girls' leader, is conducted in the counties by the 4-H club and home demonstration agents. Those entered in the health contest have a physical examination in the fall, given with the cooperation of the count health unit. The doctor, home agent, and nurse visit the clubs for the examinations. A card showing the defects of each club member is filed in the home agent's office and health office. Both the agent and health unit and other agencies work together in the correction of the defects.

Alabama farmers are expected to share in the improved demand for farm products and increased farm income in prospect for the coming year, according to P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service, in commenting upon the outlook reports issued recently by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics which indicates a slight rise in price for products and a reduction of the disparity between prices received by farmers and the prices paid by them.

This year's crop of peanuts, a leading crop in Southeast Alabama, will about equal the record crop of 1936 and will probably total well over a billion pounds of peanuts, the U. S. Bureau of Economics reports.

Mrs. M. L. Rogers was carried to Woodlawn Hospital, Birmingham, by Martin's ambulance last Saturday morning.

URGES FARMERS ATTEND BANKHEAD SPEAKING

Editor Union-Banner:

I notice from the press that Senator John H. Bankhead will speak in Clanton next Friday, November 18, at 10:30 a. m. I hope the people of Chilton County, and esvecially the farmers, will turn out to hear Senator Bankhead on the farm program.

I realize that many of the people of this county are very much opposed to the way the program is being administered in this county, in fact, I feel like there should be some amendment to the law. I think every one-horse farmers should be allotted as much as four or five bales of cotton without any measurements or interference on the part of the Government. As I understand the present program it is beneficial to the large farmer, but not to the small farmer. As I have said, I do not believe the small farmer can comply with the government measurements when they have to be within one-tenth of an acre correct, especially where small plots of land have rugged edges. I know of many instances in this county where the federal officials have measured the same plot of land two or three times and have varied from one-tenth to one or two acres on the same plot, which shows the farmers themselves could not comply with the law.

I again urge the people to turn out and hear Senator Bankhead, because he is the authority on the cotton program. We want to do what is best for the farmers and when we help the farmer we help the other classes in the county.—L. H. Reynolds.

Forty-seven of the counties showed a gain while twenty counties showed a loss. The largest gain was shown in Mobile County——$4,-828.60, and the greatest loss was in DeKalb, the loss in that county being $734.50. The counties showing a loss in privilege license receipts were Autauga, Bullock, Clay, Colbert, Conecuh, Dale, Dallas, DeKalb, Escambia, Etowah, Geneva, Henry, Lauderdale, Limestone, Lowndes, Macon, Pickens, St. Clair, Sumter and Winston.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Much sought after these days is Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of staff of the Cuban army, who, in addition to accepting an invitation to and attending Armistice day ceremonies in Washington, has replied favorably to the suggestion of Gen. Manuel Avila Comacho, secretary of Mexico's national defense that he visit that country next January.

Strong Man of Cuba Is Much Sought After

In both instances the underlying diplomatic motif, viz., "a gesture of co-operation between factors responsible for the development of democracies in our hemisphere," is officially set forth in Mexico and in Washington, tacitly, while, incidentally, the interests of reciprocal trade relations in sugar and tobacco have not been overlooked.

Commanding an army of 25,000 men, Colonel Batista is not only a soldier, but an economist and politician so dynamically and efficiently engaged in Cuba's rehabilitation in both spheres as to have gained for himself the sobriquet, "Cuba's Strong Man." And, also, "The Napoleon of the Caribbean."

First barber, then tailor, carpenter, sugar cane worker, railroad hand, army buck private, stenographer — and now dictator, his course was written in the stars and so predestined; so he says and believes. Now, at the age of 37, he has been responsible for the rise and fall of seven Cuban presidents, controls the Cuban congress and dictates the policies of President Federico Laredo Bru. Of his army, a nippy body of men, he says it is committed to peace; but is ever at the service of the United States in whatever armed issue the great northerly republic may ever enter.

THE jimson weed and the vinegar fly figure heavily in hopes for civilizing human beings. That seems a round-about approach, but Dr. A. F. Blakeslee, in the news as he hops up tiny flowers to cabbage size by a chemical shot, has found through experiments with the above that we may yet remold humanity to a pattern of decent behavior.

Betters Weed; Humans Next, Aim of Doctor

A West Virginia poet called the jimson weed "a mean, stubborn weed of a low, poisonous breed." Relating it to humankind may have been just a non-sequitur, but Dr. Blakeslee found it excellent for gene shuffling and juggling and he worked strange wizardry in turning it into something else again. He thinks he might do the same for the rest of us.

He and Dr. Thomas Hunt Morgan, a biological miracle team, have, in this country, taken the lead in research in genes, as determining the pattern of individual heredity.

Profoundly believing that civilization is conditioned by biological limitations, Dr. Blakeslee thinks the way to get rid of congenital killers, war-mongers, dolts and other laggards in the life-parade is to work over the basic stuff of life—mainly genes. He has plenty of jimson weed and reports progress.

A native of Oswego, N. Y., now 64 years old, he was educated at Wesleyan and Harvard. His experiments in biological regimentation have given him high standing in his profession.

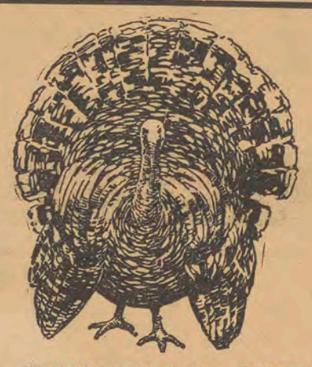
DR. ALEXANDER KLEMIN, authority on flying and airplanes, hails the approach of the foolproof rotary-winged family airplane, safe as a baby carriage and handy for a trip down to the delicatessen or the post office. It won't be here just this minute, but it is coming, says Dr. Klemin, as "windmill" flight offers stability which the present mode never can hope to attain. His prediction is made at the first world conference on rotating wing flight at Philadelphia.



Bold Prophet Predicts Safe Family Plane

Dr. Klemin, 50 years old, is a native of London, here in 1913, a former student at M. I. T., naturalized in 1917, with the research department of the army air service and thereafter chairman of the Guggenheim School of Economics. He has been one of aviation's boldest prophets. Two years ago, he visioned the next war fought with rocket planes, with jet propulsion, killing at 200 miles. He has prophesied stratosphere flight of 1,200 miles per hour, at a height of 65,000 feet. He rides high in his own stratosphere of higher mathematics, and nobody disputes him.

CHILTON COUNTY, THE HEART OF ALABAMA

VOLUME 46.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1938 NUMBER 32

IS WINSTON COUNTY DEMOCRATIC?

You have read much in the State papers about Winston County going Democratic on Tuesday, November 8th. The truth of the matter is this: On November 8th three Democats were elected to office in Winston county, which all observers say was due to dissatisfaction among the Republicans over their primary results. The three offices filled by Democrats were: Representative, Sheriff and one Commissioner. In this same election the Republicans filled six offices, including: Tax collector, tax assessor, one Commissioner and three members of the school board. There are seven other Republican officials of Winston county who will serve for the next two years, namely: Probate judge, circuit clerk, two commissioners, two members of the school board and superintendent of education.

Of the sixteen popularly elected public officials to serve in Winston county during the next two years, therefore, thirteen are Republicans and three are Democrats. Is this much for the Democrats to be jubilant over?

YOUNG MEN GET CONTROL OF GOP

Some Of Party New Leaders Are Almost Unknown To Capital Colleagues

Washington. — The Republican renaissance has brought forward a set of new and younger leaders for the party, some of them almost unknown to their older colleagues here.

Most of the newcomers are well below middle age; a few are still in their early 30s. In several cases their streamlined campaign technique and their platforms have been at sharp variance with the teachings of their party predecessors.

Some of these victors in Tuesday's election will come to the Senate, where there already are two comparatively young Republicans—Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Bridges, of New Hampshire. Others will go to the House, and several will sit in governor's chairs which Democrats have occupied.

In the group are a few who already have been mentioned as 1940 presidential possibilities, such as Robert A. Taft, 49, senator elect in Ohio, and Thomas E. Dewey, 36, who nearly defeated Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, of New York.

Another potent figure among the Republican winners is Judge Arthur H. James, who was elected governor of Pennsylvania after campaigning with a "miners' quartet." The men wore miners' outfits and sang lusty songs in which the candidate joined.

John W. Bricker, who won the Ohio governorship, is a handsome, iron-gray-haired war veteran, whose dynamic oratory is in contrast to the scholarly approach of Senator-Elect Taft.

Several of the new Republican faces shone forth from New England campaign posters. And Leverett Saltonstall, who at 46 becomes governor of Massachusetts, looks like a typical New Englander. He is tall, angular and raw-boned, with a long chin and high-arched brows.

Like Saltonstall, the governor-elect of Rhode Island, William H. Vanderbilt, is socially prominent, wealthy, and scion of an old family. In Who's Who the 36-year-old Vanderbilt, a former state senator, lists himself as a capitalist.

Only three years older is John A. Danaher, of Connecticut, who at 39 will be one of the younger senators. When the Republican senatorial committee asked him what funds he wanted for his campaign, he replied that he didn't need any. He was sure to defeat Senator Lonergan anyway, he said.

Raymond E. Baldwin, the governor-elect of Connecticut, is 44, an eighth generation New Englander, and a lawyer with a relatively short political background.

There are new faces in the Midwest, too—Payne Ratner, an ally of Alf M. Landon, elected governor of Kansas, and "Julius the Just" Heil, a well-to do Milwaukee manufacturer who upset the LaFollette regime in Wisconsin by capturing the governor's chair.

The youngest governor next year will be Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, 31-year-old lawyer who defeated the Farmer-Laborite incumbent.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL COMES TO CLOSE THURSDAY

By the time you get your Union-Banner, the roll call of the Red Cross for 1938 will have come to a close, according to J. Mell Martin, roll call chairman of Chilton county.

Response to the appeal of workers has been reasonably satisfactory this year, notwithstanding the fact that people generally are harder up for cash than usual.

A complete report of this year's work will be made in next week's papers, since the same was not sufficiently checked up to be published this week.

Mr. Martin states that although the time for memberships close Thursday, yet anyone wanting to contribute later will not be denied that privilege.

More Firms On Honor Roll

Added to the list of firms becoming one hundred per cent members and thus getting on the honor roll, besides those published last week, are the following: County Health Unit, Peoples Savings Bank, Dr. H M. Nix, Maplesville.

Harlan Popwell, son of Mrs. Dutch Popwell, was carried to a Birmingham hospital with a broken leg Monday, Martin's ambulance furnishing the conveyance.

CLANTON LADY DIED THURSDAY

Mrs. Mary Bell Sartor, age 68 years, died suddenly from a heart attack Thursday morning, November 17th, at 6:30 o'clock. Funeral services were held from the home Friday morning at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Oscar A. Davis, assisted by Dr. J. W. Truett. Burial was in Clanton cemetery, Martin & Sons in charge.

Legion Auxiliary Here Is Rapidly Growing

The Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary is rapidly growing. It has been organized a little over a month with twenty-three paid up active members. All officers and chairmans have been named.

Membership in the Auxiliary is limited to women who direct personal connection with World War service through a member of their immediate famliy who served with the armed forces durng the War, or through their own service with the armed forces. Upon establishment of eligibility, such women may become members of a local unit of the Auxiliary. A member of a local unit is also a member of the State Department and the National organizations, just as a citizen of Clanton is also a citizen of Alabama and of the United States. By the payment of dues in the local unit, a member also contributes to the support of the states and national organizations.

All women who are eligible to membership in the Auxiliary come under one of the following classifications:

Mothers, wives, sisters, or daughters of men and women who were in the military or naval service of the United States between April 6,1917, and November 11, 1918, and who died in line of duty or after honorable discharge.

For the next two weeks the Unit is making an extension drive for membership Any who are interested in joining will be welcomed at the next meeting on December 5th, at 7:00 o'clock in the City Hall. An interesting program is being planned. The Legion will join the Auxiliary for the social hour.

KIWANIANS TO MEET ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT FOR PROGRAM

The Clanton Kiwanis Club will meet for their weekly luncheon on Wednesday night of this week instead of Thursday, for a special Thanksgiving program.

Prominent speakers from Montgomery will be on hand to speak to the group, and every member is urged to be present, on Wednesday (tonight) instead of Thursday.

New Commodities Hauler For County

On last Thursday, November 17th, the Commissioners Court of Chilton county suspended the services of Jadie Bean, who has been serving as hauler of commodities for the old people, a county job, for the past four years. In his stead a Mr. Hayes of near Maplesville was named.

Three members of the court were present when this business was transacted—Messrs. Oden, Parrish and Ousley, according to the minutes of the court. The motion was offered by Mr. Oden, seconded by Mr. Parrish, and voted favorable by all three. As ground for the change, it was given that Mr. Hayes had a larger truck than Mr. Bean; however, Mr Bean states that he was forewarned by Commissioner Oden before the election that if he did not vote right he might lose his job.

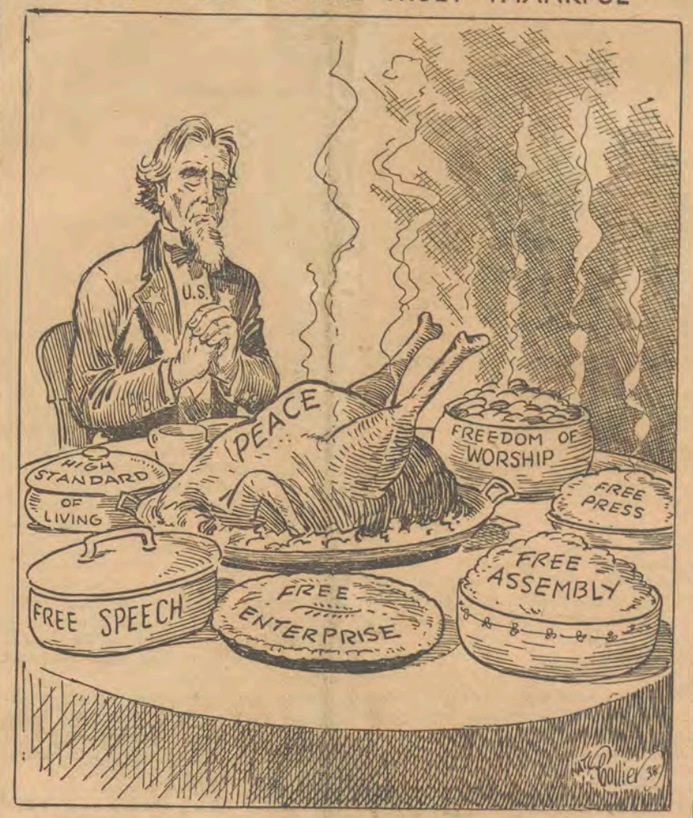
TIFFINS RETURN FROM FURNITURE MARKETS

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tiffin have recently returned from several days visit to the leading furniture factories and markets of the North and East. They report that they have on the road and are already receiving large shipments of new and up to date furniture and home furnishings.

Elsewhere will be found listed a number of attractive items and bargains in brand new furniture. Look them up before you buy; and ask about those new and used electric and battery radios.

TENT MEETING WILL RUN REMAINDER OF THIS WEEK

The tent meeting across the railroad, conducted by Evangelists L. J. Cooper and Ray Walker, will continue through the remainder of this week, the last service to be held Sunday night at 7:15.



The subject which Evangelist Cooper will preach upon Friday night is "The Resurrection". Sunday afternoon at 2:30, his subject will be "The Second Coming of Christ."

COUNT YOUR MANY BLESSINGS

It seems only a few days since the last Thursday in November, 1937, but when one takes time to review over the happenings, the time seems to stretch out. The year has been a mingling of good things and things not so good; at this Thanksgiving season, however, let us strive to look only upon the bright side of the past 365 days.

Our Heavenly Father has been kind to us. There are not many of us who have not received above our just deserts, everything being considered. Therefore, let us, in deep humility, name our many blessings one by one, and render unto our Maker thanks for each and everyone of them; remembering those hosts less fortunate than ourselves, both in our homeland and abroad.

FOR THESE WE ARE TRULY THANKFUL

THER'RE NEARLY ALL SATISFIED

Just a few more words about the results of the election in Chilton county on November 8th. We have never seen as much universal satisfaction from everybody regardless of party as we have over the results of this election. It is hard to estimate how many such expressions as this we have heard since the results were announced: "I voted the other way, but I am really glad it went as it did. I believe it is the best thing that could have happened."

Well, such expressions are always sweet music in the ears of the victors. But it embodies a principle that is not wholesome—one when weighed to its essence is dangerous to a goverment like ours. Just what possesses free people to vote one way and hope that the results total up against them? Is that the American way? It that the safe way to vote? It might happen that there were enough with backbone to hold the thing in the road, but if not, then what would become of the vehicle, and who would be to blame for whatever the catastrophe?

We say, hurrah for the man or woman who has the gizzard to vote and speak his or her convictions and let the chips fall where they may. These are the backbone of the nation and these will save us from the rocks—if we are saved.

VARDAMAN AND NOOJIN LOOMING FOR NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Since the death of Hon. Tom J. Kennamer several weeks ago, the Republicans of Alabama have been casting around for its best man to succeed Mr. Kennamer as National Committeeman from Alabama. The State Committee will be called together in Birmingham on December 10th for the purpose of making this selection, and present indications are that the race has narrowed down to two fine men, Hon. B. L. Noojin, of Gadsden, and Hon. C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham, both of whom stand well up the line for the place. Several fine and deserving Republicans have been mentioned, any of whom would do the party much honor and be of considerable service in that capacity in Alabama. Of course, it is not cut and dried that either Mr. Vardaman or Mr. Noojin will be selected, but the indications now point strongly that it lies between these two.

C. O. Vardaman is a deserving Republican to the "nth" degree, and is as capable as he is deserving. He is young, active, awake to every situation and emergency, and always at the forefront for the Republican party in Alabama. Mr. Vardaman lives in Birmingham, the admitted center and headquarters of the Republican party in Alabama, and will always be easily contacted there when any occasion arises. We believe that he possesses every qualification for the important office of National Committeeman.

Mr. Noojin is a comparatively young man and is thoroughly qualified for the place of National Committeeman. He has made an enviable success of his business enterprizes in and around Gadsden, and his allegiance to the Republican party, its principles and precepts, is unassailable.

To be the right kind of a Committeeman, a man must give considerable of his time, talents and means; all of these either Mr. Noojin or Mr. Vardaman are amply in position to come forward with.

Whoever is selected, the entire party in Alabama in solid phalanx will fall in line with him toward the goal of a united, strong and serviceable party organization in the State.

O. L. DEVAUGHN ILL

The many friends of Mr. O. L. Devaughn, of Maple Springs community, will regret to learn that he is very ill with pneumonia. He has been confined to his bed for over a week, but at the time we go to press he seems to show marked improvement.

M. F. WAGONER DIED

M. F. Wagoner, age 68, of Jemison, died at Central Alabama Hospital Friday night of last week, November 11th. Burial was at New Cedron Sunday following, Rev. W. S. Cox officiating; Spigener in charge. The wife survives, as well as several sons and daughters.

STATE EXPENSES HIT $95,678,464

Receipts Total $91,761,343 But Unbalanced Budget Appearance Denied

Montgomery, Ala. — The State Treasury reported today 1937-38 disbursements totaled $95,678,464, as compared with receipts of $91,761,343, but attaches said this did not necessarily indicate more was spent than taken in.

Treasury books for 1936-37 were closed Oct. 1, exact end of the fiscal year, and all warrants outstanding or issued later against debts of that year were paid from receipts being credited then to 1937-38. Books this year were kept open until October 28, allowing what officials said was "practically a cleanup" of all 1937-38 business.

A cash balance of $6,224,988 was reported for 1937-38 compared with $10,142,104 when books were closed at the end of the previous fiscal year disbursements in 1936-37 totaled $66,161,028 against receipts of $71,584,045.

CCHS WINS LAST GAME OF SEASON

"Tigers" Defeat Columbiana Eleven By Score Of 30 To 14

Last Friday, November 18, the C. C. H. S. Tigers clashed with the strong Columbiana eleven and won by the over-whelming score of 30 to 14. This being the last game of the season the boys showed a splendid spirit and plenty of fight.

The Tigers were first to d aw blood scoring on a blocked punt in the first few minutes of the game. The kick was blocked and Johnson took the ball on first bounce and galloped across the line for the first counter of the game, they were unable to score the extra point. In the later part of this quarter the Columbiana eleven put all their strength into the game and they also scored in this quarter, making the point after the touchdown gave them a 1-point lead at the end of the first period.

The Tigers started with the whistle and again they crossed the line making the score 13 to 7 in their favor.

In this period the breaks seem to be against the Tigers, as they fumbled twice before they were able to get their plays to working, but late in the quarter they began to click, also the defence held most wonderfully behind the spear heads in the attack; Brainless Wonder Cooper at the pivot post and Lanky Jones at the tackle position.

At the starting of the second half third quarter, Columbiana lost no time in scoring, they took the ball on their own 40 yard line and scored from this position in four plays, their kick for the extra point being good put them into the lead again by 2-points. When the opposing team kicked off to the Tigers they started a foward march for the goal line, Melton, Armstrong and Cooper starring in this march. Melton took a latteral from Armstrong for about 15 yards then reversing the same play with Armstrong taking a latteral from Melton for another first down, at this time Cooper began his running dashing off-tackle for the amount of yards needed. Cooper carried the ball to the 5-yard line and the remaining five was the least of their worries. This marker puting the Tigers in the lead by 4 points, after this the Columbiana team never threatened again. Columbiana was forced to kick the ball going out of bound on the Tigers 45 yard line, this ending the third period.

When the next and last quarter began, the Tigers took to the air. This aerial attack puzzled the opposing team to such an extent that the Tigers were able to run the score up to 30 to 14 in their favor. The end of the game finding the score at this point.

Each member of the team played a jam up football game this making it unfair to try to pick a star.

CHRISTMAS SEAL DRIVE

Mr. LeRoy Martin, local secretary of the Christmas Seal Sale, announces that work is steadily in progress getting the stamps and bangles out over the county. More stamps will be mailed out this year to a much larger number of people, and it is hoped that all will assist in the work. Those who receive stamps are asked to use all they can and mail the rest to the secretary in the return envelope furnished.

Mr. Martin says that the school teachers of the county are playing an important part in the scheme this year.

Negro Man Dies From Knife Wound

Columbus "Red" Young, negro man, died last Saturday afternoon at Central Alabama Hospital, following wounds sustained in a ruckus with Jim Murphy, 19-year-old negro boy, on Thursday night before. In the fight, which started off with the negroes playing with each other, Murphy stabbed Young twice or three times in the abdomen.

Murphy was placed in jail Friday charged with assault to murder. The charge has been charged to "murder."

GRAND JURY ENDS ITS INVESTIGATIONS

Find No Clues To Absentee Kidnapping; Recommend New Election Laws

State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

To Hon. Arthur Glover as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We, the Grand Jury for the July term special session have completed our investigattion of all matters that we felt needed our attention at this time and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 18 cases and have examined 40 witnesses and are returning herewith 10 true bills.

There have been rumors of widespread fraud and violation of the election laws in the elections held in the County during this year. We have made an effort to make an investigation into these rumors and charges that have been current over the County. To this end we had before us several witnesses, but were unable to get evidence from any source that would warrant us in returning true bills against anyone. We, therefore, have not returned any true bills with reference to election law violation, but we wish to take this means of making the following recommendations with reference to certain changes in the election laws:

1. We feel that the Absentee Ballot Law should be repealed.

2. The Legislature of 1931 passed laws calculated to remove fraud and corruption from elections, but we feel that insofar as is legally possible the Legislature should put on the Statue books more strict laws.

3. This Grand Jury is of the opinion that much of the basis for the charge of fraud at elections, not only in this County, but all over the the State, is brought about because the elector does not actually have a secret ballot, and it is our opinion that the Legislature should remedy this situation by proper legislation to do away with the numbering of each voter's ballot.

In conclusion we feel that there is much improvement needed in our election laws in that the Absentee Ballot Law be repealed, the manner of taking the name of an elector and numbering his ticket should be abolished, and that the criminal law touching election violations be made much stricter and we take this means of calling on those in authority to use their influence to have the Legislature make these much needed changes.

We, having complied to the best of our ability with what we understood our duties as Grand Jurors to be, and having done what we felt was for the best interest of our County, we now ask that we be dismissed until such time as your Honor may see fit to have us again convene.

This November 16, 1938.

W. H. RASCOE,
Foreman.

Senator Bankhead Spoke Here Friday

Senator John H. Bankhead spoke at the courthouse in Clanton last Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The senator had his loud-speaker car hooked up, and all for blocks around could hear the speech.

There must have been two or three thousand people listening to the speech, and the bulk of them were farmers from over the county.

Whether or not the farmers and cotton planters were satisfied with the explanation offered by Senator Bankhead is not known, but we presume that there is varying opinions of his discourse. It is most universally agreed, however, that the cotton production and price question is a twister for the professional muddle-solvers and legislative specialists at Washington.

To sign up or not to sign up is the question for the humble tillers of the soil to answer; and they have only a few days in which to make up their minds.

CITIZENS RENDER VALUABLE AID IN SEED COLLECTION

Work crews of CCC enrollee engaged in collecting seed for the S. C. S. Nursery at Thorsby, Ala., have met with generous response from the citizens of Chilton and surrounding counties.

On being approached for permission to harvest pine cones, kudzu, and other seed, the whole-hearted support of land owners and tenants was manifested.

A real interest is being shown in this work, particularly where the persons approached were informed of the use of the seed, for growing erosion prevention plants.

Assistance rendered made it very easy to collect the seed quota of Camp S. C. S. Alabama-7, and tends to show that the citizens of this section are very much interested in erosion prevention.

E. F. JACKSON

E. F. Jackson, age 79, fell dead at his home in Beat 15 Wednesday morning, November 16ht, at 8 o'clock. Burial was at Liberty Hill Thursday at 3 p.m., Rev. G. G. Williams officiating. Surviving the the wife, two sons and two daughters.

FARM NOTES

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMA

(By A. W. Jones)

Any program which increases the acreage of cotton increases the labor of women and children in the fields of the South. It has been estimated that one-fourth of the labor needed to produce a sizable cotton crop is by women and children, and cotton farmers well know that the proportion is greater when the acreage is increased. Conditions that put women and children in the fields in greater numbers go hand in hand with poorer living standards.

Farmers should bear in mind that the can make very little, if any, good use of "the foreign market" for cotton at 4 or 5 cents per pound. Sale of our cotton at 4 or 5 cents per pound to foreigners would be subsidizing them at our expense. Such a price for cotton brings into existence the height of exploitation of both soil and human resources.

There is another important factor that cotton farmers should keep in mind in considering a farm based on "parity on domestic consumption." For the 10-year period, 1926-27 to 1935-36, about 43 per cent of the cotton producedi in the United States was consumed domestically—that is in the United States. For the same period 99.6 of the corn and 87.4 per cent of the wheat produced in the United States was consumed in the United States. These figures indicate that "parity on domestic consumption" means parity on less than half of the cotton crop for cotton farmers and parity on most or all of the wheat and corn crop for farmers who produce these crops. Cotton farmers have a right to continue to fight for a program the aim of which is to give them parity on a normal year's domestic consumption and exports,

Who are the active proponents of this proposed substitute plan? Oddly enough (or, as to be expected) very few farmers, those who toil in the fields with their families have been found advocating the domestic allotment plan, but a great deal of interest has been manifested by certain individuals or groups who profit on cotton after it is picked and leaves the hands and ownership of the producer. There are certain processes, handlings, and services that a bale of cotton goes through on the way from the farm to the spinning mill for which a fixed charge is made, and the more bales there are to handle the more charges can be collected for such services. Not only that but as the prce of cotton goes lower carrying to some extent the prices of other commodities down with it, the relative purchasing power of a dollar fixed charge is increased. There is therefore some reason for interest on the part of some individuals and groups for more bales of cotton and a cheaper price per pound through this is a rather vicious blow below the belt to faremrs who, because of lack of information, are misled by such reasoning, especially in view of the fact that Southern farmers have the lowest income, and therefore the least opportunity to provide a satisfactory living and keep properly abreast of the times in which they live of any group in this country.

COTTON ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS TO FOLLOW 1938 PLAN

The same method that was followed in determining cotton acreage allotments under the 1938 farm program is being used in setting up the allotments for 1939, according to T. H. Martin, Gordo, state AAA committee chairman.

This method is specifically provided in the farm act under which the program operates, he states. County and community committees are now working out the allotments of individual farms in accordance with the act.

"Many persons are interested in the details of how the cotton acreage allotment of an individual farm is established," Mr. Martin states. "The procedure is laid down in the law and the committees must follow this procedure. It is the same for all farms."

In general, all farms which have produced cotton in any of the past 3 years receive allotments.

For farms on which the highest planted and diverted cotton acreage during the past 3 years is 5 acres or less, the farm's allotment is the highest cotton acreage planted and diverted during the 3-year period.

A small reserve will be available for farms with allotments between 5 and 15 acres. No farm will have an allotment greater than the highest cotton acreage planted and diverted durthe past three years.

The law provides, however, that notwithstandng the other provisions no allotment is to be less than 50 per cent of the 1937 planted and diverted cotton acreage on the farm, unless an increase to 50 per cent might cause the allotment to exceed 40 per cent of the farm's tilled land.

A small reserve acreage is available in each State for allotment to farms producing cotton in 1939, but which did not produce any cotton in the 3 preceding years.

4-H CANNING WINS

ROBBIE L. LINCH, 18, of Wetumpka is one of the Alabama delegation to the 17th National 4-H Club Congress opening November 25 in Chicago. Awarded by Girls State Club Specialist Elizabeth S. DeLony to the state's most worthy 4-H'er in canning projects, the trip climaxes a four-year record. * * * She canned 2,402 jars of food, valued at $602.75, made five exhibits, entered one health contest and one dress revue. For a year she lead a club of 11 members. The total value of 4-H projects is certified at $791.80. * * * She will compete with other state winners in the Southern Extension Section for a $200 college scholarship. A national winner, chosen from the four sectional champions, will receive an additional $200, provided with trips and county awards by the Kerr Glass Company. Ann Pierce of Milstead was named alternate state winner and receives a 25-quart canner retort.

GOOD TERRACES PAYS

Auburn, Ala. — The success of a terrace system depends upon Alabama Extension Service. Of course, the system must be designed and constructed properly, but in addition the terraces themselves must be properly maintained.

Since practically all of the new terraces being built in Alabama today are of the Nichols type the maintenance requires a different procedure. Any ordinary turn plow that is already in use on the farm is all the equipment needed. A two-mule team of course is best but a single-mule and one-horse plow will do an excellent job.

The channel of the Nichols terrace is a very necessary part of the terrace and should be kept plowed out at least twice a year, say in the fall soon after crops are harvested and again in the spring when land is being prepared for planting.

The steps in this job may be as follows:

First, determine the width of the channel. This width will depend on the slope of the land. The steeper the land the narrower the channel. Measurements show that this channel should never be narrower than ten feet even on 12 to 15 per cent land while on flatter slopes the width of channel should be 18 to 20 feet.

Second, planning. The first furrow should be on top of the terrace ridge throwing the dirt down the hill. The next furrow should be 10 to 20 feet up the hill from the first furrow and the dirt will be thrown up the hill. When the operation of plowing out this strip is completed the last furrow will be the bottom of the terrace chanel. The remainder of the land between the terraces may be plowed out as another land with no more expense than ordinary breaking or turning.

Realizing that Alabama farmers have invested considerable money in terraces during the last few years it is recommended that all terraces be properly repaired and maintained before winter rains set in.

4-H CLUB HEALTH WINNERS CHOSEN

Birmingham, Ala. — Hale and hearty and ready for a trip to Chicago to compete with health winners of other states was the judges' opinion of Louise Johnson, Calera, and Burt Bickerstaff, Hatchechubbee, Russell County, who last week were declared the healthiest 4-H club boy and girl in Alabama. The finals of the State health contest were held here at the Tuberculosis Clinic.

The two will leave for the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago immediately after Thanksgiving to enter the national health contest there.

Second place in the health contest, noe of the most popular projects of the 4-H club program in Alabama, went to Alma Bolling, Perry County club girl of Centreville, and Charles Short, Bullock County boy. Representatives of 35 counties entered the contest this year in the district and state contest, according to 4-H club leaders a Auburn.

Boh halth winners, in a radio interview over WAPII in Birmingham, attributed their good health to the health habits learned in 4-H club work, principally proper diet and regular habits. Both have been in 4-H club work for a number of years.

MR. JOHN GILES DIED

The death of Mr. John Giles affectionately known by his many friends and relatives throughout the State as "Uncle John" occurred at the home of his raughter, s. George E. Brown in Thorsby.

Tuesday of last week, Nov. 8th Mr. Giles passed his 89th birthday—one month before he died, and until a short while ago he was active and in good health. Despite his advanced age, he retained reasonable well memories of Civil War days and the reconstruction period long before Clanton existed. His death reminds us that the ranks of our pioneers are rapidly thinning.

He spent his entire life here in Chilton county and will long be remembered as a model citizen and a beloved character.

The funeral was held at the Mineral Springs Baptist church, Thursday morning. Services were conducted by the Rev. W. S. Cox, assisted by Dr. Truett; burial was in the family cemetery beside his wife, "Aunt Nannie Giles," who preceded him in death 12 years ago.

His grandsons acted as pallbearers.

He is survived by three brothers—Shemon and Alex of Clanton, Albert of Mineola, Texas; one sister, Mrs. William Wagoner also of Texas; his daughter and one son, A. L. Giles; seven grandsons, three granddaughters and four great-grand children.

Doing the preaching is Evangelist L. J. Cooper, member of the Northern Baptist Convention, whose home is at Grand Rapids, Michigan. Rev. Cooper conducted a campaign here last year.

Assisting in the preaching and conducting the singing is Rev. Ray Walker, of Belton, Texas. Their meetings are conducted on a strictly high plane, and the general public is urged to hear them.

A check of the roster of 3,005 students now enrolled at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute indicates that the Smiths, Joneses and Browns are still holding their own in the matter of frequency that these names appear on the college roll.

Seven presidents, two acting presidents, and an adminstrative committet have directed the affairs of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute since its founding in 1872.

ALL POULTRY SHOULD BE BLOOD TESTED

All farmers who have poultry that they desire to have blood tested should leave your name, address, number of birds, and location of your farm at the County Agent's office or either of the vocational teachers.

Hatcheries usually pay a premium for eggs during the hatching season. It should be remembered that eggs are selling at a low price at this time. If you do plan to sell some hatching eggs or do some custom hatching for yourself, it will be necessary for your birds to be blood tested, as an accredited hatchery is not allowed to use eggs except from blood tested hens.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

Last of a Series

What Makes Alabama Power Company Electric Service Better Than 99% DEPENDABLE?

Ordinarily, when you hear of something spoken of as 99% perfect, you're inclined to consider it pretty good. But did you ever stop to think that if your Alabama Power Company electric service were only 99% good, there would be 87 hours and 36 minutes, or nearly 4 whole days and nights each year, when your electric service would be off? Contrast this with the rare and brief occasions when you experience an interruption to your electric service.

What makes Alabama Power Company electric service so dependable? Even the finest power plants, the most rugged transmission lines, the best equipment cannot, of themselves, supply you with adequate service at low cost. There must be an ideal of service behind them. That this ideal exists you know if it has been your opportunity to learn of the performance of many Alabama Power Company employees in cases of emergency. That same ideal of reliability is what inspires the effort toward constant improvement and installation of devices on Alabama Power Company electric system to keep your electric service as nearly perfect as possible—more perfect than a mere 99%.

The part some of the more interesting of these devices (they're really mechanical marvels) play in helping keep your Alabama Power Company electric service dependable is described in an interesting booklet which is yours for the asking. Write Dept. 319.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—A few years ago, this writer had the job of getting up an amateur entertainment. Robert Sherwood was just an added starter, but he ran away with the show. He is six feet, six inches tall, of lath-like dimensions and has a trick of undulating both his chest and his Adam's apple at the same time, when he sings. To hear him sing, "When the Rob-Rob-Robin Comes Bob - Bob - Bobbin'," undulating through a full octave, and flapping his long arms, is rare entertainment. He could have filled the theaters that way if he hadn't become a playwright.

Bob Sherwood, Gay or Staid, Steals Show

With all his gift for foolery, his is the "weltschmerz" of a shy, sensitive, thoughtful man, and his are the peculiarly civilized qualities which enabled him to portray "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" with insight and fidelity which have brought the heartiest critical salvo of years and many cries of "the great American drama at last." Some of the reviewers see here a thrilling "play within a play" in the skilled and timely dramatization of Lincoln's timeless utterance at just this moment of national wavering and soul-searching. Mr. Sherwood may be a man of destiny.

He would dismiss all that with a slight thoracic undulation and perhaps a modest quip. He is the least pontifical of men, as he proved when he was a drum-major in the war. Unable to make the grade in our army, he joined the Canadian Black Watch. They put him in kilts, gave him a shako and a huge baton and enjoyed him tremendously as he quickly mastered the necessary twirling and stick-tossing stunts. But they also used him in plenty of fighting, in several hot engagements. The trouble was that the trenches were only six feet deep and he was a constant lure to enemy sharpshooters. He was gassed and sent to the hospital for a long stretch—about two feet beyond the end of the cot. He read a great deal, and decided to be an author.

Demobilized, he connected with Vanity Fair as dramatic critic, did a two weeks' turn as a reporter in Boston, joined the staff of Life and later became its editor. He was born in New Rochelle, in 1896, and left Harvard to get into the war.

This is his eleventh play, not counting "Tom Ruggles' Surprise," which he wrote at the age of eight. His fame as a playwright began with "The Road to Rome," which he wrote in 1927, "just to lift a couple of mortgages," as he put it. In 1922, he married Miss Mary Brandon, the actress. He has an apartment in Sutton place, New York, and a modest estate in Surrey, England, where he has been helping Alexander Korda produce films.

MANAGER EDWARD JOHNSON'S musical autarchy at the Metroplitan comes along slowly, and we aren't yet quite musically self - sustaining. For the opening of its new season, the Met announced 14 new singers. There is one American contralto, 11 Germans, Austrians, Italians and Swedes and two new American male singers, John Carter and Leonard Warren.

Met Takes a Singer From Potato Patch

Over in our Rockland county, N. Y., we have been quite excited over a "popular local farmer," as one of the parochial sheets had it, making the grade at the Metropolitan. He is the 26-year-old Mr. Carter, who has been growing beans and potatoes, singing at his work, near New City. Mr. Carter, born in New York city, studied engineering at New York university. The depression turned him to vaudeville and later to his joint cultivation of voice and garden truck. He and Mr. Warren were winners in the Metropolitan's audition of last March.

Mr. Warren, also 26, was born in the Bronx, son of a Russian-born fur dealer. He felt constraint in turning his big voice loose in town, but let it run in the big north woods, with his father on fur-buying trips. That was how he first knew he had a voice. He studied at Columbia university and night school.

How the Expert Shoots

The best and most effective shooting form requires little movement of the hands and arms, once the gun has been put on the shoulder and the comb is against the cheek. From that point on, the direction of the muzzle is changed by moving the entire upper part of the shooter's body, the gun remaining in the same relative position with respect to the cheek and shoulder.

ISABELLA DEFEATED BY MAPLESVILLE 21-14

The Isabella "Mustangs" lost the final game of the season last Friday to the battling Maplesville team. The outstanding feature of the game was a brilliant display of passing on the part of the Isabella backs. Alston Klinner starred for the "Mustangs" through his tenacious ability to grasp the pigskin thrown by Davis and Middlebrooks. As to yardage gained by line and end plays, the Maplesville team held the edge, but in aerial attack the "Mustangs" showed their superiorty.

The final score was 21-14 in the townsters's favor. However, both sides made the game thrilling from the start.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

The November meeting of the Music Appreciation Club was held at the Baptist church on November 15th.

The big vases of bright autumn leaves by the altar, filled the auditorium with a Thanksgiving atmosphere that fitted wel into the religious theme of the ofternoon's program.

The president, Mrs. W. M. Polk, Sr., presided over the business meeting. The most important matter of the lengthy meeting was the report given by Mrs. Grady Heflin, chairman of the committee, that met with Mayor Jones to select a curtain for the stage of the City Hall. She announced that Mayor Jones had ordered a very modern and lovely curtain.

The members were urged not to forget the next choral practice on December 7th, at the home of Mrs. Henry Stanley.

Mrs. J. C. Jones was leader of the afternoon's program. A lovely violin solo was given by Percy Pitts, Jr., accompanied by his mother. A paper, "Orators in the Tune of Bach and Handel" was given by Mrs. Barney Roberts. The discription of Handle's "Messiah" was so vivid that one could almost hear the words of the lovely areas.

Miss Grace Ezell gave the following organ solos: "The Swan" — Saint Saens; "Audante" (Violin Concerts)—Mendelssohn; "Serenade"—Schubert. Miss Ezell's rendering of these selections was delightful.

Following the program, the hostess, Mrs. Joe Mullins, served tea to the members and guests.

Both comfort and health conditions are improved by window and door screens and what's just as important, they should be regularly maintaned good appearance, offers H. W. Dearing, assistant extension agricultural engineer.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 27

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:15; Matthew 19:1-10; 45, 46.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not steal.—Exodus 20:15.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

Honesty in all things would seem to be what one should have a right to expect without question. As a matter of fact, dishonesty has become so common wherever man is found that people look on the person who is strictly honest as a peculiar individual. Try reporting an undercharge (everyone complains about an overcharge) or returning excess change, and you will see how unexpected honesty really is today. Under such circumstances the Christian needs to be vigilant lest he also accommodate his own ideas of honesty and begin to justify little evasions rather than being absolutely upright.

I. Honesty Respects Property Rights (Exod. 20:15).

The very commandment against stealing implies that men have a right to that which they have made, earned, or saved. If no one had property rights there could be no stealing. Some of our modern isms reason along that line, but their reasoning is clearly not biblical or Christian.

"Thou shalt not steal" forbids every kind of theft. It includes robbery, burglary, safe - cracking, housebreaking; but it covers far more than those obvious wrongs. It refers to such things as loafing on one's job, "borrowing" money from the cash drawer, taking goods from the stock with which one is working, stealing another man's sermon and preaching it as one's own, "lifting" material out of another man's book without credit, contracting debts which one can never pay, using false weights and measures, adulterating food or other material, "watering" milk for sale, selling worthless stock, dodging taxes or lying to the tax assessor, using a slug instead of a nickel in the telephone to escape proper payment.

It really means something to be honest, and it is a great testimony to the unregenerate world.

II. Honesty Restores Stolen Goods (Luke 19:1-10).

The story of the conversion of the despised Jewish tax collector Zacchaeus has many interesting features, but for our lesson we stress but one, namely, that the reality of his conversion was demonstrated by his honesty in restoring that which he had obtained unjustly, and that in fourfold measure.

Insofar as it is possible to do so, the honest person will make right any known injustice. To be right with God must mean that we are to be right with men. The testimony of many Christians could be presented to show that they have only entered upon real peace and usefulness as they have made consistent effort to right every wrong, to pay every debt. Often such actions open opportunities for Christian testimony and point others to the redemption in Christ, which makes a man live right as well as talk right.

III. Honesty Resents Crookedness (Luke 19:45, 46).

In sharp contrast to the prompt restitution by Zacchaeus, the converted publican, was the stubborn disobedience and dishonesty of the priests in the temple. Jesus had already cleansed the temple of the traffic in money-changing and the sale of animals for sacrifice practiced there (see John 2:13-17). On that occasion He rebuked them because they made His Father's house "a house of merchandise." Had they known the change of heart of a converted Zacchaeus they would have heeded His admonition. But they did not believe in Christ and went on with their ungodly desecration of the temple area until it became "a den of thieves" (v. 46). The Lesson Commentary of the United Lutheran Church makes an unusually apt application of the truth to "the goings on in our own churches" in the following paragraph. Read it, ponder it, pray about it, then act, if it describes your church.

"Is a church honest when it assumes obligations that it cannot meet, and is then forced to use all sorts of questionable means to raise money for the benefit of the church? Is a church honest when it turns a building consecrated to the worship of God into a restaurant or a theater, regardless of whether it is done to make money for the church or to attract people who are more interested in eating and drinking or playing than in the preaching of the Word and the worship of God? Is a church honest that turns its pulpit into a lecture platform for the discussion of current events or the review of popular books or plays while the world is destroying itself because it does not know the time of its visitation? The answer . . . is that the church is dishonest that permits any such things, because it robs God of the honor and glory due to Him, and it robs people of their chance of salvation by giving them stones when they need the bread of life."

Supervisors of the W. P. A. recreational division will meet in conference at the University of Alabama this week.

Robert E. Lee visited the University of Alabama in person this week to deliver a lecture on "Infantry Regiment in Attack".

The speaker was "Lieutenant" Lee of Tuscaloosa, not General Lee of Virginia, however, and he is a member of the R. O. T. C. Corps, not the regular army.

Of the 22 men initiated into Quadrangle, honorary religious organization at the University of Alabama, eight are from small towns in the state.

Talking about the weather is a popular diversion, says Dr. John E. Gran, instructor in chemistry at the University of Alabama, who told this story in one of his classes to illustrate the point.

A co-ed and her date went to the zoo, and upon seeing a strange looking animal, the co-ed asked:

"What kind of an animal is that?"

"It looks like a reindeer," answered her escort.

"Never mind the cracks about the weather," retorted the co-ed, "Tell me what kind of an animal that is."

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20. — Six cases of whooping cough were reported from Chilton county last year, giving a morbidity rate of 2.3 per 100,000 for this disease, according to the 1937 annual report of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the State Department of Health

Whooping cough is one of the chief causes of death among children, especially those under the one year age, said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health officer. Last year 195 deaths were attributed to ie in this State. There is no doubt that it was indirectly responsible for many more deaths, because it often leaves the patient much more susceptible to other diseases, such as pneumonia and tuberculosis. Although it is more prevalent at some periods of the year than at others, it is an all-year disease. Every month last year brought more than 50 reported cases.

Dr. Baker pointed out that whooping cough is spread chiefly by cough the early stages. A child with this disease should be kept away from other children, he added, and all discharges from the nose and throat be accepted.

MAKE YOUR OWN CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS

FOR indoors and out, you can make your own Christmas decorations.

The Good Housekeeping Studio in the December issue of the magazine turns to the gay, happy spirit of Christmas decorations, laughter, and light. "Don't let that last-minute rush of Christmas Eve find you lost and helpless with a few odd pieces of decoration and worn-out lights from last year's collection," the Studio urges. "Think what you want, where you can get it, and the time it will take to make."

The Studio has chosen the trifles which can be bought everywhere and which you can easily and quickly put together. Novel ideas are illustrated in bright, holiday color and directions are given for turning stern reality into a fairyland with gay paper, Cellophane glassips, a paste pot, and the usual baubles which can be purchased at any general store.

"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

Fleeing a tornado near Clyde, Texas, parents of these babies were killed, their automobile tossed a quarter-mile away. Hours later a telephone lineman heard a child's whimper in a roadside ditch. There he found 3-year-old Jesse Donald Rutledge, water up to his chin, holding his 3-months-old brother Daryl's head above water. Relatives being unable to care for the orphans, Red Cross workers arranged a maintenance fund to support them until they are 16. A Texas college promised scholarships and ranchmen started a herd of cattle for their benefit. The Red Cross will help the boys make adjustments as they grow older.

Surviving are the widow and two small sons; father, Homer Henson, of Collins Chapel community; two brothers, three sisters and one half sister.

The young man has been in declining health for the past six months, when he injured his heel and infection set up. His leg was lanced several times, and he spent some time in the hospital here as well as Birmingham. All this is thought to have weakened his system, causing him to gradually run down.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"The foundation of God standeth sure having this seal, the Lord knoweth them that are His." It is impossible to "fool" God. Men may deceive each other, they may "double-cross" each other, but they cannot "put anything over" on God. "Man looketh at the outward appearanc, but God looketh at the heart." This gives God's program the advantage over the programs which men set up. Men like Napoleon and Alexander the Great swayed men by the power of their unusual personalities, but they were never able to see into the depths of the human heart. They never could be absolutely certain that the members of their organizations were loyal in their hearts. Great men are often handicapped because of the very greatness of their personalities and positions. Often disloyal men "hang on" to men of this type for the sake of "the loaves and fishes." Jesus knew "what was in man." He knew whether they were following Him for what they "could get out of Him," or whether they followed because they were loyal in their hearts to Him and His cause. God knows His friends and His foes. He knows upon whom He can depend. He knows that there is an inner cricle of Christians in our churches who have not bowed their knees to false gods but who are always in their hearts loyal to our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. "That man hasn't a bit of religion, but he has influence and position, so I put him on our church board for his influence; and then too, I thought it might do him good," a pastor said to the writer one day. What a fool that pastor was. No general in an hour of battle would put a man in a position of leadership if he knew that his heart was not true to the cause. There is a battle on between right and wrong, between heaven and hell, and between God and the devil. Only a fool would put at the head of his army the enemy's leaders. God counts on those whose hearts are right toward Him. There are some left who are dependable. They are the only people upon whom I as a Christian worker can depend. You wicked and unconverted men can keep your money as far as I am concerned. There is enough money in the pockets of God's people to do all that God has commanded. That is the group on whom I depend for the support of the Bob Jones College program. It dishonors God when Christian institutions fall on their knees and beg money of unconverted men.

Youth Learns to Serve Through Junior Red Cross

School boy members of the Junior Red Cross building furniture as gifts for less privileged youngsters.

TRAINING of school children in practical community service is one of the objects of the Junior Red Cross. More than 9,000,000 school boys and girls in grade, junior and high schools in the United States and insular possessions are enrolled in the organization.

The children carry on a wide variety of projects of helpfulness not only for underprivileged boys and girls in their neighborhoods, but also for adults in hospitals and homes for the aged. They make gifts and find many personal services they can render.

Junior Red Cross also sponsors an international good-will program through exchange of correspondence with school boys and girls of more than 50 other nations and through sending Christmas boxes to the children of many nations.

An important feature of the Junior Red Cross is the experience the children obtain in directing their own deliberations through school councils and an annual convention, which they conduct under parliamentary rule without the assistance of their elders.

The Juniors also participate in local Cross disaster relief work through donation of toys, books and other small gifts to the children made homeless through floods, tornadoes and other catastrophes.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—G. S. Messersmith, assistant secretary of state, consul general in Berlin when Hitler rose to power, used to be a lot more optimistic about Germany settling down to normal trade intercourse than he appears to be now. He predicted that "evolution" would soon follow revolution and urged the world to give Germany a chance to work through a period of stress and confusion. Today he is concerned about "world law and order" in trade intercourse, and says, "We ought to be prepared to protect our interests wherever they may be attacked." German barter activities, particularly in South America, seem to be worrying the traders.

Messersmith Worried Over Trade Rights

Widely experienced and minutely informed in foreign trade, Mr. Messersmith has been an evangel of Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade policies. His zeal in this is not lessened, but he reveals deep concern over the subordination of the rights of business and property "to the will of individual leaders or nations for expansion and domination."

This writer has just obtained from a friend, an economist returning from Germany, his first close-up of what Dr. Walther Funk, German minister of economics, and his shrewd hunch-man, Hjalmar Schacht, are doing with their new militarized economics. My informant, who wrote books about the old, mellow, beery, bassoony Germany, had many old friends there and was steered right into the wheelhouse. According to him, the new German formula is as revolutionary as communism. Every atom of surplus wealth is sluiced into the "dynamics" of expansion, and the Reich outreach is based on jug-handled trade relations which mean commercial subjugation for any short-enders who try to do business with it.

WE REGRET the lack of space to reprint here some merry little poems, such as "The Bird and the Burdock," and "The Tern and the Turnip," by Professor Robert W. Wood of Johns Hopkins, just recently honored by the British Royal society for his work in experimental physics. He tossed off a book of them, along with whimsical drawings, in between takes of "Fluorescence and Magnetic Rotation Spectra of Sodium Vapor and Their Analysis."

The Debunker Of Death Ray Goes Poetic

He is one of this department's favorite scientific debunkers. One of his high scores here was banishing the death-ray bogey—pertinent just now in view of our sensitiveness to Martian attack. In this connection, the British government has good reason to give him a medal. An inventor was demonstrating his death ray to British war office representatives at Dawn. He focused the ray on a cow in a meadow 200 yards away and threw a switch. The cow flopped, dead as a mackerel. The inventor collected and departed. Then they found the cow's feet wired to an underground circuit, connected with the inventor's switch.

Professor Wood, by scientific demonstrations, put the quietus on all death rays and offered to stand up against any of them. He invented tear gas for the Allies in the World war, developed a chemical eye by which "we can see and the enemy can't," and contributed greatly to the development of instruments of precision and spectroscopic research. He was educated at Harvard and the University of Berlin.

THE humanities, like sports and diplomacy, are becoming considerably scrambled these days. Professor Harry D. Gideonse, just taking over as head of Barnard college's department of social sciences, has been up to his ears all his life in dry-as-dust economics, and now, in his first work-out before the undergraduates, he swings on swing as "musical Hitlerism." He says, with the current divorce of reason and emotion, and with the latter going haywire, some "man on horseback" is apt to get us.

Warns: 'Man On Horseback' May Take Us

Professor Gideonse is of Dutch birth. He is a canny and cagey thinker, the author of several books on world economics and finance, and a sharp and precise critic of erratic trends of our civilization.

He is 37 years old, born in Rotterdam, here at the age of four, educated at Columbia and the University of Geneva, a former teacher of economics at Columbia, Barnard, Rutgers and the University of Chicago.

DISAPPOINTENT

We have heard a great deal about how our foreign trade is going to pull us out of the recession. Indeed, foreigno trade seems to have become a sort of obsession with many of our political and economic mentors at Washington. Reciprocal trade treaties are purportedly being formed for the purpose of increasing our foreign trade. And one of the biggest benefits of all was promised to the farmers.

But things haven't turned out exactly as expected. The smart boys down at Washington now are not at all happy about our foreign trade in farm products for the next several months. Indeed they seem downright gloomy about the future in this respect.

Foreign markets "experts" recently outlined the prospects for our farmers abroad and a summary of three important staples was given recently through the Associated Press as follows:

Cotton.—A further decline is expected in foreign consumption, which totaled 5,300,000 bales in the 1937-38 season, or about 27 per cent less than the 10-year average. Since August 1 shipments abroad have totaled about 1,100,000 bales, a decrease of about 560,000 bales below those of a year ago.

Wheat.—Because of heavy world supplies, the economists said American wheat export prospects are "definitely less favorable." They explained, however, that low yields in other countries might alter the situation. It may be necessary, officials said, for the government to continue subsidization of wheat exports.

Corn.—Exports are unlikely to approach the 40,000,000 bushels of the last season, the largest since 1921. Supplies in Argentina, a major competitor, are larger.

The figures quoted aove don't look any too good despite the pledges and growing predictions of Secretary Wallace in the campaign just closed. Of course, our foreign trade depends somewhat on the weather here and abroad. But there are certain other factors which stand out in the situation. Among these is the one which asserts that our foreign agricultural trade has been seriously injured by the policy of artificial scarcity which has been advocated by Mr. Wallace and his friends. This is easy to understand. When the producer abroad finds that we are paying our farmers to raise less, he immediately takes advantage of the situation by sowing and planting more. He realizes that all the more easily he can take the markets away from us because our artificial scarcity will make us physically unable to supply a big market abroad, and the rise in the cost of production at home will make the alien producer all the more successful in competing with our farmers in the world markets. Here is a proposition so plani that even a New Dealer ought to be able to see it.

THE DIES COMMITTEE

The resolution empowering the investigation by House members of un-American actively within the United States also directed the members to request assistance from the executive branch of the government. Consequently Martin Dies, who was appointed chairman of the committee, requested the President, as head of the executive branch of the government, to give the cooperation of his departments.

Why the President refused this request has never been satsfactorily explained. It has of course, been stated that the departments were over-worked as it was, that they could not assign special men to cooperate and to work with and for the committee. But that is a lame excuse, and one which everyone acquainted with the workings of the government knows fails to hold even so much as a drop of water.

Aside, then, from the impropriety of the President commenting on the workings of a congressional committee, and the lack of ethical rght for such comment, we are faced with the incontrovertible fact that the President has no moral right to comment on the workings of Representative Dies' un-American activities committee.

But it is not the first time, nor probably will it be the last, that the President has disregarded ethical and moral precepts with respect to our form of government. For comment he did.—Rudolph J. Watson in The Capitol Daily.

TIME TO WORRY

A few worrisome souls ask just how far this country can go into debt without bringing on disastrous results. When the national debt had passed the $25,000,000,000 point, there was a tremendous amount of public concern. The debt now approaches $43,000,000,000, and it is seldom discussed. Such indifference is dangerous; there will be but little effort made to reduce the over-whelming mortgage that is closely related to individual jobs, savings, opportunities and security.

A great many people have been misled by President Roosevelt's quoting of unnamed bankers to the effect that this country could safely stand a federal debt of 60 billions. We should know it cannot. A debt of 40 billions with no real effort to reform the fiscal policies, is creating tax uncertainties that are blocking the country's economic progress.

The next Congress can and should save the people from more debt. There is an astounding total of at least 65 billions in federal, state and municipal obligations outstanding against the people of the United States. — Meriden Journal.

A MAN'S RIGHT

Conceding that a large proportion of the Americans are under-nourished, ill-clad and ill-housed and ought to have more money the News and Courier holds that when given the money they should be allowed to do with it as they choose. If it be that Johnsmith is entitled to $1,000 from the national treasury we say that should be his privilege to buy a car with it however the boni in Washington and Columbia believe that he should spend it in repairing his bungalow. Your average South Carolianian, white or black, is pretty sure to keep his belly tolerably full of food, of a kind, and doesn't want a house of his own or better clothes until he has acquired a car. The great question in these parts is keeping the tank full, not the belly full, and the government has no right to dictate which should be filled first. — Charleston News and Courier.

WHAT TO DO?

The government has regulated the railroads into bankruptcy, and it will do the same to the farmer or any other industry which comes under political control. There are really only two thngs to be done; either give the farmer a free hand to run farming by individual and cooperative effort as they see fit, ro adopt a wholesale plan of price-fixing which will eventually include all prices of labor and industry and thus lead to a completely socialized state. Secretary Wallace shies at both. But he must go one way or the other. His "new" program shows that his bag of tricks is empty. — Morris Tribune.

NOW AND THEN

The first session of the new Congress is not far away. Already it is being stated that new legislation is to be offered that will seek to fasten New Deal theories on to the country. A great part of this legislation is intended to increase authority at Washington and to take it away from the States. Many prominent New Dealers from time to time have asserted in effect that the old doctrine of states' rights has gone by the board, and that henceforth everything must be engineered by the experts at Washington. Hence we have had the NRA, to AAA, the TVA and many other pieces of legislation which tend to build up centralized control. The doctrine of states' rights, they have told us, belongs back in the Horse and Buggy Age, before the time of stream-lined trains, airplanes and four-lane highways— especially before the era of college professor control at Washington.

In view of all this new fangled theory it is interesting to note what the High Priest of the New Dealers, Mr. Roosevelt himself, had to say back in 1930 when he was at the other esd of the line, serving as the governor of a state rather than as chief executive of the nation. An excerpt of a speech made more than eight years ago was recently quoted as follows:

"Let us remember that from the very beginning differences in climate, soil, conditions, habits and modes of living in states separated by thousands of miles rendered it necessary to give the fullest individual latitude to the individual states. Let us further remember that the mining states of the Rockies, the fertile savannas of the South, the prairies of the West, and the rocky soil of the New England States have created many problems and introduced many factors in each locality, which have no evistence in others. It must be obvious that almost every new or old problem of government must be solved, if it is to be solved to the satisfaction of the people of the whole country, by each state in its own way.

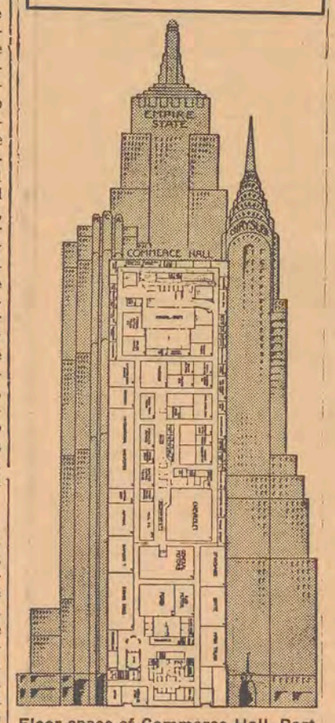
GAME & FISH NEWS

An important announcement concerning the annual deer hunt in the Black Warrior National Forest December 5 to 10 has been issued by the U. S. Forest Service and the State Department of Conservation, co-sponsors of the event. Applicants who submit money orders with their applications, $1 permit fee, should be sure that the money order is drawn payable to the Treasurer of the United States, Atlanta, Georgia. It should be drawn on the postoffice at Atlanta, rather than, Decatur, Alabama, or Washington, D. C. Applications may be obtained from any state game warden, from the U. S. Forest Service at Decatur, or the State Conservation Department, Montgomery. After the application is filled out, money order or cashier's check should be attached and mailed to Thomas Wilson, U. S. Forest Ranger, Decatur, Alabama. The hunt will be conducted in three periods of Decmeber, 5 to 6, 7 to 8 and 9 to 10, with 400 hunters permitted to go into the forest in each period. Only 1,200 applications will be accepted.



With opening of the quail season in Alabama Sunday, November 20, sportsmen are interested in the outlook for the year. A recent statewide survey conducted by the Department of Conservation with the assistance of game wardens and landowners reveals that there is a greater quail population in 58 counties this year. Eight counties reported quail about the same as last year, while only one showed a decline. Cover and food for Bobwhites reported improved in 50 counties. Wardens also reported quail not as spotted as they were last year, with covies fairly well distributed over the areas.

Texas, with it's great area, naturally produces more cotton than any of the other states. However it's yield per acre is the lowest of any of 16 states producing the bulk of the cotton grown in the United States except Florida and Oklahoma. Florida shows the lowest production with only 141 pounds per acre. Oklahoma shows 149 pounds per acre and Texas 154. Five states show a production of less than 200 pounds per acre, Georgia and Virginia being the highest production with 445 pounds followed by New Mexico with 444.

The next line is Missouri with 410 pounds. All the other drop below three hundred mark except Mississippi which is poducing this year 305 pounds per acre. Alabama was in the three hundred class last year but the estimate this year is 238 pounds per acre.

F. W. Burns, dairy specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, says it will pay farmers in most sections of Alabama to trade cotton seed for cottonseed meal. One hundred pounds of meal is equal to 170 pounds of cottonseed for feeding dairy cattle.

Commerce Hall, Port Authority Building is 800 feet long with 160,000 square feet overall area. FEDERAL TRUCK TAXES COST $2.50 ANNUALLY

When a farmer hauls his wheat to the grain elevator in Kansas, a cotton grower in Alabama trucks his crop to the railroad siding, or the community grocer delivers an order to a family in the neighborhood, the movement of such commodities from the producer to the consumer is taxed every turn by the Federal government.

These Federal taxes which fall on truck operation are estimated at approximately $75,000,000 annually. Their burden is distributed over the entire population in higher transportation costs and they add about $2.50 each year to the living costs of every family.

In 1937 there were 4,255,296 trucks registered in the United States, or approxmately one truck for every seventh family in the nation. Trucks use more gasoline than do passenger cars, the most reliable estimate indicated they use approxmately 1,000 gallons annually, although other estmates run as high as 1,200 gallons.

At the lower and conservative figure, then the trucks of the nation, hauling products for the health, comfort and well-being of everbody, consumed approximately 4,300,000,000 gallons, Federal taxes on gasoline amounted to $43,000,000.

It is also estimated that the trucks used 119,540,000 gallons of motor oil and 15,600,000 gallons of transmission and differental oils. Federal taxes on that oil, collected at that rate of 4 cents per gallon, amounted to $5,405,600. Other Federal taxes on new trucks, replaced parts, and accessories amount to about $26,600,000 annually.

MRS. LULA LITTLETON

On November 4th, 1938, our Heavenly Father saw fit to take from this earth to a better home, the spirit of our beloved mother, Lula Littleton, 50 years old. She was born and lived in Alabama all of her life, except three years in Florida. She was loved by all who knew her. A beautiful life has been transplanted, but we who are left to mourn her loss will strive to carry on our lives in the same sweet Christian spirit she did.

Her prayers were always to be more like Jesus; her child-like faith and love for children would soften the heart of anyone. "Blessed are they which die in the Lord from henceforth that they may rest from their labor and their works do follow them."—J. M. Littleton and Family.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE ALABAMA POLL TAX LAWS

"By Delphine F. Thomas"

Alabama is the only state having the cumulative Poll Tax requirement by which the voter must pay $1.50 per year since he or she became 21 years of age. At present Alabama has about 400,000 registered voters. For the population there should be almost 1,000,000 white voters alone.

The South is the only section of the Nation that makes the payment of Poll Tax requirement for voting. 40 states have no Poll Tax requirement. Some, as in the case of Virginia, require payment of three years back taxes. Louisiana and Florida have recently repealed their tax. No state has such out-of-date laws on the matter as Alabama.

The South is solidly Democratic in party politics. Because of the recent National Democratic Committee ruling, changing the basis for decision in the convention from two-thirds to a majority vote, the South lost power in the party. Moreover, it is expected that representation in the future will be based on the number of voters in general elections. Therefore the South must have more voters to obtain sufficient representation in the National Convention to influence its actions.

It is extremely important that Alabama remove the Poll Tax requirement, increase its voting strength and use its influence in the Democratic National Committee to decide policies to be used in solving the Nation's so-called Economic Problem No. 1. The South may be the Nation's problem, but is as very personal one to every Southerner.

There is no really good argument for the poll tax as a requirement for voting. It is manifestly unfair to be required to pay for a privilege which is inherent in one's citizenship under a democratic government.

There are some that say we appreciate what we pay for and therefore should pay for government in order to appreciate it. The answer to that is: Why should we pay for a privilege which citizens of 40 states have as a matter of couse? More fundamentally, the answer is in the nature of democracy itself. Democracy is based on the belief in the soundness of the judgment of a majority and on the right of all to have representation in the government which taxes them. Today every one pays taxes.

Intelligence is necessary for wise decisions. But $1.50 per year is no guarantee of intelligence.

Southern States which have eliminated Poll Tax have no trouble in maintaining "White Supremacy" Florida, Louisiana and North Carolina have had no increase in negro voters while they have practically doubled their total number of voters.

Many hearts were saddened at our loss of you, dear mother, for we miss you greatly, as there is a place vacant in the home that can never be filled. So, all we can do is struggle on life's way and prepare to meet her in a better world.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband—Mr. J. H. Traywick; one son, Mr. Roy Traywick; five daughters, Mrs. Henry Patterson, Mrs. Calvin Edwards, Mrs Fulton Knight, Mrs. Archie Devaughn and Mrs. Jim Mims; 18 grand children and two great grand children.

STATION WWL INCREASES ITS POWER NOVEMBER 20

New Orleans, La., Nev. 20—Station WWL, owned and opperated by Loyola University of the South, today, Sunday, November 20, increases its power from 10,000 to 50,000 watts, Vincent F. Callahan, general manager, announced last night. This makes WWL's new high powerer station is this part of the South and one of the greatest powerful stations in the country.

After more than a week of testing, WWL was autho ized yesterday by the Federal Commission to use its 50,000 watt transmitter.

WWL's new high powered station is located on the shores of Lake Ponchartrain at the intersection of Nommond Highway and Williams Boulevard. The site of the t ansmitter and tower is approximately four miles from the City of Kenner, Louisiana. and about eight miles from West End.

The formal opening of the new station will be held on Wednesday night, November 30, in the Roosevelt Hotel with Richard W. Leche, Governor of Louisiana, as the principal speaker. The Columbia Broadcasting System will dedicate a special coast-to-coast network program on this night to WWL, beginning at nine o'clock p. m.

Erected at the cost of more than $250,000, WWL's new transmitter and tower is expected to tripple the station's audience and coverage. The station expects to give a clear signal day and night throughout Louisiana, Mississippi Alabama, West Flordia and East Texas.

The station has been under onstruction for the last six months under the diection of J. D. Bloom Jr., Chief Engineer. Mr. Bloom says that the transmitter is the most modern aviailable today.

POPLAR SPRINGS

The weather was bad this past week end, but it didn't keep us from having good crowds and wonderful messages at our church Sunday.

There has been a lot of sickness in our community lately, but we hope they all recover soon. It's the people's duty to go to see the sick and help in any way we can. Let's all try to do our part for these unlucky people.

Remember prayer service Thursday night and singing practice Friday night; Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. at the regular hours.

We communed and washed feet Sunday at 11:00 o'clock. It was a very sacred occasion and carried out the "Bible Way."

Everyone come to church and pray for the sick and unfortunate people.

C. C. CONWAY THANKS VOTERS

I hope I am not late to express my thanks to the voters of Chilton county for the splendid vote I received for the office of Secretary of State on the Republican ticket. For this office Chilton county gave me a total of 1,558 votes, and practically all of them were unsolicited and I imagine straight Republican votes. I appreciate this vote very much, and will say that it gives me encourgement for there some day to be a strong Republican ticket in Alabama.

The condition of our State government demonstrates to us the dire need of a two-party system in the State of Alabama, and I believe the people of the State are beginning to realize that it is the only resort and the only salvation for a good, honest government in Alabama.

I am glad of the part that I was permitted to play in furnishing the Republicans of Alabama a full State ticket to vote for. Let me thank you again for your splendid support, and assure you that I shall always be found bearing the Republican colors so long as that party continues in my estimation, to herald the principles of honest, true, popular government. Yours very truly,--C. C. Conway, Jemison, Ala.

Dr. V. J. Gragg Thanks Friends

Who was it that said, every dark cloud has a silver lining? Anyway, back in the olden days when teachers taught penmanship by writing a copy at the top of the page; I had a teacher who seemed to be especially fond of that sentence as a copy for me. I really believe it is true. I had accepted it as a fact practically all through life; but it has been demonstrated to me even more forcibly of recent date.

Within the past three months there has been a very dark cloud on my horizon, but in spite of its extreme darkness there was distinctly visible a very bright silver lining.

First, Mrs. Gragg proved herself to be about the best and most attentive nurse that ever lived. Then while away I was the recipient of many cards and letters bearing kind expressions from friends. And after my return home so many people showed their friendship in various ways, many kindly visitors come to see me and presented me with various and sundry gifts: flowers, fruits, nice vegetables, cakes, creams, fresh meat Etc., and when the huntng season opened several of my sportsman friends brought me squirrels on several accasions. These thoughtful gifts were too numerous for me to now recall all of them. But, they all contributed to making that silver lining brighter.

Unless one has had a similar experience of the thoughfulness of friends; nad even someone who had not been looked on as being bound by the ties of friendship; they cannot realize how thankful and how appreciative their feelings must be.

Now that I am able to be up again and that I expect to be again active in my professional work, let me say that words fail to express my appreciation of all these nice things that have been done for me.

Again thanking you, one and all, I am,

Yours Truly,
V. J. GRAGG.

UNION-BANNER

CHILTON COUNTY, THE HEART OF ALABAMA

VOLUME 46.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1938 NUMBER 33

VARDAMAN IS MAN FOR NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Last week The Union-Banner stated that two men were looming for Republican National Committeeman from Alabama. The Union-Banner wishes to state that, everything considered, we believe Hon. C. O. Vardaman, of Birmingham, is the man most suited for this position. Mr. Vardaman is a stalwart Republican, a fluent orator, alert, young, and capable. He has already had much experience in dealing with national party notables, and is thoroughly able to stand his own among the high-ups at the nation's capital and elsewhere.

Judge J. O. Middleton, member at large of the State Republican committee, is indorsing Mr. Vardaman for the place. Certainly Chilton county Republicans owe their whole-hearted support to Mr. Vardaman, since he has been so generous with his aid to us during the past years. We feel sure that if a referendum were taken, Chilton county Republicans would go almost solid for C. O. Vardaman.

2 MARS HILL MEN DEAD OF ACCIDENT

Doyle Smith Died At Hospital Sunday; Ewell Smith Died Tuesday

Doyle Smith, age 26, of Mars Hill community, died at Central Alabama Hospital Sunday afternoon, following a truck accident an hour earlier. Reports are that three people, Erby Gothard, Euell Smith and Doyle Smith were riding on a truck when the vehicle went into a large ditch. Gothard was hurt some, but Euell Smith suffered rather severs injuries and was brought to the Hospital also. Doyle Smith died soon after reaching the Hospital.

Burial was at Mars Hill at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, Rev. J. N. Green officating; Martin in charge.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Ida Lovett Smith; mother, Bitha Smith; one sister and one brother.

EWELL SMITH DIED FROM TRUCK INJURIES

Ewell Smith, age 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boss S. Smith, of Mars Hill community, died Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, following injuries sustained Sunday at noon when a truck on which he was riding ran into a large ditch near the home. Burial was at Mars Hill Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. J. N. Green officiating.

Surviving are the father and mother, one brother and four sisters. This is a different family, and no relation to Doyle Smith, who was killed almost instantly in the same truck accident Sunday at noon.

Three Stores Were Robbed Last Week

On Friday night of last week apparently amateur burglars entered the Yellow Front Store in Clanton and took about $111.00 in money, a leather jacket and probably other merchandise and groceries. Entrance was gained through the sky light. There were bars underneath the glass, but the bars were pryed far enough apart for a child to enter and be let down by a rope. Escape was made through the back door.

The same night someone leaving bare-foot tracks entered Rockett Hardware Store through a back window, and took about one dollar in change, and guns, pocket knives and flash lights valued at about $40.00. There was probably other merchandise taken.

Th Sunday night Kemp Dry Goods Company was the scene of activity. Burglars entered that store by prying open the back door. It is not known just what was taken, but overcoats, pants and suits were disarranged, and several pieces of clothing were left lying just inside the back door on the floor.

L. H. REYNOLDS THINKS CLANTON WILL BE GREAT CITY IN FUTURE

I want to congratulate Judge Smith and the Commssioners Court, Mayor Jones and the City Councilmen for their efforts in contracting for five miles of the Lay Dam road, and for the fine bridge they are going to build across the creek just northeast of Clanton. I am sure this road will be of more benefit to Clanton and to the farmers coming to Clanton than any road we already have.

I wonder sometimes if the citizens of Chilton county realize the favorable situation of the location of Clanton and Chilton county. We are 44 miles from Montgomery with a good highway, 44 miles from Selma with a good highway, and 58 miles from Birmingham with a good highway. When this Lay Dam road is completed we will have a new hard surface road to Birmingham, which will be 4 miles nearer than the present highway. This Lay Dam road will open up a highway to Talladega, Anniston, Attala and Alabama City.

We are located not only in the center of the State, but the center of population of the State. There is not room to build another town between Clanton and the cities already mentioned.

Clanton has more favors to offer for different manufacturing plants than any town in Alabama. We are favored with advantages that no other town in Alabama has. All we have to do is show the people of Alabama our favorable location and I believe we will soon have various manufacturing plants located here.—L. H. Reynolds.

PATROLMEN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Officers Chase Fugitive 15 Miles On Highway And Capture Autoist; Boy, 18, of Chicago

Alabama highway patrolmen, Wallace Waites and Earl Henley, were injured and a young man, of Chicago, was lodged in jail at Calera as the aftermath of a desperate 15-mile chase on the Montgomery Highway early last Saturday.

Wallace Waites and Earl Henley, officers stationed at Thorsby, received cuts about the face and bruises when their car crashed into a telephone pole in the Calera city limits after they had hooked the bumper of a car they had pursued from Thorsby.

The two officers were treated at the office of Dr. R. C. Curtis, at Calera.

The driver of the other car was placed in Calera jail. He declined to tell his name or to make any statement concerning his reason for fleeing.

The two officers reported that early Saturday moning they received a call from Verbena, south of Clanton, in which a filling station operator told them a motorist driving a car bearing an Indiana license had driven off without paying for gasoline.

When a car answering this description passed through Thorsby the two officers gave chase but were unable to cut in front of the fleeing machine. The officers fired several shots, one of which pierced the rear window of the fleeing machine, during the 15-mile chase.

As the two cars sped into Calera the officers' car hooked the rear bumper of the other car and both machines careened into a vacant lot. The patrol car was considerably damaged and the officers injured when it crashed into the pole. The other driver escaped injury.

Boy In Jail Here

Later reports on the case revealed that the young man's name was Charles J. Gintz, age 18, from Chicago, Ill. The car which he had stolen, a Chevrolet coach, belonged to Mrs. Laura Stanley, also of Chicago, Ill., who has been notfied that her car is here. Young Gintz was kept in jail at Calera only a short while, when he was brought to Clanton jail.

Reports are that the young man held up the lady as she was stopped for a traffic light, took her purse containing about $12. The boy seems to have served a term in a reform school for a similar offense.

MAN KILLED IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

Accident Happened Near Alpine Church Early Tuesday

Pat Tucker, age about 40 years, was killed instantly Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock, in a lumber truck accident near Alpine church in the southwestern part of Chilton County. Reports are that Mr. Tucker, reputed as a very careful and considerate driver, was about to meet a school bus; when his truck began sliding out of the road bed into the soft ground, he pulled on the emergency brake. When the truck stopped suddenly, the load of heavy lumber slid foward, crushing the home-made cab and killing the driver instantly. A negro was in the cab with Mr. Tucker, and he was injured seriously; he was carried to a Selma hospital.

Baislin, of Selma, took charge of the body, and will have charge of the funeral and burial. Surviving are the wife and two small children. Mr. Tucker's home was below Plantersville at Belcher's lumber yard..

PROMINENT SARDIS MAN DIED FRIDAY

Leslie B. Broadhead, age 79 years, died at his residence in Sardis community last Friday morning, following a brief illness. Funeral services were held Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Sardis church, Rev. W. S. Cox and Rev. B. Lawrence officiating. Spigener was in charge; interment was in the adjoining cemetery.

Adams, Birmingham; Miss Cleo Broadhead, Montgomery; Mrs. Bernice Pennington, New York City; Mrs. Garland Smith, Miss Wilda Lane Broadhead, Miss Olga Broadhead, and Miss Fay Broadhead, all of Maplesville; W. F. Broadhead, of Birmingham; J. Harmon Broadhead, of Clanton.

Mr. Broadhead was married first to Miss Callie Hayes, and to them were born nine children—seven girls and two boys. He later married Mrs. Belle Popwell, and to them were born four children—the last above named four daughters. There are two girls dead, from the first wife.

Pallbearers were: Howard Maddox, Clyde Ward, Harvey Davis, Hubert Klinner, Claude Carter and William Smith.

"Les" Broahead was among the most prominent and probably the best known citizen in the south-western part of Chilton County. He was one of the old pioneers of that section, and has taken great delight in telling how many bales of cotton he and his children picked in the moonshine. He was a very successful farmer, and made lots of money raising cotton in the good old days.

Born and reared in Mississippi, he had lived in Sardis communtiy for 56 years; had been a mumber of Sardis church for about 25 years.

THANKS FROM JUDGE JOHN B. WEAVER

Editor Union-Banner:

Accept our thanks for your front page editorial in The Union-Banner under date of November 17, 1938, under the caption—"Last Tuesday's Election Results," in which kindly reference was made of my service there recently. I appreciate this very much. You, Judge Middleton and all of the candidates, and the people of Chilton county deserve credit—much credit for the victory.

I believe it was a victory for good government, and I congratulate you, Tom Taylor, Culp, Rockett, and all of the others.—John B. Weaver.

We urge every member of our church to see these pictures and to hear Dr. Carson. Members of our other churches in town and adjoining communities will, we hope, come to be with us at this time also. The pictures are all new, and will prove to be inspiring and enjoyable in the highest manner.

NEW BRIDGE ON U. S. 80 TO SPAN ALABAMA RIVER

Selma Breaks Ground For Modern Bridge Tuesday, November 29, At 11:00 O'clock

Dignitaries of Alabama will gather on the banks of the Alabama River at Selma, Tuesday morning, at 11 o'clock, November 29, to formerly dedicate the new bridge, to be built to replace the old bridge an iron structure now used and which has been in use since 1884. This genuine public servant was erected by the Selma Bridge Corporation to displace a steam ferry in use at that time. Costing $100,000, it was then hailed by travelers of the highways as a modern structure. The bridge was built by a group of public spirited citizens headed by Mr. E. Gilman as President and Dr. R. P. Lockhart as Treasurer, of the Selma Bridge Corporation.

SOME HISTORY OF THE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

Early History Of School, Taken From Files Of Union-Banner

Since the main building of Chilton county high school was destroyed by fire early last Tuesday morning, it might be interesting to review over some of the early history of the institution. The old files of The Union-Banner reveal the following:

On December 22, 1913, the Commissioners Court of Chilton county, under Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, appropriated $4,000 for the building of a county high school building; this amount to be supplemented by $4,000 to be raised by citizens of the community receiving the location, also $4,000 to be furnished from the State appropriation.

Persistent efforts were put forth by Prof. J. J. Pickens for several months getting the agitation worked up and the funds raised for the project. Finally, the State Board of Education sent representatives to Clanton on May 29th, 1914, and they decided on locating the school at Clanton. Announcement of the decision of the State on locating the school in Clanton was made on June 11, 1914.

The site for the school, 20 acres of land, was donated by Dr. J. E. Gowan and Dr. A. M. Gowan. The contract for the building was let to J. H. Roberts & Sons, and was erected at a cost of about $18,000 the latter part of 1914. This cost included the building, equipment and work of the architect.

W. T. Bean was County Superintendent of Education during the time of the founding of Chilton county high school.

The school opened its doors for classes on January 4, 1915, the principal being C. C. Slaton, assisted by Miss Corita Wilson, Howard L. Foshee, Miss Hortense Harris, and others.

Graduating in the class of 1915, in May, were: Burnie Thompson, Willie Edwards, Walter Martin, Dorcas Maddox and Miss Jimmie Morrow.

Taking charge as principal in September, 1915, was Prof. H. Clifford McDonald, assisted by Claude R. Wood, Mrs. Claude R. Wood, Miss Hortense Harris, Thomas L. Tinsley—music, Miss Annie Hall Bibb, J. C. Brown—penmanship, Miss Rilla Smith.

Graduating in the Class of 1916, May, were: Omar L. Reynolds, Ara Eustace Mullins, Thomas Eugene Wyatt, Beverly Hester, Oscar W. Jones, Bessie Davis, Wm. Edgar Teel, Annie Laura Gragg, and James Arfeltz Mullins.

The 1917 graduates were: Joe Kanjutzky, Kathleen Mullins, Dewey Rockett, U. L. Jones, Ruben Lowe, Pauline Woodyard, Arden R. Allen, Madge Cooper, Claude R. Baker and Mary Curry.

H. C. McDonald was still principal in 1918, and the class graduating in May last year were: Farras Sylvester Robinson, Leona Elizabeth Pipes, John Thomas Sessions, Aaron Vines, Jessie Colvin Holley, Leo Wallace Jones, Earle Mortimer Pinckard, Alice Inez Higgins, Willie Ruben Lowe, Wilmer Lucile Smith, Dowdell Johnson, Daisie Deane Robinson, Julius Wilbert Hayes, Roberta Elizabeth Curry, Thomas Applewhite Jones.

Prof. H. C. McDonald served as principal until May, 1919, and was succeeded by the following: Prof. Thompson, September, 1919; S. E. Alverson, September, 1922; Ira Pegues, September, 1923, followed by J. J. Pickens; T. C. Stephens, September, 1924; Elsworth Ellis, September, 1926; L. C. Warr, September, 1928; and the present principal, Patterson Hicks, September, 1936.

SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN

"Suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." This passage of scripture has been most forcefully demonstrated and observed this week by the trustees of Clanton Baptist church, when this body of men very graciously surrendered the use of the annex of the church to the classes of Chilton county high school, after these children had been deprived of their quarters by the destructive fire Tuesday morning. This decision of the trustees goes only to show that in their opinion the welfare of our children towers above even the most cherished material things of life.

In view of this generous spirit of the officials of the church, certainly the children and school authorities will see to it that the church property is taken as good care of as possible while it is being used thusly.

MAN DROWNED AT MIMS FERRY

Readie Earl Dennis, age 18, was drowned at Mims Ferry below Lay Dam last Friday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock. The young man, operating the ferry, was said to have walked out on the rear apron of the flat, when it gave way and fell into the water. He tried to swim and overtake the flat but could not, on account of the swiftness of the cold water. He went down about 70 feet from the bank where the water was about six feet deep. After persistent dragging, the body was recovered Saturday just after noon about 200 yards below the ferry. The body was brought to Clanton and prepared by Martin.

Burial was at Chestnut Creek Coopers, at 11 o'clock Sunday, services conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes. Martin and Sons were in charge. Serving as pallbearers were six of his seven brothers—C., A. H., E. B., Eddie, Evie and Iva Dennis.

One other brother survives as well as four sisters. Also surviving are the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dennis, formerly of Coopers but who now live near Mims ferry.

VISITOR FROM NORTH CAROLINA

A pleasant visitor to The Union-Banner Monday was Mr. Oscar M. Israel, from Lumberton, N. C. Mr. Israel, a brother-in-law of Mr. Ike Nathews, was born at West Blocton, Bibb county, and graduated at the University of Alabama. He is engaged in the mercantile business in North Carolina.

COOPER-WALKER CAMPAIGN CLOSED LAST SUNDAY NIGHT

The Cooper Walker evangelistic campaign, which has been conducted here for the last three weeks by L. J. Cooper and Ray Walker, came to a close with last Sunday night's service.

The campaign was a success notwithstanding the fact that many of the leading church people of the city for some reason would not lend their support to the enterprise. Probably it was because the preaching got to hot for them. The Good Book says there will come times when so-called Christians will not endure sound doctrine. Could that be the trouble with some of the leaders of the churches in Clanton?

These two men of God have endeared themselves to hundreds and hundreds of people in Clanton and surrounding community, due to the fact that they have fearlessly and impartially preached the old-time gospel of Jesus Christ. Not many attended their meetings without getting "skinned" in one or more places. There is not a doubt but that these preachers could have raised twice as much money as they did, if they had preached to suit the people (as so many of our modern preachers do), but they are not made up that way.

The Union-Banner wishes to thank Revs. Cooper and Walker for the splendid work they have done in Clanton. The kind of preaching these men have done will live on and on and do good to the community down through the ages to come.

They stored their equipment in Clanton, and left Tuesday morning for Jackson, Miss., where they will show their stereopticon slides in the churches. They will visit some other five or six cities in Mississippi before they leave for their homes to spend the Christmas holidays. Rev. L. J. Cooper going to Grand Rapids, Mich., and Rev. Walker to Belton, Texas. They will come back to Clanton for their equipment about the 10th of January, and will go to Florida for some campaigns during the remainder of the winter.

PRETTY NEW CURTAIN AT CLANTON CITY HALL

A fine, brand new and up to date curtain has recently been installed in Clanton city hall, which enhances the attractiveness of the auditorium very much. Mayor C. Fenn Jones is real proud of the new curtain, which he and the councilmen agreed to install at the request of different ladies' organizations of the city.

If you want to see something attractive, you should see this new curtain at the city hall

HIGH SCHOOL BLD'G DESTROY'D BY FIRE

Shortage Of Water Is Great Hindrance To Fire Department

The Chilton county high school building was completely destroyed by fire about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday morning of this week. The blaze, which seemed to have originated about the furnace in the basement, was discovered by Mrs. Jimmie Taylor, who lives directly in front of the building. The fire fighters answered the call immediately, but the conflagration was well under way when they arrived. The water lasted only a few minutes, and nothing was left but to watch it burn. All contents were lost, including twenty typewriters, one piano, several hundred library books, Etc. The building cost $18,000 when it was built in 1914.

Valued At $50,000

The state department of education said the Chilton county high school building was valued at $50,000, its contents at $6,000. Insurance of $37,500 was carried on the building and $4,500 on the contents.

It was the 5th school building destroyed by fire, the state board of administration said, since beginning of the new fiscal year, October 1.

Clock Tells Tale

The electrically - controlled clock in the vocational building was stopped at 1:25—almost two hours before Mrs. Taylor was awakened by a noise "like pounding drums," to discover the fire. Fire authorities said the master clock as located in the burned building and the fire had destroyed the circuit leading to the vocational building almost two hours before it swept through the building.

The asbestos roof and heroic efforts of firemen and volunteers saved the agricultural building near by. This building caught once or twice, but was extinguished.

Classes Resumed Wednesday

The 390 pupils of the high school were back in classes Wednesday a.m., some being housed in the agricultural building on the school grounds, others in the annex of Clanton Baptist church, and a few sent to other high schools of the county.

Jim Parrish Home Burned

Earlier in the night, about 7 o'clock Monday night, the home of Mr. Jim Parrish, two miles out Lay Dam road, was completely destroyed, together with all contents. The city fire squadron answered that call, and were successful in saving some small out buildings.

CHILTON COUNTY MINUTES READY

The Union-Banner last week completed printing of the minutes for the Chilton county Baptist Association. Church clerks are urged to call by The Banner office and get their church's supply of 1938 minutes. It is hoped that clerks or some others from the different churches attend to this at an early date.

Daniel Named As Clanton M. E. Pastor

The Methodist Episcopal conference in session at Auburn last week, made appointment of pastors for various churches in the different districts. Coming to Clanton is Rev. J. L. Daniel, who has been serving the Methodist church at Eufaula.

The beloved Clanton pastor, Rev. J. M. Truett, goes from here to Enterprise, Alabama. Other appointments are: E. A. Childs, Greenville; C. C. Wilkerson, Monroville; A. E. Middlebrooks, executive secretary of the conference board; C. H. Hildreth, Plantersville; W. B. Ware, Verbena.

Dies Inquiry Into B'ham Conference

Welfare Meeting Will Be Probed By Congressional Subcommittee. Red Charge To Be Aired

The Dies congressional committee investigating un-American activities will investigate the Southern Conference on Human Welfare held in Birmingham this week, Chairman Martin Dies announced today in Washington.

Following a conference with Representative Joe Starnes of Guntersville, Chairman Dies said that a subcommittee of the Dies committee would be sent here to investigate the conference.

The chairman of the congressional committee had previously announced that he had agents looking into the report that Communists had inspired the conference.

It was understood that the subcommittee would conduct a separate investigation of the welfare conference from the previously scheduled investigation here on un-American activities which was planned in connection with charges that Communists "dominated" the Jefferson County Department of Public Welfare.

The Dies committee was urged yesterday to investigate the origin, financing and sponsoring of the welfare conference at a meeting held under the auspices of the Alabama Council of Women's Democratic Clubs, which denounced participation in the conference by Representative Luther Patrick, Mrs. Louise O. Charlton general chairman of the conference, and Postmaster Cooper Green.

FARM NOTE

TERRACE MAINTENANCE

The Nichols broad-base terrace is the best type of terrace a farm can have. Properly built and maintained, they will conserve soil and water for an indefinite period of time.

Recent surveys reveal that many farmers after going to some expense and trouble to build broad-base terraces are not giving much thought to the proper plowing and maintenance of this valuable adjunct to their farms.

Now that land is being prepared for winter plantings furnishes an opportune time to correct faults in maintaining broad-base terraces, or in converting ridge type terraces into the broad-base type.

The Staff members of the S. C. S. Camp at Clanton, Ala., are daily giving instructions and assistance to owners and tenants desiring to properly maintain broad-base terraces, or to convert idge terraces into the broad-base type.

This service is free to any owner or tenant caring to have a demonstration. Clanton 222, visit the S. C. S. office, or see any member of the staff to arrange for a demonstration on your place. Invite any friends or neighbors who may care to witness this work.

FARMERS RECEIVE AAA FERTILIZER

Auburn, Ala. — With all sections of the state reporting unprecedented soil building and conserving work, attention of farmers is being turned more to the establishing and development of pastures by the use of phosphate.

An example of the work being done in pasture improvement work is that of farmers of nine counties who have received this year, 1,292 tons of triple superphosphate from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration for soil building practices.

The counties are Bullock, Marengo, Marion, Hale, Perry, Pickens, Lauderdale and Sumter. The triple superphosphate obtained by the AAA from the Tennessee Valley Authority and other sources are classed as grants of aid to be used in carrying out soil building practices under the 1938 program.

Under the 1938 farm program, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to promote soil building practices by making grants of aid to cooperating farmers. Cost of the material will be deducted from the payments which would otherwise receive under the program.

Additional counties are planning to use this means of getting more superphosphate. The amount farmers in the nine counties received is in addition to locally purchased phosphate and basic slag which they will also use on pastures and legume crops to qualify for payment under the program. The triple superphosphate is obtained for $32 per ton.

Tests have shown that practically all soils of Alabama are fertilizer, along with basic slag, is considered as one of the most important soil building practices Alabama farmers can adopt.

Orders for the triple superphosphate can be accepted from other Alabama farmers if they desire this assistance in adopting soil building practices on their farms. All applications should be filed as soon as possible. County agents will assist in preparing the applications.

QUOTAS HELP KEEP SURPLUSES DOWN

In the reference on cotton marketing quotas for 1939, scheduled for December 10, cotton producers of Alabama will have a chance to decide for themselves whether or not they want to continue the use of quotas as a means of keeping the cotton surplus from getting bigger, according to T. H. Martin, Gordo, chairman of the State AAA committee.

"The purpose of quotas is to help the producers get the supply of cotton back to a more reasonable level and then to keep excessive supplies that ruin prices from piling up in the future," Mr. Martin said.

"Quotas also protect the farmers who plant within their cotton acreage allotments from having their efforts defeated by those who overplant. When quotas are in effect, producers stand to lose the advantages of conservation payments and the full benefits of cotton loans if they overplant; but when quotas are not voted into effect the producers who do not want to cooperate, can, by overplanting, offset the efforts which their neighbors are making to keep surplus supplies from piling up and the price of cotton from going down."

In this connection, Mr. Martin pointed out that with quotas in effect this year the national cotton allotment was not overplanted. The national allotment was about 27,500,000 acres and producers actually grew about 26,450,000 acres. This indicates, he said, that quotas were one factor defeated or made less effective by those who otherwise might have stayed out of the program.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 26. — Approximately one Alabamian out of every 13 dies outside the city or county in which he or she lives, while slightly more than one per cent of all Alabamians die outside Alabama, the State Department of Health revealed today on the basis of figures received from the Bureau of the Census of the United States Department of Commerce.

These figures show that, of the 31,212 residents of this State who died during the 12-month period covered by the survey, 2,491 died outside their own cities and counties, including 357 who died in other states.

DIFFERENT PENALTY UNDER 1939 QUOTAS

Auburn, Ala. — If marketing quotas are approved by two-thirds of the cotton farmers in the referedum on December 10 the penalty for overplanting will be larger than in 1938, according to A. W. Jones, AAA administrative officer in Alabama.

Three cents a pound will be the penalty. In 1938 the penalty was two cents a pound. However, 1938 cotton which will be sold in 1939 will still be under the two cents penalty and the buyer will collect the penalty and turn it over to the government. Cotton that could be sold this year without penalty can be sold in 1939 without a penalty.

Tuberculin Test Great Aid

Disease that used to stay hidden deep within the human body is now made to come to the surface and display itself through the development of sera by men of science. One of the most effective of such tests is that with tuberculin, as shown above being administered to the small patient. If the little girl has any tubeculous infection, an irritated spot will appear at the point of the injection and doctors will immediately know what steps to take toward her cure. Such tuberculin tests will be given in this county through the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association.

The Association will depend solely on the sale of Christmas Seals for funds to carry on its work. The annual Christmas Seal Sale started on Thanksgiving Day.

KUDZU PAYS HALE COUNTY FARMER

Greensboro, Ala. — Kudzu is solving the problem of short pastures in dry weather on the farm of L. W. Smith of Mount Herman in Hale county, says J. A. Medlock, county agent. Mr. Smith summarizes the results of kudzu on his farm in the following statement:

"I planted two and a half acres of kudzu crown on a hillside near my pasture in the spring of 1936 and during this fall I have been using it as temporary grazing for my dairy cows. My milk production has more than doubled since I began using the kudzu.

"I have made it a practice to allow dairy cows to run in permanent pasture during the day and then turn them in on the kudzu at night. I have noticed that they eat all they want within a few square feet and then lie down. In addition to affording excellent forage, the kudzu is completely controlling erosion."

Mr. Smith is one of a number of farmers in Alabama who are conducting demonstrations in the use of kudzu to supplement pasture. During the next few weeks is the time to plan fo a kudzu patch somewhere on the farm, according to crop specialists at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Auburn, Ala. — Sixteen Alabama 4-H club members, 10 boys and six girls, left last week for Chicago to attend the National 4-H Club Congress, November 25-December 3. The 16 Alabama representatives will compete with delegates from other states in national contests at the Cngress.

Led by Miss Elizabeth DeLony and T. W. Lumpkin, State Girls' and Boys' Club leaders, respectively, the group consisted of the following boys:

Hiram Pollard, Semmes; John R. Weatherford, Vina; Herman Stone, Andalusia, all cotton contest winners.

Paul Woodall, Opp, winner of the best all-around judge of beef cattle contest; Ray Newman, West Point, Ga., RFD Chambers County, winner of best dairy calf contest at State Fair; and Burt Bickerstaff, Hatchechubbee, Boys State Health Winner.

4-H Girls making the trip were Robbie Lee Linch, Wetumpke, winner of canning achievement contest; Margaret Duncan, Greenville, winner of best records contest for girls; Blanche Boyd, Lineville, cotton contest winner; Estelle Penry, Daphne, winner of foods judging contest; Louise Johnson, Calera, winner of health contest for girls; and Louise Scott, Flat Rock, state dress revue contest winner.

ANCIENT FARM CARS AND TRUCKS TAXED FAR ABOVE CASH VALUE

More than half of the passengers automobiles on the farms are five or more years old, and one in every six is 10 years old according to a recent survey made by the bureau of the Census. The survey covered about 3,000 farms in selected counties in 40 states. Of the trucks included in the suvey, 25 per cent were 10 or more years old.

Since the average car or truck that is nine or 10 years old has a cash, or tradein value, of not more than $25, a substantial part of the automobiles on the farms, therefore, must pay annual taxes exceeding their value, points out Committee. The automotive tax burden in the United States averages $53 the Alabama Petroleum Industries per vehicle annually, an amount exceeding the value of most cars that are seven years old.

Alabama farmers last year through their own organization sold more than a million dollars worth or hogs.

You can do your part toward the prevention and cure of tuberculosis by purchasing Christmas Seals on sale throughout the United States.

ALL U. S. BATTLESHIPS COULD BE SUNK WITH MOTORISTS' ANNUAL TAX BILL

According to Earl M. Hearne Secretary, Alabama Petroleum Industrits Committee, every battleship in the war fleet of the United States could be sunk by the weight of the annual tax bill and state governments.

If motorist paid in pennies their gasoline taxes and other automotive levies in a lump sum once a year, an average of 36 pounds of money would be r quired of each motorist. One cent weighs 48 grains cents in an avoirdupois pound. The eaverage motorist pays $53 annually in automotive taxes, chiefly in pennies on the gasoline that he uses, stated Mr. Hearne.

A total of 540,000 tons of pennies would be required annually to pay the automotive tax bill on the 30,000,000 motors vehicles in the nation. Since the total displacements of all American bottleships afloat is only 474,300 tons, the motorists' tax pennies placed in the ships would send them to the botom, stated mr. Hearne.

The world's production of wheat this year is the largest on record according to the United States Department of Agriculture. It is estimated that the surplus will be a billion one hundred and sixty-five million bushels.

POUNDING GIVEN MR. AND MRS. NICHOLAS MINER

On last Wednesday night the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Miner, of Refuge community, met at the home of John Miner and gave a pounding to Mr. and Mrs. Miner. Flour, lard, and other groceries and clothing amounting to nearly $7.00 was donated to the old folks. There were 85 people present.

The cotton farmers are learning to grow a longer staple cotton. The bureau of agricultural economics says that the staples of less than five per cen of the cotton ginned prior to November 1, was shorter than seven-eights of an inch in length, while 48 per cent was an inch or more in length.

Lesson for December 4

THE SIN OF LYING

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:16; John 8:42-47; Ephesians 4:25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts.—Psalm 51:6.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

"God is truth. The word truth describes the very nature of God. Lying, therefore, reveals a character opposite from God. Satan is a liar. He was a liar from the beginning and is spiritually the father of all liars. A lie does not necessarily have to be an untruth. A statement of a truth may be a lie if its purpose is to deceive. A half truth may be the worst kind of a lie. Satan's lies . . . are usually mixed with truth." Consider "modernism, which has enough truth in it to make it accepted by thousands of people, but sufficient error to deprive it of any power to save souls" (L. D. Higley).

I. Forbidden to Lie (Exod. 20:16). This commandment specifically forbids perjury, which is one of the worst forms of lying, because it may result in the forfeiture of the very life of a fellow being. It is obvious, however, that it includes all forms of lying, whether in business, in social contacts, in the home, or in the church. We might do well to consider what the Bible has to say about whisperers, talebearers, backbiters, and others (see Lev. 19:6; II Cor. 12:20). A man's reputation may be as easily ruined by a whispered lie over the back fence or the luncheon table as by formal perjury in the courtroom. "Thou shalt not bear false witness" at any time, anywhere, or in any way.

II. Fountain of Lies (Matt. 15:19, 20).

Our constant concern for the body that it may be healthy, clean, and well groomed is commendable up to the point where it becomes an attempt to "glorify" the flesh. But after all, the body is not the most important thing. The heart is what makes a man (read Matt. 15:7-11). But what comes out of man's unregenerate heart? What a horrible catalogue we read in verse 19! It is not what a man eats or what he wears that makes him, but what is in his heart. How foolish then to hope to redeem humanity by improving housing, having better schools and bigger playgrounds. All these are desirable, but the one thing needful is that man's heart be washed in the blood of the Lord Jesus Christ, that he be born again.

III. Father of Lies (John 8:42-47).

Liars had better consider their "family tree" and see how they like their spiritual father. He is lustful, murderous, and there is no truth in him (v. 44). If you belong to that family would you not like to change families and be born into God's family.

As we have already suggested, the prize lie of Satan is modern religious liberalism. We quote again from Mr. Higley: "The first lie was told by Satan and it brought about the fall of the human race. The last lie . . . by Satan is being told even now . . . in the form of modernism, that makes the Church impotent even to save its own people." Let us have no part in putting forward this falsehood.

Note that in verses 45-47 Jesus challenges His enemies to convict Him of sin or of falsehood. No one has ever been able to meet that challenge. Even those who deny His Godhood and Saviourhood speak swelling words of commendation of His pure life and exalted moral teaching. If then He told the truth about other things, surely He spoke the truth about Himself. The claims He made for Himself as the Son of God and the Saviour of the world are plain and unmistakable. If we deny them we either make Jesus a liar, or we lie ourselves, and it is obvious that the latter is the case.

IV. Forsaking of Lies (Eph. 4:25).

"Wherefore" refers us back to the preceding verses where we are told how, as Christians, we have put off the life of the "old man" (v. 22) and put on the "new man"; therefore we are to live in true holiness. But evidently the Ephesian Christians still fell into their old heathen habits of lying. Would that the tendency had died out with the early Church, but as a matter of fact, it seems to have become aggravated as the years have come and gone.

Being in Christ—members of His body and thus united to one another in Him—should make us scrupulously truthful toward all men. Let us—which means you and me—scrutinize every relationship of life and be sure that we have not by word, act, or inference told lies. Think carefully of your family life, your church life, your community life. Deal with such practical things as grocery bills, taxes, tendencies to gossip. We preachers need to consider our sermons. Are they true to God's Word? Are they honestly prepared? Do we "stretch" our illustrations to make them effective? Surely all of us who bear the name of Christ must put away every form of falsehood.

Locking Out the Road Fund Raiders

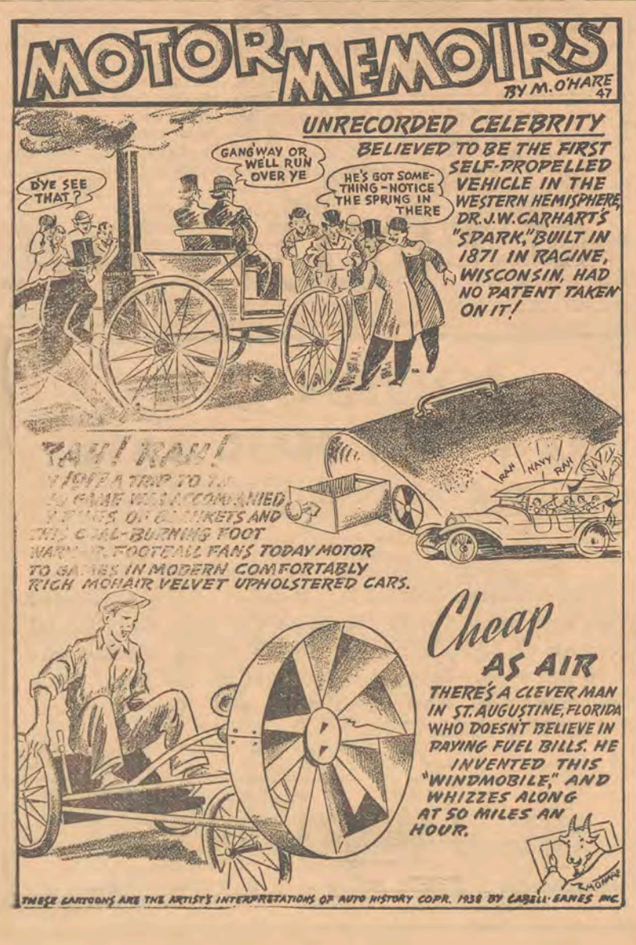
NEWS ITEM—Because Congress threatens to stop federal highway aid to the states because of excessive diversion of automotive tax funds, many states are curtailing such misuse of road funds. The people of Alabama and three other states will vote on constitutional amendmends at the November 8 elections. Ratification of Amendment 1 in this state, requiring that all state automotive taxes shall be dedicated to road and street financing, is seen as protecting Alabama's highway system and the tourist industry it serves.

Crew of Sinking and Burning Ship Owe Lives to Last-Minute "SOS"

RESCUED from the burning, hurricane - wrecked schooner Pioneer an hour before she went to the bottom, Capt. Hans Milton and his crew of four owe their lives to a flashlight with which he signalled an "SOS" to a passing steamer.

Milton's vessel, a two-masted topsail schooner, was caught in a hurricane 400 miles off Nantucket. She was carrying a cargo of lumber from Halifax to Georgetown, in the British West Indies.

The hurricane poured tons of water over the small craft, which was built for Grand Banks fishing, and smashed in her companionways. The crew was pumping to keep her afloat when she passed into the vortex of the storm.



"The waves were sweeping her from stem to stern," said Milton, "and the five of us, taking the ship's cat, climbed aloft for our lives. We lashed ourselves to the rigging and lived there for three days and nights. We had no fresh water and little food.

"Our deck-load of lumber was keeping us afloat, but we knew we couldn't hold out much longer. Once a ship hove into sight, but she failed to see our distress signals. About 3 o'clock on the fourth morning we saw the lights of another ship. This time we had to make our plight known. We bound together some blankets and sails, soaked them with gasoline, set them afire and hoisted them aloft.

"But the steamer kept her course. Soon I could see her stern lights disappearing. Later I learned her officers had thought we were a fisherman signalling another fishing boat.

"Burning fragments were blowing back and our ship was afire in several places. On an inspiration, I pulled my flashlight from my pocket, climbed to the fore-top and signalled in the Morse code, 'Sinking. SOS. Help!' Her lookout saw us, and a little later—thanks to fresh flashlight batteries which worked in our hour of need—we were safe on the American Banker of the United States Lines. We even saved the cat."

Milton, who is from Norfolk, Va., went to sea sixteen years ago when he was twelve. He immediately began to save against the day when he could own his own ship. Early this year he was able to buy and refit the Pioneer. She was carrying her first cargo when she went down.

WELFARE CONFERENCE TURNS OUT TO BE COMMUNISTIC

New Deal apologists throughout Dixie are squirming and writhing as though with ants in their pants, as a result of the insolent affront to the South by the so-called "Southern Conference for Human Welfare," in session at Birmingham last week. Southern Democrats who have swallowed previous New Deal onslaughts upon their traditions and institutions are suffering the pangs of mental indigestion. It is a pity that it took the resoluting of this scalawag conference to open their eyes to the true import of New Deal doctrines with reference to the estabished order of things in the South.

Called to consider the South's economic problems, the conference showed its true colors by words and actions worthy of a Harlem mass-meeting It virtually declared for social equality, resolving never to assemble again in a city where the races do not intermingle; endorsed the anti-lynching bill, and recorded its sympathy with Reds and Communists by denouncing the Dies committee.

We are pleased to see the announcement that Senator Dies is already contemplating a senatorial investigation of the Birmingham meeting.

The conference was an assemblage of New Dealers who for once let their enthusiaism get the better of their judgment, threw aside the mask of democracy worn by them on election day, and stood revealed in their true anti-Southern, Moscow-minded, agitator role. If anything were needed to prove the charges made and reiterated that the New Deal is the spiritual offspring of Karl Marx and Lenin, the Birmingham conference proved it, convincingly.

The esteemed Alabama Journal in an editorial deploring what the conference did, calls the gathering one of "radicals, government employees, and irresponsibles." It is cheering to see this staunch organ of Southern Democracy so aptly designate the aggregation of New Deal maverick Democrats with whom, however, the esteemed Journal still sleeps, politically speaking. In fact, it begins to look like the old war-horses of Southern Democracy have been sleeping, just a bit too soundly, and are likely to wake up on the floor, leaving the Senegambians and Socialists together in the couch of Democracy.

Hon. Grover Hall, in The Montgomery Advertiser, an ardent New Deal supporter, very vehemently criticized this conference, charging it as being embarassing, idiotic and contemptible.

The Birmingham conference was presided over by United States Commissioner Louise O. Charlton; it was addressed by the wife of the President of the United States; a heavy proportion of those in attendance were New Deal job-holders, perfect specimens of the radical agitators who have seeped into the Democratic Party and who now threaten to destroy it. New Deal parasites assembled at Birmingham were schooled in the school of Ickes and Hopkins and Perkins; in an ill-advised moment they said and did the things that the higher-ups are usually wise enough not to do or say, openly. It remained for this assembly of insignificant crackpots and agitators to expose what the "big shots" of the New Deal wish had remained under cover, for a while longer at least.

Perhaps it would be best for the nation for these radical left-wingers to completely and openly take over the Democratic Party. Then, the issue would be square-cut, and the outcome never in doubt. There is no question where the bulk of the American people stand. Only by prostituting the Democratic party to its purpose, wearing the outer garb of respectability and working in alliance with the conservative but tradition-bound Democracy of the South, has the New Deal managed to attain and keep control. Could we but strip the New Deal fakirs and medicine men of their stolen garb of respectable clerics of Democracy, the result would be a set-up for the Republicans in the next election.

The Birmingham conference indicates that we are heading to that solution, unless the old-line Democrats wake up and clean house, before they themselves are swept out. There has been plenty of evidence of indignation among Democrats over the proceedings at Birmingham. Alabama's Governor Bibb Graves openly expressed his disgust. A mass-meeting of women Democrats at Birmingham denounced Postmaster Green and Congressman Patrick as traitors who had abetted those who would sell out the South for the negro vote in the North. Editorial opinion condemning the radical conference is widespread.

Will the conservative Democracy of the South and the nation wake up and clean house, and give us again two respectable American political parties? Or, will the old-line Democrats continue to let the radical tail wag the jackass to destruction? Somehow, we cannot keep from hoping that Democratic principles and Southern self-respect are not dead in the body of Democracy, and that they will yet boot the imposter out—even though it might make the going tougher for us on election day. We just hate to think that radicals and trouble-makers of the type who met in Birmingham can continue to direct and control the destinies of one of our two major political parties.

ANCIENT FARM CARS AND TRUCKS TAXED FAR ABOVE CASH VALUE

More than half of the passengers automobiles on the farms are five or more years old, and one in every six is 10 years old according to a recent survey made by the bureau of the Census. The survey covered about 3,000 farms in selected countes in 40 states. Of the trucks included in the suvey, 25 per cent were 10 or more years old.

Since the average car or truck that is nine or 10 years old has a cash, or tradein value, of not more than $25, a substantial part of the automobiles on the farms, therefore, must pay annual taxes exceeding their value, points out Committee. The automotive tax burden in the United States averages $52 the Alabama Petroleum Industries per vehicle annually, an amount exceeding the value of most cars that are seven years old.

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a good dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and may be taken frequently by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles due to common colds hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund your money. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

NATION'S PURCHASING POWER

Basic conditions have recovered slightly from the relapse of a week ago, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. The estimate of this year's normal demand for steel has been revised upward to 39.2 per cent of capacity from 39.0 per cent last week. Despite the fact that last week's actual rate of output was at 56.8 per cent of capacity, or well above the currently estimated normal demand, the actual rate has increased this week to a new 1938 high of 61.0 per cent. The inevitable reaction to this abnormally high rate does not yet appear imminent.

The index of business income, for the week ended October 29, showed a rather pronounced rise to 77.2 from 75.8 in the previous week. At the same time, the index of business expenses continued its decline, dropping from 79.8 to a new low of 79.7. Expenses consequently exceeded income by only 2.5 points as against 4.0 points in the preceding week, thus providing a good start for another attempt to attain profitable operations.

In the week ended October 29, the price index of farm products, which reflects the national income, recovered smartly from the relapse of the previous week. While manufactured goods prices showed no further decline, they at least did not rise to offset the gain in income. Consequently the purchasing power index rose from 74.3 to 75.7, the highest figure since the middle of July.

No doubt the business men had felt the public pulse and were certain of a change in enough faces in the political field in November to warrant a renewed confidence.

MIDDLE OF THE ROAD

It is a fair conclusion to be drawn from the results of Tuesday's voting that the American people are moving toward the middle of the road. This conclusion rests not only on the fact that the party of opposition has substantially increased its strength in Congress and elected governors in such important states as Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa.—New York Times.

THE NEW FACES IN CONGRESS

The public is possibly about fed up on comment regarding the type of men that graced our last House of Representatives. They heard much of these facts from the opponents of these office-holders during the recent election campaign. If any of them had any skeletons in their closets they were trotted out and plainly exhibited to the public by their opponents.

But there is much interest concerning the type of men that have been elected to the new House of Rperesentatives which will meet in session in January. We will not deal here with the make up of each individual, for that would require too much space, nor will we make reference to an of those office-holders who were returned to their seats by the people. We will merely summarize here a few facts concerning the new members elected on November 8th.

It s interesting to note for instance that among the new members elected on November 8th were at least 37 who have served the nation in war time and who belong to either the American Legion or to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Among these are founders of the Legion and former commander and high officers of it and the V. F. W. This certainly points to a patriotic front.

In a fraternal way the Masons appear to have captured the prize. At least 18 of the new members, or of those known to belong to fraternal societies, are members of the Masonic order, with the Elks and Odd Fellows running a good second and third and with many representatives from the Moose, Woodmen, Eagles, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, Owls and the like.

Two bankers and two laborers were elected, an even tally. Civic clubs such at the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and the like are also well represented.

At least 62 of the new members of the House are college graduates. The colleges of the District of Columbia were well represented as were Harvard, Cornell, Notre Dame, University of Wisconsin and the like. Seven of those elected are educators by profession.

As is the rule of any election, professional men, particularly attorneys and physicians, walked away with honors. At least 37 of the new members are attorneys or medical men, most of them attorneys.

If any one has the idea that most of the new membes are inexperienced in public affairs they aer wrong for over 31 of the new members of the House are former state or city officials and several others are former members of Congress. So there will not have to be any kindergarden work for most of the new members. They may be able even to show some of the hangovers a few things, for there's nothing quite so hot as a session of a state legislature or city council.

At least eight of the new members of the House are farmers, so agriculture did not fare so bad. Some of these are Grangers.

Besides the businessmen from the newspaper field, of which there were at least four elceted, as least 22 business men from the commecial and industrial fields were elected. So all in all it appears that the voters did a pretty fine job in selections in the recent election. Insofar as the radicals are concerned there was only one of known extremeist elected among the new members; that was, however, the black spot in the picture. On the other hand, the radical front among the last House members was cleaned out nearly to a man.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Some one said a few months ago that the Republican Party was dead, that it could never be revived, that the New Dealers had captured control and so imbedded themselves that they could not be shaken loose without a revolution. But the voters on November 8th showed otherwise. They showed that they will not tolerate an attempted destruction of our form of government and our institutions. They showed that they were under obligations to no man and no clique for the relief that has been administered to them, that they know that the money for such relief came not out of the pockets of the New Dealers but out of the people's pockets through taxes and that they owed protection to the people, including themselves, by voting to sustain the foundations of our great republic.

That the November election issues were chiefly conservatism versus radicalism can no longer be questioned, even though certain so-called leaders of so-called "progressivism" and "liberalism" now cry that the "people have again been misled" and that on November 8th the people again "followed false gods." That is the usual cry of a defeatist.

The greatest gains by Republicans were made in states where radicalism had gained the strongest foothold; witness Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, Iowa and Kansas. In these states nearly all of the radicals were swept out of office and loyal and constructive minded officials swept in. California and Washington were exceptions to this rule. There the elections have been complicated with other issues as to confuse the electorate and many were unquestonably greatly confused in voting. That the President's attack on the Dies Committee stimulated the above issue and helped the anti-radical front will be attested to by anyone knowing the political trends in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin in November. The recognition of the wholesome force of the Dies Committee exposures by the President of our nation, even though a slurring recognition, put the red menace more clearly to the front. The election day returns as a result speak for themselves. It was the end of one man rule. It was the beginning of the end of regimentation, of the end of attacks on the Supreme Court, of the attempted reorganization of our govenment along certain lines, of crookedness in relief administration and of red influence on our governmental policies.

The "red" from the "front" in Congress was swept out of office. This wave of patriotism spared not even Jerry O'Connell, Tom Amlie, Henry Teigan, Gerald Boileau, Paul J. Kvale, Byron Scott, and others most prominent in the radical front. The primary had already taken the toll insofar as Maverick and Hildebrant were concerned. Only a handful of the front were spared by the voters and these by such exceedingly small majorities as to threaten their hold on office two years hence. While the seven members of the Dies Committee investigating un-American activities and which wth the support of the new Congress meeting in January, will no doubt not only continue but broaden ts investigations, were with the exception of one overwhelmingly re-elected by the people, the one retiring member, Congressman Mosier of Ohio being defeated by the New Dealers of his party in the spring primary and finally supplanted by a Republican in the November finals.

IT WON'T BE

New Dealers believe, according to a Washington columnist, that the lesson to be learned from the handling of federal finances during the last two years "is that the budget should not be brought into balance too abruptly."

This being the ninth year of government red ink, we trust the New Dealers won't lie awake nights worrying about a balanced budget overtaking them.—New York World Telegram.

ONE IMPORTANT ASSET

A local lady had spent the morning watching some new folks move into the neighborhood. Her husband came home to lunch and she was still at the window, and remarked: "They don't have a radio, a dog, an ice box, any kids, or a car. I wonder what they do have? Her husband grunted, sarcastically, "They probably have a bank account, then."—Mankato Advocate.

Young John Roosevelt earning $18 a week, is spending $100 a month for an apartment, thus proving himself a true son of the New Deal.—Exchange.

WHAT EVERY SOCIALIST KNOWS

If the American people wish to convert their republic into something resembling the united Soviet republics, the News and Courier can stand it as well as the next one. The News and Courier opposes the underhanded behind-the-door, sneaking efforts to "socialize" the United States. The shortest and surest route to the destruction of the capitaistic-democratic system is the reduction of government to bankruptcy. Once government shall be hopelessly insolvent, revolution is inevitable—which every socialist knows. — Charleston News and Courier.

That the change in the political front nation-wide, turning over scores of governorships, state legislatures, mayoralties, township administrations and the like to the Republicans, thereby splitting political control once again between constructive Democrats and Republicans, has already shown its wholesome effect is shown by the stock markets, which have shot skyward and payroll increases. People have regained confidence in their government and real progress is now in store. The American ballot has once again come into its own as the stop gap of a trend to one-sidedness in government. It has again saved the people from a trend that could take them in one direction to communism or in another direction to facism. It has again re-established the middle-of-the-road system under which our country has become the greatest known to mankind and which is therefore worth saving at any price.

The one outstanding dark spot in the recent elections was the elevation of the red-fronter Vito Marcantonio to Congress on the Republican ticket.

PUBLIC OPINION CHANGES

The returns from the nation as a whole tell a consistent story of impressive Republican gains, a genuine renewal of party strength. The gains in the Senate and the House of Representatives and the capture of a number of state houses provide impressive evidence of this party revival. The widespread distribution of the gains, from New England through to the West, makes the gains themselves more impressive. This was no local upswing, but a movement everywhere in evidence, of such proportions as to serve notice on the New Deal of a profound change in public opinion which as yet may be only in its first stages.—New York Sun.

DESTROYING LIBERTIES

Both the communists and the fascists, as evidenced in countries where they have operated, have destroyed such human liberties as freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of worship. Both have destroyed the individual and set up in its stead a blind, unreasoning worship of the state as all powerful and all knowing. If either the communists or the fascists ever get control of this country they will set this democracy back several centuries—back to the dark ages.—Blooming Prairie Times.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"The Bible teaches that the world is just six thousand years old. I cannot believe that Book. I know as a student of science that the world is very old, maybe millions of years old." That is what a high school teacher of science said to a group of students some time ago. This young fellow did not know his Bible. I dare say he had never read through the Old Testament or the New Testament. That is the trouble with most of the Bible critics. They say things they have heard someone else say and try to act wise. A great scholar said that no man is prepared to be a critic of the Old Testament until he has studied it for fifty years and it is necessary for him to be a scholar before he starts studying it. Of course, a man who is not a scholar may grasp the spiritual meaning of the Word of God, if he is genuinely converted and has the Holy Spirit as his teacher. Spiritual things are spiritually discerned. The unconverted man, however great his scholarship may be, can never apprehend the spiritual truths about the Bible. The Bible is also a book of history, a book of philosophy, a book of ethics, and it is the greatest book of literature in the world. Intelligent, well-trained, spiritual scholars who study the Bible for years, say they have scarcely gone under the surface. Think of the asininity of someone who has never even studied it, saying he does not believe it. All the people in the circle of my rather wide acquaintance who know the Bible believe it The Bible is not a treatise on science but Christians who know science say it is scientifically correct. The trouble is not with the science of the Bible, the trouble is with the scientists themselves. They just do not know the Bible. Many of them are not Christians and have no spiritual understanding and some who have been born again have not taken time to "dig into" the depths of the scientific truths in God's Book. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." Stop there for a while. Think that over. If man had been the author of the Bible instead of God he would have written volumes instead of one sentence about that. That first short sentence in the Bible proves to a thinking man who has studied the mental processes of his fellowman as well as his own mental processes that the Bible is God's Word.

Christmas Seals to save thousands of people ill with tuberculosis. Help to prevent the disease from striking thousands of others.

GAME & FISH NEWS

The wild turkey is more plentiful in Alabama right now than at any time in recent years, if reports from widely separated points in the State are correct, according to I. T. Quinn, commissioner of the Department of Conservation. Prior to the shooting season game wardens reported there was an increase in the turkey population, and since the nimrods went out in the forest November 20 their observations and reports confirm the predictions.

"More gobblers will be killed this year than we had in the entire state 15 years ago," Commissioner Quinn said. We now have turkeys in every county of the State."

Indicative of the current trend was a statement of the south Alabama, congressman who last week had as guests on a 17,000 acre preserve near McIntosh Governor and Mrs. Graves and other prominent hunters. He said "The game was so plentiful we had enough before we had hardly gotten started."

From the Black Warrior Forest in north Alabama comes an encouraging report regarding wild turkeys. The U. S. Forest Service and the State Conservation Department selected a 17,200 acre tract and with the aid of 100 CC men counted the wild turkeys and deer. There were between 450 and 600 turkeys on this tract, and the present forest is 10 times larger than the tract. The authoities said the wild turkey population was far beyond expectations, and the birds observed were of excellent quality and highly desireable.

Alabama's wild turkey restoration program was started over 25 years ago with passage of the now famous "gobbler law", which prohibits the killing of turkey hens at the time. Other states copied our law, and national authorities credit Alabama with pioneering in this field. Alabama also is one of the three states permitting spring turkey hunting, (March 15 to April 15), as state authorities believe the supply is sufficient to allow hunting during this period.

New Orleans, Nov. 26,—Exactly one week before the football classic Loyola University of New Orleans and Clemson college of South Carolina, will open up the 1939 Sugar Bowl athletic festivities with a championship boxing match at the Municipal Auditorium in New Orleans, on December 26.

Mr. J. Grenrood, Chairman of the Boxing Committe announces that the Loyola-Clemson afair will mark the third Sugar Bowl amateur boxing chompionship and he first between two college teams. The 12,000 capacaty of the magnificent air-cooled Auditorium will be taxed to the limit when the battlers enter the ring.

While giving thanks at this time of the year for your good health, remember that there are thousands who are ill from tuberculosis. Christmas Seals are a means of helping to put these unfortunate people back on the highway to health and happiness.

INFANT DEATHS REPORTED

Nineteen deaths of infants under one year of age have occurred in Chilton county during 1938 according to a news release from the local health department. Of these there were 16 white and three colored. During 1937 a total of 31 deaths were recorded in the county. The several leading causes of infant deaths in Chilton county, according to the report are infectious diseases, respiratory diseases, gastro-intestinal diseases of early infancy, premature birth, and injury at birth.

A program for the lowering of infant mortality constitutes an important phase of the work done by the local health departmnet. Improvement of the sanitation in individual homes such as screening, installation ter and milk supplies are effective safeguards in preventing illnesses and deaths of infants, the local department pointed out. The value of protection of infants against diphtheria, whooping cough, Etc., with immunizing agents was also stressed as an important weapon in the prevention of infant deaths. Every infant, the health officer states, should be placed under the care of the family physician at birth and kept under his constant supervision throughout the first year of life and the pre-school period.

After an initial complete physical examination by the doctor, the infant should be carried to his office at monthly to be weighed, measured, Etc., and for routine advice on feeding, habit formation, etc.

Tuberculosis threatens everyone. It is the arch-killer of the youth of our country. Christmas Seals are great factors in helping our boys and girls to safer living.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—In Europe, a few years ago, this writer met a friend who had just interviewed Gen. Ismet Inonu, who is today Turkey's new dictator, succeeding Kemal Ataturk, who died recently. "He's the smartest hombre I ever met," said my friend. "He talked to me for two hours, frank and honest, looking me right in the eye and never holding out on anything. He was charming and brilliant and he didn't ask me not to print anything. I thought I had a great story. But, when I started to write it, there was just nothing there. I saw him several times after that, and realized that he was a master in heart-to-heart talk which left no commitments whatsoever. I saw cagey diplomats kissed off just as I had been. The man is a marvel of brains and ingenuity."

Dictator Inonu An Iron Man, Yet a Diplomat

The small, fragile, deaf, ingratiating General Inonu is the hero of the Turkish army, premier until a year ago, when he was mysteriously benched by Kemal Ataturk. There were rumors that he was engaged in international negotiations of such subtlety that he found it necessary to keep out of office and off-stage.

It was in 1920 that young Colonel Ismet joined Mustafa Kemal in Anatolia. By 1922, he had driven the Greeks out of Anatolia and Smyrna and in this period and thereafter he was Kemal Ataturk's chief military aide. He added to his laurels, when, at the 1923 Lausanne conference, he ran rings around British and Italian diplomats and won for Turkey virtually its demands.

He was one of few men who retained the confidence of Ataturk to the end. He was a firm and exacting and, at times, ruthless ruler of the army, and is said to lack none of the traditional specifications of the iron man.

It is apparent that Ismet Inonu is intent on keeping Turkey diplomatically liquid, that he fully realizes the bargaining power of Turkey's hegemony over the Moslem bloc, and that he probably will use this and other strategic assets in making some shrewd bargains.

TALL, austere Sumner Welles, a deft precisionist in career diplomacy, is merely undersecretary of state, but off-stage he's the key-man of a critical international encounter and a policy draughtsman in whose hands a chart of our South American procedure is taking shape. He helped initiate and has diligently fostered the "good neighbor" policy in Latin-America, and his radio address urging a get-together in the Western hemisphere received a good press in those countries. But a bad press in Germany.

Sumner Welles A Specialist in S. A. Relations

His plea for joint defense against "any threat of attack" is in interesting contrast to his speeches of a year ago, when he appealed to the "nations of the world for a new world order, based on justice and law." He weighs the actualities of trade, finance and the collective safety and solvency of the Western world.

Something like a picture of a western league of nations begins to emerge as the great imperialisms turn toward the vast raw material storehouse of South America.

After his graduation from Harvard in 1914, Franklin D. Roosevelt, then assistant secretary of the navy, helped him enter career diplomacy. In his early thirties, he was high commissioner to the Dominican Republic, the author of "Naboth's Vineyard," a two-volume study of that country. He was made ambassador to Cuba by President Roosevelt in 1933. He became undersecretary of state last year.

ROBERT DONAT, the English actor on the up-take in "The Citadel" and other films, made so many unsuccessful tries at the screen seven years ago that they called him "Screen Test" Donat. A competent actor, he met hard luck and was all but desperate, as something always went wrong. One day, in what he was sure would be his last try, the director told him to register despair. The irony of his merely imitating despair sent him into demoniac laughter. Alexander Korda, in another room, heard him.

Laughing at Despair Gets Donat Fame

"Sign that man up, whoever he is," said Korda. "That's a great performance." He had what it took, and they routed him right through to fame and riches. He won by challenging a homily—"Do not despair."

Beautiful yellow chrysanthemums carried the color scheme more extensively.

A beautiful lace table cloth adorned the table. In the center of the table was the beautifully decorated green, yellow and white birthday cake. The setting was very pleasing to the eye and was enjoyed by the following guests: Ned Dennis, Elizabeth Dennis, Marvin Reynolds, Bess Hayes, Joe Esco, Jean Waites, Joan Atchinson, Catherine Gardner, Guy Higgins, Flem Higgins and Mary Frances Atchinson.

STATE COSTS UP 17 PER CENT IN LAST SIX YEARS

General Operating Expense For 1937 Was $9.91 Per Person

Cost of operating and maintaining general departments of state government in Alabama last year was $9.91 for every man, woman and child in the state, or 17 per cent more than in 1931 when the per capita cost was $8.47.

Total state revenue receipts, including funds that went for debt liquidation, amounted to $17.50 per capita in 1937, as against $11.37 in 1931—an increase of 54 per cent.

This is disclosed in a report released by William L. Austin, director of the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Census, in Washington. The report shows Alabama's revenue receipts last year totaled $50,541,821, of which $28,620,575 was spent for operation and maintenance of general departments.

These figures are exclusive of revenues and expenditures of the Mobile docks and the state store liquor system, both of which are treated separately in the report.

Liquor stores last year collected $2,647,964 in receipts, spent $1,861,129 for operation and cost of goods and contributed $395,790 to the general revenues of the state, the report shows.

Expendtures at Mobile Harbor amounted to $543,529 for operation and maintenance and $414,562 for interest on general obligation bonds, Receipts consisted of $1,002,976 in dock earnings and a $175,000 contribution from the state general fund for bond retirement.

The state's gross debt outstanding at the close of the 1937 fiscal year was $73,473,160, or $25.44 per capita. The net debt (less sinking fund assets) was $25.14 per capita, as compared with $21.21 in 1931.

The $28,620,575 spent operating and maintaining general departments was distributed as follows:

For education, $13,538,566; charities, $2,723,656; general government, $2,430,400; protection to person and property, $1,545,436; health, $1,107,445; conservation and development of natural resources, $1,819,733; highways, $2,084,062; hospitals, $1,021,799; correction, $1,791,350; libraries, $15,964; recreation, $20,896; miscellaneous, $346,268; contribution to state docks, $175,000.

REPUBLICAN PARITY

Percy M. Pitts, from Chilton, will be the only Republican in the next Alabama House of Representatives. This fact just serves to remind us of how firmly fixed upon the South is the one-party system.

This newspaper votes for and believes in the Democratic party. And yet it terms tragic a condition such as we have in this state. One lonely Republican in the state Legislature. Not enough Republican opposition to get a glance from the national G. O. P.! Believe you us, Alabama suffers at the hands of both major parties as the result of this one-party system having been fixed upon us.—Anniston Times.

RURAL WOMEN WISH TO GAIN CITIZENSHIP

Present conditions have convinced the rural woman of the necessity of her vote as a good citizen. Out of a membership of nearly 30,000, only a few more than 5,000 are qualified votes This is due to several causes, the main one of which is the excessive Poll Tax requirement.

The South has an economic unbalance, effecting the nation as a whole that can and must be righted. There are questions of taxation, education, housing, and health of which the rural women of Alabama have been making a study. Alabama has 63 counties organized in Home Demonstration Club work. With a total membership in this state of 27,631, rural women are studying economic conditions of their homes and of their husbands' framland.

FARMERS TO VOTE ON COTTON PLAN SATURDAY

The New Deal's farm plans will face a test at the hands of the farmers Saturday of this week, December 10th. Chilton county farmers will vote on a proposal to impose marketing quotas on the sale of cotton next year. Officials say the outcome of the referenda will have vital bearing on the farm program for 1939.

On the same day that the farmers vote on quotas the Chilton County Farmers Union will hold an all-day rally at Antioch church. Many Union notables will attend the rally.

Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, says: "The New Deal farm program has collapsed, and it is the most tragic and disastous of all New Deal failures."

ESCAPED CONVICT CAUGHT SUNDAY

Patrolman Henley Apprehends Negro Who Escaped From Speigner

Last Sunday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock, Mr. Preston Shaw, of Jemison, parked his car in front of his home and went in for a few minutes. When he returned, his car, a 1933 Chevrolet sedan, was gone. Highway patrolman Earl Henley was notified; he immediately sent out a radio message over the police system. In less than one hour Mr. Henley received a call from Birmingham stating that the car was in their custody, as well as the driver. He went to Birmingham and brought the thief back to Clanton and put him in jail here, he proving to be a negro man 23 years old, named Albert Jackson, who had escaped from Spigener prison Saturday afternoon about 3:00 o'clock.

The escaped convict and car were picked up on Shades Mountain; the Negro was wearing gloves and overcoat belonging to Mr. Shaw, which he left in the car in front of his home.

They both went into the windshield, sustaining severe injuries. They were carried to the hospital here by Raymond Underwood, in a Spigener ambulance. Investigations were made by patrolman Earl Henley.

Another wreck occurred Saturday afternoon about 1:30 o'clcok, three miles south of Verbena. Misses Nell Pamplin and Doris Baker, and Mr. J. E. Mackey, all of Montgomery, were on their way to Florence, Ala., when their car, a Dodge sedan driven by Miss Pamplin, left the road and went off a fill. Miss Pamplin suffered a broken collar bone and a severe cut on the leg. Mr. Mackey had a rather bad wound on the back of the head and small bruises and gashes all over the body. TIME TO COUNT PINS ABOUT POWER BUSINESS

Much has been printed and spoken in Alabama relative to the power interests of the State, the relations of this industry to the government subsidized TVA and the part PWA is playing and has played in direct competition to the private power industries operating in Alabama.

Alabama Power Company has been carrying messages in the form of newspaper advertisements to the citizens of the State. The attention of the public has been called time and again to the danger of government competition coming in and crippling one of the main tax-paying businesses in our State.

Heretofore people have treated the matter lightly, believing that such a large concern as Alabama Power Company and its parent companies could never be endangered or forced out of existence. In other words, people have not given it a serious thought. We have had the thing illustrated to us with the story of the "Goose that layed the Golden Egg," but the actual gravity of the matter seems not to soak into our craniums.

The Selma Times-Journal came out a few days ago with a long editorial, stating with The Nashville Tennesseean that "The federal project (TVA) has become political dynamite." In various news releases just this week the ex-chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, Arthur E. Morgan, charges that the TVA is continually and promiscuously selling current at below cost and going into deficit on every hand. President Thomas W. Martin of Alabama Power Company issues the statement that: "Should they (TVA) continue at the same pace as during the past year, they can result only in ultimate bankruptcy of Alabama Power Company."

Alabama Power Company pays three and a quarter million dollars in taxes every year. If the TVA sells current at below cost, the deficit will have to be made up in increased taxation, which goes exactly in the opposite direction from Alabama Power Company.

Is it not time our law makers and authoritative National and State officials took cognizance of the inevitable drift of this important matter and did something about it. Let's count pins about our power and tax business. It is too drastic to pass up unnoticed.

What apparently were amateur thieves attempted to enter The Peoples Saving Bank through the rear window Tuesday night. Some four or five iron bars were pried from the window and the screen was cut; but the glass window inside was not molested. They must have become frightened after the bars had been removed, and they decided it best to leave. The back door of the First National Bank was slightly meddled with, but the door was never opened. No entrance was made to either building.

TO PUT KING COTTON BACK ON THE THRONE

Scott, Miss. — Advertising, research, education and coordinated effort may restore King Cotton to his throne. The cotton leaders think so. To this end, the five primary cotton interests of the United States declaring that a solution of cotton's ills can be achieved by the industry, mobilized their forces in Memphis, November 21 and 22 in a history making movement to increase the consumption of American cotton.

As a result of the movement, the National Cotton Council of America was formed, marking the first time in the annals of agricutural history that the cotton growers, ginners, warehousemen, merchants, and crushers have joined hands to aid King Cotton lift himself by the bootstraps from the depths of economic distress. Oscar Johnston, manager of the world's largest cotton plantation, Scott, Miss., was elected to head the Council.

The full ten point program adopted by the Cotton Council embodies a domestic advertising campaign, cultivation of good will toward America in foreign countries, stimulation of international commerce with industrial nations, scientfic research for discovery of new uses, for improvement of manufactured products to increase consumption in known uses, and more equitable and favorable transportation rates between the cotton belt and other sections of the nation.

Looking eventually to a war chest of two million dollars for a far flung campaign to regain cotton supremacy through advertising, the assembly prepared immediately to raise a missionary fund of $250,000 to set in motion the machinery for execution of the preliminary aducation program.

The Alabama-Florida Unit of the National Cotton Council under the leadership of W. H. Smith, Prattville, a producer, is now raising the state unit's part of the initial financing fund calculated on a basis of 2 cents a bale for the current year's production.

The Alabama-Florida Unit is also now electing its permanent delegates to the Council. Under the plan of representation, producers, ginners, warehousemen, merchants, and crushers will each have three delegates.

In addition to Mr. Smith, the other delegates and members of the Advisory Committee at the Council's organization meeting are: W. G. Peebles, Mooresville and W. B. Crawley, Banks; producers; Leo Bashinsky, Birmingham, and A. E. Hohenberg, Memphis, Tenn., merchants; John D. Davis, Decatur, warehouseman; W. T. Graham, Talladega, crusher; and C. D. TREE PLANTING SEASON NEAR Cooperating farmers in the soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Ala., will plant approximately 150,000 trees on steep and severely eroded land this winter as a part of the erosion-control program on their farms, according to Mr. James H. Wood, camp superintendent.

This will bring the total of trees planted in the area to approximately 1,450,000. These trees will not only protect the land against arosion, but will also provide fuel, farm lumber, and eventually a crop of saw logs from land which cannot be used safely nor profitably for production of other crops, Mr. Wood pointed out.

Demonstrations of proper woodland management, meanwhile, are being carried out on existing woodland, where farmers are now obtaining their winter fuel supply by improvement cuttings, which consist of removing unthrifty and defective trees. This leaves the straight, rapid-growing trees to grow to larger size and be harvested later for saw logs.

Many farmers formerly cut their best trees for fuel wood and left the inferior trees, which resulted in the gradual deterioration of the stand, and gave them little incentive to maintain the land in trees, Mr. Wood explained.

As a part of the woodland management program, service foresters are making trees to be left in the stand fo the timber crop on a portion of the woodland on each cooperating farm. By following the demonstrated method, farmers will be able to produce a profitable timber crop which will justify their efforts in protecting their woods and maintaining the land in trees, Mr. Wood said.

AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY HAS BENEFITED THE FARMERS

According to statement made today by Mr. D. H. Bohler, Chairman, Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, American farmers today pay less for gasoline, tires, automobile and trucks, compared to pre-war prices, than for any other of some 70 important manufactured products.

"The 1913 prices for these 70 products are compared to 1937 prices by the Farm Equipment Institute, Chicago, in a booklet, 'Price Comparisons, 1913-37: Farm Machines and Other Manufactured Products.' The booklet is intended to offset farmer complaints that farm machine prices have gone up faster than the prices of other products.

"This price comparison reveals strikingly how much more the petroleum and automotive industries have benefited the farmer than any other industry through price reductions. Gasoline costs the farmer less than any other of the 70 products listed except tires, with a price only 38.1 per cent of the 1913 level. Tires are 26.9 per cent of the 1913 price, and automobiles and trucks, 60.5 per cent, said Mr. Bohler.

There were 45 members present. Two new members joined the club. Then the girls went down to the boys room and Mr. Ivey talked to us about the cotton program. Then we all went back to our room.

We will ask all our members to bring some one else to join our 4-H club work.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for December 11

THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:17; Luke 12: 13-21; I Timothy 6:6-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not covet.—Exodus 20:17.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

"The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Heb. 4:12). These are the words that came to the writer's mind as he read the Scripture portions assigned for this lesson. He would fain have set aside his own comments and used this column to print the words from the Bible. If any reader of these lines purposes to read just these efforts to expound the truth, and not to read the Bible itself, let me plead with you to stop here and turn to God's Word. Let its powerful truth grip your soul and change your life.

It seems peculiarly appropriate that this lesson on covetousness should come right in the midst of our preparations for Christmas, for it directs our attention away from things to God, from outward preparation to the preparation of the heart, from greedy desire to true liberality of heart. Christmas may be literally "made over" for all of us if we receive its truth.

I. A Command (Exod. 20:17).

"Thou shalt not covet."

This last commandment carries us "beyond the domain of civil magistracy into that intellectual realm of motive, desire, and thought, where God alone is Lord and Judge" (Dykes). It deals with the heart, out of which are all the issues of life. It reaches to the root of so much that is wicked and destructive in the world—the covetousness of man. The love of money makes men lie, steal, kill, cheat; in fact, "the whole realm of human interrelations is disorganized and broken up by the dishonoring of the tenth commandment" (Morgan).

II. A Warning (Luke 12:13-21).

"Beware of covetousness."

The teaching of this passage is so directly opposite to all ideas regarding such matters accepted by the world at large, that it may be a total surprise to some readers and attendants at Bible school.

The yardstick of success in the world—for an individual, and organization, or a nation; yes, even for many a church—is the possession of wealth, or property, or other "things." Write it then in large letters on the hearts and minds of our boys and girls, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (v. 15).

The one who was known to his friends (and to himself) as "a rich man" (v. 16), but whom God knew as a "fool" (v. 20), had more than he could use for himself. He had to build new and bigger barns, and could not see the "barns" that were already prepared, for, as Ambrose says, "Thou hast barns—the bosoms of the needy, the houses of widows, the mouths of orphans and infants." He was a fool who loved money for himself. One wonders what he had to say for himself when that very night he was called into the presence of God to give an account of his stewardship (v. 20). If you are similarly situated and have the same attitude, what will you say in that day?

An important point which we must note is that Jesus expressly repudiated the connecting of His name with the so-called "social gospel" in His reply (v. 14) to the question of the covetous fellow who regarded his inheritance as of more importance than brotherly love. Those who are ignoring the gospel of redemption and claiming Jesus as a social reformer or the "judge and divider" of some new economic solution for the world's ills, need to read and ponder this verse. Every Christian is interested deeply in social problems, but knows that the first concern of Christ and His followers is the souls of men.

III. A Way of Victory (I Tim. 6:6-10).

"Godliness with contentment."

As a minister of the gospel the writer would first remind himself that this was written by Paul to the preacher Timothy. Brethren in the ministry, let us not fall into the temptation and snare that comes with the love of money.

In this dizzy age when many are so intent on making money that they have no time for home and children, church and fellowship; when men neglect their responsibilities and duties as citizens to get gain; when any dirty business is all right if it produces a profit; when "for gold men betray their country, their friends, their God, their immortal souls" (Farrar)—yes, in this day let us remind men that "we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain that we can carry nothing out." Let us teach and exemplify in our lives the fact that the only real and worth while gain in life is "godliness with contentment."

Farmers, Are You Going To Sit Idly By?

Dear Brother Farmer:

Are you going to sit idly by and let the white collar and swind chair farmers in Washington and at our county seats run our business for us another year? That is what they are wanting to do.

Do you want to get 16 cents a pound for 5 bales of cotton without the dictatorship, Hitlerism, red tap and confusion? Then if you do go out on December 10th and cast your vote and use your influence against the present farm program that we now have.

The Bankheads have been going over the State poisoning the minds of the farmers, trying to make them believe that the present program is the one we need. The county agents are trying to make them believe if they vote against this program they will not get any more on their cotton this year. We should know that any kind of program that his crowd is for, the dirt farmer should be against it.

For the past five years they have made a successful failure of solving the farmers' problems. Therefore, it is time for us dirt farmers to solve our own problems; one way is with "the five bale plan", which was adopted at the national convention for the cotton farmers of the South.

I met with Mr. Bankhead in Jasper at one of his meetings and ask him what he through about a program where there were ten in the family like myself who made two bales of cotton and had to sell them. He replied, "You are against the program and I can't talk to you. If I had been for a program that would have put guano sacks on the farmer and his family for clothes, and guano sacks on the beds for sheets for them to sleep on he would have talked to me. So, if you don't like the present conditions go out and cast your vote against the present program on December 10.

I have a few words to say about the national convention. Being your representative from Alabama to the national convention, I fought your battles. I had the opportunity of making three speeches to the 35 states represented there. I pointed out to their congressmen, senators and governors that the southern cotton farmers was the economic No. 1 condition of the nation. I want to tell you that the eyes of those people from the different states was made to see your condition in Alabama as they had never seen before. They said it was the first time that our condition had been presented before them in such a way that they could thoroughly understand it. I will have the proceedings of the national convention in the papers as soon as I can get it all together.

Now just a few words about the future. The State officials can't organize Alabama within themselves, we must have your cooperation. Therefore, we will start an organizing campaign now to continue throughout the year. We have handled ourselves together in a cooperative spirit, and with God leading us on through the dark hours, we will make a success.

As I am your State president for the ensuing year, I will at all times and at all places be found holding up the banner of the dirt farmers' program, which will solve your problem—for your problem is my problem. Therefore, by organizing and putting our efforts together we can solve the great problem that confronts the farmers of today.

I expect to visit every county in the State this year and especially bring into our fold the weaker counties, and counties who are deprived of the opportunities that you have knowing the problems and how to solve them. The only salvation for the dirt farmer is in organization. So, any time I can be of any help to any of you, I am at your service; I am your servant, call on me. I will be at the Chilton county meeting at Antioch on Saturday, December 10.

I hope and trust you a strong and successful membership in your locals and county.—Vester Burkett, State President.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us space to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy in the illness and death of our dear husband, father and brother, Mr. A. R. Scott.

Every kind word and deed are appreciated by us. We especially wish to thank Drs. Golden and Eiland; also Martin Funeral Home for their kindness to us.—Mrs. Lela Scott and Family.

EVERY now and then a poultry raiser walks in and reports that his hens aren't doing so good in egg production. We switch them to Purina Layena, the complete laying feed, or Purina Lay Chow, the supplement to go with home grown grain, and in a short time those poultry raisers are back telling us they can see the difference Purina makes. Their hens are doing better. Stop in and let us show you the egg records of many poultry raisers around here who are getting ahead feeding Purina Laying Chows!

Letter From Former Road Supervisor

Editor Union-Banner:

The writer notices in the December 1, 1938, issue of the Chilton County News a "Notice to Bidders," in which the Commissioners Court requests bid proposals to furnish Chilton county with the following machinery and equipment: "One or more Diesel Tractors, one or more power controlled graders, one or more Diesel Motor graders, and one or more tractor road scrappers."

In this "Notice" is the clause: "The county reserves the right to make the award on 'features of design and materials.' This is about the same thing as saying: "The county reserves the right to make the award on trade-name, regardless of what price asked."

This calls to mind another "notice to bidders." The time, November, 1936; the place, Chilton County Commissioners Court. The first bid proposals received showed that the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., was the low bidder on three tractors. The bids were rejected and thrown out, and new bids were requested. When these were submitted, again it was found that Allis-Chalmers was the low bidder, this time on a more expensive and heavier type of tractor. There was two days of bickering; two of the Commissioners, John Bean and R. L. Ousley, standing pat for the purchase of the Allis-Chalmers tractors on their low bid, and the other two Commissioners demanding the purchase of Caterpillar tractors, from the Pittman Tractor Company. Finally, and after much bickering, Mr. Ousley was persuaded to line up with Oden and Parrish and the order was given to the Pittman Tractor Company for two Caterpillar Tractors, which cost the county the sum of $1,750, over and above the price submitted by the Allis-Chalmers Company.

In this transaction the people and taxpayers of Chilton county were deprived of $1,750, which could have been saved had the Commissionres Court fully complied with the law and bought from the lowest bidder. It was not a question of value; the Commissioners had access to the records of type and value of these tractors for comparison. Neither was it a question of quality.

At the time this transaction was made, the Pittman Tractor Company had placed a Diesel tractor in the county, which, according to Judge Smith and the Commissioners Court, they had not bought, purchased or ordered placed in the county. Considerable action and controversy was had over this tractor, which all the people are aware of, finally resulting in the writer bringing court action against Commissioner Oden and Pittman Tractor Company, and in return the Commissioners Court filed suit in the Circuit Court against the writer. Record of this court action is to be had by anyone through the records of the Circuit Court and the State Supreme Court. Throughout the entire time, Judge Smith and the Commissioners Court denied any knowledge of the transaction; denied that they had ever purchased or ordered it brought into the county. Yet, according to the County Treasurer's report for the first period of this year, on March 23, 1938, Pittman Tractor Company was paid the sum of $5,869.75 for this same tractor, which was billed and invoiced to Chilton County for $4,800. I have in my possession a certified copy of this invoice.

This same tractor was originally ordered, as brought out in the court action referred to above, by Commissioner Howard Oden, who signed the order himself, January 15, 1936, and this order indicated that the purchase price was set at $5,250.00, less the sum of $600.00, allowed the county for an old 50 tractor which was traded in on the transaction, showing a cash cost to Chilton county in the sum of $4,650.00. It is very evident from these figures that everything is not so clear. What was the actual or real price of this tractor?. It was originally bought, or ordered, at the price of $4,650; it was invoiced at $4,800 and finally paid for at the cost of $5,869.75.

Here we are again. The time, December 1938; the Commissioners Court has called for bids again. Pittman Tractor Company have one Diesel tractor, and power grader and one motor grader now in use in the county, which were brought into the county in some mysterious manner some time during the months of September and August, 1938, and have been in use on the County roads all this time. The Union-Banner has pointedly commented on this editorially, and has asked some very pointed questions on the matter, all without results. No one seems to know anything about them—what they are worth or whether or not they were purchased by the county; they are just there. How?

We all know that Pittman Tractor Company is not in the habit of donating some ten to fifteen thousand dollars worth of equipment to be used and worn out on the public roads of the counties of Alabama; neither are the other machinery and equipment people doing it.

So, it looks like Chilton county had already bought itself a lot of machinery and equipment without knowing it! This thing seems to have become a habit in Chilton county—buying a piece of machinery valued in the thousand dollar bracket and not knowing that they had bought. Is the same thing to happen this time that happened in 1936? The Commissioners Court did not buy then, yet the taxpayers of Chilton county most certainly did have to pay, if the Treasurer's report is true, and they seem to have paid a bonus of at least $1,069.75 for it too. This "bonus" was paid. I suppose, to kinder compensate Pittman Tractor Company for their liberallity in trying to "give" the county a tractor because the Commissioners Court would not buy one.

It seems to the writer that our papers, the Chilton County News and The Union-Banner, if they are interested in the welfare of the citizens and taxpayes, could take cognizance of these things and bring them out in the open for the benefit of their subscribers, as something to read, whether they question such practices or not. Therefore, the people of Chilton county are entitled to and should demand, an explanation from the Commissioners Court on such practices.

It is impossible for the writer to believe that the Commissioners Court, who are the legally authorized purchasing agency of Chilton county, can buy when they do not buy, without knowing that they have already bought. This is an utter impossibility; it is too inconsistant to be conceivible. Yet, I suggest that a committee of the thinking citizens of Chilton county be present in the Commissioners Court at 10 o'clock the morning of December 9, 1938, and take careful note of what tranpires there when these new bids are received and opened.

With sincere regards to old Chilton, as ever,

THOMAS J. ARLEDGE.

Talks were given by the President and leaders of both organizations, Mrs. J. R. Mullins. A Christmas poem was read by Mary Frances Duke. The Lottie Moon Christmas Offering was the topic of the evening, and a collection was taken up amouting to $6.80, after which a "Package Sale" was enjoyed by all the members at which time $9.00 was realized for the Fidelis treasury. NUTRITION EXPERT HERE

Mrs. Martha Bick, nutrition consultant of the staff of the State Health Department, was a visitor in Clanton early this week, local health department officials announced today. Mrs. Bick is particularly concerned with nutrition of school children, it was pointed out, and in this connection observed the work being done by Mrs. Browde, supervisor of the lunch rooms at the Clanton Grammer School.

A need for more school lunch rooms where at least one hot dish could be served each school child daily was pointed out by the visiting nutrition expert. In several counties, she stated, the problem was being solved by the parents furnishing home canned vegetables which are heated and served at school. NYA and WPA workers and relief commodities have been pressed into service in the serving of school lunches in other counties, she declared. The hope was expressed by Mrs. Bick that Chilton County would work toward the improvement of school luches, a satisfactory beginning having been made by local school and health officials.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

(By Rip)

Oh man, how powerful are you?
Can you create one red leaf of Autumn or one violet of Spring?

YOU MAY OBSERVE THE PROOF, BROTHER BONNIE

Well, gentle readers, we have been laying off for the past three weeks to take our honorable contemporary, The Chilton County News, and more explicitly its editor, Mr. Bonnie Hand, for a little buggy ride. Of course, let us explain in the outset, that we intend nothing personal in this harrangue. The Union-Banner enjoys the finest friendship with The News, as well as personally with Mr. Hand, its editor, and Messrs. Tucker, the owners and publishers. However, when it comes to politics, The News sees fit to step on our toes once in a while, and we can't be satisfied without returning the favor.

We said we were going to take Bonnie for a buggy ride. So, in order to do this, we will have to make believe that we are living back in the horse and buggy days—those awful and out-moded times so lamentably referred to by our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, some months ago—although that was back during Republican administrations when cotton sold anywhere from 12c to 22c a pound and a dollar was worth 100 cents. But we must admit those horse and buggy days were something awful as compared with all this New Deal inflation and deflation.

So, now, if some of you fellows who voted a split on November 8th will hold old "Filly" till Bonnie gets in and then hold Bonnie till I get in, we will be off for that F. D. R. horse and buggy ride. Over the hill she goes; where she will stop nobody knows.

In his column of November 24th Bonnie had the following to say regarding The Union-Banner's editorial on the front page the previous week: "That should be in some oddity section like Ripley's Believe It or Not—but we understand that proof has to be furnished with statements made in this department, and proof that Republicans and posperity go hand in hand—well maybe they meant hand in hand like it did back in 1930 and 1931."

Now, when Bonnie and the other Democrats refer to 1931, they mean "Hoover." And in this particular instance, Bonnie made the strong insinuation that the Banner had said something it could not prove.

Well, in this regard, we wish to say we have heard the name of Herbert Hoover besmirched by peanut politicians until we have gotten sick and tired of it. This expression by the Democrats of the "Hoover Depression" has become almost as hackneyed and as meaningless as the Negro question which the Democrats took so much delight in throwing in the faces of us Republicans for so many years. You know where the Negro vote of the North is now, don't you; and you probably know too that just last week when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt came to Birmingham for that Communistic-Democratic conference for the benefit of the poor, ignorant people of the South, the first group she called on was the Negro organizations out in the little Harlem district of Birmingham. Now, Bonnie, if you require proof of this statement, I refer you to the Birmingham Post published the afternoon following the visit of the First Lady to Birmingham.

But, I say, this business of having "Hoover" thrown in my face has become about as humiliating and as meaningless as having the Negro question thrown at me.

Now, let's go into this Hoover depression business a little. Did you know, Bonnie, that during the four years that Herbert Hoover was president, cotton averaged selling at a little over seven cents a pound? And mind you, during all of Hoover's administration a dollar was worth one hundred cents,—that means you could take a dollar and buy a dollar's worth of goods with it. But what about the price of cotton today, as compared with the price of everything else? As answer to this question and as "proof" of the statement, Bonnie, I refer you to a statement made by the Southern Farmer, of Montgomery, back about two months ago, when this paper stated in substance: "Considering the cost of production, cotton is the cheapest this year, 1938, that it has been in the past 124 years." Mind you, Bonnie, this 124 years must include 1930 and 1931.

We said in our Believe It or Not editorial that Republicans and prosperity go hand in hand. We stick to our statement, and with Bonnie's kind indulgence, we will try and qualify our statement for his Ripley department. Government statistics tell us that during the entire time that Calvin Coolidge was president, cotton sold for an average of 20½ cents a pound. I believe this was during the "horse and buggy" days, and Coolidge was a Republican—and we are still taking that buggy ride, Bonnie.

These same government statistics tell us that during the time Mr. Warren G. Harding was president, cotton sold at 19 cents a pound. As stated above, the average price during Hoover's administration was a little over seven cents a pound. When you consider the 59c dollar which the present administration has given us, the price of 8½c which we are getting now for cotton dwindles to a fraction above five cents a pound. That explains why our farmers are in worse condition than they have been in the past three or four generations.

And, mind you, Bonnie, this actual price of five cents a pound for cotton under your "stream-lined" Democratic administration comes to us after the administration has primed the pump with a deficit of nearly forty billion dollars, a great portion of which has been used to "relieve" the farm situation. And if you require the proof, Bonnie, I believe I can get a few hundred farmers of Chilton county to testify that the farmers have been "relieved" all right; and unless these brain-trusters at Washington let us alone, we will all soon be "relieved" of our homes and everything else that we have got.

And then, before we conclude this believe it or not and proof question, I would like to ask Bonnie and The News if it is not a fact that during the only three Democratic adminstrations we have had since the Civil War the country suffered some kind of a calamity or catastrophe? The answer to this question is conclusive; therefore, I might have added to my believe it or not editorial not only that Republicans and prosperity go hand in hand, but also that Democrats and calamity go hand in hand. One is as true as the other, and there is abundance of concrete evidence to prove both statements.

Now, Brother Bonnie, before this little ride comes to an end, if you will hold the lines, we will swap places for a few minutes and "sposen" things for a little while. Just for argument's sake, let us assume that Hoover's administration was a flop and that he brought on the world-wide depression, while the two terms of Franklin D. Roosevelt have brought prosperity back and placed the country on a firm, economic foundation; both of which are preposterous. But with these two admissions being made, what are the records of the two parties since the War Between the States? Of the fifteen presidents, twelve were Republicans; eleven of these gave us prosperity and one gave us a panic. That makes the Republicans represent 11|12 prosperity and 1|12 panic. Now, what about the Democrats? There have been since the War—Cleveland, Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt. Cleveland gave us our first real panic; Wilson plunged the country into an unsuccessful European war; that leaves only Franklin D. Roosevelt as a successful Democratic president, giving as ratios for the Democratic administrations, 1|3 prosperity and 2|3 calamity. So, assuming that your fanciful arguments about the last two adminisrations are true, how do the cards stack up as regards the records of the two great parties? Page, Ripley, Brother Bonnie.

Again, Bonnie, and The Chilton County News, we repeat what we said in the outset: "Republicans and prosperity go hand in hand," and we defy you or anybody else to prove anything to the contrary. If you want another horse and buggy ride, and additional facts substantiating our statement, nothing will give us more pleasure than furnishing both of them.

James H. Fay, his opponent, brought suit in the campaign to restrain Congressman O'Conner from using the word Democrat on any of his literature. Mr. O'Conner might come back by enjoining most of the New Deal leaders from use of the same word. They haven't as much right to it as he possesses.

Personally, we stopped shedding tears about Comrade Mooney when we were informed he had been offered release from the penitentiary on a parole but refused to leave until he had a pardon.—Ed Chapman in the Topeka Journal.

THE FARMERS REVOLT

To those who remember the political history of 1916-1920, the remarkable rise of Republican strength in the Middle West is of great significance. The defeat of such men as Governor Murphy of Michigan, Governor La Follette of Wisconsin and Governor Benson of Minnsesota representing the radical fringe of three different parties, offers the hope that the voters in this great seed-bed of political revolt are weary of highfalutin political nonsense and of economic fairy tales. The revolt in the Middle West, from Ohio on the East to Iowa and Kansas on the West, spells not only the end of third-party talk in the next campaign, but the end of third term dreams. Discussion of a third term can now be restored to the academic plane, where it belongs. Discussion of a strong third party can be confined to the lonely retreats of the La Follettes and the Bensons. — New York Sun.

THE G. O. P. BOUNCES BACK

The resurgence of Republican strength in the election should cause President Roosevelt and his entourage to take stock, without giving them the sort of set-back which might prove fatal to their genuine achievements of the past five and a half years. The Times-Dispatch is frankly of the opinion that this is a gain. With the New Deal's accomplishments during Mr. Roosevelt's first term, this newspaper was and is in almost complete sympathy. On the other hand, some of its enactments and attempted enactments since early in 1937 have impressed us as of decidedly dubious validity. Consequently, anything which will tend to rein in the "Tommy the Corks" and the advocates of unrestrained spending, it to the good. — Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A FREE DEMOCRAT

Leaving to the future the bane or the blessing it may bring, there is reason to rejoice today over two facts. One is that the Democratic majority will be less unwieldy than it was in the Seventy-fifth Congress. The other is that American elections again have shown that democracy is virile, is free, is capable of thinking for itself. If it seems strange that a Democratic newspaper thus should seem to be rejoicing in Republican gains, we have only to say that this is because the paper is democratic. What is party gain or party loss, in the long sweep of years, compared with the maintenance of free institutions in America through a free expression of the will of voters?—Richmond News Leader.

America paid $7,000,000 for Alaska and now is preparing to take a census of the territory costing $50,000,000. Time marches on. — Newton Kansan.

Take no stock in this Russian talk that England and France made peace with Hitler because they were afraid of losing the war. They remembered 1918 and were afraid they might win.—The New Yorker.

A resident of Versailles tells us it looks like his children will have to go to school barefooted. The car needs some repairs, and he can't pay for that and buy shoes, too.—Versailles, Mo., Leader.

AS A MAN THINKETH? SO IS HE

(By S. L. Gibson)

Just suppose the thought of all
Who walk the streets could be Written on their foreheads,
Where each could others see;
What varied panoramas
Would greet each searching eye,
And how some folks would hurry
When they passed some others by;
Those whose train of thought is clean
Would walk in perfect ease,
While those who nurture soiled minds
Would know no times of peace;
'Tis best, and Lord we thank Thee,
That man may stand amid
Ten thousands of his fellows
And keep his thinking hid;
Help us, O Lord, to realize,
With one quick, sweeping look,
Thou dost behold our secrets
As from an open book;
Lord, purge our minds, our hearts, our souls,
Of all save love and purity,
That we may live our daily lives
As though mankind our thoughts could see.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"The world is in a bad fix but look how far we have come. One time man was living in caves and was just a savage." That is what an educational expert said to the writer some time ago. "Look how far man has fallen," I replied. There is no proof that man originally lived in caves. As a matter of fact, the archeologists are uncovering cities and civilizatons which have been buried under the rubbish of centuries for millieniums which show that man in the distant past was highly civilized. "Moses was learned in all the learning of the Egyptians." Moses probably had a scholarship that surpasses the scholarship of any man of our modern world. "The more I dig into the buried civilizations of the past, the more respect I have for the ancient mind and the less respect I have for the modern mind," a great archeological scholar said some time ago. Job is the oldest book in the Bible. Job and his friends seem to have known much about astronomy and had done some research work in other fields of knowledge. "God hung the earth on nothing and the north on the empty space." That is what Job said. Astronomers for years laughed at him and said, "Job should have attended to his sores and let astronomy alone. He did not know anything about astronomy." One day an astronomer turned his telescope toward the north and found a vacuum. Then, the astronomers said, "Job said there was an empty space in the north. How did he know?" For years modernistic Bible critics said that there were historical errors in the Old Testament. Archeologists have proved these critics to be wrong. "I am a surveyor. I have not located every historical point in the Old Testament, but, as far as I have gone, I have found every point located just where the Bible said it was. I have gone far enough to know that the ones I have not had time to locate will be found if I live long enough to finish the surveying. If I locate a point on this side of a stream just where the Bible said I would find it, as a surveyor I know I will find another point just as soon as I get across the stream and get to the right place." That was said by a great Christian archeologist on the platform of the Bob Jones College a few years ago. "The Modernists who tell you the Bible has error in it are a group of ignoramuses," said Robert Dick Wilson, who was the greatest scholar of this generation. Dr. Wilson mastered every language that had any bearing on the Bible. "The Chronological names in the Old Testament, prove that the Bible is God's Word," Dr. Wilson said. Man is not evolving toward perfection. He is not climbing. He is a fallen creature and is so hopeless intellectually and morally that Jesus said to one of the leading moral, and scholarly men of his day, that he would have to be born again and receive a new nature before he could even see the Kingdom of God.

University News

The University of Alabama glee club is traveling this week under the direction of Tom Gainer.

Twenty-six members of the club left the University Moday morning to make a week's concert tour of the northern part of the state with appearances listed at Tuscumbia, Huntsville, Scottsboro, Ft. Payne and Talladega. The group will return to the campus Saturday morning.

A feature of the program will be the showing of motion pictures of the Alabama-Southern California football game released by the University's physical education department.

A five-man delegation from the University of Alabma spent the latter part of last week holding conference with editors and busiess managers of high school publications in central, southern and southwestern Alabama.

Work in crafts was stressed when supervisor of the W. P. A. recreational department met at the University of Alabama last week.

Several counties displayed exhibit in craft work at the University during the conference which opened Monday, November 28 and continued through Friday, December 2.

With the 1938 football season at the University of Alabama completed, complete statistics for the season showed the Tide clearly outplayed all it's opponents in the major departments.

The Tide rolled over a mile and a half on the gridiron in running and passing plays. The gross yardage gained by running and passing was 2,516 yards. Of this total, 2,014 came on running plays.

Henky Mosley and Pig Davis tied for individual ground gaining honors, both averaging 6 yards each time he carried the ball. Second best ground gainer of the Alabama backs was Charley Holm, plunging fullback who netted 5.1. yards each time he lugged the leather.

The entire production of Handel's oratoin, "The Messiah", which will be given by the University of Alabama music department, will be broadcast over station W A P I, in Birmingham, on December 18.

A chorus of about 150 voices and an orchestra of 30 pieces will be heard in the production. A complete set of recording of the performance will also be made.

Four women students from the University of Alabama will receive practical training in retail merchandising as they work in one of the largest department stores in Atlanta, Georiga during the Christmas season.

HOUSE WIVES HERE JOIN CRUSADE AGAINST TAXES

Mrs. Claude Billingsley, of Clanton, today was named chairman of a local unit of the National Consumers Tax Commission as women here moved to join the commission's "nation wide crusade against taxes that penalize the customer.

Her appointment was announced from the commission's national headquarters in Chicago, through Mrs. Kennith C. Frazier, national president.

The commission is described as a non-political organization conducting a drive by housewives of the nation against all taxes that add to the burden of the consumer. The drive is led in this state by Mrs. Willie Hughes Tarpley, of Birmingham, the commission's Alabama national committee member.

"This is a movement every housewife should support," Mrs. Frazier said, in welcoming the new chairman. "Hidden taxes, which increase the cost of everything we buy, account for 63 percent of all tax revenues raised by local, state and national governments, according to the commission's research department.

"These unseen levies fall most heavily on lower-income families. They cause higher prices on food, clothing, fuel, rent, and other family essentials, with the result that many families have to give up some of the necessities to make ends meet."

Hundreds of units in the states from coast to coast already are active in the fight, Mrs. Frazier said, and plans call for groups in evey city and town. A series of study programs, she added, will be used by members through which to iform families here of their tax burden.

"I'm a self-made man."
"You're lucky. I'm the revised work of a wife and three daughters."

Chilton Farmer Opposed To Government Cotton Control

Well, next Saturday, December 10, is the time for us to vote on the cotton quotas. As a farmer and tax payer, I am against the program under the system which it is being operated. There are people going over this county and State telling the farmers that they received 16 cents for their cotton this year. Did you get that for yours? I will give you figures and facts for what I got for mine:

I was allotted 6.2 acres to cotton, which made three bales weighing 541, 510 and 349 pounds. The first bale brought 9 cents, the second bale 8½ cents and the third bale 8.60; the total amount for these three bales is $122.05. I made above 4,000 pounds of lint cotton in 1937. The government gave me an allotment of 648 pounds at three cents a pound—this is subsidy pay for 1937; 648 times 3 cents gives a total of $19.44. This same 6.2 acres I am alloted 210 pounds per acre—210 times 6.2 amounts to 1,302 pounds, which they are to pay me 2.4 cents per pound 1938 rent. 1,302 times 2.4 cents total $31.24; $122.05 what this year's cotton brought; $19.44, the difference between nine to twelve cents; $31.24, this year's rent; $122.05, $19.44 and $31.24 all added up amounts to $172.74. This is what I got for my cotton this year, and rent for two years. $172.74 divided by 1,400 pounds would make 12c per pound for cotton—not 16c as they have told you. Now you figure yours and see just what you got for yours.

This New Deal is ruining the farmer, the merchant, the banker, and is a miserable failure. I will take the old deal—six cents for cotton, five cents for meat; six cents for cotton, fifty cents for flour; six cents for cotton and my freedom.

We farmers are paying in these Southern States 85,000 committmen, 76,000 of these are community committmen; the other 9,000 are county committmen—they get $4.00 per day. We are paying them to cut our own throats—take from one to give to another. Figures will not lie, but man will. I have been beat out of 40 pounds of lint per acre, and not a single man on the county committee will own up to it. I will take 5 cents for cotton and make two dollars to one under the present system.

We will all fare alike. There are a few special pets getting it all. I believe in equal rights to all and special favors to none.

The Forgotten Man,
R. J. JACKSON.

REFUGE NEWS

Services were held here Sunday and Sunday night. There were two sermons preached at our church last Sunday, Rev. McMinn preached at 10 oclock and Rev. M. D. Garrett at the 11 oclock hour. Both sermons were greatly enjoyed.

We are sorry to report that there are still a few on the sick list. However, they are improving some.

We had a service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Minor Sunday p. m., where the two oldest citizens of our community have been confined for several weeks. Rev. Dunckin of Sunshine community presented a wonderful message.

The two communities, Sunshine and Refuge have cooperated in a splendid way, and are going to repair the home where the two old people are confined.

There will be Sunday school next Sunday and prayer meeting Sunday night, December 16th. Prizes will be sermon. Everybody is welcome to come and be with us.

THE BIBLE EARNS A NEW TITLE

Universal Bible Sunday will be observed in the churches of the country on December 11. The theme for this year's celebration is "And Now—in a Thousand Tongues", for recently the Scriptures appeared in the one-thousandth language into which they have been translated. The American Bible Society is celebrating the event by the publishing of a commemorative volumn entitled, "The Book of a Thousand Tongues" in which are facsimiles of pages or paragraphs from almost all of the languages into which the Scriptures have been translated.

Whatever one's religion, this is a fact that should command the respect of all serious-minded people. The Bible is more than just another book. It is a world institution. Other books have had phenomenal sales for a few years—one recent volume running above a million copies in the first year and a half of publication. Some books have been translated into a score or more of languages—but it is interesting to note that the leaders in this field, Charles M. Sheldon's "In His Steps" and John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" are both based directly upon the Bible.

There are three counties in this state that have exactly the same area. Butler, Cullman and Tallapoosa each have 763 square miles. Dallas and Escambia each have 957 miles. Corbert and Crenshaw each have 618 miles. Elmore and Bibb each have 643 miles. Macon and Clay each have 614 miles, and Coosa and Russell each have 655 miles. Hale has an area of 646 miles, Franklin 647, St. Clair 648 and Blount 649.

New York State was the first to license motor vehicles, beginning in 1901, collecting $954 that year. In 1937 it took in $52,901,000.

USING THE CHURCH FOR SCHOOL

(EDITORAL)

The local Baptist church has kindly surrendered the use of the church building for the children of our city and surrounding communites, who have no place to continue their training.

The school children should, and the writer believes they will, show every respect and apprciation to the church and it's officials. It has been a custom, or, should I say a habit, for the little boys who cannot find time to study to whittle on something with their sharp little knives. We do sincerely hope the students will respect the church and find something else to do except damage the church property. If you just have to cut something just tell the principal and surely he will give you pemission to go home and cut up your mother's furnitue. This church is to be respected the same as your own home, and besides that it is the place of worship.

Some people cannot help but write on the walls when they are idle. Let the writer of this article kindly ask you to take every precaution, and think twice so that the church will not have any hard feelings toward the school children and the faculty.

The C. C. H. S. will continue their basketball, although there will be some inconvenciences. Mr. Cox, the basketball coach, stated that the team would have new uniforms as was planned.

The Chilton County Tigers play their first game of basketball Friday, December 14th; they meet the Ozark Hill Billies. All who like basketball want to be sure and see this one.

Anyone who has old books and would like to give them to the library of the school, they will be very highly appreciated.

There has been rumers of the high school having a lighted field to play football on the next season, and also new uniforms in which to play; we sincerely hope we have not been misinformed. All are looking forward to the nert football season.

The senior class is very proud to be able to say that a member of their class was winner of the popularity contest sponsored by the football boys. This member being no other than Miss "Lump" Pitts.

"Darling," she said, "will you love me when I grow old and ugly?"

"Dearest," he replied tenderly, "you may grow older, but you will never grow uglier."

LETTER OF APPRECIATION FROM BAPTIST ORPHANAGE AT TROY

The following letter was sent to Mr. J. Watts Moore and Rev. M. Lockhart from J. O. Colley, superintendent of the Orphan's Home:

My Dear Brother Moore and Brother Lockhart:

We are indeed grateful to you and to every one in the Unity and Chilton Associations who had a part in the donations received for the care of our boys and girls. The produce came in and was stored ready for use last Saturday. We wish for words to really express our appreciation. You know we are thankful for all that is done for us. We thank you for your every effort in gathering the produce.

Will you please at your next church services thank the people for us, and ask the people who assisted in each of the churches to do the same for us.

The people throughout the state are good to us. We are very busy this week storing produce that is being received every day.

Kindest regards and appreciation to you and your people.—J. O. Colley, Superintendent.

FIRST SHIP TIN PLATES FROM BIRMINGHAM

The first shipment of tin plate from the new $30,000,000 mills of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company, in the Birmingham District, to the Hawaiian Islands is on the way via rail to Mobile, the State docks and an Isthmian Line Steamer. It is composed of 6,000 tons of plate, a solid shipload, and much of it will return to the United States by the same route, in the form of containers for pineapple fruit and juice packed in or near Honolulu.

Alabama has learned to utilize its port terminal system and to profit by it. The State Docks is the name applied to a public institution that represents something vastly greater than merely a place where vessels may lie safely in all kinds of weather to receive and discharge cargo and passengers and then proceed again to sea through this is one of the principal functions of the system.

The State Docks and its management constitute a complete commercial unit with facilities for bringing business to the port as well as handling it when it comes. Its commission is the port authority, the co-ordinating and centalizing force about which the commerce and industries of the port revolves. The governor of the state is, ex-officio, its head and the commission works in co-operation with the banks and other financial institutions, steamship lines, railroads and other carriers, freight soliciting and routing agencies as well as rate making bodies, to gain and hold for the Alabama seaport its rightful place in a complicated and highly competitive world commerce.

COUNTY AGENT SPEAKS TO FARM WOMEN

On November 9, the county agent spoke to a group of Home Demonstration Club women who are leaders in their communities in the no-control cotton program which is being advocated. This talk was most effective and will help these ladies to cast their vote more intelligently on the referendum which will be held December 10th.

MARINE OFFICIAL WILL BE IN BIRMINGHAM

A United States Marine Corps recruiting sergeant from the district headquarters at Macon, Ga., will visit Birmingham on December 13 and 14, and will establish a temporary office in the Post Office building, where he will interview and examine young men from this locality for service in the Marines.

Applicants selected will be furnished transportation to Macon for final physical examination and those enlisted will be sent to the Marine Barracks, Parris Island, S. C., for initial training.

MORGAN SAYS TVA 'IS GIVING AWAY CURRENT

Ousted Director Scores Authority Policies In Hearing

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—Arthur E. Morgan, ousted by President Roosevelt from the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley Authority, told a Congressional committee Saturday that the TVA was "giving power away" and was about $9,500,000 in the red for its first five years of operation.

The tall, gray-haired executive, who once headed Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio, thumbed through voluminous documents for data to support his contention that the present TVA board had made erroneous cost allocations, had adopted a policy "dangerous" to flood control, and had demonstrated a "lack of responsibility."

Raising a long, bony hand to emphasize his points, the veteran engineer testified before the special committee investigating the government agency. He traced through a maze of complicated TVA accounts and then asserted:

"The TVA is serving as a holding and an operating company to the so-called 'yardstick' community to which it provides power. It sets up books and performs all the services of a private holding or operating company.

"They (the TVA board) are giving power away. I say that flatly—they are giving power away."

The witness asserted, in explanation, that TVA power sales were made at less than cost.

"Every time we sold a kilowatt of power," he asserted, "we gave it to them."

Tells of Towns

Morgan testified that various government agencies had advanced a total of $21,700,000 in loans and grants to various Tennessee Valley communities. The TVA had loaned $2,304,000 to communities at 3 1-2 per cent interest for the construction of electric distribution systems, he said.

LETTER FROM COLORED MAN

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow space in your valuable journal to publish the passing of one of the landmarks of the colored ministry of this section of the state in the person of Rev. Wm. Judge.

He was born in 1857, and entered the gospel ministry in 1893. He labored in the Vineyard of the Master for the winning of the souls of mankind from sin's destructive way, pointing them to a kingdom of grace and glory. He sought to know his membership and suffered no burden imposed upon us that we could not bear.

He came to church, money or no money. His slogan was, "Do not allow the lack of money to debar you from your church." He has been known to walk 20 miles to and from church in a day and preach the gospel. He did more building of churches than any four ministers in our religious circle.

He lived a consecrated life and demonstrated the power of God over satan. In the general judgment in the roll call, voices from Coosa, Chilton, Montgomery and Autauga counties will attribute their knowledge of Christ to Rev. Wm. Judge.

All Christians must look to Heaven for the filling of his place. Let us trust all the more in our Savior and rejoice in God's will fulfilled. Best wishes to the family.—C. H. Adams, Verbena, Ala., Route 2.

PEOPLE URGED TO OBSERVE "WHITE CHRISTMAS" NOW

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 1.— With scores of little ones, helpless and neglected, clamoring for admission, in addition to the 153 children already being cared for at the Alabama Methodist Orphanage located at Selma, Methodists of this state are again reminded of their obligations to these little ones, and again "White Christmas" has been set aside by church leaders for all to respond liberally to the call for aiding this institution.

The Board of Directors of the orphanage, with Kenneth E. Cooper of Birmingham as chairman, in a special call to friends of this orphanage and lovers of children, asks that a fund of $25,000 be rased to meet the needs of this institution for the coming year and to provide also for absolutely necessary repairs and other urgent needs.

"Since Christmas is falling on Sunday this year, we deem it desirable that all collections in churches, Sunday-schools and various church organizations, as well as from generous individuals, be taken on the previous Sunday wherever possible" said Chairman Cooper of the Board.

R. I. VARDEN WANTS HELP

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space for a few words about my condition. I have come to the place where I will have to have a little help or else will have to suffer. I am up against it for something to eat and a house to stay in. People, if you don't believe what a shape I am in just come and see me.

If any of my friends or folks feel like they could help me it will be highly appreciated. Before I got disable to work I could help myself and other people too. I used to have plenty, but I have been in bed four years; you know anyone can spend a whole lot in four years. I have always helped other people in need until now—I cannot even help myself. —R. I. Varden.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The other day, a brisk, dapper little old man stepped into a big Wall street investment banking office and asked for the top boss, with an air of assurance. He had an audience and came out full of business and stepping high.

W. C. Durant In Scrimmage Again at 77

A friend, who was doing business there that day, reports to me that the peppy visitor was William G. Durant, twice head of General Motors, once the master of $100,000,000, and that, at the age of 77, Mr. Durant was scouting new capital for another big tourney in motor finance. My friend couldn't learn whether he got it, but said he had heard there was a deal on which might put Mr. Durant on the main line again. He said the little Napoleon of early day auto finance looked as if he were about to merge all companies and skim the cream.

It was in 1910 that the bankers crowded Mr. Durant out of the presidency of General Motors. He was back in 1915 and out again in 1920, in the post-war crash, in which he jettisoned $90,000,000 of his own money, trying to stop the downslide of the stock. He took his losses casually and was busy for years in daring market forays, but never quite converted any of his passes.

An acquaintance of this writer, who knew Mr. Durant well, told me how he laughed off his second relinquishment of his motors kingdom.

"I built the greatest automobile building in the world, at Detroit," he said, according to my informant, "and when I did it, I fixed it so they won't soon forget me. Hidden somewhere in every column and every capital and big stack of that building there is a deeply chiseled D. There wasn't anything anonymous about that job, and I took good care to leave my mark on it."

So did the king in Kipling's poem, when he was pulled off his big palace building job, when "They said thy use is fulfilled." He "Carved on every timber and cut on every stone," and, the poem concludes, "After me cometh a builder; tell him I, too, have known."

For Science-Government Collaboration

FOR several years, Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and one of the nation's greatest scientists, has explored the no man's land between an expanding government and an expanding technology. He thinks they ought to get together but he is no advocate of bureaucracy or extreme federalization. He doesn't like the idea of the government getting on anybody's neck. He thinks the government, with its vast resources, might be an invaluable collaborator with science, and should be, in fact, but he advances this idea warily, as he finds creativeness and social progress in the old American free-for-all, without elaborate governmental trimmings.

He never claimed an ivory tower, and sees the problem in its simple social components of jobs, a rising standard of living, social progress and security. He notes the job-killing potentialities of the machine, in certain individual instances, and assesses industrial management with finding a corrective.

This qualified admission is in sharp contrast to the view of Dr. Robert Andrews Millikan, another distinguished scientist who has wrestled with the same problem. Doctor Millikan is for throwing the throttle wide open, with the certainty that machines ultimately will make more jobs than they destroy. Both, however, prescribe as a cure for our technological ills more of the hair of the dog that bit us. The difference in view is that Dr. Compton urges certain collective rationalizations and judicious self-imposed controls by industry and management.

For many years Dr. Compton has been blasting at the inner citadel of the atom to seize there the hidden golden key of umlimited power which has long been the "pie in the sky" of the great physicists. He batters down a rampart now and then, and, in the long view of the scientists, thinks that we may some day tap reservoirs of energy so vast that all our present ills will be easily soluble therein.

He has headed M. I. T. since 1930. Now rounding 50. He was head of the department of physics at Princeton before 1930, one of the most richly garlanded men of his profession in honors and records of achievement.

FARM NOTE

FARMERS ARE URGED TO APPROVE QUOTAS IN SATURDAY VOTE

Auburn, Ala. — R. J. Goode, commissioner of the State Department of Agriculture, and P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service, last week urged Alabama cotton growers to approve cotton marketing quotas on December 10 "for the farmers best interests."

"It is my opinion that cotton farmers should vote in favor of the program for 1939," Mr. Goode said in a letter in the December 1 issue of the "Farmers For Sale, Want, and Exchange Bulletin." "There is no doubt that farmers generally have been greatly benefited by the program for 1937 and 1938. Certainly they have received much more for their cotton crops than they would have received without a program."

"While the State Department has no connection with the administration of the program," Mr. Goode said, "We are interested in the welfare of the cotton farmers and sincerely believe it is to their best interest to preserve the program."

Mr. Davis, writing in ',This Month in Rural Alabama," weekly farm tabloid section carried by more than 75 weekly papers in the State, said he was "very sure that a rejection of production control by farmers would be a disastrous backward step for southern agriculture." He urged, however, that farmers vote their own sentiments.

"As I see it," he said, "it is a question of grower control with government assistance in parity and soil conservation payments or control by the stern law of economics brought about consumption. The government will not offer a lot of benefits to farmers under this kind of a control program.

PREPARE FOR 1939 FRUIT CROP NOW

Auburn, Ala. — Quite often next year's crop is dependent upon preparation made for that crop the previous year. This is certainly true with a fruit crop. Peach trees that have not been treated for borers, apple trees that are heavily infested with scale not sprayed, or grape vines not properly pruned are sure not to produce a satisfactory crop next year, advises W. A. Ruffin, Alabama Extension horticulturist.

Peach trees five years old or older that have been treated for borers can be treated now. The paradichlorobenzene applied now should be left around the trees all winter. There is little danger of damage to old trees from such treatment. By doing this job now the possibility of it being overlooked in the spring rush is avoided.

During the warm days of November and December is an excellent time to get the all important job of pruning over with. Grape and scuppernong vines must be pruned as soon after the leaves drop as possible. Pruning these plants in late wnter is sure to cause serious damage from bleeding. Do not prune or spray plants during freezing weather.

Oil sprays are much more effective in the control of scale insects than lime surphur. Care should be taken in applying dormant sprays to see that all parts of the tree are covered. A small patch of scale that is not reached will multiply rapidly and cause serious injury to the tree before next summer has past. Remove all mummied fruit from trees and the ground and burn or plow them under. All limbs and twigs removed in pruning should be burned.

A small area, one-fourth of an acre, is sufficient for the home orchard. See your county agent or write to the Alabama Extension Service, Auburn, for "The Home Orchard Bulletin" for details.

E. O. Cates, Butler County farmer, has found that kudzu on poor land will give him twice the amount of grazing for hogs as soybeans on good land with just as good results.

BEWARE OF MOLDY FEED, SAYS McADORY

Auburn, Ala. — Hundreds of horses, cattle, and hogs will be sacrificed this winter through the false economy of trying to use up unmarketable stocks of moldy grain and hay, Dr. I. S. McAdory, State Veterinarian, predicted here today.

"A farmer might as well give his stock a dose of poison as feed it grain containing certain of the more dangerous molds," says a warning issued by Dr. McAdory.

"Some corn molds cause a very serious disease in horses, which resembles 'Sleeping sickness.' Moldy sweet clover hay brings on a disease in cattle which prevent their blood from clotting, often causing them to bleed to death. Several serious swine diseases are also traceable to moldy corn. One type of pneumonia in poultry and calves is brought on by a fungus frequently found in moldy grain.

"There is always a temptation to use up moldy grain or hay through feeding it to home stock. But the loss of one horse or cow from mold disease would wipe out any possible advantage of such practice for several years to come.

"Some of the mold diseases work so rapidly that mmediate veterinary diagnosis and treatment is imperative if undue losses are to be prevented."

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

To increase the demand for and the sale of Alabama manufactured products to the people of Alabama, the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce will in the near future publish a Retail Buyers' Guide, including food products, household goods, clothing, novelties, and other items manmufactured in Alabama which are ordinarily purchased by housewives and individual consumers throught the retail stores.

This Guide will contain not only the name of the article but also the trade or brand and the name of the company manufacturing it so that the purchaser may easily recognize Alabama products.

Tuberculosis is the leading cause of death among people between the ages of 15 and 45. Christmas Seals are helping greatly to wipe out this disease that kills people in their most productive years.

PECAN PURCHASE PROGRAM STARTED

Auburn, Ala. — J. D. Samford, eccnomist and marketing specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, announced Saturday that two receiving stations for purchase of pecans under the pecan stabilization program had been set up at Montgomery and Eufaula.

Growers of pecans can dispose of their pecans at the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company's cold storage house in Montgomery and the old silk mill building in Eufaula under the pecan export and diversion program. Orchard run pecans will also be purchased, according to Mr. Samford.

Under the program the Pecan Stabilizing Association, a grower-controlled organization set up under the laws of Alabama, will purchase up to four million pounds of pecans from growers during the harvest season at prices approved by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Receiving stations are also expected to be set up at Dothan and Mobile in Alabama. Other stations near Alabama are Columbus, Albany, Cairo, and Dawson, Ga. For U. S. No. 1 extra large and up the Association will pay 12.30 cents per pound; for U. S. No. 2 extra large and up, 10.30 cents per pound. Large U. S. No. 1 grade will bring 10.80 per pound and No. 2 grade of the same size will bring 8.8. For medium No. 1 grade pecans the price will be 8.80 and for No. 2 grade medium size the Association will pay 7.80. Ungraded and orchard-run pecans will also be purchased, Samford advised.

He said the Pecan Stabilization Association was adequately financed by the Commodity Credit Corporation and all purchases will be made for cash. Pecans will be disposed of by export or be diverted to by-products. The object of the entire program is to provide all growers an opportunity to sell their pecans for at least the above named prices all during the season.

ALABAMA ROADS AND HIGHWAYS

Alabama has approximately 61,000 miles of public roads and highways.

Six thousand five hundred miles of these roads are classed as State or Federal Aid roads and are maintained by the State.

At the beginning of the fiscal year 1937-38 Alabama has a total of 1,499 miles of bituminous or asphalt roads which was more than double the number of miles of this class of paving at the beginning of the fiscal year 1933-35. Concrete paving increased during this period from 962 miles to 1,011 miles. By reason of paving, the number of miles of gravel and chart roads decreased from 2,944 to 2,414 and the sand-clay roads decreased in mileage from 785 to 698. Roads graded and drained decreased from 144 to 78 miles.

The maintenance of these roads for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937 cost $1,853,706.83 The maintenance was highest on the gravel and chert roads and lowest on the concrete. The average per mile on the gravel and chert roads was $272.10 while on the concrete it was $202.66. On bituminous roads the cost was $238.35 per mile and on sand-clay roads $255.58. The maintenance on the bituminous and the concrete roads was less than it was in 1934 but was more on the other types. Concrete cost $225.69 in 1934 and bituminous $317.76.

According to the latest data compiled Alabama now has 2,450 miles of bituminous or black top roads and 1,019 concrete. This gives the State a total of 3,469 miles of paved roads.

CLUB GIRL WINS HEALTH HONOR

Louise Johnson, Calera, Shelby county, judged as the most healthful 4-H club girl in Alabama, was selected as a blue ribbon winner at the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago last week, which placed her among the most healthful in the entire United States. The high scoring club members of the entire United States compete at the Congress and instead of picking one winner the judges select a group of four or five as the blue ribbon group, or the most healthful of all entrants. Louise thus receives one of the highest honors in club work, says Elizabeth S. DeLony, State 4-H girls' leader.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Ala. — Railroad accidents not involving motor vehicles caused six times as many deaths in Alabama last year as did those involving both trains and motor vehicles, the State Department of Health disclosed today on the basis of the results of a special study of accidents recently completed by its Bureau of Vital Statistics.

This study shows that 96 persons other than railway employees lost their lives during the year in railroad accidents not involving motor vehicles, as compared with only 16 deaths due to crashes between motor vehicles and trains at crossings. Members of the State Health Department staff pointed out that practically all those killed in railroad accidents not involving motor vehicles were trespassers on railroad property and persons attempting to "bum" rides on trains.

The largest monthly total for deaths due to railroad accidents not involving motor vehicles was that of 13 for October, with July, in which 12 such deaths were reported, a close second. The lowest monthly totals were those for June and September, with five such deaths each.

for Yields and Quality USE MORE POTASH
in your fertilizer

THROUGHOUT the South there is a definite swing to fertilizers well balanced with plenty of NV POTASH. Farmers are asking for more NV POTASH in their fertilizer because the small extra cost of the extra potash returns them greatly increased yields of better quality crops. Look at your new fertilizer price list. Note how little extra it will cost you to use a higher potash mixture. Figured in terms of an acre, the extra cost is so small it will surprise you.

for COTTON

More potash in your fertilizer helps to PREVENT RUST, control Wilt and produces vigorous, healthy plants with less shedding, larger bolls that are easier to pick and better yields of uniform, high-quality lint. To completely PREVENT RUST, many farmers also apply extra potash as a side-dressing, using either NV MURIATE, NV KAINIT, or a mixed-goods top-dresser containing plenty of NV POTASH.

for CORN

More potash in your fertilizer prevents burning of corn blades at the tip and along the margins, produces healthier stalks that withstand dry weather better, increases yields and gives you ears that fill to the tip with better quality grain. The bushel test weight is higher. Many farmers use extra potash in their top-dressers for corn.

for PEANUTS

More potash in your fertilizer is needed to maintain a proper soil plant-food balance and to replace potash removed. When fertilizing peanuts, the crops that follow should be considered. It is often said that peanuts are "hard on land." This is because a good crop of nuts and vines removes a very large amount of potash from the soil. Cotton following peanuts generally suffers from Rust, or potash starvation.

for POTATOES

More potash in your fertilizer produces smooth, chunky, uniform No. 1 potatoes of better color and more even maturity. Potash-fed potatoes are more compact, better developed, thicker, shorter and wider—they have a high starch and low protein content, making them white, mealy and palatable when cooked.

for OATS and WHEAT

More potash in your grain fertilizer, followed by a top-dresser containing extra potash, gives you increased yields and plump, bright grain that has extra weight per bushel. The hay crop that follows is an all-legume hay with very little, if any, crab grass. When you remove both a small grain crop and a hay crop from the same land, you rob the soil of its available potash unless you supply the grain crop with abundant potash. When this is done, the soil is in much better condition for the crops which follow.

for VEGETABLES

More potash in your fertilizer produces bigger yields of the No. 1 grades that bring top prices—vegetables that are uniform in size, shape, color, texture and flavor. Potash-fed crops stand up under shipping and reach the market fresh, bright and firm. Potash is the quality builder. Remember, the average truck crop removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined.

for WATERMELONS

More potash in your fertilizer encourages a better set and produces watermelons that are uniform in size, shape and color. Ample potash reduces white heart and increases the sugar content of watermelons. Potash-fed melons have a tough rind which is needed for shipping. Use more potash if you want quality melons that bring top prices.

YOUR FERTILIZER MAN will be glad to supply you with a mixture well balanced with extra potash, derived from genuine NV POTASH, that will increase the yields and improve the quality of your crops. Tell him you want this high-quality fertilizer that contains so much extra-profit-producing plant food at such low extra cost. Tell him you want more NV POTASH in your fertilizer. It Pays!

TVA WILL BE IN RED $3,000,000

Ex-Chairman Predicts Huge Annual Deficit When All Dams Are Built

Washington, Dec. 5.—Former Chairman Arthur E. Morgan of the Tennessee Valley Authority chaged today that TBA's power business will register a loss of $3,156,852 annually when its seven dams are in full opperation.

Margan, testifying before the joint congressional committe investigating the Authorities, asserted that residential customers in he TVA area have been greatly oversold on electrical appliciances in an attempt to boom the agency's power business.

He asserted that through a development surcharge, industrial and commercial users of TVA power subsiding domestic consumers and that an amortization charge of from 25 cents to $1 per month, does not show in TVA yard-stick rates.

Presenting his own study of the Mississippi yard stick communities, he reported 11 municipalities linked into TVA sustained a loss of $167,237 in the past fical year instead of the profit of $305,357 as reported by TVA.

Morgan, it was learned, has recommended decentralation of TVA management and reorganization of the present set-up into three seperate divisions.

In a memorandum, submitted private to joint congressional committee investigating TVA, he contended that the agency's activities do not need to be combined and that TVA is too varied and for-flung to be well administered by a single administrator or by a single general manager under a board

CITY GETTING WATER FROM BLACK SNAKE CREEK

Mayor C. Fenn Jones releases the news that, under advisement of representatives from the State Health Department, the City of Clanton is now pumping water from Black Snake Creek by means of a gasoline engine and pumping outfit. The water is run through our regular filtering system, and a few other chemicals added.

This arrangement is only temporary, but Mayor Jones assures us that the city will be able to get plenty of water to tide us over this shortage at the present time.

The pumping system was installed Wednesday of this week, in charge of the State Health Department.

HON. PETE JARMAN WRITES OF JUDGE L. H. REYNOLD'S LETTER

Judge L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Judge:

I have just read with much interest your article in the last issue of The Union-Banner in which you congratulate Judge Smith on the Lay Dam road with which attitude I heartily agree.

I also find myself in agreement with your expression of wonder whether the citizens of Chilton County, and particularly of Clanton, realize their favorable situation. In addition to the many advantages you so aptly refer to, I have long been impressed that Clanton is by far the best town in its population range in Alabama. I think there is no doubt of the correctness of this impression.

I have been particularly impressed with its growth during the past few years. As one passes through on the Birmingham highway now he gains the very definite sense of passing through a City rather than a small town, which impression is I think destined to be beneficial indeed to your excellent town.

With kind personal regards to you and the boys, I am,

Your Sincerely,
PETE JARMAN.

THE OLD SHIRT NEEDS MENDING

WILL SOCIALIZATION CONTINUE?

The announcement of the utility industry's new expansion program encouraged all business and was reflected throughout the entire economic structure.

There is good reason for this because it was the utility industry which took the lead in bringing the country out of the minor depression of the early 20's. And a great many authorities believe that, if it is given a fair deal by government, the utility industry can be a similarly important factor in leading us out of the major depression that began ten long years ago. When utility development expands, there's hardly an industry which isn't benefited. A tremendous amount of new employment is created throughout the nation. Better times come to thousands of communities, from village to metropolis. New taxable wealth is created. New markets for profitable investment are opened. And these are the things which make for economic normality.

The utility industry has announced that it will do its part. It is now up to public officials to meet that declaration with an equally definite declaration with an equitable federal power policy. We can't expect private citizens to invest hundreds of millions of dollars for electric expansion and equipment if government agencies are to make free grants and loans to municipalities, which destroy private utility investments. We can't expect the industry to make the tremendous contribution to recovery that is hoped, if the ruthless political drive for socialization of the industry is fostered and continued.

We have had enough of utility baiting. We have learned that it is prolonging hard times. The utilities will go ahead with unprecedented vigor—if they are given a fair opportunity, which is all they ask.

CHILTON COUNTY VOTES FOUR TO ONE FOR QUOTAS

State Goes Over 10 To 1 And Cotton Belt 6 To 1 Favoring Allotments

About 2,700 farmers of Chilton county last Saturday participated in the referendum to determine whether or not they desired to co-operate in the government's acreage allotment and quota arrangement, and the result was: 2,125 for allotment, and 537 against allotment. There were about one hundred challenged votes, which when straightened out will alter these totals some.

Alabama voted strong in favor of the program, the totals piling up about ten to one for it. The entire cotton belt went nearly as strong in favor of the program as did Alabama, the entire belt voting about six to one in favor of quotas and allotment.

The complete final count resulted as follows: For quotas, 2,220; against quotas, 559. The per cent favoring quotas in the county was 79.88.

POWER COMPANY PAYS 1938 TAXES

Alabama Power Company has mailed checks to 49 counties in payment of its advalorem taxes in those counties for the year 1938, amounting to $401-990.22. Checks will go forward to the remaining counties by December 15. This is in accordance with the practice of the company for a number of years of paying these taxes before the holidays in order that funds may be available in several counties for the payment of teachers, since a large part of such taxes go into school funds.

His friends are invited to visit him and share their trade with him.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF COUNTY

Heavy Penalties Will Be Added If Dates Are Overlooked

The Tax Assessor and Tax Collector of Chilton county wish to impress a few facts upon the taxpayers of the county as regards the deadline for assessing and paying taxes.

After December 31st, there will be a penalty attached to all taxes not paid and all assessments not made. After January 16th, all assessments not made, the homestead exemption will be revoked and a ten per cent penalty added for non-assessment.

Taxpayers should not overlook these dates, as failure to attend to these matters before the dead line will be costly.

STATE EXAMINER COMMENDS WORK OF EDUCATION OFFICE

Dr. W. L. Parrish, member of the county board of education, asks that his personal gratitude and satisfaction be expressed regarding his two years connection with the educational work of the county. And in that connection, Dr. Parrish hands us a letter from Mr. J. H. Johnson, assistant examiner of accounts for the State Board of Education, which we publish below and which is self-explanatory:

Dr. W. L. Parrish, Chairman,
County Board of Education,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Dr. Parrish:

I have just completed an audit of the books and records in the Superintendent's office. I desire to make the following statement which you may pass on to the other members of your Board.

During the period covered by this examination this office has been charged with the responsibility of receiving and spending about $735,000.00. It is indeed gratifying to know that not one penny of this money has been illegally spent.

I have found in this office one of the most complete and best kept set of records that I have found anywhere in the State. This is indeed a high compliment to Mrs. Jewel Smith, your courteous and efficient secretary and bookkeeper, and Mr. Little, your efficient and courteous County Superintendent of Education.

These remarks would not be complete without saying a word about Mr. Page, your custodian of school funds. I found him to be very courteous and cooperative. His records too, were found to be in excellent condition.—J. H. Johnson, Assistant Examiner of Accounts.

PARTRIDGE - HUMPHREY

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Partridge, of Verbena, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lois, to William Edward Humphrey, of Lanett, the wedding to take place, December 24.

SOMETHING ABOUT A RAT AND JIMMY BELL

There is either a fable or maybe a true story going the rounds in Clanton about Jimmy Bell, of Murray-Bell Hardware Company, in connection with the biting of a rat or being bitten by a rat. But just what it was all about, The Union-Banner was unable to ascertain. We are merely dropping the hint; further inquiry into the details may enlighten those of our readers who may be interested.

BAPTIST BOARD ADOPTS BIGGER YEARLY BUDGET

Elects Dr. J. A. Cook Of Andalusia, New Chairman

The executive board of the Alabama Baptist State Convention in session in Montgomery this week elected Dr. J. A. Cook, of Audalusia, chairman, increased its 1939 budget and appointed a committee to perfect arrangements for pensioning the church's retired pastors.

Approximately 100 members of the board convened at the Whitley Hotel and in addition to Dr. Cook, elected these officers for 1939:

Dr. P. W. James, of Tuscaloosa, vice-chairman.

Dr. F. A. Jones, of Marion, secretary.

The board agreed on a 1939 budget of $26,000—an increase of $2,000 over the 1938 budget. The increase, it was said, reflected the church's improved financial condition.

The appropriation will be largely applied to Baptist Sunday schools, Baptst Young People's Union, evangelism, missionary work. The $2,000 budgetary increase, it was announced would go towards expansion of missionary activity.

Alabama became the 12th State to set up such a retirement plan when the State convention approved the suggested action last November in Gadsden.

James Brown Killed By Junior M. Ingram

Quarrel Results In Murder At River, When 18-Year-Old Boy Shoots Close Friend

Last Sunday afternoon about 3:15 o'clock another bloody murder was committed to mar the pages of Chilton county's history. A quarrel precipitated between Junior Ingram, age 18, and James Brown, about 22, both of Providence community in Beat 16, while the two were on the Coosa bank of the River just above the mouth of Hatchett Creek. The result was that Ingram emptied the load from a shotgun into the chest and left arm of Brown. The latter, mortally wounded, was laid in a boat and brought across the river to Martin's camp; he was brought to Clanton by Leroy Martin, who happened to be at the camp when the wounded man was brought across the river. Brown died, however, on the way from the river to Clanton; so the body was carried to Martin's parlors on arrival here.

Besides the two participants in the racket, present at the time of the shooting were a young man and a young woman, William Willis and Audrey Bates. Officers in Clanton were notified of the tragedy, and they immediately went to the river. As the officers, accompanied by Dick Brown, started across the river, they met Junior Ingram coming across to the Chilton side. Ingram was placed under arrest, brought to Clanton and lodged in jail, charged with murder.

Junior Mathew Ingram is a son of the late Curt Ingram, and a first cousin of James Brown, whose life he took. Ingram had been living in the house with James Brown for some months; the latter is the son of W. M. (Dick) Brown, they both having lived at Iron Ore Hill in Beat 16 for the past several years.

Funeral services for James Brown were held at Providence Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, conducted by Rev. M. Lockhart, assisted by Rev. W. W. Robinson; Martin & Sons were in charge.

Surviving are the wife, Mrs. Mabelle Willis Brown; father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. (Dick) Brown; two sisters, Misses Annie and Plumer Brown, all of Clanton Route 1.

ARCHITECT EMPLOYED TO MAKE PLANS FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Prof. Luther E. Little and the County Board of Education are busy making the initial plans for building back Chilton County High School, which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. Mr. Little reports that an architect has been employed to draw plans for a new and adequate building to house the institution.

It is hoped that a building with sufficient space and number of class rooms can be made into a one-story structure, but the cost per room is some more in a one-story building than it is in a two-story.

Mr. Little also reports that the prospects for obtaining quite a bit of government aid for the undertaking is most promising.

Reports of the progress of the enterprise will be made through the papers from week to week.

GOVERNOR - ELECT DIXON MAPPING NEW PLANS

The editor of The Union-Banner has read with much interest of the activities and general studying of State problems by Governor-Elect Frank Dixon during the past several months. Looks as though Mr. Dixon will go into the governor's office better acquainted with what confronts him and with a better mutual understanding between himself and his law-making body than any new chief executive we have had in Alabama for some years.

All indications are that Mr. Dixon will make many drastic and welcome improvements in the State's spending machinery set in motion by the present State administration; and he has promised no increase in taxes. It is hoped that he may be able to do more than that. A reduction in taxes here and there would be mighty good news, and altogether possible we believe.

PROJECT ASSISTANTS PROVE VALUABLE

A work crew of CCC Company 3481, Clanton, Ala., has been engaged in constructing a huge concrete pool at the S. C. S. Nursery at Thorsby, Ala. This pool s to be used for storing water for irrigation purposes.

One of the members, Eurell Dobbs, project assistant, proved to be an outstanding man on this work. Dobbs, as a member of the engineering party, displayed a great deal of knowledge of construction work.

This man entered Company 3481 as a local experienced man in August of 1935. His knowledge of Chilton county was valuable in the collecting of pine cones. He was then assigned to the engineering party, and earned the title of the hardest worker in the Company. When L. E. Ms. were abolished he was appointed camp assistant. When that position was also abolished, he was appointed project assistant.

Before entering the CCC Dobbs was connected with some of the largest construction companies in the country.

Dobb's conduct has been exemplary, earning the plaudits of the using service, the army, and the public.

Conecuh County farmers held their first cooperative hog sale recently and disposed of 413 hogs for a total of $4,203.04, reports T. P. Whtten, county agent. Interest in future sale is running high, he says, adding that farmers are anxious to take this opportunity to increase their incomes.

Every breeder of purebred dairy cattle should join the Dairy Herd Improvement Association in his territory to get record of production on the cows. Bulls from good cows are selling at good prices in Alabama and there is an increasing demand for them, says F. W. Burns, dairy specialist of the Alabama Extension Service at Auburn. County agents will assist in getting the cows tested.

TEMPORARY PASTURES FOR EROSION CONTROL

The one-pasture system, like the one-crop system, can usually be improved from the standpoint of erosion control, according to Mr. James H. Wood, superntendent of the Soil Conservation Service area at Clanton, Ala.

Temporary pastures of crimson clover, rye, rye grass, oats and vetch will provide winter and early spring grazing. If adequate temporary pastures are developed the cattle and work stock can be removed from the regular pasture early in the fall protecting it until good growth has been made in the spring. The temporary pastures should not be grazed during wet periods.

This means that both areas will benefit from this practice. The winter legumes and grain will help to protect the land they occupy from erosion during the winter months and the regular pasture will maintain a more erosion-resistant sod if it is not grazed too late in the fall nor to early in the spring.

Another advantage is that with winter pasture available it will not be necessary to feed so much corn. More of the land ordinarily devoted to growing corn can then be planted to close-growing crops that will protect the land from washing.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Ala. — More than 55 per cent of all tuberculosis cases reported in 1937 to the Bureau of Preventable Diseases were among those between 20 and 44 years of age, the period known as "the prime of life," the State Department of Health announced today.

"Although the age group between 20 and 44 includes only about 35 per cent of the State's total population, 1,685 of the total of 3,021 cases of tuberculosis entered on the State Health Department records between January 1 and December 31 occurred among those n that age group," said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, in commenting upon this phase of the tuberculosis problem. "This emphasizes one of the greatest tragedies of the disease, which ranks in sixth place in Alabama as a cause of death. Whereas many other serious illnesses strike their victim after their normal years of greatest usefulness have passed or before they reach maturity, tuberculosis is particularly prevalent among those who should be making their greatest contributions to their families and their communities and when their economic and other responsibilities are usually greatest."

If you were told that every day 200 people in the United States could be saved from death, you would be eager to do something to help, wouldn't you? Your purchase of Christmas Seals is your contribution to the campaign which is being waged to put an end to this needless loss of life among the tuberculosis.

GOOD MILK COWS PAY DIVIDENDS

Auburn, Ala. — Folks milk cows to make a living or to supplement their present farm income. In some sections of Alabama the dairy cow has brought the hard workings, energetic farm family many convenences through the sale of her products, milg and butterfat.

It is very apparent, however, says F. W. Burns, extension dairyman, that some dairy farmers have been able to buy more things with the money coming from their cows than others.

cow producing 300 pounds of butterfat per ear will return an income over feed cost of about $30 with the present price of butterfat. Two such cows would return in a year enough money to buy a $60 radio.

The average cow in Alabama produces about 140 pounds of butterfat per year and possibly can pay out about $1 per year over and above her feed cost To buy the same radio, a farmer must milk 60 average cows.

Two producing cows offer little hope to the man who is anxious to better his living or working conditons. High producing cows still hold out promise of returns sufficient to satisfy some wants of the farm family.

We have shown that good cows offer but average returns. Poor cows have even greater effect. They may eat up profits made by good cows, according to Burns.

Poor cows make surpluses also. The two 300-pound butterfat cows put on the market 600 pounds of butterfat to get the $60 necessary to buy the radio. The 60 average cows would have put on the market 8,400 pounds of butterfat to buy the same radio.

Since Alabama farmers must compete with farmers who can produce corn, hay and pasture even more economically than we can, it is very important that we market our feed through high producing dairy cows if we expect to compete with them. To secure this type of cows we must breed to production bred sires instead of the common scrub sires so generally used at the present time.

AVERAGE ALABAMA FAMILY WILL SPEND $47.76 ON YULE SHOPPING

Alabama's families will spend an average of $47.76 apiece this year for Christmas as their share of the nation's forecast two-billion dollar total, the National Consumers Tax Commission estimated today.

Of this amount, they will pay, most of them unknowingly, $7.31 in hidden taxes, according to the report announced at National Consumers Tax Commission headquarters in Chicago by Mrs. Kenneth C. Frazier, president.

The study indicated, she said, that total national retail sales for 1938 will "equal or surpass" the 1937 volume of nearly 40 billion dollars, and the average Christmas expenditure of the nation's families will be $62.50, of which $9.57 will account for hidden taxes.

PICTORIAL REVIEW

GREEN PASTURE IS WORTH $20 TO HOGS

Aburn, Ala. — Farmers who raise hogs and finish them on corn, peanuts, or peanut meal will find they can make much cheaper meat by providing a green crop for the hogs to graze while they are being fattened, says J. C. Grimes, head of the animal industry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Even brood sows and other stock hogs will do much better if given green pasture. In an experiment at Auburn covering four winters hogs fed corn and tankage on an oat and vetch pasture gained faster and required 59 pounds less corn and tankage to make 100 pounds gain than other hogs similarly fed in a dry lot.

An acre of oats and vetch furnished grazing for ten shoats and there was considerable amount of green vegetation to turn under for soil improvement when the hogs were sold. The value of an acre of pasture in this case was $20.

Winter Peas As Grazing Crop

Experients at Auburn have shown that hogs do not get along well when grazing Austrian peas. After a month or more of this crop there is a tendency for the hogs to develop swollen joints, become lame, and get down in the back.

Farmers should bear this mind in late winter and spring hog grazing.

TIGERS WIN OVER MAPLESVILLE

The Chilton Tigers won their first basketball game last Friday on the local court. The Tigers got off to a real start and also finished in grand style defeating the Maplesville team by the score of 40 to 9. This being the first game of the season there isn't much way of telling who was the star in the game, each member of the team carried out their part in the form that will long be remembered at the Chilton county high school.

The boys are playing the Ozark Hill Billies, Wednesday night of this week and the results will be published in this column of the paper next week.

University News

University, Ala., Dec.—Small towns do more than their share in furnishing campus beauties for the University of Alabama.

Or at least that seems to be a reasonable assumption in view of the fact that there were 19 small-town Alabama girls in the annual beauty review held at the Capstone this week.

After its first road trip of the year which carried it on a week's concert tour of the northern part of the state, the University of Alabama Men's Glee Club has returned to the campus.

The University of Alabama debators have returned to the campus from the Dixie tournament in Rock Hill, S. C., with their bonnets stuffed full of feathers, having walked off with three more forensic titles to add to their list of speech triumphs.

The Alabama speakers won places in debate, oratory, and extempore speaking. They were entered in only four contests, the other being after-dinner speaking.

Five new members have been initiated into Ph Delta Kappa, national professional fraternity, at the University of Alabama.

If we heed the warning of Hudson Strode, professor of English at the University of Alabama and author of "The Pageant of Cuba," and "South by Thunderbird," we will junk our radios to save our minds.

When asked by students in his Shakespeare class what radio program he preferred, Strode replied that he could not answer that question because he never listened to radio programs. "I do not have a radio, and I do not know the programs," Shakespear professor said.

Wealthy students, at least in name, are enrolled at the University of Alabama.

Among the group is Lloyd Binford Money of Scottsboro, who is going in for financial study. He is a freshman in the School of Commerce and Business Administration.

Another student is named Edmond Cash, New York City.

Together the boys make "sum" combination.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY

On December 7th, it being my birthday—although I had forgotten about it, wife and myself had gone to visit some of our members who were sick. When we returned just before noon, four members of two of my churches—Bethsalem and Shiloh, where I have pastored for 11 or 12 years, were at our home awaiting our return.

On meeting us they asked me if I knew it was my birthday, I said yes, but I had forgotten it. I then remembered that I was 69 years old on that day.

When we went into the house they presented me with a box; I opened it and what do you think it was?—It was a dime shower which amounted to $45.00, all in dimes. I cannot tell the people how to express myself. I shall never have words to express the gratitude of my heart for that expression of their appreciation of my services through those years.

I pray God's richest blessings upon everyone that made this birthday present possible. Many thanks to every one of you.—W. P. Lowery.

U. S. ARMY RECRUITING OFFICE

The United States Army Recruiting Office, room 29, Federal Building, Birmingham, Ala., announces that recruiting for the Army, will probably resume after January 1st, 1939.

It is suggested that young men between the ages of 18 and 35 years of age, desiring enlistment apply at this office in order to be placed on list for the next call for recruits. Full information may be had by applying at this office.

Vacancies now exist in the United States Regular Army Reserve Corps, for men now in civil life, who have had at least one year service in the Regular Army, and who desire to remain with the colors.

More efficient use of more of the land now idle in the State will be a means of increasing the farm income, believes Howard Gray, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, and prominent farmer of Madison County.

CHRIST'S NEW COMMANDMENT

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:43-48; 22:34-40; John 13:34, 35; 15:12-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.—John 13:34.

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

The heart of all moral law is found in the Ten Commandments, but the very heart of the commandments is the "new commandment" of Christ, that we love God with our whole being and love our neighbors as ourselves. For if we have that perfect devotion to God we shall keep His commandments (John 15: 9, 10), and shall show our love to our neighbors by positive acts of interest and devotion, as well as by refraining from falsehood, violence and impurity.

The message of our lesson today is one which will strike home to the hearts of honest and earnest men and women. When we stand in the revealing light of God's Holy Word we cry out for forgiveness for the manner in which we have failed truly to represent our Lord in the world, and in prayer for grace to live as we should. Let no unbeliever who reads these words use them as a basis for criticism of his Christian neighbor; but let him consider his own need of the regenerating and enabling grace of God.

Our outline for today we borrow with thanks from Points for Emphasis, by Dr. Hight C. Moore. It so aptly presents the truth that it merits our study.

I. Standard of the New Commandment (Matt. 5:43-48).

"Love your enemies" (v. 44), that is the standard which Christ has established for His followers. While the love one has for the brethren is without doubt a more intimate relationship than the love one may have for an enemy, we must not seek to minimize the real love we should have even for those who curse and revile us. It is to move us so deeply that we not only treat them kindly, but also pray for them. Humanly speaking such a thing is impossible, but in Christ it is not only possible, it has actually been demonstrated in life. It is so easy for Christians to speak with derision that borders on hatred about "the devil's gang," to lose all love for the crowd that hangs around the tavern and the gambling house. Let us hate their sin, but may God help us to show that we really love them.

II. Scope of the New Commandment (Matt. 22:34-40).

It is as high as God, as deep as the lowest sinner, and as wide as the circle of all mankind.

A man must be right with God if he is truly and fully to love his fellow men. To be right with Him does not mean a half-hearted one-day-a-week interest in religious matters, and that only up to the point where they do not interfere with our own interests and desires. To love God means to give Him the devotion of our entire being.

Loving one's neighbors does not just mean the man next door. Even that is none too easy at times; and some of us realize that we have failed even there. But the man in Sweden, China, Germany, anywhere on this earth, is our neighbor and needs our love. There are no "foreigners" in God's thinking about love; no poor or rich, no ignorant, no members of "another social order"—they are all our neighbors.

III. Spirit of the New Commandment (John 13:34, 35).

"As I have loved you"—that is the spirit that is to move us to love our neighbor. God is love, and it was always His will that men should love one another. But the new element in this commandment of Christ is that He, the final and perfect revelation of God's love, had come to give His life in loving service and sacrificial atonement. Paul caught the spirit of this commandment when he said, "The love of Christ constraineth us" (II Cor. 5: 14). There is the real motive, the true spirit of Christian life and service.

IV. Sacrifice in the New Commandment (John 15:12-14).

Love draws no limiting line beyond which it will not go. Love says: "I count not my life dear if in giving it I may bring deliverance to my friends."

Some folk talk piously of their love for God, but are not willing to go even across the street to speak to a soul about Him. If we love Him we would willingly go to the ends of the earth for Him, or contentedly serve Him in what seems to be a forgotten corner. We shall not question His guidance nor blush to own His name, even though the testimony may mean our death. This we shall do for Christ's sake, and for the sake of a suffering humanity.

The writer thinks of John and Betty Stam whom he was privileged to teach in the classrooms of the Moody Bible Institute, and who not long afterward poured out their gallant young lives in martyrdom for Christ in China. "Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends."

P. M. MARTIN WRITES FROM UNION GROVE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow Union Grove a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to this place:

The health here is not so good just now. We have several in our community who are on the sick list. However, we hope them a speedy recovery.

I would like to see our people of this community and others as well take more interest in their Sunday school, instead of going out to make a trade or plan something for the coming week's work. There is someone watching you and you should be very careful in what you do on the Lord's Day; so lead someone to Sunday school and church next Sunday.

Our regular preaching days are on the fourth Sunday of every month, and you are especially invited. Bro. Conie Lowery will preach for us on the first Sunday in January. Everybody come. —P. M. Martin, Union Grove.

Hogs bleed thoroughly when stuck without being shot or knocked in the head. By using a hoist the hog can be hung up by fastening a rope to the hind legs before sticking. However, hogs have to be caught before this can be done, which will require that they be placed in a small pen before slaughter work starts. Dr. R. S. Sugg, livestock specialist at Auburn, will gladly furnish detailed suggestions on making hog killing an easier job.

Tie that string on your finger so you won't forget to buy and use the penny Christmas Seals that fight tuberlosis.

Do you "fly all to pieces" when the children are noisy, or when the vegetables burn, or when the jelly won't "jell?" Some mothers are just naturally cranky. Some mothers are cross and impatient because they are nervous.

If you are a natural crank, DR. MILES NERVINE won't do much for you. If you are irritable because your nerves are overtaxed, DR. MILES NERVINE will do a lot for you.

Do you suffer from Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Nervous Irritability, Nervous Headache, or Nervous Indigestion? Do you worry over trifles, start at sudden noises? Overtaxed nerves will cause all these troubles, and DR. MILES NERVINE will help you to relax those overtaxed nerves.

Why don't you give it a trial on our guarantee of satisfaction or your money back? Your druggist can tell you about DR. MILES NERVINE. He has been selling it ever since he started clerking in a drug store. Dr. Miles Nervine comes in two forms—Liquid and Effervescent Tablets.

I. S. and Sol Levine have undoubtedly put forth much effort to obtain the Billy And Ruth Approved Toys. One look into this popular store and you will be convinced that in the history of Clanton, no store has ever had as fine a selection of toys, consisting of games, wheel goods and novelty goods of all types.

It is interesting to note the many new games that not only children, but grown-ups would enjoy. There must be several thousand articles, ranging from 1c to $5.

If you have been in the habit of ordering or going to the city for your toys, just save your time and worry, because you will certainly find just exactly what you want at Levine Brothers at prices just as low or even cheaper than going out of town to buy.

If the little girl wants a doll, you will find most any type. Their Shirley Temple dolls are most beautiful and you will find an assortment ranging from $2.45 to $5.00

Should the little boy be hard to please, you will find cowboy suits, wagons, trucks, horse shoe games, marble games, chemistry sets, Lotto, Bingo and hundreds of other things to interest him.

You will not only find wearing apparel and accessories, but such items for her as Vanity Sets, Bath Sets, Compacts, Cookie Jars, Book Ends, Silver Platters, Cake Plates, What-nots and just loads of other items—and oh, yes, their Spring line of ladies shoes have just arrived and what a nice and practical gift a pair of new, stylish shoes does make.

Now For Him

You will find such high grade shirts as Wilson and Cortley priced at $1.65. There are no finer styles and materials in shirts priced much higher. They also have a very complete line of $1.00 shirts.

Just let him wish for a nice pair of suspenders, a hat, shoes, beautiful pure silk sox, a neck tie (and you will find a diplay of 500 to select from), a nice brush set, shaving set and we could just go on writing of many other interesting gifts, but you still would not appreciate the real beauty of a value until you see for yourself.

Don't fail to see the best gift store, and your Christmas worries will be over.

TRAFFIC DEATHS TAKE DROP OVER LAST YEAR

By J. C. Furnas
(Author of "Stricken Death")

MOTOR-fatalities took a sudden drop this year—the first long-maintained, sharp reduction in number of people killed by automobiles since records have been kept. Other wobbles in the uptrending curve have been either flattenings-out in hard times or mere jiggles that proved little over long periods.

J. C. Furnas

Yet nobody seems to know just what is the specific cause of this extremely encouraging drop. I have talked to a good many experts about it. Some guess this and some guess that. But, the more they know about it, the less willing they are to attribute to any one cause.

Nevertheless we all do know that this drop in the killing-curve appeared after several years of the most intensive motoring-safety education that the country ever saw. Newspapers, motor-manufacturers, insurance-companies, magazines, public authorities, universities, public schools, automobile-clubs are only the outstanding units in the huge army of agencies that have been concentrating on the man and woman behind the wheel.

Every kind of propaganda-device, every approach from terror to cold-blooded engineering, has been exploited. Naturally there was a lot of waste motion in a campaign waged by such different and numerous organizations.

But, since nobody is sure just what lies behind this new hope of victory, the obvious next step is to carry on on all fronts. The enemy is giving ground—ordering a general advance is necessarily good tactics. The question of just what it was that started the enemy in retreat can be settled after the battle has been decisively won.

And many of the fronts already in action are intimately connected with American women. Driver-education — a greater percentage of women take out operator's licenses every year. School-child safety-education—no woman could ignore that. The new trend in expertly engineered highways — an inevitable appeal to the impulse toward community-improvement that has always characterized American women. And so forth and so on.

Heretofore women have pretty well left the promoting of motoring-safety to men. The scheme we are working on will, we hope and believe, do much toward enlisting American women's energy and intelligence in the victory-phase of the battle to force unconditional surrender of the death that rides the highways.

I believe it is the duty of every American to join Good Housekeeping Magazine in its coming crusade for safe driving. They have chosen "Think Safety" as their slogan and it is high time we started to do it.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

We read in the ninth verse of the sixth chapter of First Timothy these striking words: "But they that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition." The expression "will be rich" should be rendered "will to be rich." In other words, when a man desires riches he exposes himself to all types of temptations and to every kind of snare. He is liable to fall into a sea of lusts in which multiplied millions have been drowned. The Apostle Paul warns Timothy to flee these things. He exhorts him to follow after righteousness, goodness, faith, love, patience and meekness. He tells him to fight the good fight of faith. The Bible recognizes property rights. It encourages the right kind of thrift. There isn't anything in the New Testament that teaches that a man should not save something for a rainy day. The Word of God tells the sluggard to go to the ant and learn to be wise. The ant works. He works with his fellow ants. He provides a home. He lays up food for a rainy day. There is nothing wrong in the desire to have a home and a reasonable amount of money. But when a man makes up his mind to be rich he deliberately chooses to expose himself to temptation and sorrows. He sets his sails for a sea of trouble.

Since dictating the above paragraph I have read again from the sixth chapte of First Timothy. The Bible is such a practical book. Paul says that servants should honor their masters, not just because their masters deserve honor, but that the name of God and His doctrine be not blasphemed. An outstanding minister of the Gospel some years ago said to the writer, "My wife and I were worldly, wicked sinners in the old days. We employed a maid to work in our home. Wife and I were irritable and were often unkind to the maid. She was gentle and beautiful in her character. She said to my wife one day, 'Are you a Christian'? My wife became angry and said, 'Do not speak to me about that again.' The maid did not bring up the subject again, but she kept on living her beautiful Christian life. Sometimes she would put a little tract with a verse of scripture on my wife's dresser. We resisted the influence as long as we could and one day we asked this maid to tell us what to do to be saved." It isn't force that wins. It is goodness that wins. That is the trouble in our country today. Labor and capital clash. If labor and capital were Christian, there would be no clashes. If master and servant were really Christian, there would be no problem of salary and working hours. One of the colored women who has been working in our college kitchen is ill. Our business manager goes to see her and inquires if she needs food or money. This colored woman is a Christian. She lived her testimony in the Bob Jones College. If she passes on before I do, I shall expect to find her in a front seat up in heaven. I don't think she will take the front seat. She will probably take a seat in the rear when she first gets there, but Jeasus Who said, "He that would be great among you, let him be servant of all" will probably ask Mattie to come down and take a front seat.

ANYHOW !

Quite a little comment has been aroused in Washington political circles over the genuineness of a statement attributed to Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator, in which he is purported to have said on a certain occasion last summer, outlining the political strategy of the New Deal, that "We will spend, tax and tax, elect and elect."

This statement said to nave been made by Mr. Hopkins has appeared in the New York Times in a dispatch written by Arthur Krock after having appeared in other papers. Mr. Krock is a newspaperman whose reliability and veracity have never been called into question. He says that before making use of the alleged Hopkins quotation he had made every effort to verify it and he adds "the friend who quoted Mr. Hopkins as substantially repeated is of excellent repute and not at all hard of hearing. He is at liberty to reveal himself if he so desires."

After all whether Mr. Hopkins made the statement in a moment of political enthusiasm and then forgot about it, or whether Mr. Krock was misled by a good friend of Mr. Hopkins, the fact remains that Mr. Hopkins and his trusty lieutenants have proceeded along the lines set out in the statement. They have spent and spent, and they have taxed and taxed. During 1934 and 1936 they elected and elected. In 1938, unfortunately for them, but luckily for the country, something went wrong with the idea and they didn't elect and elect. The chances are that they won't elect and elect in 1940 unless they modify their spend and spend and tax and tax ideas. Whether or not Mr. Hopkins said it, actions speak louder than words, and the actions certainly bear out the verity of the statement.

The press of Colombia, protesting against the treatment of their minister in Berlin, says that the dignity of a small country is as important as that of a powerful country. The difficulty is in getting the powerful countries to see it that way.

NOTHING NEW

Commentators on the European situation frequently speak of the "moral breakdown" there due to the Munich conference. There can be no question as to the cold-bloodedness of the agreement at Munich. Germany was after the sudenten area on hte ground that the majority of the population there was of German blood. France and England, fearing a major war, agreed to the craving up of Czechoslovakia, in order to avoid the possible bombardment of their cities. Political control of the remnant of the little country passed from the allies to Germany. The sole excuse for the failure of France and Russia to come to the rescue of the Czechs was that their passiveness was in the interest of world peace.

So much for the "moral breakdown" at Munich. But this is only part of the story. Many commentators on European affairs handle the incident as though this breaking down were something new. Yet they have been indulging in moral breakdowns in Europe for centuries. We have to go back no further than the Versailles treaty to see that many inequities were put over in the name of peace and humanity. The war to end wars and to make the world safe for democracy ended in a peace which carried the germs of new hatreds and future wars.

But for centuries the story has been the same. Look back in history at the treaties of peace drawn up on the dark and bloody continent. You will find that in practically each instance the victors took it out on the vanquished. Reason and justice were lost sight of in the quest for greater power and more wealth.

Therefore when we speak of the moral breakdown at Munich it is not just to speak of it as a new thing and to infer that the people of the world have suddenly become callous or immoral. The conference of Munich has had plenty of precedents in the way of inequities during the past several centuries. European diplomats have not suddenly grown worse. They are following precedent.

WHEN ALL HAVE PENSIONS

The clamor for pensions by the Townsendites, the Sham and Eggs crowd, by numerous groups, such as teachers, divers kinds of office-holders, judges and for social security by everybody, if it shall be successful, will in time bring pensions to all men and women from government. It will not be necessary to deprive the rich of their riches, there will be no rich, and the once-rich also will be pensioned. With a universal pension system the veteran soldiers will get no more than other folk, and all of us will eat at the same table, that is, at the public swill tough. The only people who will be expected to work will be the farmers, they will be protected by no wage-hour law, and that will be necessary lest the congested millions in the big towns starve.—Charleston News and Courier.

If radio is effective as an advertising medium, why can't Joe Penner sell his duck?—Thomaston, Ga., Times.

Montreal pastor goes on a silence strike. Wouldn't it be fine if we could have something like that in the United States among the radio comedians?

A JOB THAT MUST BE DONE

Little difficulty should be experienced by Congressman Martin of Massachusetts in securing support for his plan to have the political activities of the WPA subjected to a thorough-going investigation. That there is need for some sort of action is freely admitted by men of both parties. Harry L. Hopkins himself has expressed his concern over reports of irregularities. The Senate Campaign Investigating Committee, though made up largely of Democrats, has unearthed evidence so damaging and so conclusive that it cannot be ignored.

With the election over, any inquiry may seem to be a case of locking the stable door after the horse is stolen. But in this instance, the nation must not let bygones be bygones. The freedom of the ballot is at stake and this is an issue of surpassing importance to every American. So long as any group of people is not at liberty to vote as it pleases and so long as some men think it is their right to put political pressure on other men, just so long are democratic processes menaced.

That there was wrong-doing in both the primaries and elections of 1938 is all too clear. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that in some states, notably Pennsylvania and Kentucky, the matter reached the proportions of actual scandal. When WPA workers are bludgeoned into changing their registration from Republican to Democratic or are required to make campaign contributions as the price of holding their jobs a situation is created which the whole country must face. To permit it to continue is to risk the possibility of utterly corrupt politics and a bought electorate.

Whether a congressional inquiry will unearth the whole dirty truth is, of course, a question. Many witnesses, with real stories to tell, will be afraid to give testimony. Then again, some of the investigators are bound to be blind partisans and will do all they can to keep the New Deal from being stained. But Congress seems to be the only competent body to undertake the study and we can but hope, first, that it will be willing to do the job and, second, that the job will be done with a fine regard for the public interest.—Boston Transcript.

Secretary Hull said on leaving for Peru that "the representatives of twenty-one nations can meet to discuss their problems in a spirit of trust, understanding and tolerance." Let us hope that they don't take our "good neighbor" Mexico as an example of international rectitude.

Senator Norris says that Roosevelt will have to run again in 1940 if the present Congress blocks his program. Is this a threat?

The trouble with organizing a third party is that in the election it is very apt to finish third.

Folks who perform their jobs just well enough to "get by" seldom travel any further than just "by" the zero mark.

Here seems to be one reason why our durable goods industries have not joined the march toward recovery. And getting more government competition in business will only make matters worse.

The state of Maine has won back some of its prestige as an election forecaster.

BACK TO SANITY AND COMMON SENSE

Jack Houston, recently re-elected to Congress from the Wichita, Kansas, district by the small majority of but 467, in a Topeka State Journal interview says: "I believe I know just what the voters were driving at and I intend to give heed to their mandate. They are against the New Deal. They are against borrowing and spending and they are against court packing and the agricultural adjustment act and the wage-hour bill, the federal labor board and all the other things that have aroused groups of interests. No one thing did it. As I interpret the vote, they were registering a protest against the New Deal generally.

If the truth was known there are a great many re-elected Democrats by reduced majorities, formerly New Dealers and rubber stamp men, who secretly entertain the same views as Houston and when the time comes will gve heed to the people's mandate. Fed up on New Deal nonsense and pretense, such Democrats will now begin to study their party's platform instead of falling for fireside chats and chasing rainbows. They will see the solemn pledge to "reduce the cost of government 25 per cent" and vote against the profligate waste and expenditures of the people's tax moneys. The New Deal is on the skids and they know it. In 1940 they will be running as rapidly away from it as they ran for it in 1936.—Enid, Okla., News.

RELIEF ARITHMETIC

The report that thousands will be dropped from the WPA rolls so that funds now available will last to March 1 is tempered by administration assurances that the "truly needy" are not to be affected by any retrenchment that is undertaken.

That is quite as it should be, and yet we had always supposed that WPA benefits, in theory at least, had been exclusively reserved, for the truly needy, and that no other persons were qualified to receive them. How, then, can the rolls be arbitrarily reduced without cutting off some deserving workers? Are there thousands of relief cases which do not represent real and urgent need, and which can be lopped off the WPA lists whenever a money shortage looms? Is there a substantial group of clients who could subsist on their own resources, but who are kept on the relief rolls as a matter of personal convenience so long as there are funds to accommodate them?

Assuming that the WPA extends its largesse only to the truly needy—that it is based 100 per cent on genuine need—it would be interesting to know how the proposed weeding out can be managed and still protect the interests of every deserving man and woman. It is distressing to think that there are workers on the WPA rolls who do not fall in this category, and therefore can be dropped after election to conserve funds. But it is also difficult to understand how thousands can be dropped from the relief rolls, without affecting a single truly needy client, if there is not a lot of deadwood in the federal set-up.—Minneapolis Tribune.

THE SABBATH DAY

(By S. Lanier Gibson)

Lord, we are thankful for the day
Appointed in Thine own wise way
When man from toil may cease
And gather with his friends and kin,
Away from strife and noise and sin,
To spend the day in peace.

We thank Thee for each service bell,
Each note of which tells "all is well"
And God is King and Friend;
We thank Thee for each gathered throng
Who worship God with prayer and song,
On whom God's plans depend.

Of all the days which Thou hast given
To aid man on his way to Heaven,
The Sabbath is the best.
Help us to keep it holy, Lord,
And by real faith in Thy great word
May we win eternal rest.

Warden Surprised

One night not long ago Game Warden Davis Henson, of Hawthorne, in Washington County, returned to his home after a hard day in the field. Imagine his surprise and consternation when he beheld a dead doe deer in his yard. At first he thought some game law violator was taunting him, but later he learned that a motorist had struck and killed the doe, and brought it to the game warden. Not finding Henson at home, he left the animal in the yard.

HIDE AND SEEK

Baseball is called our national pastime but the game of hide and seek is more deserving of the title. Everyone plays—only they don't enjoy it in its modern version.

Today's "game" goes like this. Most of our taxes—now 63 per cent of them—are hiding in the price of every purchase. All of us, as consumers, do the seeking—wondering meanwhile why our dollars buy so little.

The National Consumers Tax Commission shows how desperate the "game" has become. In a survey at its Chicago headquarters, this organization, crusading against hidden taxes, revealed the average family living on $500 to $2,500 a year pays, blindly, in indirect levies an amount equal to the Federal tax on a $7,500 income.

It found that the family's hidden taxes—totaling $160.50 or 12 per cent of all expenditures— rank in size only behind food and housing costs. The food bill is $428.76, housing takes $294.65.

The figures of the commission—which has nearly 2,000 local women's groups already active in its crusade—show that the public is "it" and will stay "it" until aroused consumers not only seek but tag unfair and unnecessary taxes.

FOREST AND CROP SPECIALISTS NAMED

Auburn, Ala. — Two new specialists to work with county agents, farmers and other agricultural workers have been added to the Alabama Extension Service staff, according to an announcement by P. O. Davis, director.

Rufus N. Page, Jr., of North Carolina, has been appointed extension forester, succeeding Lyle Brown who was named extension horticulturists last month; and J. C. Frink, also of the North Carolina State College, has been appointed assistant agronomist to do soils and crops work, especially tobacco growing and curing.

In announcing the appointment of Page, a graduate of the North Carolina State College, and who has had extension experience in extension forestry work in North Carolina, Mr. Davis called attention to the value of trees as an agricultural product in the State.

"We have in Alabama about as many acres in timber as we have in other crops," the Director said. "With adequate production and proper cutting of trees the longtime income from them should be doubled. This means that Alabama forests should support twice as many people as they are now supporting."

Mr. Frink was an instructor at N. C. State before coming to Alabama. The work of the agronomy department has grown rapidly in importance and s important not only from the standpoint of soils and crops but also livestock and poultry. It is obvious, according to Mr. Davis, that to increase the returns from livestock and poultry "we must increase the soil's production of pastures and feed crops for animals."

Both appointments were effective December 1.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

VERBENA HOME DEM. CLUB

The Verbena Home Demonstration Club met for their Christmas meeting Thursday, December 1st, at the home of Mrs. M. H. Adams. The meeting was opened by the club members singing, Silent Night. After the roll call and the reading of the minutes of the last meeting Mrs. Adams and Miss Burkhalter told several interesting things about the last leadership meeting they attended.

Miss Barber showed us several nice brooms that can be made at home. Mrs. Adams and Miss Burkhalter gave a very interesting demonstration of making a hearth broom. The Club members, with the help of the leaders made them a small hat brush out of pine straw.

After the brushes were finished everyone took part in the stunt game. Jingle Belles gave us more Christmas spirit; then useful gifts from a lovely Christmas tree added to the occasion.

Decorate your home with a pretty Christmas Tree and your bed room with a nice Cedar Chest. — Mahan Cabinet Shop, Clanton.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. — In the pre-war years, about the only sure-enough newspaper man who covered Europe was Henri S. De Blowitz, the Bohemian who became a Frenchman and scooped the world with the full text of the treaty at the conference of Berlin, at the end of the Franco-Prussian war. Although he did this for the London Times, English journalists — distinctly that, rather than newspaper men — seemed to think it wasn't quite cricket and they went on wearing spats, carrying canes, and dodging leg-work. I remember citing to an English friend the De Blowitz book, published posthumously in 1903, in which he told how he got that beat on the treaty—an exciting newspaper yarn if there ever was one.

U. S. Scribes Set Pace for British Boys

"Bit of a rotter, don't you think?" said the Englishman.

After the war, the English correspondents started shaking a leg, but, with all this Chauvinism loose in the world, we may boast that it was the American lads who set the pace. One press association and a few of our newspapers sent over to the big war some news beagles who began retrieving stories right under the nose of the morning coat scribes. They've been getting better all the time, and one of the bell-ringers is Frank Smothers of the Chicago Daily News, the tenth correspondent to be bounced out of Italy for faithful reporting in the last year.

Mr. Smothers was a fast-stepping and fast-thinking reporter in Chicago for nine years before he went to the Orient, as correspondent for the Chicago Daily News and the Boston Transcript. He was close in when the Japanese made their first grab for China and pegged home some of the best stories from that beat. In Italy, he made a similar record.

A keen analyst, as well as news-getter, he is one of a number of American foreign correspondents who have told the story of world catastrophe faster and better than any others at any place or time. He grew up in Roseville, Ill., and finished at the University of Wisconsin, after two years at Northwestern. He is 37 years old.

GEORGE RUBLEE, 70 years old, is beset with a thousand plans for taking care of European political refugees, as he heads the American efforts in this humane undertaking. His fame rests upon his achievements as an international lawyer, of the firm of Covington, Burling & Rublee, of Washington. He was a strong supporter and ally of the late Robert La Follette.

George Rublee Vet of Delicate Negotiations

Whenever they have had oil trouble anywhere in the Western hemisphere, they have sent for Mr. Rublee. He has straightened out snarls over oil rights in Colombia, Mexico and other countries. He was a friend and associate of the late Dwight W. Morrow and helped him settle a number of oil and banking arguments in Mexico.

He is a native of Madison, Wis., and an alumnus of the Harvard law school. He began the practice of law at Chicago.

THERE was a news story the other day about a thwarted artist, who came through and had a glorious revenge on his thwarters. The Fine Arts Substitutes association, in behalf of teachers flunked by the New York board of examiners, gives an exhibition by which the public is to judge whether the board bopped them unjustly. Among the exhibitors is Max Weber, distinguished artist, represented in the Metropolitan museum, who was among those flunked by the board. With his picture goes a note to the board in which Mr. Weber tells what he thinks of it and cites his success as "proof of their incompetence."

Flunked Artist Evens Things With Boppers

Mr. Weber, a native of Russia, here at the age of 10, was a modernist, so far out of bounds that the academicians would turn in a riot call whenever anybody mentioned his name. He has been marked up more by the critics probably than any other man in America.

The turn in Mr. Weber's fortunes came in 1925, when a discerning New York Sun critic, among others, piped him up as a thoroughly competent artist. His pictures sell. He has a nice home at Great Neck, Long Island.

J. N. SCOTT WRITES REGARDING NEGRO DOCTOR

Ed tor Union-Banner:

I notice much in the papers, including the Birmingham Post, regarding the trial and conviction of H. C. Chappell, the negro doctor of near Jemison. Let me say in the beginning that I would not write or say anything critical regarding the decision and judgment of our Courts, because I recognize our Courts as the Bulwark of protection to those citizens who believe in and practice strict adhe ance to the law.

Bnt there may be some things about this negro doctor and his work that not and could not be available to the Ocurt authorities. I have lived near Chappell and have observed him some. I know that lots of his patients are people who have throughly tried all the doctors near them without satisfactory results, and many of them get relief and are actually cured by the taking herb medicine given them by this negro doctor. Who could blame a sick person for trying him as their last resort?

The Post said that he had become famous over the State. I may add that he has become famous over many States—almost all the States of the U. S. And if he is not doing any good, pray tell me how in the world does he continue to keep people fooled. He does not cure all that come to him but tells many that they cannot be cured. However, I know that he is doing much good for suffering hurranity, and I only would like for some arrangement to be made that he could continue to administer this good to humanity without conflicting with the laws of the land. Is it not possible for this to be done in some way. Sincerly,—J. N. Scott. Jemison, Alabama.

AMERICAN LEGION AND AUXILIARY CHILTON COUNTY POST NO. 6

We want to thank the editor for donating this column for the unit. We feel that it will let the public know Clanton has an American Legion and Auxiliary which is growing and well on the road to a very active and successful new year. If through this column we gain for this great nation-wide organization the whole hearted support of the ex-service men and their families, together, with the good will of the public, that is compensation enough for the unit for their untiring efforts in re-organizing and establishing a new unit in Chilton county.

We are out to "Complete the Firm Foundation." All of us are aware that a house is no stronger than its foundation. An organization likewise is no stronger than its membership, which forms the basis for the successful promotion of all programs.

The Chilton County Unit has made a contribution to the National Rehabilitation Fund. Several families are able to have a happy Christmas because of this. The national president has written a letter of thanks to our unit, congratulating our promptness, Etc.

THE ELECTIONS

The elections are over. Every patrotic American will accept the results without rancor. It is the cardinal principle of democracy that the people rule—even as it is the cardinal principle of dictatorship that the people be ruthlessly submerged to the whim of the dictator.

To the thinking citizen, who is less interested in partisan politics than in good government, the real significance of this election is the revival of the two-party system, the very foundation of the republic. It is well-know fact that even men high in the Democratic party have looked with disapproval on that party's excessively great Congressional majorities of recent years. And it will be remembered that following the World War, the Republicans had a similar topheavy majority, faced no influential opposition, and certain abuses were the result..

This election has to a large extent readjusted the balance of power in Congress to the status envisioned by the founding fathers. That makes for sound government. Whatever party you follow, whatever your political allegiance, if you believe in democracy, you will welcome the resurgence of an effective political opposition as a check on whatever party happens to control Congress at the moment.

PROGRESS IN SANITATION

Marked improvement in the sanitation of Clanton following the adoption in the city court ordiance in July, 1938 was reported by the county health department this week. A total of 50 new sanitary p t p ivies have been built in Clanton since the adoption of the ordianance according to Mr. Fred H. Buckelew, county sanitation officer. In addition, 49 old privies were estored to sanitary condition, the report showed. Of 50 new privies 12 were installed at newly erected homes. Eleven new connections to the City sewer were reported for the year 1938.

There remains, approximately 50 houses within the corop.ate lim,ts which are yet without adequate sanitation. The health depa.tment however, is receiving ocoperation from several large property owne s which should serve as a great boom to the prog am in Clanton. It 's our goal to erase the open back insanitary privy from the City of Clanton.

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS TO EVERYBODY

Before you receive another Union-Banner Christmas Day, 1938, will have come and gone, and please permit this paper, in just a few simple words, to extend to all who may chance to see this our sincere wishes for a very merry Christmas to you and all your folks. It is our hope and ardent though silent prayer that no one's happiness during this season may be marred by accident, sickness or other forms of sorrow. Rather, may all hearts be light, all consciences clear, and all lives filled with just that happiness which is made possible only through human contact with Him whose birth we celebrate.

TRIO OF BURGLARS CAUGHT IN STORE

Attempt To Loot Peoples Cash Store Broken Up By Officers

Three apparently amateur burglars were caught while in the act of burglarizing Peoples Cash Store about 7 o'clock Tuesday night. Arrested for the crime were James Arthur Mims, Mt. Nebo community, Red Chadwick and Roosevelt Chavers both of Clanton.

Mr. Delbert Brand noticed Chadwick at the rear of the Cash Store, and thought from his actions that some mischief was probably going on; so Mr. Brand notified the officers. The building was surrounded, and night policeman Arthur Willis and Patrolman Earl Henley entered the building, finding hidden under the counters Mims and Chavers. Chadwick had not entered the store, but was supposed to have been watching for the others while they did the work. The thieves had taken fourteen packages of cigarettes and about fifty pennies from the cash register. All three of the burglars were placed in jail.

Both James Arthur Mims and Roosevelt Chavers are about 30 years old and have families; Chadwick is about 20, unmarried and a brother-in-law of Chavers.

Entrance to the store was procured by bending the bottom ends of the window bars and pulling them out. The glass window was then raised so that one could enter. This burglary bears very strikingly similar earmarks to the other two or three amateur jobs that have been done or attempted in Clanton for the past month or so.

The many friends of Mr. O. L. Devaughn were very glad to see him able to be out on the streets last Saturday afternoon, following a spell of illness with pneumonia. Mr. Devaughn was mighty ill for several days.

LOCAL BOYS GET HONORABLE MENTION AS ALL-STAR BACKS

Harvey "Buckey" Armstrong and Earl "Snowy" Melton, local high school students and the outstanding players of this year's Chilton County high school football team, received an honorable mention in the All-Star selection of high school players over the State.

Both Melton and Armstrong showed some splendid work on the CCHS team this past season. Armstrong doing most of the pass work and Melton the receiving end as well as the fine exhibition he put over in lugging the leather.

This is Armstrong's fourth year and final year of football for the Chilton County High School team, although, Melton has just finished his second year of football, will be there fighting again next year for the team.

Both Melton and Armstrong has been classed as the outstanding basketball players on last year's and this year's team. Melton was selected as an All-Star player last year at the annual basketball tournament at Selma; George Chambers was also selected as an All-Star player last year.

All three of the boys can be seen on the high school basketball team along with other outstanding players like, Maurice "Shortie" Thornton, J. W. Johnson and other new players which have entered this year.

NOTICE

A joint executive board meeting of Unity and Chilton Associations of the Woman's Missionary Unions will be held at Clanton Baptist church Friday, December 30th, beginning at 10 o'clock. We hope every member will be present, which consists of all the associational officers and presidents of all W. M. S.—Mrs. Dickerson and Mrs. Lee Grant, Superintendents.

Three cases came up before Mayor C. Fenn Jones Monday of this week. One negro for driving while intoxicated was tried; his fine and cost amounted to $57.25. Two white men were tried for public drunkenness and their fine and cost each amouted to $8.50.

CITY OF CLANTON SELLS SIXTEEN THOUSAND IN BONDS

Papers Discounted Only 7 Cents On Each $100.00

The City of Clanton floated sixteen thousand dollars worth of water works improvement bonds Tuesday of this week, receiving $99.73 for each $100 worth of bonds sold. These are 4% interests bonds, and they were sold by the city to Steiner Brothers, investment brokers.

The fact that the city's securities sell at such a high price is evidence that we are in fine and solid condition financially. It is not every small city that is able to sell its bonds at a low discount of seven cents on each hundred dollars. The brokers have confidence in our city officials and in the future of Clanton, else these favorable sales would not have been possible. The careful and business-like manner in which Mayor C. Fenn Jones and his city council manage the city's affairs account for most of this healthy condition of the city's finances; and it has not always been in this good condition either.

Mrs. Reese Baker came home Monday from South Highlands Infirmary, where she had been for treatment for about one week. Mrs. Baker is getting along nicely at this writing. Both Mr. and Mrs. Baker wish to express their thanks for all that their friends have done for them during this illness.

Tentative Plans For New School Building

The architect's drawing for the new Chilton county high school building has been tentatively completed and submitted to the State Department of Education for their final study and O. K. The plans call for a one-story monolithic concrete building, with a very beautifully decorated front and double entrance. There will be about twelve class rooms on the ground floor and four rooms at the front above. The auditorium will seat about 950 people. There will be a music room across the auditorium from the class rooms, with a distance separating them which will permit no interference as to sound.

This will be one of the largest one-story school buildings known, and the arrangements will be figured out to as near perfection as possible; symmetry of design will make it a thing of beauty throughout.

Actual work on the building will not begin in some weeks yet, but present plans are that the building will be ready for occupancy for the beginning of the 1939-40 session of school.

96 PRISONERS GIVEN PAROLES

12 State Convicts Granted Permanent Pardons By Graves

Twelve full pardons and 96 permanent paroles were granted by Governor Graves Monday, as he hastened to clean up business before him preparatory to leaving office January 16.

The executive announced the pardons and paroles as he returned from his cottage on the Gulf of Mexico, where over the week end he studied the files of over 200 convicts.

Tuesday has been set by Graves as the deadline after which he will receive no further applications for pardons or paroles. He still has approximately 100 applications he hopes to act upon late Monday or Tuesday.

WHAT DID THE CONTROL VOTE MEAN?

There have been different interpretations of the crop control vote on December 10th in which cotton growers indorsed quotas and tobacco and rice growers turned thumbs down on the proposition. We do not believe cotton farmers indorse the plan any more than do the other two classes of farmers. The cotton farmers are simply at sea—knowing nothing of the direction in which they are sailing or what their destination will be or when. They are at the mercy of Henry Wallace and his gang of fake fixers, who all cotton farmers know have as little idea of the solution as they themselves.

The cotton vote does not mean that the cotton growers are satisfied and that they believe their worries are over, because we all know that they are restless under government control, idle acres and crop destruction. What the cotton farmers would like is to be given an opportunity to get back to a program of full and free production; but with the loss of our foreign markets, that looks like a lost ball in high weeds.

AGAIN THE NEWS VAINLY ATTEMPTS TO PROVE THE UNION-BANNER OUT A LIAR

For the past few weeks The Chilton County News has very politely and adroitly attempted to indict The Union-Banner of publishing misstatements, or at least of handling the truth carelessly or recklessly. First they attacked us on our statement that "Republicans and prosperity go hand in hand." Then in their issue of December 8th they take us to task regarding our statement made on November 24th relative to the election in Winston county. In a boxed front page editorial on the last named date, among other things, The Union-Banner said: "On November 8th three Democrats were elected to office in Winston county . . . . . In the same election the Republicans filled six offices . . . . . Of the sixteen popularly elected public officials to serve in Winston county during the next two years, therefore thirteen are Republicans and three are Democrats."

On December 8th also in a boxed front page editorial The Chilton County News stated: "The Union-Banner endeavored to give 'the truth of the Winston county election' . . . . . The Advertiser-Journal of Haleyville, Winston county, also does a little explaining: 'The Clanton Union-Banner calls attention to the Winston county election and says only three out of all county officers are Democrats. Local papers never claimed any more. Only four offices were contested and three were won (by the Democrats)."

The News insinuates that The Union-Banner made a misstatement when it said we "endeavor to give the truth." Well, the truth of the matter is both The Union-Banner and The Haleyville paper stated the truth in their articles quoted in The News. The Union-Banner has a letter from a leading citizen of Winston county stating: "The Democrats will have only three elected officers in Winston county after January 15th, 1939. The probate judge, circuit clerk, superintendent of education, tax assessor and collector, three commissioners and all five of the board of education will be Republican officials after January 15th. I inclose a ballot, which is self-explanatory."

It is true that there were only four offices contested in that county; but it also was true that the Republicans had out five other candidates who were unopposed by Democrats at all.

So, The Union-Banner again cites our honorable contemporary to the fact that we knew whereof we spoke, before we spoke, regarding the Winston county election, and that our "endeavor to give the truth" was most successful in the first place.

Therefore, Brother Bonnie, you will have to go and come again before you are able to prove The Banner out a liar, which it seems you are making such a valient but so far vain attempt to do.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!

FIRST WATER CONNECTED TO OUTSIDE CUSTOMER

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announces that this week the first water connection to a customer outside the city limits from the city's water system was made. Mr. Ben Sims is the outside customer and he lives at North Clanton on the Double Bridges road, just outside the new city limits.

This is a novice right now, but there will likely be others to follow in the path laid out by Mr. Sims and get city water.

Mr. Leroy Martin, director of sale of Christmas Seals for Chilton county, announces that all sales will close on Saturday afternoon, December 24th. Reports should be made to Mr. Martin or to either Mr. or Mrs. Marion S. Smith at the county department of education.

ALABAMA TEACHER EARNS $97 MONTH, AVERAGE REVEALS

Fifty per cent of Alabama's 67 counties pay their white school teachers an annual wage of less than $25 per month, according to figures contained in a satistical summary Thursday in The Alabama School Journal.

The average salary of white teachers in the state is $97 per month while school is in session and $64 per month on a yearly basis, the summary shows.

Average salary of Negro teachers is $51 per month while school is in session and $31 a month on a yearly basis, it was shown.

These figures were reached through a composite of city and county systems' salaries, the article stated.

White teachers in Chilton county receive an average of $89.00 a month while school is in session and an average of $56 a month on a yearly basis. The county pays its negro teachers an average of $53 a month while school is in session and an average of $32 a month for the 12 months.

EDITORS TO MEET JANUARY, 6 AND 7

Governor-Elect Frank Dixon Will Address Group During Semi-Annual Session

The date for the mid-winter meeting of the Alabama Press Association has been set for Friday and Saturday, January 6th and 7th, at the Whitley Hotel, Montgomery, according to a bulletin from the Association's headquarters at La-Fayette today.

Interest is heightened in the semi-annual meeting in January as a result of Governor-Elect Frank Dixon's acceptance of an invitation extended hm several days ago to appear on this year's program.

Matters of vital impotance to Alabama publishers will be considered by the Association at its January meeting, and officials are requesting that every Alabama publisher either attend or have an official representative at this meeting.

A meeting has been called of the Association's Executive Committee to plan the program for the meeting, which is to include a guest speaker, and plans for further promoting the interests of Alabama publishers.

SCARLET FEVER REPORTED HERE

Two cases of scarlet fever were reported to the county health department this week from Isabella school, according to a weekly bulletin issued from the health office. An investigation of both cases and one child suspected of having the disease has been made by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, who said that the necessary quarantine precautions of these cases and their contacts have been properly carried out. There is no cause for parents to be alarmed over these cases, declared Dr. Sturkie, but parents in the Isabella community are urged nevertheless to be on the lookout for the early symptoms of scarlet fever such as headache, vomiting and catarrhal symptoms and to call the family physician when such symptoms appear. Any children manifesting such symptoms should be kept home from school, the health officer stated.

Regulations of the State Board of Health are to the effect that cases of scarlet fever must be isolated for a period of three weeks and all close contacts excluded from school for a period of seven days dating from the last exposure.

CHILDREN GET TREAT AT MRS. ELMORE'S HOME

A most attractive sight depicting Christmas may be seen by the children, (and grown-ups will enjoy it), at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Elmore on west Second Avenue. Old Santa Claus making his way to the chimney top is most strikingly depicted. And there are lights galore to complete the scene and scenery.

A drive by the Elmore home at night will be worth your while, and you will enjoy the pretty Christmas effects.

KIWANIS CLUB TO MEET AT THOMASON HOTEL

A most interesting program has been arranged for the meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club tonight at the Thomason Hotel, for at that time the Club will have as their guests Jesse Frank Foshee, Clanton's own contribution to college football, and members of the 1938 Chilton County High School football squad.

The program will be in charge of Kiwanian Horton Walker, who at one time coached Jesse Frank when he was a member of the Chilton high team. It is hoped that one of the coaches of the University of Alabama team this year will attend the dinner and speak at that time.

Jesse Frank, only college Clanton student to be a member of a college football team, has played on the University of Alabama Varsity Squad for three years. His record on the gridiron has been outstanding and one that his friends here at home are proud of.

He has made two trips to the West Coast with the Crimson Tide, playing once in the Rose Bowl, and last season played in the game against Southern California at Los Angeles, where some say he did the most outstanding playing of his college football career. He has played guard position, and all along has been one of the team's most dependable men.

Jesse Frank will bring to a close his football career on January 2, when he will play with the Greys in the "Blue and Grey" game between the North and South in Crampton Bowl Montgomery, which will be one of the most outstanding football games of all times.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee of Clanton, and will arrive here to spend the holidays with his parents on Thursday.

WE'VE GOT WATER A PLENTY NOW

Major C. Fenn Jones announces that the City of Clanton now has plenty of water—the tank and reservoir being running over. This is the first time we have had plenty of water in four months, says Mr. Jones, and the garages and filling stations are now permitted to use the water in washing cars. Of course, water should not be wasted, since there could be another emercency; but we are in much better shape now than for the past several weeks so far as water supply is concerned.

When he was denied entrance, he pushed the latch off the door and entered, whereupon Bill Clack shot him through the abdomen with a pistol; the bullet entered Gore's back or left side and come out near the center of his stomach. Gore was brought to Central Alabama Hospital in Spigener's ambulance; he was carried to a Birmingham hospital early Monday where he underwent a serious operation. CHRISTMAS PAGEANTS FINE AT BOTH LOCAL CHURCHES

Both the Methodist and Baptist churches of Clanton last Sunday afternoon and evening presented Christmas pageants, sponsored by the Sunday schools. "The Spirit of Giving" was presented at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at which a large crowd attended, and which was very beautiful and most impressive.

The hour for the pageant at the Baptist church was 6:30, at which hour that Sunday school presented "A Festival of Light." One of the largest crowds ever assembled at the Baptist church was present for this presentation, and it was a very fine program most appropriately arranged and fittingly presented. The scenery was especially beautiful, and the lighting effects made possible through the efforts of Mr. Johnnie Hollis, of Mitchell Dam, were as splendid as anyone could ask for.

Both programs went off fine, and the children as well as the sponsors at both churches are to be commended for their fine work.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL P.-T. A.

The December meeting of the Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A. was a tremendous success. The attendance was the largest of any during the year, some seventy to eighty members and guests were present.

Mrs. H. K. Christiansen presided over a short, snappy business meeting. Mrs. Ira B. Smith reported that the committee on membership had collected $15.00 in dues. The house received this report with loud applause of commendation. Mrs. L. C. Ross announced that the education committee of the study club was sponsoring a project by which Christmas cheer could be carried to some of the poor in our midst. All desiring to help in this worthy cause were invited to give toys, both old and new, clothing and useful articles.

The program consisted of an interesting study on "How to be a Good Neighbor." Mrs. J. W. Fant, leader, introduced a guest, Mrs. S. J. Ezell. who conducted the devotional. A well chosen passage of scripture, Deuteronomy 24:10-13, enumerating the things one would do who desired to be a good neighbor, was read. Mrs. Ezell made a practical application of these ancient laws governing the conduct of a good neighbor to our modern society, emphasizing the fact that the basic principles of neighborliness are age-old and unchangeable.

Miss Dorothy Manning and Mrs. Smith presented a one act play entitled, "The Good Samaritan." Children of the third grade were the characters in the play:

Narrator, Mary Clyde Mims; the Levite, Kenneth Crosby; the Priest, Crutcher Ross; the Thieves, Edward Bowen and O. K. Welch; the Unfortunate Man, Henry Grady Heflin; the Good Samaritan, Joe Mullins, Jr.

Miss Manning read a peom by Edgar A. Guest entitled, "My Neighbor." Mrs Frank Scott read an article by Mrs. Roosevelt on "Housecleaning in the Christmas Spirit."

Mrs. Marion L. Tucker presented two one-act plays, the first entitled, "An Unneighborly P-T. A. Meeting"; the second entitled, "A Neighborly P.-T. A. Meeting." The following ladies took part in these plays: Mrs. Tucker, Mrs Fant, Mrs. Christiansen, Mrs. Clydie Cleckler, Mrs. Charles Wade, Mrs Horace Popwell, Mrs. Curry Thomas, and others.

Miss Manning's room had the most parents and guests present and won the half-holiday.

Mrs. Horace Popwell and Mrs. Vernon Bean tied in the game of "Guess Who." Mrs. Popwell drew the prize, a large fruit cake.

A delightful social hour was enjoyed over the tea cups, and an atmosphere of neighborliness prevailed.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 10,339 bales of cotton were ginned in Chilton county from the crop of 1938, prior to December 1, as compared with 19,850 bales for the crop of 1937.

Virgil "Fire" Trucks To Play Mitchell Dam Here

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, the 19-year-old Birmingham Ala., youth who last season broke the 54-year-old strike-out record by fanning 420 batters in a short four-months season, will make an appearance in Clanton, at the high school gymnasiam, December 29.

Trucks, the Beau Brummel baseball, is to bring his Dr. Pepper basketball team, one of the best touring quintets in the South, here to play Mitchell Dam in what will be one of the year's outstanding cage attractions.

While he is famous for his ability in baseball—for his 420 strikeouts, his two no-hit, no-run games, his 27 victories against six defeats and his twelve shutouts in the regular season with Andalusia in the Alabama-Florida League, Trucks is quite a cager himself.

Being the property of the Detroit Tigers, to whom he reports in March, Tiger scouts frowned upon Truck's idea of forming a basket ball team this fall, but the 19-year-old Cinderalla Kid likes basket ball so well he is a regular on his own team. The only way to get him out of a game is to put him out.

Following the first game his team played this year, somebody asked Trucks: "Why don't you take it easy and let somebody else play. You're liable to hurt your arm." To which Trucks replied, "I sit on the bench long enough between innings."

And he is that way. A tireless youth, weighing 190 pounds and standing six feet tall (he has grown half an inch since last baseball season). Trucks enjoys any kind of sports, particularly baseball and basket ball. He had rather play or see some kind of sport than to eat, as well as he likes the latter.

Fans can expect to see a real basket ball game when the Dr. Peppers take the floor. In addition to Trucks, they will see George Abbott, famous six-foot, four-inch full blooded Indian; Knox (Big) Little, former all-American at Ohio State; Bill Critcher, veteran independent star; Blacky King and Bill Fowler, two former all-state preps in Alabama; Rusty Butler, former Army ace and Carter McClendon, a crack shot. The starting team will average well above six feet, with the Indian barely standing above Fowler and Little.

REFUGE NEWS

Services were held here Sunday and Sunday night. It was our regular preaching day. We had a very large crowd at each service, and several visitors.

Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, was surprised when he found a quilt which was made by the ladies of the church, given to him for a Christmas present. The quilt was highly appreciated by him and his family.

There will be a Sunday school Christmas tree at this place next Sunday at 2 p.m., and also preaching service. Everybody come and enjoy our Christmas program.

Visitors are always welcome at Refuge church.

CENTER HILL

Sunday School attendance was rather good Sunday, considering a few of our members have moved a way. We will miss these but hope to have new ones to fill their places

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL

Friday night December 16 at seven o'clock the Senior class of Jemison, High School greeted the fathers and mothers and prominent citizen of surrounding communities at a FSMD banquet.

The guests were ushered into the school auditorium which was appropiately decorated. A sparkling Xmas tree stood near the stage. The tables had red candles surrounded with holly and the place cards were small imitations of Santa Claus. On one guest table stood a small Christmas tree and on the other a house decorated with snow.

The program opened with the opening ceremony of each club, with Maxine Glasscock, president of FHA as toast mistress, and Arnold White, as president of FFA giving the welcome address. The program consisted of a play given by the Senior I class, Christmas songs, readings and speeches. We were glad to hear Mr. J W. Fant of Clanton to speak to us.

The banquet was closed with the closing ceremony of the FFA boys.

We just heard an interesting Christmas story. A neighbor of ours just realized that she had not purchased her holiday greeting cards. Now this lady did the unusual. In the last minute rush, she purchased some plain penny postal cards and covered the correspondence side of the card with penny Christmas Seals. The result: A colorful, attractive card that carried greetings to her friends and helped to bring good health—free of tuberculosis—to thousands.

Christmas Seals help to protect your home from tuberculosis.

Mr. and Mrs. Julious Traywick and Mr. Oliver Headley, all of Clanton, returned Saturday from Brookneil, Va., to spent the Christmas holidays with their parents and relatives.

FOOTBALL GAMES YIELD QUARTER MILLION IN GASOLINE TAXES

According to a statement by Earl M. Hearne, Secretary, Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, released today, football games stimulate annually an increase fo approximately $265,000 in gasoline tax revenue to the state and federal governments. The accepted estimate of the annual attendance at football games is 16,000,000. At three persons per car, 5,300,000 automobiles are required to transport this crowd.

The Petroleum Industries Committee of Alabama figures that an average of one gallon of gasoline per car is used getting to and from games. A total of about $265,000 in gasoline taxes result from that travel. The average burden of state and federal taxes on gasoline is slightly more than 5c per gallon which, on the above basis, gives the tax collector a cut of nearly two cents a head on the 16,000,000 annual attendance at football games. New Year's Day games will wind up the football contribution for 1938.

CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

(By Mrs. T. J. Hayes)
Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church Alabama Conference.

"Rise up, ye women that are at ease, hear my voice, ye careless daughters, give ear unto my speech." This admonition of Isaiah is ours as we attempt to arouse the Christian citizens.

The best citizen in the nation is the Christian citizen if she be all that is implied in these two words. Jesus Christ in His words, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's," gave explicit instructions to his followers to show themselves good citizens of the country in which they live and at the same time maintain obedience to Almighty God.

The history of the church is to a large extent the record of the wholesome influence of Chistian ideals on the state. Where the church is silent on political and social questions the state is either chaotic or corrupt.

Modern democracy in its true sense is the result of the emphasis which Jesus Christ placed on the sacredness of the individual. The field of citienship offers one of the widest ranges of beneficent service that can be found. A government is made up of its citizens. If these citizens are righteous the government is just and sound; if the citizens ae godless the government will be corrupt.

New frontiers in government are beckoning for a chance to be opened up right here in Alabama in 1939. The state of Alabama is the only state having the cumulative Poll Tax requirement by which a voter must pay $1.50 per year since he or she became twenty-one years of age. This law is contrary to the privileges of a Democracy and disfranchises thousands of potential voters.

Before a recent election we made a vigorous effort to arouse our seven thousand membership to vote; after the election, from a thorough poll made, we found that but 30 per cent of the women voted. We found that the chief reason for the 70 per cent not voting was this undemocratic poll tax requirement.

Those interested in promoting active citizenship on the part of Christian women are not concerned that they participate as members of some particular party but are deeply concerned that they participate as citizens in the only means which a democracy has of expressing effectively its wish to those in power, that is by casting a ballot in the election.

May we realize that "ballots" are the best peace time weapons we have and may we develop a new psychology that believes thee is something we can do to take Alabama and place her beside the other forth states that have eliminated the Poll Tax.

ENROLLEES GO TO COLLEGE

Leader, Humon Hicks, members, William T. Adams and Harold Jones, recently added their names to the long lsit of enrollees that have left Company 3481, at Clanton, Ala., to attend college.

Hicks enrolled in the CCC April, 1936. He was very much interested in the educational program, and was very good in woodcraft. He obtained leave to complete his high school work in the fall of 1937, and returned to camp at Clanton in January, 1938. He was captain of the camp basket ball team, and was elected the best athlete in camp.

Adams and Jones came to Company 3481 in October, 1938. Both boys took an active part in the educational program, and along with Hicks, are going to attend school at the Jacksonville State Teachers College at Jacksonville, Ala.

They are getting this opportunity to acquire a higher education through the N.Y.A., and will work two and one-half days, and attend school two and one-half days. By doing this, they can complete a nine months course in twelve months.

These boys deserve a break, because they made a good record in the CC, and everyone in the Company ejoice at their good fortune.

THE FFA AND ITS PURPOSES

The Future Farme s of America is the national organization of farm boys studying vocational agriculture in the public schools throughtout the United States. Six years following the founding of the organization at Kansas City, 47 states, the Territory of Hawaii and Puerto Rico, had founded associations of FFA offiliated with the national organization. There were at that time approxmately 82,000 members in 3,500 local chapters.

A strong state association and a strong national organization of FFA, gives additional incentive for achievement by local chapters. Greater dignity occurs to local organizations if each member feels that his local chapter of the FFA is a part of the state and nation-wide organization of similar groups of vocational agricultural students which have been established in a great majority of the departments of vocational agriculture throughtout the United States.

MARRIAGE AND ADULTERY

I consider marriage an honorable and worthy institution, one that many people do not take seriously. Marriage is a divine institution — instituted in the beginning by God. Gen. 2:20 says, "And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to fowls of the air, and to every beast of the field, but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him."

Verses 21 and 22 tell us how God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam and while he slept took a rib from his side and made a woman and brought her to the man. Verse 24 of this same chapter says. "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one flesh." Read Mark 10:6-9.

Many people enter into it carelessly and think nothing of breaking the marriage vows. Preachers perform the ceremonies after the law grants divorce, and the world is saying "no harm done." But what does the Bible say? Matt. 5:32 says, "But I say unto you, That whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to committ adultery; And whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery." Also read Luke 16, 18; Romans 7, 3; I Cor. 7:10-11. Moses wrote a writing of devorcement because of the hardness of the people's hearts, but from the beginning it was not so. Matt. 19:8. But it is not right to grant divorces for every cause like our law does today. In Matt. 19:6 these words, "Wherefore they are no more twain but one flesh, what therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." God pity the man who will try to separate man and wife. I do not say not separate if you can't live together in peace, nor does the word, but do not marry another. I Cor. 7:10-11. There is only one scriptural excuse for marrying another and that is fornication. That is, if the former husband or wife still liveth. I Cor. 7:39, says, "The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord." The Bible is plainly against adultery. It speaks of adulterers in the class with whoremongers. Heb. 13:4." Marriage is honorable in all, and the bed undefiled; but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge." So don't compromise with the devil and the world, and encourage this ungodly sin. The ministers should refuse to perform ceremonies in such cases. Parents should teach their children the seriousness of marriage and what the Bible teaches. If some one should read this who is thinking of making the mistake of adultery, please think, read the Bible and pray before you do. Sins will not go unpunished. Read Gal. 5:19-21, which tells of some characters that shall not inherit the Kingdom of God, also, I Cor. 6:9.

I think this sin is pardonable, but we must repent of any sin before forgiveness comes. Can we say we have repented of a sin and continue to indulge in it? I can not believe Christians live happily in adultery. I don't think a Christian will practice any sin day after day, willfully. "Today if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts."

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this means of expressing my heartfelt thanks for the many kind expressions of sympathy and deeds of kindness and help shown in any way during my recent illness with pneumonia.

I do most sincerely appreciate the prayers of my Christian friends, for I know they were many; and I believe that it was through these prayers and the faithful efficient services of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Eiland, and the good nurse, Mrs. Louella (McDowell) Taylor, that the Lord saw fit to spare my life.

I wish to especially thank my Sunday school class at Maple Springs for their kind thoughtfulness of me, and the fine bunch of men who came and cut wood one day.

By these acts and deeds of kindness you have shown the wonderful spirit of Christ and it has cheered me on so much and made my sickness easier to bare.

I wish to say in conclusion that I appreciate every one who visited me or showed a favor in any way during my illness. I want each of you to know that I esteem your friendship very highly and trust that I may merit a continuation of the same in the future.

Wishing every one a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.—O. L. Devaughn.

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Committee of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce appointed to Study Health and Efficiency in Industry held a meeting in the offices of the State Chamber Wednesday, December 14. Members of the Committee expressed themselves as being pleased with the progress that is being made in the preparation of the Committee report and expressed a belief that this report when published will be of great value to Alabama and to the South in refuting erroneous ideas and misinformation that has been abroad relative to the effect of climate upon the health and efficiency of workers in the South.

A tremendous amount of work has already been done on this report and this work will be continued and pushed to a rapid conclusion in order that the report might be printed and given wide distribution. The Committee believes that it can establish upon fact unimpeachable evidence and information the fact that our climate here in Alabama is such as to promote the health of our people and a productivity and efficiency on the part of the industrial worker that will compare favorably with any other section.

Before you start off on that shopping trip today, don't forget to buy Christmas Seals on your list.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

GOD'S GREAT LOVE

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 2:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

Christmas Day on Sunday—what an appropriate combination! Today we commemorate the birth of our Lord, the coming of our Redeemer to dwell among men on the day of the week which is a perpetual remembrance of His resurrection from the dead—the Lord's Day. He came as the babe of Bethlehem's manger in order that He might in His death and resurrection from the grave prove His victory over sin and death. For those who know and love the true spirit of Christmas, this should be a great day of rejoicing in Christ.

We have an unusual opportunity to study the birth of Jesus from a text not commonly used for Christmas, namely, the coming of the Wise Men from the East to find and to worship Him. It is suggested that their experiences may be considered as showing the way to Jesus, who is the perfect revelation of God's great love. We should

I. Look for His Sign (vv. 1-3).

While most of their fellow men saw nothing but an unusually bright star (if they even noted that much, in their hurried devotion to the interests of everyday life), the men of the East showed that they were wise by recognizing that here was the promised sign of Numbers 24:17. Be sure to read that great prophecy. When they told Herod, he, fearing lest his own power and prominence should be challenged, became troubled in his heart.

The parallel to our day is striking. Everywhere in our lives, personal and national, are the unmistakable signs of the presence and power of Jesus. Most people heed them not in their mad pursuit of gold and pleasure. Others hate His name, and would destroy His influence on earth. Let us be among the wise men who come today to seek and worship Him.

II. Listen to God's Word (vv. 4-6).

The Wise Men knew that He was to come, but they needed further light. They knew where to find it—in God's own Word. How different would be the history that is in the making in our day if instead of turning to the philosophies of men, or trusting in the might of armaments, we would turn to God's Word and let it lead us all to Christ, the Saviour of the world, the Prince of Peace.

III. Seek the Saviour (vv. 7-9).

Different motives moved in the hearts of those who consulted the Scriptures on that far-off day in Jerusalem. Herod, while hypocritically professing to want to worship, really was looking into it so that he might kill Jesus. There are hypocrites who study God's Word in our day for the same purpose while ostensibly worshiping. The people of Jerusalem had the curious bystander's interest in an unusual event. They have their counterpart in our churches and communities on this Christmas Day of 1938. Then there were the chief priests and scribes, who had a purely professional interest in finding what the Scriptures taught concerning this promised One. There are plenty of that kind of religious leaders and workers today.

None of these actually sought the Saviour except the Wise Men. Thank God for the thousands of men, women, and children who will today seek the Christ who is the very reason for the observance of Christmas, but who has been all but lost in the nonsense and commercialism that have practically ruined Christmas as a sacred "holy day."

IV. Worship Him (vv. 10-12).

These faithful seekers found Him, and in Him they found joy (v. 10), worship (v. 11), opportunity for sacrifice of self and gifts (v. 11), and fellowship with God in the great work of redemption (v. 12). God spoke to them, gave them a personal and secret commission which thwarted the wicked plans of Herod.

Christmas may mean all of that to each one of us if we let the Lord Jesus come into our lives in all the beauty of His redeeming love and holiness. To you who read these lines just now, the writer makes this plea in the name of Christ—let Him have your life and transform it by His grace and for His glory. Only thus can you have a joyful and blessed Christmas.

The Parent Mind

The souls of the sons of God are greater than their business; and they are thrown out into life, not to do a certain work, but to be a certain thing; to have some sacred lineaments, to show some divine tint of the Parent Mind from which they came.—Martineau.

The Nation's Progress

National progress is the sum of individual industry, energy, and uprightness, as national decay is of individual idleness, selfishness and vice.

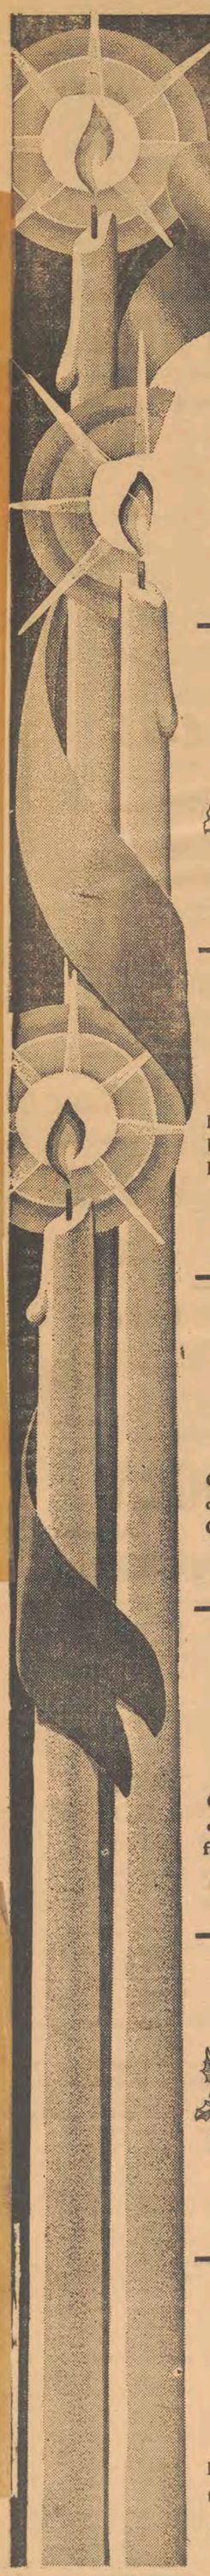
GAME & FISH NEWS

45 Deer Bagged

Forty-five white-tailed bucks were bagged during the annual deer hunt in the Black Warrior National Forest December 5-10 in what was described as the most successful hunt in the history of the forest. Sponsored by the U. S. Forest Service and the State Conservation Department, the hunt yielded nearly three times as many deer as were killed in 1937, and twice as many as were taken in 1936. From all sections of Alabama and several other states there were 545 registered nimrods who hunted in periods of two days each. District Ranger Thomas A. Wilson, said all deer killed were exceptionally healthy and free from parasites. Twenty deer fell the opening day, 12 the second day, and the remainder during the following four days. Scientists from the Alabama co-operative wildlife research project at Auburn were on hand to examine the deer.



Ten Hunting Fatalities

With the 1938-39 hunting season less than half gone, 10 persons, most of them youngsters, have met their deaths through hunting accidents and mistakes, according to records of the Conservation Department. Nine other persons have been wounded, some seriously, in similar accidents. Careless handling of guns was responsible for the deaths. Of the 10 victims, six of them were 16 years old or under. ions; two died from self-inflicted wounds, and one was killed in an automobile when a dog discharged a shotgun. The fatalities included nine white persons and one negro.

Seafood Yield

During the 1937-38 fiscal year, a total of 12,252½ barrels of fresh shrimp were taken from the waters of Alabama's coastal counties, according to Conservation Department records. A barrel of shrimp is approximately 200 pounds, so the total pounds was 2,450,300, with an approximate market value of $490,060. It is estimated that about 5,000 persons derive their living frmo Alabama's seafood industry. Shrimp and oysters are the chief products.

Claude Stokes, 14, member of the 4-H club of Pleasant Home, Covington County, one of the winners in the State 4-H club corn contest, made 89.4 bushels of corn on one acre of land this year. He used 100 pounds of 3-8-5 at planting time and 200 pounds of nitrate of soda as a side dressing on land that had Austrian winter peas as a cover crop.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

(By Rip)

Be a neighbor to your neighbor and he will try to be a neighbor to you.

TIRED OF ISMS?

Henry Ford says: "The American people are getting tired of isms and are getting back to work producing wealth."

If that is true, it is more important than Mr. Ford's prediction that there is a good business year ahead.

There has been a period of lunacy in which people have been led to believe that they can lift themselves by their own bootstraps and that the way to prosperity is to fight for more reward for doing less.

That mght work if only one person tried it, but when one tries it, all try. The result is less wealth to divide, so everybody gets less. The more wealth produced, the more there is to distribute. There is no magic in the formula.—San Francisco Chronicle.

DEFINITIONS FOR—ISMS

SOCIALISM: You have two cows. You give one to your neighbor.

COMMUNISM: You have two cows and give both to the government, and the government gives you the milk.

FASCISM: You keep the cows and give the milk to the government, and the government sells part of it back to you.

NATZIISM: The government shoots you and takes both cows.

NEW DEALISM: The government shoots one cow, milks the other and pours the milk down the sewer.—Selected.

SANTA'S CHRISTMAS CARD

I'm sending this card to tell you
That the New Deal has taken away
The things that I really needed—
My workshop, my reindeer, my sleigh.

Now I'm making my rounds on my donkey;
He's old and crippled and slow.
So you'll know if you don't see me Christmas
That I'm out on my ass in the snow.

TRUE LIBERALISM

Some of the pooh-bah publicity men of the New Deal, as Jay Franklin, have been attempting to make out that the result in November was a victory for liberalism represented by the regimentation of the New Deal which smacks of Moscow and Berlin's economic theories, but of the true American liberalism which would preserve individualism in a free democracy.

In mentioning liberalism we ought to remember that there are two kinds at least, in this modern era: the fundamentally American kind, which dates back to our Revolution and the modern Santa Claus kind in which a number of government satraps like to pose as great liberals because they are liberal with the taxpayers' money. Of the real American kind of liberal, Prof. Harvey L. Lutz, of Princeton University said recently:

"If we go back far enough we find that liberalism, as a political doctrine, meant comparatve freedom from governmental restriction and domination. Liberalism meant freedom for the indvidual."

That is exactly the truth. It defines the libealism of men like George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackon, Abraham Lincoln and many other of our enlightened statesmen. But it s not the liberalism of men like Hopkins, Cohen and Jackson who seem to think that the way to pomote liberalism is to put business in a straight jacket and regiment the individual so that he will have to abide by the dictum of Washington for his conduct and support. If this isn't what they have in mind then why do they demand greater control of labor, of prices, and ecnomic natural laws by governmental agencies, resulting in more bureaucracy and centralized authority at Washngton and less individualism and self-reliance?

It is the fact that true liberals have always felt that the best governed people were the least governed, that the chief province of government was to see to it that individual enterprise was given free play and the weaker individual given fair play. Liberalism has never until now been identified with regimentation, bureaucracy and greater control at the national capital. If that be true liberalism then Russia, Germany and Italy have much more of it than we.

A REAL PLATFORM

Senator Tydings of Maryland, re-elected after having survived an attempted purge, has made a declaration of policy which Americans generally will commend.

"What we need now," he said, "is good business, and only good business. We need it, not so the rich can make money, but so the poor man can have work. We need it so the Treasury can collect taxes from business retire the debt, and make government itself solvent; so the worker can buy the farmer's products; so the country can be prosperous."

It would be a misnomer, perhaps, to call this Mr. Tydings' platform, for a platform is something to get in by, and he was already in when he made this statement. Platform or not, it goes to the roots of the nation's greatest need—an economic revival; a resumption of business; a rebirth of the American quality of initiative and enterprise, and its freedom from the fears which too much experimentation and hostility to business have created.—New Bedford Standard Times.

A SIGNIFICANT POLL

We note, with more hope in the sanity of the American people than ever, that the latest Gallup poll shows 78 per cent of the population in favor of restoring complete control of the purse bags to Congress. This means that by far the greater majority of the taxpayers want Congress, not the President, to say how relief and recovery money shall be spent.

But this is not the sole significance of the poll. It is not surprising that Republicans should vote for recalling the President's exclusive and dominating powers to spend the money where and how he desires and, after the elections, we know that the Democrats, on the whole, are of the same opinion. It is more convincing, however, to have the realistic knowledge, provided by Dr. Gallup's survey, that reveals at least 68 per cent of the Democrats in favor of Congress doing the spending.—Povidence Journal.

BLOW TO FISHING

Officials of the New Deal have often described the basis of the reciprocal trade agreements they have negotiated with foreign nations as a form of "Yankee trading." From time to time there has been ample reason to doubt that the "trades" or concessions made to foreign nations in this fashion are anywhere near balanced by the benefits allowed on American made goods exported to the nation concerned. The latest instances —the trade agreements signed the other day with representatives of Great Britain and with the Canadian goverment —more than bear out these complaints. New England, particularly, seems destined to suffer severely from the concession, so lightly agreed to by Washington officials.

One might take, for instance, the blow to the New England fishing industry alone. Many fishermen in these parts are barely bale to earn a living at present prices obtained for the fish they catch and bring to port, yet the government barters away all hope of increasing the price in the Canadian agreement. Duty on Canadian caught fish brought into the United States is reduced under the terms of the agreement as much as 50 per cent. Needless to say Canadian fishermen, with a much lower cost of living, are going to benefit and the New England fishermen is bound to suffer. The same situation is true in the textile, shoe, tools, office equipment and dairy products fields.

Settlement of the level of tariffs is never easy, of course. Not so many years ago various interests involved engaged in all sorts of "log rolling" tactics in Washington to keep the protection afforded by duties on their products. Sometimes they may have gotten far too much protection for American products; sales abroad of goods produced in this country may have suffered as a result. But the new system is no improvement, for it involves agreements secretly negotiated by officials, often without consultation with experts in the various manufacturing lines involved. —New London Day.

A FAKE

There is no recovery, no genuine recovery, despite a little false speeding up, in a munitions program. Let's go to it if we have to, shut our eyes, grit our teeth and hate it. But let's not kid ourselves that we are entering upon a recovery program when the mines begin to work an the rails begin to hum and the munitions mills begin to belch out their black smoke.

It's a fake. It's a sham and a delusion, all this munition making. Recovery is not in it. We are only wallowing further into the marsh which will encompass us if we don't find some way of recovery. And it can't be done by taxing, by lending and spending. That's out. —Emporia Gazette.

A friend asked Ye Ed the other day why he wore both belt and suspenders. Well sir, under this New Deal regime one never knows what they are going to try next, so while those birds are in power we simply are not taking any chances, that's all.—Greenleaf, Kansas, Sentinel.

Won't it be funny some time in 1941 when Mrs. Roosevelt takes time to stop in at the White House and finds out that the Roosevelts don't live there any more?—Exchange.

Senator McNary says the Republicans in Congress will join with other groups in an effort to balance the budget. That's mighty fine of the Republicans—trying to help the Democrats carry out their 1932 platform pledges.

Harry Hopkins denies he said: "We will spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect." Well, whether or not he said it, he put two thirds of it into practice.

The French strikers would have been a lot better off if they could have had Governor Murphy for a premier instead of M. Daladier.

Dear Santa Claus:
I hope you'll not be angry,
But I must write to say,
You made a very bad mistake
Last year on Christmas day;
I asked you for an auto car,
Of course, I meant a toy,
But instead nurse showed me
A great big baby boy.
She told me Santa brought him,
To the wrong address, I knew,
And I never did find out where
You took my auto to;
I know somebody was surprised
To see my little toy,
When they were expecting
A blue-eyed baby boy.

An Arkansas candidate for state senator promises that he will legislate for free goat gland treatment for every man over 60. This sounds fantastic, but the candidate is more cautious than some promisers. He guarantees to get the treatment but he does not guarantee that it will work. A Georgia editor calls Secretary Ickes a "sansculotte." The word, while referring to the radical revolutionists back in Paris, is said to mean "one without breeches." If that is true then the taxpayers after Mr. Ickes and his friends get through with him is the real "sansculotte."

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Dr. Bob, I don't see how you seem to work with so many different type Christians. Some of your best supporters are Calvanists and some are Arminians," a student at the Bob Jones College said to me one time. "I accept both positions," I replied. "I don't see how that is possible as they seem so diametrically opposed to each other," the student answered. "I am glad you said 'seem' to be opposed to each other," I said; "I agree with that statement. I understand why many people argue about these interpretations, but I am too busy preaching the Gospel to waste time or energy in arguing. I have noticed in the study of chuch history that theologians have never been able to get together on these things. I have also noticed that the saintliest saints have belonged to both schools of interpretation. I have also noticed that the more theologians have debated the subject, the less saintly they seem to grow." Moody was a saint, and he was a Calvinist. "If a certain number are going to be saved anyway, why do you insist on personal work?" a young man is said to have asked Moody one day. "You go on with your presonal work, and if you happen to save one who was not elected, the Lord will excuse you," Moody is said to have replied. Wesley was an Arminian. He taught men to flee from the wrath to come, and his followers never felt safe until they got inside the heavenly gates and the gate closed behind htem. What a work Wesley did! Whitefield was a Calvinists, but he did not sit down and wait for God to pull men by the power of foreordination into heaven. He crossed the Alantic Ocean thirteen times. He was the greatest evangelist of all time. He and Wesley argued some about these interpretations, but neither one of them was spiritually helped by their arguments. They are now up in heaven together. I suppose by this time they have been able to harmonize the Calvanistic and Arminian teachings, both of which seem to be set forth in the Bible. At least, I hope so; for I, by the grace of God, am going to heaven some day and I don't want to hear any arguments and fussing when I get there. I have had enough of that in this world. This final word: I have been able to work for all these years with the saints on both sides of this question, and I have never had to compromise nor have I had any trouble about the matter with any spiritually-minded man. A Methodist and a Baptist preacher, both friends of mine, were talking one day. The Baptist preacher said, "You think a man can lose salvation after he gets it?" The Methodist preacher said, "I am a little afraid I might lose it." The Baptist then spoke, "Don't worry; you can't lose it." The Methodist hesitated, and then asked, "Are you sure? Well, if I can't, I can't, and you don't have to worry about me, but I'm still a little scared." The Baptist closed the conversation with this speech, "I am sorry you do not have the comfort I enjoy from believing in the security of a believer, but we are brothers, and some day we shall understand it all." "By grace are ye saved, through faith." "The blood of Jesus Christ, God's son, cleanses from all sin." Calvinists and Arminians agree about these things. I think if we trust Jesus to save us, and if we really sincerely want to do His will, that He will not be harsh with us when we meet Him at the Judgment Seat because we were too "dumb" to understand everything. I am rather inclined to think that He appreciates our accepting whatever He says, even if we cannot, because of our ignorance, harmonize His sovereighty with our free wills.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking the ladies of our home church for the nice quilt given to us last Sunday. The quilt was a beautiful one, and spread over the pulpit which was a surprise to us. They said this was a Christmas present.

We thank all who may have had any part in this gift.—Rev. and Mrs. M. Lockhart and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Especially do we thank the Liberty Hill quartet, Drs. Lawrence and Gragg, the kind nurses at the hospital, Bro. Trice, Lawrence and Mr. Underwood.

May God's richest blessings be bestowed upon each and everyone of you is our sincere prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. W. F. and Vincent Ward.

University News

University, Ala. — Can you imagine a "Professor's Professor" and "student's student" class?

A class in elementary greek at the University of Alabama is composed of 15 members, five of whom are University professors, one a professor's wife and nine regular students.

Construction was begun this week on four building projects at the University of Alabama.

The contract was let for a new shop building for the College of Engineering and construction will begin before the first of the year. Ground was broken last week for additions to Graves Hall, College of Education building; Commerce building and work was started on a new addition to the stage in Morgan Hall.

The Christmas spirit has prevaded at the University of Alabama since the middle of last week as students prepared to leave for the Christmas vacation which started Wednesday, December 21st, at noon.

Opportunity are greater now than ever before in nearly all fields on engineering, Dr. Harold Taylor, head of the employment bureau of the College of Engineering at the University of Alabama, declared this week.

Three additions have been made to the staff of the College of Education at the University of Alabama, Dr. James J. Doster, dean of the college, announced.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Diabetes deaths in Alabama during the first nine months of this year exceeded those for the first nine months of 1937 by approximately 18 per cent, the State Department of Health announced today, basing its statement upon provisional vital statistics reports.

'Diabetes deaths totaled 251 between January and September, inclusive, of this year, as compared with only 213 fo the same period last year," the State Health Department announcement stated. "Deaths from this cause totaled 304 for last year as a whole, with a death rate of 10.6 per 100,000 population. That rate was considerably lower than the 1936 rate of 12.5 per 100,000 population. Medical authorities have estimated that nearly 400,000 persons have diabetes in the United States. Although a number of conditions have been found by medical experts to be responsible for its increasing prevalence, 'easy living,' luxury and indulgence are considered the leading predisposing factors."

One of the best investments you can make at this time of the year is in Christmas Seals. They pay dividends throughout the year in protecting your home and your family from tuberculosis.

Every time you buy and use Christmas Seal you help to drive tuberculosis toward eventual eradication.

Last summer eight and one-half inches of rain fell at Dadeville. After the downpour Soil Conservation wokers found that about twice as many terraces broke per mile below strips of cotton or corn as they did belof strips of summer cover crops, such as cowpeas and sorghums. About 36 miles of terraces were inspected.

Representative Pitts Writes About Plans Of New Administr'n

To the Editor of The Union-Banner:

As your next Representative in the Legislature, I attended a meeting in Birmingham recently, together with about twenty-five other members of the incoming Legislature. All of those who attended the meeting, upon the invitation of Governor Dixon, as well as your Representative, were fully convinced of the sincerity in which our new Governor is undertaking his responsibility. He has spent the past eight months or more studying the various phases of our state government, together with obtaining information from other states.

I am reliably informed and believe that no other Governor in the History of our state has devoted more time or energy studying our state affairs in advance of his taking the oath of office and thereby have some concrete and accurate information to present to the Legislature, prior to their meeting in January.

Apparently history is repeating itself, as our able Gov. Miller was forced to cut many so called pie-eaters off the state pay roll, which predominated in the 1937 Graves administration. Maj. Dixon is faced with the same proposition. In this conference Gov. Dixon left the impression that he is determined to economize at a great saving to the tax-payers of the state by ridding our state of useless job holders. By this saving to the state, together with the re-inactment of the sales tax, he hopes to provide sufficient revenue to care for education and give us a full term of school.

The Governor plans to have a re-organization bill introduced consolidating many of the numerous departments of state and state boards, at a great saving to the state and tax payers. He informed us under our present form of government we have 119 various departments and state boards which he had listed.

With the reinactment of the sales tax, it may be interesting to know he is asking for no new taxes; however, after careful study he believes the sales tax is necessary, and will ask for the reinactment of same.

In order to carry out his reorganization program and other state reforms it will be necessary to submit certain constitutional amendments to the voters of the state. Your representative will vote for submitting the proposed amendments to you for your approval at the polls.

Having known Major Dixon for a number of years past, and also observing the systematic manner, in which he is undertaking the task of becoming Governor of our great state I am of the opinion, if given the cooperation which I trust he will have through our lawmaking body, the state of Alabama will be safe with Dixon at the helm of our ship of State.

Respectfully yours,
PERCY M. PITTS.

NOTICE

There will be a Christmas play at Eastview church, Friday night, December 23, at 7 o'clock. Everybody is welcome.

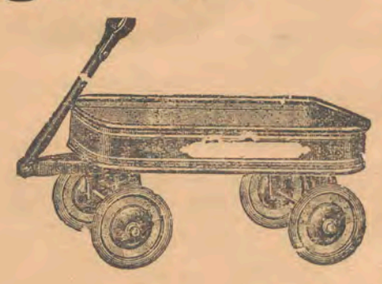
M. LOCKHART SAYS STAY SOBER DURING CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

There are many people who I will not have the chance to say in person—"Merry Christmas and a happy New Year." May I use these lines in which to say to my friends and all, the best way to really be happy is to make others happy.

There are thousands who will doubtless spend an unhappy Christmas because of sickness or death of loved ones; also indulgence in sinful things will cause many people to be very unhappy this Christmas.

While writing these lines in the Union-Banner office, I see officers unloading liquor at the jail. This traffic will cause more unhappiness than most any thing that we could mention. May we suggest to those who may be addicted to this sinful habit that they realize once and for all that it is altogether possible that present death may be brought to their own home this Christmas unless they stay sober.

We are living in a day of strong drink. It is causing murders, suicides, and many homes to be broken up; many children will look a drunken daddy in the face with not a single toy to make them happy. God's blessings be upon them.—M. Lockhart.



In the foreground of the fight against tuberculosis are the Christmas Seals. These penny stamps are driving the White Plague toward eradication. Please help this worthy cause. Buy Seals and help protect your home from tuberculosis.

Each of the sources of gross income from livestock—milk and butter, hogs, chickens and eggs, and cows—can be profitably increased in Alabama though not in the same proportions in all sections, believes F. W. Gist, economic adviser of the Alabama Extension Service.

SCIENCE TELLS A TROUBLED WORLD TO GO BACK TO RELIGION

Intelligence in every stratae of life recognize the fact that the world is in the midst of the greatest turmoil of recorded history. The whys and wherefores have baffled genius for the past two decades.

Since the World War the mind of people has been pursuing mostly the course of material aggrandizement, at the expense of spiritual pursuits. Science has been attempting to solve the problems and to answer many questions which nature prefers to conceal from man's inquisitive meddling.

Finally a world famous psychologist, C. G. Jung, of Switzerland, says: "Religion with a hope of future life must be brought back to save the world from continued insanity, — turmoil of wars, strikes, revolutions and racial persecutions."

NO ACCIDENTS IN CHILTON X'MAS

There Were No Fatalities In Alabama But Nation Reports 500

Christmas Day, the day before and the day after were exceptionally quiet in Chilton county and almost as quiet and uneventful all over Alabama. No accidents at all were reported in the county either of the three days. There were twenty-two people reported injured over the State, and one youth was accidentally killed by the discharge of a gun he was cleaning.

Alabama highway safety campaigners congratulated themselves on a Yuletide week end without a fatal automobile accident. Ten persons from Jackson, Mississippi, were injured Monday in two mishaps. Seven were hurt near Eutaw, Ala., when an automobile plunged down an embankment; three were hurt near Tuskegee.

Mrs. Mamie Tatum, 27, suffered a fractured leg when she fell on the street in front of her home in Inglenook as she was trying out a pair of borrowed skates.

Two other persons suffered minor fractures in falls in the Birmingham area.

The Alabama state highway patrol, which keeps a check of Alabama accidents at its Montgomery office, had received no news of highway fatalities since Friday. Captain Potter Smith said the patrol "appreciates the cooperation of Alabama motorists and pedestrians in making this a safe and sane Christmas."

Violent deaths marred the nation's three-day Christmas celebration with a total cost of more than 500 lives. A national survey placed the figure Tuesday at 508. The toll was approximately the same as that for last year, but in 1937 Christmas fell on Saturday and there was only a two-day observance.

The automobile was the biggest single death factor, accounting for at least 395 fatalities. Twenty-two persons were killed by fire; 19 died by suicide; 12 in railroad crossing crashes, and six drowned. Homicides and miscellaneous accidents were responsible for the remainder.

Ohio led the death parade with 42 other large state tolls included Texas 40, New York 39, Pennsylvania and California 35 each, Michigan 28 and Illinois 22. Five states—Nebraska, Nevada, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wyoming— and the District of Columbia, reported no violent deaths.

Singing Held At Coopers Christmas

Two hours were spent singing in the new books at Chestnut Creek church, Coopers, last Sunday afternoon, and despite the fact that it was Christmas day, the house was filled with singers and attentive listeners. Supplies of both the new Showalter and Stamps books were on hand and were used in the singing. None had practiced the songs, but the singers joined in and the result was two hours of mighty good singing. Prof. A. O. Boswell presided. Three quartets took part on the program—W. M. Devaughn's family quartet, Burkhalter quartet and Alabama Four. The society was especially pleased to have Prof. Devaughn present, as he has been in Georgia teaching most of the past year; all were glad to hear him sing once again. All were glad to see Prof. O. L. Devaughn able to be out after having a close call with an attack of double pneumonia.

Solos were sung by Miss Annie Laurie Devaughn and Floy Devaughn.

The services were opened with prayer by D. S. Robinson, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. D. Hughes.

TIGERS LOSE TO CARDINALS 26-24

The Mitchell Dam Cardinals defeated the Chilton County High School by the low margin of 2 points last Wednesday night, at the high school gymnasium.

This game was probably one of the hardest fought games played here this year. Mitchell Dam led the high school all the way through until the last few seconds of the game when the high school made the tying point.

After the game was over the coaches decided to play it off until one side scored and as the whistle blew Cobb, of Mitchell Dam, tipped off to Willis Baker for the two points that won the game for Mitchell Dam. Leaving the score 26 to 24 in the Cardinal's favor.

ALABAMA MAGAZINE PLAYS UP GOP'S NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Hon. Lonnie Noojin, Newly Chosen National Committeeman, In Spotlight

Alabama, the news magazine of the deep South, in its issue of December 26th, we might say, capitalizes on Alabama's newly chosen Republican National Committeeman, Hon. B. Lonnie Noojin, of Gadsden, as it carries a large picture of him on its front cover. Underneath the picture Alabama says: Gadsden's 'Lonnie' Noojin brings a new deal to Alabama's GOP."

Inside the magazine has a lengthy write-up of its subject, giving several salient and interesting characteristics and noteworthy achievements of this young but accomplished business man, statesman and politician. The magazine says in part:

A "new deal," of all things, was decreed last fortnight for the Republican Party in Alabama, and the rank and file of the state's GOPers acclaimed it as the best thing that had happened to their organization in many a year.

Alabama's Republicans elected Gadsden's high-minded B. Lonnie Noojin to succeed the late Thomas J. Kennamer as this state's Republican National Committeeman—and his first act was to announce that he did not want, would not have any pecuniary benefit for himself out of the job. Instead, he made plain his intention to invigorate the Alabama organization, build a formidable membership rather than maintain a faction.

"Of one thing Alabama Republicans are sure," said Etowah County's GOP Chairman Mell E. Trammell this week, under Mr. Noojin's energetic, intelligent guidance the party will be revitalized and must of necessity go forward."

Said Lonnie Noojin, in discussing his plans to give the Alabama GOP a shot in the arm: "One thing that has kept the state organization from developing as it should is that it hasn't been free of factionalism in 20 years. My ambition and my determination is to allay this, and arrange for the party's growth. We Republicans must submerge our personal ambitions. Since I am in no sense looking for pecuniary benefit of any kind, I think I ought to be able to secure a high percentage of loyalty and co-operation from the rank and file."

Continued he: "There are 60,000 Republicans in Alabama. Of course, they have been showing up in greater numbers in national elections than in off-year elections. I shall strive for

AT LONG LAST

THE 1938 ELECTIONS

Important elections have been held during the last quarter of 1938, in all parts of the U. S. Every patriotic American accepts the results without rancor. It is the cardinal principle of democracy that the people rule—even as it is the cardinal principle of dictatorship that the people be ruthlessly submerged to the whim of the dictator.

To the thinking citizen, who is less interested in partisan politics than in good government, the real significance of this election is the revival of the two-party system, the very foundation of the republic. It is a well-known fact that even men high in the Democratic party have looked with disapproval on that party's excessively great Congressional majorities of recent years. And it will be remembered that following the World War, the Republicans had a similar topheavy majority, faced no influential opposition, and certain abuses were the result.

This election has to a large extent readjusted the balance of power in Congress to the status envisioned by the founding fathers. That makes for sound government. Whatever party you follow, whatever your political allegiance, if you believe in democracy, you will welcome the resurgence of an effective political opposition as a check on whatever party happens to control Congress at the moment.

FRUITS OF ORGANIZED AGRICULTURE

Agricultural associations, of which most are marketing cooperatives, have been responsible for upping the farmer's income by millions of dollars annually, through improving production methods.

In the dairy field, for instance, says J. F. Kendrick of the U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry, cows in association herds are producing annually, on the average thirty pounds more butterfat apiece than ten years ago.

That means eight million a year more income for the farmers concerned. And this is just one example of many that show what organized agriculture has achieved.

THE TRUTH HURTS

It is simple truth to say that up to date the circumstances surrounding purchases of private electric systems by civic units in order to use TVA power are not such as to convey the impression that public treatment of the private companies has been conducted in fashion fully accordant with those principles of fair dealing which private persons are accustomed to recognize in their dealings with each other.—The Wall Street Journal.

CONTRACTS LET FOR WATER LINE

Work Expected To Be Finished By June 1st, 1939

The City of Clanton let contracts last Thursday covering the work of constructing the four-mile water line from Yellow Leaf Creek, below Double Bridges, to the water works plant, the pumping outfit at the creek, a new filtering plant, Etc. Also contracts were let for the erection of one 400,000 gallon raw water tank and one 100,000 gallon elevated tank.

The R. J. Reid Contracting Company, of Birmingham, will construct the line and build the new filtering plant at a cost of $54,191.91. Chicago Bridge & Iron Co., also of Birmingham, will erect the 100,000 gallon elevated tank at a cost of $7,855. The 400,000 gallon tank will be erected by General Steel Tank Company, Birmingham, costing $5,697.

Work on all of these projects will begin at once, and Mayor Jones says indications are that all will be finished by June 1st, and the city will then be using an entirely new and modern watering system—one that will be adequate for our needs several decades to come. It is expected that the elevated tank will be erected and in use within a month from now.

The total cost of these projects is $67,743. The government grant will amount to 45 per cent, or $30,434; leaving as the city's part $37,259. When finished, this will be a water system which the City of Clanton can depend on under all circumstances and conditions. Bringing this improvement to Clanton is a distinct honor to Mayor Jones and the city council that is supporting him in the worthy work he is doing for the city.

The city has purchased 28 acres of land on either side of Yellow Leaf Creek, both above and below where the pumping outfit will stand, which will protect the city from any possibility of being crowded from any direction. They can build a dam later if it proves necessary, or make excavations for a pond.

Kilby Warden Plans To Leave Prison Work After 16 Years Of It

Frank M. Boswell, Jr., warden of Kilby Prison, disclosed Tuesday he would terminate his 16-year Convict Department service to make way for a Dixon appointtee in January.

Warden Boswell said he was "tired", would not continue as warden even if called upon and was bulding a home near Ramer preparatory to leading the life of the country gentleman.

Warden Boswell was quick to make it abundantly clear that he had no reason to think Governor-elect Dixon desired his continued service, but earnestly hoped the new administration would be a prosperous one. His strong wish to retire, he said, indicated no malice.

He has not offered his resignation yet because so far as he can see no necessity for such a move is indicated. Impatient as he is to be delivered from his burdensome duties though, he would gladly respond to a request that he linger on for a short time to coach his successor.

FARM NOTE

HOME GARDEN IS NEED IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala. — A challenge to every farmer, farm woman, and 4-H club member in Alabama is the fact that more than $10,000,000 worth of vegetables are needed, in addition to the ones now being grown, to feed themselves, P. O. Davis, director and W. A. Ruffin, homegarden specialist of the Alabama Extension Service said here this week.

Figures show that thousands of families in Alabama give no thought to growing a garden and thus helping to reduce the cash expenditure on the farm for food. There is no reason wh ever farmer cannot have a small garden, one-fourth acre or more, from which green nuritious vegetables may be gathered for immediate eating or canning for future use, they stated.

"It seems to me that no farmer would be wasting his time if he left work on cotton or corn or some other crop long enough to plow and plant a garden that his wife and children could keep free of grass," Mr. Davis said. "That is money saved and everyone realizes the nutritive value of collards, cabbage, onions, peas, beans, potatoes, and turnips."

He and Mr. Ruffin called on civic clubs, 4-H club members, community farm bureaus, and other organizations to plan now for an active home garden project in their community. County and home agents will be glad to work any group in such a movement to get more home gardens on the farms of their counties. Early gardens can be started within a few weeks and with proper attention planting can be continued on until September and even later with some vegetables.

PLAN NOW FOR KUDZU PLANTING

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama farmers who plan to start kudzu on their farms, as an erosion control crop on poor land or as a grazing crop on fairly good land, should get the crowns planted during the winter while they are dormant, advises J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

Mr. Lowery says that kudzu may be started by setting two-year or older crowns. For hay purposes the crowns may be purchased for setting the desired acreage of kudzu can be brought into production much more quickly than by other methods. A supply of hay two or three years earlier may easily justify the heavier expenditure for crowns.

The least expensive way to get started with kudzu, though slower, is to obtain crowns, set a small area, and cultivate carefully. In this way vines can be set out and in two or three years a supply of crowns will be available for setting a larger acreage.

Level land for mowing and well pulverized soil are best for kudzu. Applications of basic slag will also pay big dividends in extra growth. Crowns should be set in the ground before growth starts in the spring.

County agents will be glad to assist farmers in getting crowns and advising them in detail as to how to properly begin with this crop that is growing in popularity as a hay and erosion control crop.

ALRED DRUG COMPANY

TOBACCO GROWERS KEEP ALLOTMENTS

Auburn, Ala. — A. W. Jones, State administrative officer of the AAA, reminded Alabama farmers today that the agricultural conservation program for flue-cured tobacco was not affected by the vote rejecting tobacco marketing quotas on December 10.

"The conservation program for bright tobacco will operate in 1939 about the same as in 1938," Mr. Jones said. "Tobacco acreage allotments announced to the growers along with their marketing quotas will be their conservation acreage allotments in 1939. Each tobacco grower can earn a payment of eight-tenths of a cent a pound on the normal production of his acreage allotment by planting within the allotment, unless he also grows cotton and knowingly overplants his cotton allotment. In that case he cannot receive a conservation payment on cotton, tobacco, or any other crop or for carrying out soil-building practices if he knowingly overplants his cotton allotment in a year when cotton marketing quotas are in affect. Cotton quotas for 1939 were approved December 10."

The AAA official also said it was important for tobacco growers to remember that if they overplant their tobacco acreage allotments under the conservation program they run the risk of losing all of their conservation payments on cotton and other crops.

"If a tobacco grower overplants," he said, "deductions will be made from his tobacco payment at the rate of 8 cents a pound on the excess production. The deduction will be made not only from the payment calculated on the normal production of his tobacco allotment, but also from the conservation payment that otherwise might be due on cotton, peanuts, and other crops and for soil-building practices. This means that the tobacco grower who overplants stands the risk of having a large deduction that he will not set any conservation payment on any crop or for any soil-building practice carried out."

VALUE OF ALABAMA CROPS OFF 21 PER CENT

1938's Lower Prices And Reduced Cotton Acreage Cause Decline

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 25. — Alabama farmers earned $122,051,000 in 1938, the Crop Reporting Service estimated today.

While all except late maturing Fall crop were "above average," the total value was estimated at 21 per cent less than that of 1937.

Total acreage of the 45 principal crops harvested during the season was 8,146,000—slightly under the 8,448,000 acres planted during 1937 when no regulatory cotton program was in effect.

The service said the drop in cotton production accounted almost entirely for the decreased acreage production.

Well Above Average

"In total production," the service said, "the 1938 season ranks well above average but below the record production of 1937.

"The greatest increase over the 10-ear period (1927-36) is shown for feed crops with feed grain production about 31 per cent and hay 54 per cent above average. Cotton production from the greatly reduced acreage of 1938 was below the 10-year average, but practically all other crops except sugar cane and sorghum sirup show increases over the average."

Cotton: $56,364,000

All important crops except peanuts, Irish potatoes and peaches decreased in value.

Lint cotton, combined with cottonseed, brought farmers $56,364,000 this year.

Corn, with a value of $29,323,000, ranked second among the state's crops and peanuts (nuts only) third at $7,960,000.

GOP Leaders Believe Alabama Will Be Two - Party State

Republican Party In Alabama Born As Winston County Seceded

(By J. D. Brown in Birmingham News, December 25, 1938)

There was an uncommon amount of travel on the muddy back roads of Winston County that sweltering July 4 morning in 1861. Entire mountain families, dressed in their Sunday best, were converging on a tiny tavern in the foothills.

While it was true the day marked this country's declaration of freedom, there seemed to be an unusual display of patriotic fervor. There was something about the grim faces of the old and eager faces of the young that told of an expectancy rather than of a remembrance.

One by one the rumbling ox carts, wagons and steel-rimmed buggies traveled over the roads toward a common destination. Although families had donned their festive dress, the hearty shouts and old songs were missing. Greetings were confined to solemn nods.

Jonathan Jones' family was the last to arrive. Mrs. Jones, in a calico dress ordered from Montgomery, sat primely erect for all her years. Her husband wore tall, home-tanned boots and homespun. An Indian fighter this grim-faced Jones man was, an Indian fighter and British hater. He was in his teens when he fought in the Battle of New Orleans.

He had fought to preserve the United States and he was ready to fight for that cause again. His sons and their drab mountaineer wives sat in cane-bottom chairs in the wagon behind him. They had been taught to believe as he did.

The meeting, for that was what it was, was about to begin when the Jones family entered the tavern.

The chairman, a grizzled old judge, rapped for order, although the room was quiet, and told the purpose of the meeting.

"Friends," he began, "we are called upon today to make a decision which will decide our course from this day on. Alabama is seceding from the Union. Shall we join the state and send our young men against the Northern states, or take the alternative and now and for all time declare our unshaken allegiance to the United States. The chair is open for a discussion." He sat.

There was a moment of absolute quiet, then the assembly stirred slightly, awaiting some speaker.

Jonathan Jones rose slowly. He looked at the strained faces of his neighbors before beginning a little awkwardly in his soft drawl. "Friends," he said, "I'm a fighter and farmer, not a speaker, but I want to have my say on this secession business.

"I love Alabama as only a man who has found happiness and peace here can. My children were born here. I married here, labored here, and I want to be buried here in these hills. I will defend this land to my last breath."

He looked around him slowly, and his neighbors nodded, as if lending him confidence. Jonathan set his jaw. "I feel all of that," he said, "but it is just a part of my feelings for the United States. Neighbors, I would give up everything I own for the United States. I fought under Andy Jackson at New Orleans and I helped to run the killin' redskins away. Andy Jackson was a great general and a great president. He said the Union must be preserved at any cost, and I take my stand with Andy.

"Now the politicians want to secede from the Union. They is planning to start another nation down South."

His voice rose. "I ain't got nothin' to do with that nation. I fought for the United States. They want to know how we stand. Here's the way I see it.

"If they secede from the union, let's us secede from the state. That's good reasonin'. If Alabama can secede from the Union, then by all that's holy, we can secede from Alabama! Let's call this territory the Free State of Winston. We can fight if we have to—but let's fight for the Stars and Stripes and the United States. That's what I'm plannin' on doing!"

The crowd in the little room went mad. Men and women stood in their chairs and cheered. No opposition speaker could have swayed that crowd. Winston County remained loyal to the Union.

Old Jones did not realize it but he had done more than keynote his county's stand that day. He had started the first Republican party in Alabama.

When the Alabama Secession Convention had met in Motgomery January 7, 1861, they were right in surmising, after the first shock of surprise was over, that there was strong Union sentiment among delegates from the northern counties. Nicholas Davis, of Huntsville had told the convention Northern Alabama would not abide by the secession decision. He and his mountain neighbors had been denounced on the convention floor as traitors. More than one ardent secessionist suggested that northern counties could be coerced into submission.

Davis replied that while his people did not want to fight the North, they were not afraid to fight for any cause they felt was right and any attempt to coerce his people was apt to start a war within the state. "Invaders will be met with bayonets," he said in part.

During the Civil War Winston, along with Morgan and Madison Counties, sent hundreds of soldeirs to the Union army.

The people in these upland counties were never slave-holders. Indeed, there are only 85 Negroes in Winston County today, as compared with nearly 16,000 white residents.

Andrew Jackson was the hero of the hardy mountain people because he had led them successfully against the Indians and the British in the War of 1812. When the war was over many of his soldiers settled in Northern Alabama. Forever afterward they accepted his word as law in regard to national policies. In 1832 when Jackson, a Democrat, as president of the United States, kept South Carolina from seceding from the Union, North Alabama counties cheered his determination. They followed Lincoln in this policy because Lincoln followed Jackson.

To many of Alabama's over 2,500,000 people, the Republican party today is a loosely-banded group of voters, who remain in political obscuity until a change in political fortune brings them forth as postmasters and other federal appointees.

For years such assumptons have been recognized by party leaders but gone undefended. It was not until this year that the Republican party launched a long range program to give the true beginning of Republicanism in the state. Many have been led to believe that it gained a foothold during reconstruction days which followed the Civil War.

The party today is a well-organized political faction which makes up for its minority membership by a strict adherence to party principles and an ardent loyalty. The party does not command a meager sprinkling of votes, as generally supposed, but has 60,000 members.

These members constitute a bloc which cannot—and is not overlooked—during a campaign.

If in some manner these votes could be concenstrated, it is not unreasonable to believe that Alabama would have a Republican congressman. As it is, several counties are Republican controlled. In many others it is not unsual for as many Republicans as Democrats to be elected.

Winston, Cullman, Blount, Chilton, Shelby, Coosa, Clay, DeKalb, Randolph, St. Clair—all of these counties are either Republican controlled or evenly split with Democrats and subject to the vagaries of politics.

G. O. P. leaders firmly believe Alabama will in years to come be to two-party state.

Alabama farmers have made phenomenal strides in the production of cotton per acre but now it is time for them to turn to livestock and other crops, while at the same time they should continue to work on economical per acre production of cotton, says M. Day's Work on New York's Newest Tunnel Set At Ninety Minutes a Day for 2,000 Sandhogs

EAST RIVER GEYSER formed by escaping air from the tunnel 70 feet below is the only surface indication of the sandhogs at work under the river bed.

COMPRESSED AIR keeps the river away. Increases in pressure cut down the amount of time men are permitted to work. Two 45-minute shifts a day will be tops when maximum pressures are reached.

HONOR FOR THE SANDHOG—Model of a statue honoring the daring craft is shown by sculptor Leo Lentelli to Queens Midtown Tunnel Commissioner, Wm. H. Friedman.

COFFEE FOR STIMULATION after the shift is over. State law provides that the contractor must provide coffee free of charge when men return from the compression locks.

Working Time Will Be Cut as Dangerous Tube Job Reaches Most Difficult Phase

NEW YORK—Working schedules for 2,000 sandhogs on the new $58,000,000 P. W. A. financed Queens Midtown Tunnel are being progressively cut as the project, one of the most dangerous underwater jobs ever constructed, reaches its critical stage of development.

The twin bores, from the Manhattan side and from the Queens shore, have now been pushed out under the bed of the East River, requiring constant increases in the air pressures used to keep water out of the excavation. As the pressure rises, the safe working time for the men is steadily reduced. By the time maximum pressure of 43 pounds per square inch is reached, sandhogs who spend six hours underground under lower pressures will be working only two 45-minute shifts a day. Wages, however, rise with each increase in pressure.

Sandhogs Protected by Law

One of the most dangerous of callings, the sandhog's profession is ringed about with numerous laws and safeguards. Among other hazards, he is subject to the occupational disease known as "bends," against which elaborate precautions have been taken.

For example, state law requires contractors to supply, free of charge, quantities of steaming hot coffee whenever the men come off shift. Coffee provides the stimulant necessary to offset the let-down on returning from the oxygen-laden headings to normal atmospheric conditions. A common sight in the "hog-house," or barracks, is a knot of mud-spattered sandhogs gulping down hot black coffee.

In addition, showers and lockers must be provided, and physicians are on duty in a specially equipped hospital 24 hours a day. A careful individual check is made of each man's passage through the compression chamber that acclimatizes him to changes of pressure.

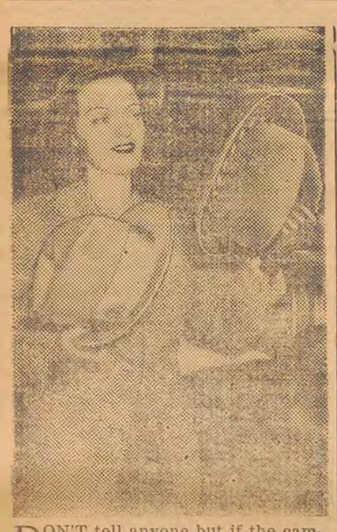
In spite of shortened shifts, the tunnel is progressing according to schedule, and is expected to be opened to vehicular traffic late in 1940.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

A portrait attachment—speaking of inexpensive Christmas gifts—is often essential for taking a close-up such as this.

CHRISTMAS is the gift season. Already, wise givers are making up lists, in order to do their shopping early. And I imagine most Snapshot Guild members, knowing how much the camera hobby has meant to them, will choose gifts that help others enjoy the fun of picture-making.



There are many such gifts, but they should be selected wisely: The gift must, by all means, be useful—and suited to the person who receives it. Thus, it would be unwise to give an advanced type of camera to a beginner. Rather, give him—if a young child—a simple box camera or if around high school age—a folding camera. A book on how to make good pictures can well accompany each camera gift; there is a popular one for but fifty cents. Then later on, after he learns the elements of picture-taking, he can better use a superior camera with fast lens and wider picture-making range.

For your fellow hobbyists, camera accessories are ideal gifts. For example, few hobbyists have enough color filters. A choice of several filters is desirable, if special picture effects are to be obtained. Your friend may have a K-1 or K-2 filter for everyday use, yet need a light green X-1 filter for obtaining superior tone quality in outdoor scenes and informal portraits. He may also need a G or A filter for dramatic sky effects, or for clear-cut pictures of distant scenes. A needed filter would be an appropriate gift to him.

Many hobbyists go on excursions carrying camera and film in their pockets. A camera case would be convenient for them, and an appropriate gift. Some camera fans use old, none-too-steady tripods. New, firm tripods would delight them Christmas morning. Such small gadgets as a lens-shade, a self-timer attachment, or a portrait attachment for close-up pictures are inexpensive gifts—yet much appreciated.

And while we're on the subject—there may be gadgets or equipment you need for your own use. If so, now is the time to begin hinting for them. A word dropped here and there will often work wonders along about December 25. It's certainly worth trying!

John van Guilder

DON'T tell anyone but if the camera doesn't lie, Joy Hodges' fiance is going to get a new hat for Xmas. Lucky Man! Because he's going to get a new hat of course—or do we mean the girl? Joy is one of Hollywood's better known and most beautiful young stars.

ODDITIES AT THE FAIR

NEW YORK—Here are a few of the strikingly unusual things visitors will find at the New York World's Fair 1939:

A parachute tower from which visitors may "bail out" at an elevation of 250 feet and be sure of a "happy landing."

Revolving "magic carpets" from which you may look down as from a height of two miles upon "The City of Tomorrow" inside the 200-foot Perisphere.

The Carrell-Lindbergh mechanical heart, reproducing the action of the human organ.

"Steve Brodie" jumping six times a day from a reproduction of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The most valuable wheat field for its size in the world in full growth.

The steel-walled bathysphere in which descent has been made miles down in the black depths of the ocean.

"Rocket gun" by which passengers will be shot to the moon, or Mars someday—perhaps.

The model of a human eye so large visitors may enter it and look out upon the Fair's busy scene just as if the eye were doing the looking.

Two hundred blooded cows being milked daily on a revolving platform.

An orange grove transplanted intact all the way from Florida.

Automobiles with living drivers in hair-raising collisions and flying somersaults.

The largest opal in the world.

An oil well in operation with real drillers in the "cast."

The largest model railroad ever constructed.

Puppets 14 feet tall dramatizing the contents of the familiar bathroom medicine cabinet.

Displays of rare orchids, renewed every three days by plants flown to the Fair from Venezuela.

The tremendous discharge of 10,000,000 volts of man-made lightning.

A Brazilian exhibit building erected on stilts.

A floor made of cotton.

"Alabama farmers can make good pastures at reasonable expense," advises P. O. Davis, Director, Alabama Extension Service. "The farmer who has a good pasture has a big part of the essentials to profitable livestock production, because a good pasture is the cheapest feed a framer can provide. And feed is about three-fourths of the cost of production.

"With this development in pastures we are confident that here in Alabama we are on the road to more and better livestock in addition to our limited acreage in cotton and other crops," he said.

PETER CALLED TO SERVE

LESSON TEXT—John 1:40-42; Luke 5:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

As we embark on the New Year, we gather in our Bible schools to take up an interesting series of studies on the life and work of Peter. The life story of any great and useful man is worthy of our careful study. The life of Peter has peculiar interest because he was so intensely human, and yet so gloriously used of God.

Our lesson for today starts at the right point, for we meet Peter when he as Simon first met the Lord. He was a mature man by that time, successful in business and "settled" in life, but with him (as with us) life did not really begin until he met the Lord Jesus.

I. He Was Brought to Christ (John 1:40-42).

Andrew, of whom we know but little, is a character greatly beloved because having found the Christ he at once set out to bring his brother to Him. He probably did not know that in bringing his rough fisherman brother to the Lord he was bringing one of the leaders of all time. The important thing is that he brought him.

The history of the Church abounds with the stories of humble men and women who have been used to win others to Christ, who have in turn been greatly used for Him. Think of the humble man who led Spurgeon to Christ, the Sunday School teacher who dealt with Moody, the simple but earnest Moravians who won Wesley—and be encouraged. You may have someone near you who may be awaiting your word to bring him to Jesus.

II. He Was Given a New Name (John 1:42).

Simon, meaning "to hear," is changed to Peter, which means "rock." The blessed Lord who in His omniscience knew what the change in Peter's heart was to mean in his life, gave him a new name to fit his new character.

What a blessed truth it is that God in Christ can and will take the blustering fisherman and transform all of his good qualities into power and usefulness for Himself. Thus God who knows just what we are is ready and willing to make us what we ought to be in Christ. Have you gone through the experience of having Christ say: "Thou art . . . thou shalt be?" It may mean that you have passed through or will pass through the pressing experiences which are needed to weld together your characteristics into a "rock," but if it is God's hand that makes the change you will find it to be all joy.

III. His Occupation Was Changed (Luke 5:1-11).

Christ had chosen Peter as one of those who should forsake all and follow Him, as one of his disciples in the inner circle of the Twelve. Note how graciously He carries out His purpose. One day as He stands to teach on the shore of the sea of Galilee the crowd presses Him, and He steps into a boat and asks the boatman to put out from the land. And it "just happened" to be the boat of Simon, who had about a year before met the Lord and received the new name of Peter.

Such things do not "happen." The destinies of men are in the hands of God. The day and hour for Peter's call had come, and here he was to be taught by Jesus through a miraculous draught of fish that he was to be a fisher of men. God's clock always runs on time. Remember that, and also be assured that if you are His child not even the simplest "happening" in your life is unknown to Him. He who numbers the hairs on our heads, He who observes the fall of a sparrow, is not lacking in loving interest and care for His children.

Had our lesson been deliberately chosen for a New Year's message it could hardly have been more appropriate. To the one who knows not Christ as Saviour there is an invitation to begin the New Year by coming to Him. To the Christian there is the admonition to do as Andrew did—bring your brother or friend to Christ. We are not all called to leave our daily work and become full-time Christian workers, but every believer should be a soul-winner. To the one who has heard the call of God to leave his nets and follow the Lord in full-time service, here is the urgent renewing of that call. Step out in faith now and follow Him. To the church or religious worker discouraged by the failure of a social or ethical program here is the lesson and example of a life changed by personal contact with the Lord Jesus. The New Year may be blessed and fruitful indeed, if we each one heed the lesson of the day.

"O LITTLE BABE OF BETHLEHEM"

(By Wallace M. Sloane, U. S. Commissioner, Montgomery, Ala.)

O little Babe of Bethlehem,
So many years away,
Come back to us and be re-born
Within our hearts today.

Never since first the guiding star
Shone on Thy infant brow,
Through all the troubled ages have
We needed Thee as now.

The nations seethe with hate and fear,
Brutal and terrified,
Where millions twice ten years ago
Suffered and fought and died.

And even in the Holy Land
The manager and the star,
The glories of the centuries,
Are crushed in civil war.

Nothing but Thou alone can bid
Our fears and passions cease;
Nothing but Thou can ever bring
The blessed balm of peace.

O little Babe of Bethlehem,
So many years away,
Come back to us and be re-born
Within our hearts today.

STUDY CLUB MEETING

Mrs. T. C. McSwain was hostess to the Study Club for the December meeting. A very interesting program, celebrating "Alabama Day" was enjoyed. Mrs. Grady Heflin gave a splendid paper entitled, "By Way and Beauty Spots of Alabama."

Mrs. J. P. Hayes read the paper prepared by Mrs. M. C. Hayes on "Montgomery—The Cradle of the Confederacy," a subject that proved most interesting. Miss Alice Polk, a guest of the club, gave a beautiful reading, Henry Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man" that renewed the joy and beauty of the approaching Christmas season.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served delicious refreshments.

If the Federal government should take over the properties of the Power Companies in Alabama the State, Counties and Municipalities would lose more than three million dollars in taxes.

ONE OF ALA.'S OPPORTUNITIES FOR ALL CHRISTIANS

Some time last year an inspiration came to me upon awaking one morning after being ill and unable to get out of doors for several days. It came to me what a wonderful blessing the radio is to humanity. Just to think that one can speak words of comfort and hope which is carried for miles and miles into the homes of the sad, the forlorn, the sick and the aged, through such a wonderful medium—the radio.

God gave us the air free to use, so why not use it for His glory? Why not build a Christian radio broadcasting station and dedicate it to God's cause? We build fitting memorials to great men whose lives we cherish, why not build a memorial to God? A radio station would probably stand the test of time and Christian people could send so much comfort and hope to those who are shut in and unable to attend church. We have broadcasting stations used for various worthwhile purposes but we do need one dedicated to Christian programs, so that the sick or forlorn could tune in, any hour of the day and hear gospel songs and prayers which would lighten the darkest hours for them.

Christians, are you interested in such a glorious undertaking, no matter how huge the burden or expense? God deserves this recognition for all He does for us. Think about the magnificence of such a memorial to Him. It would help spread God's Gospel to the four corners of the globe. He wants this done, don't you think so?

If interested, please write Mrs. M. C. Bailey, President Christian Radio Association, Calera, Ala.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Services for the past three weeks have been well attended. Sunday, was a week ago, was preaching day. We gave our pastor a pounding as a Christmas present. He received several nice things and lots of groceries which he was really proud of. He brought a visiting preacher with him. Rev. Moore preached for us the third Saturday night. Everyone greatly enjoyed his message, and presence with us.

The Devaughn quartet was with us Sunday and sang several beautiful songs, which was very much enjoyed. We were also glad to have Mr. John Wilson of Maple Springs community in our congregation last Sunday night, and invite him to come back.

Everyone is welcome to our services. We hope you had a very Merry Christmas, and wish for you a Happy New Year.

LANDON, OF KANSAS

Former Governor Alf Landon of Kansas is one of the greatest living Americans, and the most popular Republican among Southern Democrats that we know anything about.

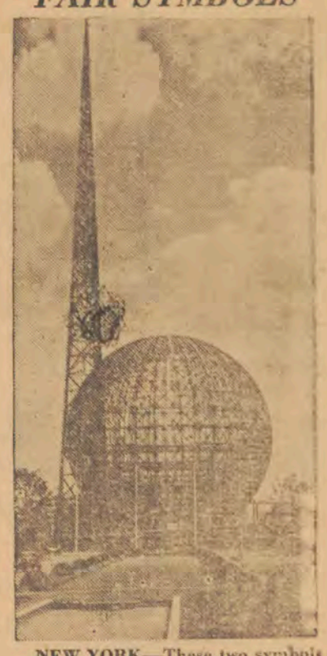
If the Republican party overlooks this guy in 1940 it will have less sense than we customarily credit it with having.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Martin on December 14th a baby boy weighing 7 pounds and 2 ounces. He has been named James Marion. Both mother and little one are doing nicely.

ORANGES FROM BALDWIN COUNTY

Our good friend, Kelly Gentry, of Montgomery, paid The Union-Banner a most welcome visit last Friday and presented us with a nice box of Alabama grown oranges (Satsumas). The fruit came from Imperial Baldwin, of course.

AID TO TUBERCULAR PATIENTS PLANNED



Chilton County Commissioners headed by Probate Judge J. Lee Smith voted early in December in favor of a plan to assist six needy victims of tuberculosis in Chilton county in obtaining admission to the Montgomery or Jefferson county sanatorium for treatment, it was announced by the local health department this week. The action of the court was taken in response to a request made by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, local health officer, for an increase in the county's appropriation for local health service.

The county will limit its assistance to paying the cost of the sanatorium for only such indigent cases as may be benefited by pneumothorax or orther surgical methods of treatment which do not require long periods of hospitalization, the report revealed. Old far advanced cases which can be treated only with bed rest will not be eligible for county assistance, the local health officer pointed out.

In commenting on this action of the court, Dr. Sturkie declared: "This participation by our county commissioners in the fight against tuberculosis marks a great step in the improving of health service rendered to our people; it is my hope that early in the future that our commissioners will also see fit to further expand our local health program by making possible the addition of one other nurse to the staff of the health department."

Mr. Frank Rapim, of River Bough, Mich., was a visitor at the Union-Banner Tuesday; he also subscribed for the Banner. We were glad to have Mr. Rapim visit our office and hope he enjoys our paper.

A popular old riddle, "If a cow and a half cost a dollar and a half, how many cows could you buy for $10?," has a sequel now when dairymen are stopping to consider when one cow may be worth as much as five. Strange as it sounds, one cow all too often is worth as much as five!

"One cow is worth as much as five," says Meade Summers, head of the Dairy Department of Purina Mills, "when the one cow is fed and managed properly. Five cows producing 170 pounds of butterfat each per year will turn in a total of 850 pounds of butterfat, 593 pounds of which is required to pay feed costs. With only 257 pounds of butterfat left as profit, the owner has a net profit of $90.75 from his five cows. On the other hand, one good cow producing 435 lbs. of butterfat per year requires only 178 pounds of her total production to pay her feed costs, leaving a profit of 257 pounds of butterfat worth $90.75. This makes the one high producing cow worth as much as the other five.

"It's an old, old story, but a true one, nevertheless, and the sooner dairymen make up their minds to sell the 'boarders' and low producers of their herds, the sooner their profits will increase. Get rid of poor cows," the Purina dairyman repeats, "and start feeding the good cows a complete, balanced ration that will keep up production."

Just before you start critizing your neighbor harshly, stand up in front of a mirror, look yourself in the eye and ask yourself, how am I doing?

WPA IN THE TWILIGHT

There seems to be a fairly confident feeling in Washington that "the Hopkins organization," as Senator King of Utah called the WPA, is on its way out. If it survives this coming session of Congress it will exhaust a lot of the New Deal's declining prestige to pull it through as a political ornament. The sentiment among returning congressmen that the time has come to give the WPA and every other form of centralized, politically manipulated relief their quietus is undoubtedly inspired by what they have been hearing at home. For it is impossible to go into the highways and keep one's ears open without being convinced that the revulsion of feeling against the New Deal which was expressed at the polls last month was in part at least an echo of Senator Glass' irrefutable dictum that it is the people's business to keep the government, not the government's business to keep the people.—New York Herald Tribune.

TVA AS A TAXPAYERS' BURDEN

The estimate of Edward L. Moreland, dean of the Engineering Department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, that TVA's power program when completed will produce a deficit of $10,352,000 a year merits the thoughtful consideration of all American taxpayers.

If TVA operates at this huge annual deficit when all its eleven dams are in working order, the government will have to make up the loss. But the government has no money of its own for this purpose. It will be the taxpayers, already heavily burdened, who will be called upon to make good TVA's red ink.

Dean Moreland's figures, presented to the Congressional Committee investigating TVA, naturally are disputed by government spokesmen. But the engineering expert, defending his estimate, adds that if TVA had to pay all the taxes, interest and other costs which utility companies must meet, its annual deficit would be, not $10,352,000, but $20,999,000.

Whatever the accuracy of these figures, the cost to the taxpayers of the stupendous $510,000,000 government power empire springing up in the Tennessee Valley should be accorded more careful analysis than it has had.

It is a fact that TVA has received substantial government benefits in the way of lower taxes and other costs which private companies have to pay. But the taxpayers have paid—and are still paying—the bill to bring TVA into existence. If, in addition to all these charges, the taxpayers are to be soaked millions a year to pay for TVA's operating deficits, where is the gain to the nation in this federal power plant and its competition with private industry?

For when all is said and done, TVA is shaping up not only as another unnecessary burden on American taxpayers but as a gigantic destroyer of private enterprise.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

NEW DEAL GOES ACTIVE

Some political commentators have expressed the opinion that the recent election, which admittedly turned out as a rebuke to the New Dealers, would serve to pull the Democrats together rather than to divide them further. Yet the soundness of this prediction may be seriously doubted unless we are to expect that the New Dealers themselves will change their unsound policies for some which are more in keeping with budget balacing and same federal expenditure. Certainly it cannot be expected that statesmen like Harry Byrd, Carter Glass and Pat Harrison will be pulled any closer to the New Deal by the election results. We have a line on Senator Byrd's impressions in a caustic speech which he delivered recently before the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Association.

Senator Byrd advocated the reorganization of the federal government for simplification, retrenchment and economy; cancellation of the existing authority of thirty federal borrowing corporations; reducing the activities of the "Greenbelts, and tree belts"; transfer of part of the relief burden to local and state governments and conduct of the government within the ability of our people to pay.

Senator Byrd declared that we are just emerging from nine years of fiscal insanity, and added: "We are facing a perilous situation and what can be done about? Can we expect any leadership from the present administration for economy and retrenchment? As one who has fought for five years for prudent spending in Washington, I say no."

Senator Byrd was caustic in a lengthy attack upon the Roosevelt administration. Good government, he said, would be "vastly promoted if the brain-trusters from Tugwell to Corcoran would go home, and if Congress resumed its constitutional duty."

"A modern liberal," he asserted, "is tested and judged in proportion as to how liberal he is willing to be with other people's money."

Not long ago Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, long looked upon as an administration wheel horse, delivered a speech in New York in which he declared that policies at Washington would have to be changed if we are going to return to sound business prosperity in the United States. As did Senator Byrd, he made caustic reference to those who pose as liberals because they are liberal with other people's money.

It may be that the New Dealers and the Jeffersonians in Washington are going to move closer together because of the Republican gains in the recent election. But developments so far would seem to indicate that if there is to be a narrowing of the gap the New Dealers themselves will have to do most of the narrowing.

After all, if anybody should be sobered by the election results it ought to be the New Dealers. They were the ones who lost caste. If you don't believe this, just compare the election returns affecting Senators Tydings and Clark with those which eliminated such New Deal wheelhorses as Senator Bulkley, Governor Murphy and Senatorial Candidate Earle.

Just to think that in this country Congress can appropriate four and a half billion without batting an eye while over in Bermuda the government is split over a proposal to furnish the governor with one automobile.

ONE WAY OR ANOTHER

In his Sunday morning announcement a Kiowa County pastor regretted that money was not coming quickly enough. But he was no pessimist.

"We have tried," he said, "to raise the necessary money in the usual manner. We have tried honestly. Now we are going to see what a bazaar can do."—Wichita Eagle.

FRIENDLESS?

Seventy-five per cent of the voters of the country, according to the findings of the Gallup poll, so resent the introduction of petty politics into the relief problem that they would like to see all the officials of the Works Progress Administration put under the civil service. Democrats and Republicans alike, with very little statistical difference, want to get politics out of the relief picture and think that civil service might help to do it.

What of the other 25 per cent? Well, some of them think the WPA should be political and perhaps corrupt even under the civil service, and hence feel the move would accomplish little. Others think the whole business of relief should be in a local rather than federal hands. But an important group was fearful that putting the WPA under civil service would make it permanent, and they couldn't bear the thought of having it around for all time to come.

That about covers the picture. And, though Mr. Gallup didn't draw the obvious conclusion, we have no hesitancy in saying that the poll indicates that WPA, as Mr. Hopkins administers it, has mighty few friends and that nearly everybody would like to have the setup changed.—Baltimore Sun.

A BILLION A YEAR

After the war with Spain, when the federal expenditures exceeded half a billion dollars for the first time, somebody grumbled to Tom Reed about it. "Well," said Reed, "this is a billion-dollar country." It has become a billion-dollar country in another respect: the annual interest on the public debt has reached the figure that seemed so huge in Reed's time. True, the debt interest was above a billion in 1920 and again in 1923, but that was the result of a great war during which money was borrowed at a high rate. Tops in the war debt was 25 billions. Secretary Mellon proceeded to bring it down to 16 billions. Now, under the carefree and beneficent New Dealers, it is close to 40 billions. And there is little consolation in the thought that the borrowings of peace time were made at a lower rate than those of war time. A billion is a billion.—New York Sun.

A new automobile invention is said to make it possible for a car to stand still while operating in high gear. This is the most sensible invention we have heard of for a long time.

GRATITUDE OF THE ORPHANS

(By S. L. Gibson)

To all "good fellows," and others who helped to make the orphans at the Baptist and Methodist Institutions of Alabama happy at Christmas:

Lord, the best day of the year
Has past with all its heavenly cheer,
And now to Thee we pray,
Send blessings to the hearts of those
Who helped to rout the poor child's woes
On Jesus's own birthday.

'Tis not our fault we're in the world
Where darts of grief and joy are hurled
By fate with reckless arm;
If choice were ours, we'd be in Heaven,
Where love and life are freely given,
Where comes no want nor harm.

But we are here as God has willed;
And noble friends our hearts have filled
With happiness and peace;
So unto God we send the prayer,
That He will smooth each helper's care
And all his joys increase.

Then, when earth's Christmas days shall end,
And we above the skies ascend,
May each "Good Fellow" be Rewarded for the happiness
He brought to children in distress,
And rest eternally.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The Prodigal Son asked for his part of the estate. The father granted the request. The boy probably thought he would be contented after coming into his inheritance. However, we read that "not many days after he gathered all together and took a journey into a far country." Men are never satisfied by the possession of material things. The most restless people are those who have most of this world's goods. The Bible says something to the effect that he who wills to be rich falls into temptation and a snare and into many hurtful and harmful lusts. That certainly was true in the case of the Prodical. He willed to be rich. When he got what he asked for he was not satisfied. He traveled abroad. That was not exciting enough for him. So "he wasted his substance in riotous living." Wealth he asked for to make him contented, he used to try to buy contentment. But he could not buy happiness for the soul. Eventually he found himself in want feeding hogs. He learned a great lesson, but think what he wasted in time, money and manhood in learning the lesson that a "hired servant" whose heart is right and who is in tune with the righteous standards of the Father's House, is better off than a rich son who thinks he can use material things to purchase happiness.

One thing about the Prodical that makes him a most interesting character is his frankness in admitting that he found, after trying money and travel and sinful pleasure, only unhappiness and failure. He was a good repenter. "I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight." He had not sinned against his father. He had sinned against God in the sight of his father. All sin is rebelion against God. A son's sin may pinch wrinkles of pain in the face of a mother, and weigh down with sorrow the shoulders of a father. A father's sin may put blisters of shame on the face of a child. The infidelity of a wife or husband may crush under the weight of its consequences the heart of a companion. Men and women may suffer from the sins committed by other men and women. But all sin is directed against God. "Against thee and thee only have I sinned." No man has really repented for doing wrong until he thinks of his sins as having been committed against God. Our sins may have been in the sight of men or they may have been committed in some secret place under the wing of night, when no human eye saw us, but when we sinned we sinned against God. Who so loved us that He gave His only begotten son to die for us. The Prodigal got his material substance from his father, but all material things belong to God. It was not his estate in riotous living. It was God's money which should have been used for God's glory and should not have been sacrificed on the altar of human lust. He had physical strength and personality which he received as a gift from God and which he wasted in sin and dissipation. We have no right to take physical strength from God and use that strength against God. We have no right to receive from God the mind and ability to make a fortune and then use that fortune for the gratification of self. Our lives, our talents and our all came from God. When we waste any gift of God in "riotous living", we SIN AGAINST GOD. Every sinful act is the hand of human depravity raised in rebellion against God. Let us not forget that every sin we ever committed, whether in the sight of man or in some secret place, was committed against God.

HOTBED POINTERS GIVEN BY RUFFIN

Auburn, Ala. — Now is the time to get the hotbeds in readiness for the sowing of seeds in January, advises W. A. Ruffin, home garden specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. This will allow them to heat for two or three weeks before planting time arrives.

If the hotbed has been previously built, all of the old soil should be removed and fresh manure and soil added. Ruffin says. If a hotbed has to be constructed, the home gardner may procure instructions on hotbeds and cold frame construction from the farm or home demonstration agent.

Southern or southeastern exposures are better for the location of the hotbeds. It is well, if possible, to have the bed so located that a fence or building serves as a windbreak on the northern side. It is also an absolute essential that the bed be replaced in a well-drained spot, for if water is allowed to collect in the pit, the manure will not generate the necessary heat.

The standard hotbed sash is six feet by three feet, and this provides enough space for starting plants for the average home garden. Hotbed sashes may be purchased ready for use, but if any old window sashes are available, they may be used to good advantage by varying the size of the bed to fit their demensions, according to Ruffin.

Kudzu for grazing may be set on land that is too rough for mowing. Kudzu set in gullies and worn places may be used for grazing after the plants are well established.

With well drained pastures and clean well ventilated houses parasites in the hogs on the Wiregrass Experiment Station at Headland are kept to a very low percentage, says J. P. Wilson, superintendent.

IN MEMORY

Mr. Jim Hill, who died on the 20th day of December, at 2 o'clock, leaves to mourn his death a wife, Mrs. Ella Hill, nine children and fourteen grandchildren. He was a member of Bethsalem church, and was always a faithful member; he was a man who loved his church and his neighbors.

Mr. Hill always wore a smile and was ready to have a word for everyone who knew him. He was a real neighbor and a true friend to all. His place at home and at church will never be filled. He suffered several years and could not get any better, so the Lord saw fit to take him home where there will be no sorrow and no pain. He prayed to go to that happy home where he could get some ease, and his prayers were answered.

Grieve not, dear wife and children, for he is sleeping in a better home, awaiting for you all to come to meet him; for I know he has gone to rest. —A Friend and Neighbor, Charlie Vinson.

Gasoline collections in November this year exceeded any November collections in the history of the department with a total of gasoline tax money deposited with the State Treasurer of $1,226,552.27, compared with $1,177,632.25 deposited in November, 1937; $1,133,568.07 deposited in November, 1936; $967,672.11 deposited in November, 1935.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Ala. — Approximately 15,000 more school children and other residents of Alabama received immunity to diphtheria during the first ten months of 1938 than during the same period in 1937, the State Department of Health announced today. The increase was attributed in large measure to an increase in the number of county health departments, of which, since January, 1938, there has been one in every county.

Toxoid, developed several years ago by the Alabama State Health Department's laboratory and providing immunity with a single injection, was distributed to 90,660 persons from January 1 through October 31, 1938, as compared with a total of only 75,000 injections distributed during the same period in 1937.

May Providence be kind to you and yours is our sincere prayer.—Berry Bice and Family.

Virgil "Fire" Trucks To Play Here December 29

Clanton will act as host to a world's champion Thursday night, December 29, when Virgil (Fire) Trucks, the world's strikeout champion, plays Mitchell Dam in Clanton at the high school gymnasium, in the biggest basketball game of the year here.

Trucks' team recently defeated two Selma quintets, the Mackins and the Teppers, in one night, indicating this is one of the strongest outfits in the South.

You wouldn't expect the world's strikeout king to be much of a basketball player, but that's where Virgil (Fire) Trucks fools them. Trucks, who fanned 420 batters, a feat never before heard of, last season with Andalusia, is a surprisingly good cager.

A devout student of all athletics, Trucks has dabbled in sports ever since he was a tot. He played basketball and participated in every other sport that came along. A typical American boy, there is no sport Trucks isn't interested in and none he won't try to play. His unsual all-around ability is startling. He can take up something first hand and compete with veterans, and do it well.

This knack is what has made Trucks a 2-to-1 better basketball player than even his best friends expected him to be. He plays a guard position and few shots get by him, and few of his men make points, which, after all, is what counts. Trucks' only fault, if it could be called a fault, is shooting his "fast ball" too hard to a fellow player.

Trucks is six feet tall, having gained half an inch since last baseball season, weighs 192 pounds (and is still growing) and is right-handed. Jim Bagby, the former major leaguer, who saw Walter Johnson in his prime, says Trucks is faster now than the Big Train ever was. He predicts Trucks will be one of the hurling immortals of all time.

Trucks has formed one of the best teams in the South, going as far as Caddo, Okla., and Akron, O., to get two of his players, George Abbott, the Indian, and Knox Little, respectively. Others on the team include Bill Critcher, former Geraldine all-state, and Bill Fowler and Blackie King, former Woodlawn High aces. The team really puts on a show and it is a basketball treat as well as a baseball fete.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Prevailing fashions in iron men make us proud of our own model. We cite big, smiling, durable Gabby Hartnett, batting .296 over a period of 16 years, with a high of .354, dropping only three pop flies in all that time and still pegging the ball to second with no letdown in machine-gun speed and precision. Phil Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, ups him $5,000 in a $27,500 player-manager contract, for his eighteenth season with the Cubs.

Gabby Is Our Own Model of An Iron Man

He's growing gray over the ears, but this department is ready to lay a bet that he'll still be in his catcher's armor after the overseas iron men have been sent to the showers, even if they are batting 1.000 at this moment. He's a marvelous handler of pitchers, with a laugh that eases tension and keys down nerves.

At Woonsocket, L. I., where he grew up, he was Charles Leo, a name long since lost. It was in 1922 that he signed for what looks like a lifetime stretch, as a rookie catcher for the Cubs.

DR. OLIVER CROMWELL CARMICHAEL lives up to his name. At the conference of southern business leaders at Atlanta, the chancellor of Vanderbilt university cries down the yen for security as "the goal of stagnation and defeat." With grim Cromwellian tenacity, he has been shoving this home for years. Dr. Carmichael says "security" is fundamentally at war with sound economics.

Dr. Carmichael Cries Down Yen For Security

He is a native of Goodwater, Ala., a Rhodes scholar from the University of Alabama.

A HARD-BOILED, bantam-weight British newspaper man was assigned to a colonel's staff in the World war. The colonel was contemptuous. He tossed the newcomer a handbook on Syria. "Take that," he said, "and study it. You might be able to digest it in six months." "Perhaps I can," said the scrivener. "It took me only three months to write it."

Warns England Clean Sweeping Is Vital Need

That was gamey little Leopold S. Amery, one-time ace reporter for the London Times, later a cabinet member, now putting his steel spurs to Mr. Chamberlain's "appeasement," the reciprocal trade treaty and all deals with the dictators. He says, "You might as well try to please a tortoise by stroking its back."

In parliament, he has been for many years the leader of the die-hard conservatives. He is against any social fixings or trimmings whatsoever, and, having been, like Kipling, a reporter in India, is for the old empire formula without any modifications.

The son of a poor civil servant in India, he scrambled through Oxford by snagging every scholarship in sight. He went to parliament and in 1922 became secretary of the admiralty. Later, as colonial secretary, he swarmed all over the empire, making fluent orations in Syrian, Arabic, Turkish, French, Italian and German. In Cambridge he had confounded his elders by his gift of tongues.

He is a bitter-ender who says Der Fuehrer's big horses aren't going to run over him. He has been a prophet of doom and has warned England against meeting a crisis by sweeping the dust under the rug.

SEVERAL months ago, the Nazis expelled George Grosz from the realm. He had beaten them to it by about six years. Just now, he gets American citizenship. He was a savage and ironic caricaturist who had raised many blisters on sundry Nazi hides before he made his getaway. While he is a certified Aryan, he was an outstanding candidate for a concentration camp and was shrewd enough to see what was coming.

Beats Hitler's Order of Exile By Six Years

When he landed here in 1932, to teach at the Art Students' league, there was a row in the league, but President John Sloan defended him as "one of the greatest of modern artists," and here he is, painting happily, and everything is gemeutlich.

He has given up caricature and lets the world go by. His paintings are hung in many good galleries, and he has a nice home in Queens, where, with his wife and two children, he says he enjoys his exile tremendously.

G. O. P. CHIEFTAINS MEET HAMILTON

Washington — Some of the younger generation of Republican leaders—among them Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, and Robert A. Taft, of Ohio—were entertained at luncheon Saturday by John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Although their varying shades of political opinion led some persons to believe the affair was a harmony meeting", Hamilton described is as purely social.

The guests talked over the contributing causes for party victories in the recent election, and compared notes on campaign strategy.

In addition to Dewey, New York prosecutor who lost to Governor Lehman by less than 70,000 votes last November, the guests included these newly-elected governors: Harold E. Stassen, Minnesota; John W. Bricker, Ohio; William H. Vanderbilt, Rhode Island, and Raymond E. Baldwin, Connecticut.

Senator-Elect Taft was the only one of Hamilton's guests who would discuss publicly the outlook for 1940. At this time, he said, Senator Vandenburg (R., Mich.) "is still in the lead" as the Republican choice for president in 1940.

Others attending the luncheon were National Committeeman Samuel F. Pryor, Connecticut; Edward F. Colloday, District of Columbia, and Kenneth Simpson, New York.

REFUGE

We had two fine services at this place last Sunday. Rev. M. Lockhart brought us a wonderful message at 2 o'clock, which were enjoyed by everyone present. At 2:30 we had a very nice time giving away presents off the Christmas tree. Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, received many presents, of which he seemed to be very proud of.

Everybody remember the services next Sunday and Sunday night, and come.

B. T. U. MEETING AT REFUGE

On January 8th, 1939, which is the second Sunday in January, the quarterly B. T. U. meeting of the Chilton Association will be held at Refuge Baptist church at 2 o'clock. We want each church in this Association to have your B. T. U. represented with a large delegation.

We are going to have a sword drill for the intermediates. We want one intermediate from each church in this Association to take part in this sword drill. The winner in this sword drill at Refuge will get to take part in the inter-associational sword drill, which will be held during February or March. The winner in the inter-associational sword drill will take part in the State Sword Drill and the winner in the State Sword Drill will get $25.00 paid on their expenses to Ridgecrest next Summer. We hope that the intermediate leaders over the Association will tell your intermediates about this and have one of your intermediates at Refuge to enter the sword drill.

Another interesting part of the program is that Mr. Chester L. Quarles, State Secretary of Montgomery, will be with us and have a very interesting message for us.

We want to uge also our pastors of this Association to come to this meeting. At our last meeting we had only seven ministers with us and some of them were visitors. We hope that the pastors will have a much improved record at the next meeting than at our last meeting.—Rev. Maurice Hodgens, President.

POEM BOUGHT DAILY BY TED MALONE

WITH the New Year and inventory-time, Ted Malone, who conducts the Pictorial Review page of poetry, pauses to ponder his ledger from "Between the Book Ends" and presents his year's report in the January issue of the magazine.

"Poems Received
Over one hundred thousand...
Poems Read
All.....
Poems Purchased
One each day...two hundred sixty..."

What do poets write about? Forty per cent of the poems which he receives are romantic, says Ted Malone.—for example, Elaine V. Emans' lyric.....

"Look cautiously and far ahead
Before you give your heart away,
And be not hasty," O I said,—
And always I have paused to weigh
The consequences when I read
The signs of love, till yesterday.

But yesterday I swear I had
No time to think how it would be
To love a serious dark-haired lad
Before he took the heart of me,
And left me weak and wildly glad
And wretched, simultaneously!

NOW DOING GRAVE WORK AT PLEASANT GROVE AND SARDIS

Mr. Ed Edwards, the bird-bath and cemetery man, wishes his friends informed that during the next ten days or two weeks he will be engaged in fixing graves at Pleasant Grove and Sardis cemeteries in Beat 15. While he is working at these places, he can afford to do work for others there at reduced prices. If you want work done at these places or in that vicinity, you should get in touch with Mr. Edwards during the next few days.

CHILTON COUNTY GIRL HAS A DOUBLE AT UNIVERSITY

There is said to be a striking likeness between two girls attending the University of Alabama; one of the girls is from Chilton county. They both have blond hair; both are employed as student assistant dietitians in the University dining room for women students. Both like cooking, horse-back riding, swimming, dancing and eating.

Still they are not twins, but they are alike in many ways; they are even roommates. The co-eds are Helen Nix of Maplesville and Ernestine Robertson of Anniston. The Maplesville girl, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Nix, is a junior, and Miss Robertson is a senior. Both were presidents of their freshman classes, and both are now presidents of their present classes in the school of home economics. Both are members of the girls' spirit committee; each can wear the other's clothes, and often do, since their tastes for color etc., are almost identical.

GREETINGS FROM PETE JARMAN

To My Friends Of The Sixth District:

As I leave for Washington to continue the performance of my duties as your Congressman, I desire to express the hope that all of you have enjoyed a delightful Christmas and that the New Year will prove a happy one indeed which will usher in a better period in all respects; a year with fewer heartaches, better business and less national and international gloom.

Even though I have been quite busy the entire time, it has been a privilege indeed to indulge in this happy service to my constituents and I have thoroughly enjoyed it. In order to keep fairly current with my voluminous correspondence and remain available in my District office to any citizen of either of the eight counties who desired a personal conference, it has been impossible for me to spend nearly as much time in the various towns as I wish to enjoy. Consequently, I have necessarily been denied the pleasure of seeing many of you. I eagerly look forward, however, to another pleasant Fall in our District next year, at which time I sincerely hope to be more fortunate in this respect.

In the meantime I would like to express to each reader of this excellent paper my best wishes for good health, happiness, prosperity, and peace.—Pete Jarman.

a more forward-looking party in the state. When we become strong enough to be reckoned with as a potent minority force in the state, Alabama most assuredly will have better government all up and down the line."

Aggressive, unselfish Lonnie Noojin has arranged his business so he can give considerable time to GOP affairs. He plans frequent trips over Aalbama in connection with his upbuilding program.

Asserting that the South "has been sold out," Mr. Noojin declared it would be the Alabama GOP policy to join with members of the Democratic Party in promoting the welfare of this region. The recent "Southern Conference for Human Welfare" he described as "a very ominous development which made real Southerners shudder."

Life-long Republican Lonnie Noojin was born on a Etowah county farm August 10, 1885. He was a baseball star at University of Alabama, was made assistant instructor in chemistry after his graduation in 1908. He taught three years in the Ninth District Agricultural School at Blountsville, played professional baseball several years, then became director of athletics at Howard College. In 1915 he returned to University of Alabama as director of athletics and instructor in languages. He served in the World War, then entered business in Gadsden.

His civic and business activities in Gadsden include: President, Chamber of Commerce; president Kiwanis Club; president Civic Music Association; president Northeast Alabama Council, Boy Scouts of America; member Gadsden Country Club. He is secretary of the board of directors of Gadsden's American National Bank, member and former chairman of the board of stewards, assistant superintendent of the Sunday School and president of the Men's Bible Class of Gadsden's First Methodist Church, president of Southeastern Retail Hardware Association, president of Alabama Building Material Institute, chairman of the Highway Users Conference of Alabama, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis International for Alabama. Mrs. Noojin is the daughter of former Republican Committeeman Thomas Brent McNaron of Albertville. Lonnie Noojin, Jr., 21, graduated from Princeton last year, now is a law student at University of Alabama. For diversion, Republican Leader Noojin plays golf, sees as many football and baseball games as he can. Twice he has followed Alabama's Crimson Tide to Rose Bowl.

SCHOOL DAYS BEGIN ANEW

As the Christmas holidays are over and school starts a new, each of the pupils should make a New Year resolution,—to try to make better grades and go through the remainder of the school year with high honors. There is no use to regret the things that have been done during the first part of the year, but there is a way to correct the mistakes that have been made.

Let the writer suggest that each and everyone, including the faculty, try and make the remainder of this school the best ever, under the circumstances.

Make your resolutions to this effect—a resolution that you know you are going to keep. The greatest one you should make is: Resolve not to break the resolution that you have made. Let the writer suggest that you try this idea of keeping resolutions after you make them. It's easy to make a resolution but the hard part is keeping one after you make it; but with little effort it can be done. So, why not keep one for a change.—"Kalute."

He: "How about some old-fashioned loving?"

She: "All right, I'll call grandma down for you?"

LYNCHING REPORT FOR 1938

According to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute, there were 6 persons lynched in 1938. This is 2 less than the number, 8, for each of the years 1937 and 1936; and 14 less than the number, 20, for 1935. No persons lynched was in the hands of the law; the bodies of two of the victims were burned.

There were 42 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Three of these were in Northern States and 39 in Southern States. In 41 of the instances, the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the other instance, armed force was used to repel the would-be lynchers. A total of 53 persons, three white men, 49 negro men, and one negro woman, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 6 persons lynched, all were negroes. The offenses charged were: rape, 1; murder, 3; failure to complete payment on funeral bill, 1; insulting remarks to woman, 1.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Florida, 1; Georgia, 1; Louisiana, 1; and Mississippi, 3.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Plier, of Tacoma, Wash., are spending a few days with relatives in Clanton.

As an expression of our Genuine Appreciation of all our friends and what they have meant to us during the past year and years past, permit us to wish you a New Year brim full of only Good Things.
